INTRODUCTION TO MEDICAL ASTROLOGY & ITS RELEVANCE

The term Medical Astrology explains basically two points:

- The occurrence of DISEASE” or the disturbance of one's EASE”.
- The role of Astrology as applied to disease.

According to Charaka Samhita, the classic of ancient Indian system of medicine, the mind and the body are the abodes of disease. Health as defined by the World Health Organization is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely an absence of illness; not being satisfied with the vagueness of the term social well-being'. Here the definition of disease would include physical and mental disease only. The physical disease will also include accidents which mean an application of sudden, excessive, generally external, force causing a disruption of some body mechanism. ‘

Astrology and medicine in ancient times was developed as part of religion in India. Medical astrology, is said to be a study competent enough to answer questions regarding health like type of disease, time of occurrence, its prevention, control and cure .

Astrological Influences and Effects

In medical astrology each of the seven planets provides their own unique influence towards the outcome of an illness, depending on the location of the planet in the zodiac. The twelve zodiac signs represent certain aspects of the physical body, which include specific regions, and one or more organs and their functions. The 12 Houses represent environmental or 'mundane' influences or effects

- Venus : Venus is the significator for eyes as well as for vision. Unafflicted Venus located in the Lagna gives rise to beautiful eyes and face. Venus associated with Saturn gives rise to small eyes. Venus also represents the lens of the eye.
- The second House/second Lord: The second house is concerned with vision. A strong and powerful 2nd Lord, or a benefic influence on the 2nd house leads to beautiful and healthy eyes. When the 2nd Lord is placed in 6th or 8th or the 12th house, it causes some eye defect.
- The Twelfth house : The 2nd house is particularly indicative of the right eye and the 12th house of the left eye. The Moon in the 12th house damages the left eye. The Sun, which signifies the right eye, located in the 2th house damages the right eye.
