Indra, world ruler, omnipotent lord of universal truth and abundance, thus praised and worshipped, bear and bring food, energy, and the sustaining power of life for the celebrant in abundance like the rivers overflowing with life giving waters. This new song of homage and fragrant yajna is offered in worship, O lord of the universal dynamics of nature, in hope with prayer that with vision and intelligence we may be masters of the chariot and dedicated workers in your service of the law of truth.

Mandala 4/Sukta 24

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

का सुष्टुतिः शवसः सूनुमिन्दमवाचीनं राधस् आ ववतत ।
दुदिहिवीरा गृणत वसूनि स गापतिनिष्ठिधां ना जनासः ॥ १ ॥

1. Kā susṭutih śavasah sūnumindramarvācīnam rādhasa ā vavartat. Dadirhi vīro grṇate vasūni sa gopatirniṣṣidhām no janāsah.

O citizens of the land, what is that order of praise and approbation which would persuade and move Indra toward us for our joint success and prosperity? A very child of might is he, inspirer of the brave, most youthful hero of latest knowledge and modern tactic, eminent warrior, creator and munificent giver of wealth for his supporters, manager and promoter of the earth and its resources, and leader and commander of the generous producers, our own pioneers.

स वृत्रहत्य हव्यः स इड्यः स सुष्टुत इन्दः सुत्यराधाḥ ।

2. Sa vṛtrahatye havyah sa īdyah sa suṣṭuta indrah satyarādhāḥ. Sa yāmannā maghavā martyāya brahmanyate suṣvaye varivo dhāt.

He is to be invoked in the battles against darkness, evil and crime, lord adorable as he is, profusely adored, Indra, lord of honour and excellence, achiever of truth and giver of noble riches. He, lord of wealth, might and majesty, bears and bestows choice gifts of honour and freedom upon the mortals who dedicate themselves to the lord of existence and pray for success and divine grace in the ways of life.

तमि रा वि ह्वयन्त समीक रिरिक्वांसस्तन्वः कृप्वत त्राम ।

3. Taminnaro vi hvayante samīke ririkvāṁsastanvah kṛṇvata trām. Mitho yattyāgamubhayāso agman narastokasya tanayasya sātā.

People and leaders both call upon him in their battles of life in search of freedom, those who seek release and those who look to him for the protection of their bodies. Together, men and women, men and leaders, go to him for freedom from suffering as well as for the well being of their children and grand children.

4. Kratūyanti kṣitayo yoga ugrā''śuṣāñāso mitho arṇasātā. Sam yadviśo'varvtranta yudhmā ādinnema indrayante abhīke.

People of the land, both bright and blazing as well as impetuous in action, together, joining in the pursuit of knowledge and yajnic action do their best and holiest in faith in their own fields of social development freely, and when all the citizens thus engage in battle against the demons of darkness, evil and poverty and conduct themselves with discipline on a war footing, they unitedly and unanimously choose Indra as their guide and leader in action.

purolāśam riricyāt. Āditsomo vi paprcyādasuṣvī-nādijjujoṣa vṛṣabham yajadhyai.*

And then the warriors all work for the honour and excellence of the nation through joint action. And then let the fruit of the action and struggle, like delicious pudding seasoned, be consolidated and reserved. And then when the present and future is secured, let the soma of joy be prepared and ripened for the warriors of courage and valour, and then let all join Indra, virile and generous leader, in the celebration.

6. Kṛṇotyasmai varivo ya itthendrāya somamuśate sunoti. Sadhrīcīnena manasāvivenan tamitsakhāyam kṛṇute samatsu.

One who thus does honour and distinguished service for Indra, ruler of the world, and distils the soma of excellence and joy for him who, of course, loves honour and excellence and joy for humanity, and one who, with an undivided dedicated mind, without any selfish axe to grind, acts as a friend and supportive warrior for him in the battles of humanity: Indra too for such a person creates and awards rare and choicest gifts of honour and dignity like a friend.

7. Ya indrāya sunavatsomamadya pacātpaktīruta bhrjjāti dhānāḥ. Prati manāyorucathāni haryan tasmin dadhadvṛṣaṇam śuṣmamindrah.

Whoever for Indra, today, distils and ripens the soma of honour and excellence, confirms and consolidates the gains of victory over darkness, evil and want, and perfects the production for national consumption: to such a person Indra responds, loving and listening to his songs of praise arising from the heart, and the lord in-vests him with inner strength of valour and showers of unbounded generosity.

8. Yadā samaryam vyacedṛghāvā dīrgham yadājimabhyakhyadryah. Acikradadvṛṣaṇam patnya-cchā durona ā niśitam somasudbhīḥ.

When the ruler of the land and noble head of his people and destroyer of the enemies perceives a tumult of battle around and afar, he displays his long range deployment of arms and armies, while the citizenry at home, as a sustaining and supportive force, exhorts him and proclaims aloud his internal strength of morale created and sharpened by the creators and refiners of national energy.

9. Bhūyasā vasnamacarat kanīyo'vikrīto akāniṣam punaryan. Sa bhūyasā kanīyo nārirecīd dīnā dakṣā vi duhanti pra vāṇam.

The poor ignorant trader buys the pleasure of glitter and sense at the great price of the spirit. Drained out, exhausted and disvalued, he goes back: “I want back what I had parted with in exchange for what I had got.” No, not now. With all that he can surrender, he cannot redeem even a little of what he has lost. The poor as well as the intelligent get back only what they bargain for in word and action.

10. *Ka imam daśabhir māmendram krīṇāti dhenu bhīḥ.
Yadā vṛtrāṇi jaṅghanadathainaṁ me punardadat.*

Who can buy this Indra, this spiritual glory, from me for all time with the ten senses and their pleasure? None. Yes, when one dispels the evils of darkness, ignorance and indulgence, then the lord gives it back to me.

नू ष्टुत इन्दू नू गृणान इषं जरित्र नद्यारु न पीपः । अकारि

11. Nū ṣṭuta indra nū gr̄nāna iṣam jaritre nadyo na pīpeḥ. Akāri te harivo brahma navyam dhiyā syāma rathyah sadāsāḥ.

Indra, lord of glory, thus praised and celebrated, bless the supplicant with food, energy and enlightenment just as overflowing streams bring living waters for humanity. O lord of power and progress at high speed, thus is the song of celebration and yajnic homage offered to you, the newest presentation, so that with your blessings of intelligence and action we may be master warriors of the chariot and great servants of Divinity.

Mandala 4/Sukta 25

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

का अद्य नया' दुवकाम उशीन्दस्य सुख्यं जुजाष ।

1. Ko adya naryo devakāma uśnnindrasya sakhyam jojoṣa. Ko vā mahe'vase pāryāya samiddhe agnau sutasoma īt̄te.

Who today among noble humanity, lover of the light of divinity, inspired with holy ambition and enthusiasm, enjoys the favour and friendship of Indra? Or, who, having offered oblations of distilled soma into the lighted fire for the achievement of great redeeming divine protection, enjoys the honour and excellence of life? Answer: The friend and lover of humanity who is dedicated to Indra, the supreme ruler.

2. *Ko nānāma vacasā somyāya manāyurvā bhavati

Who bows with words of prayer to Indra for the gift of peace, pleasure, honour and excellence of body, mind and soul? And who submits to him in search of knowledge and self-awareness? Who loves the lights of the dawn and the lovely cows in the morning? Who waits on Indra for help and protection? Who feels anxious for friendship and fraternity with him? Who prays for security and poetic vision to the lord of omniscience? Answer: Who ever wants to do good unto all including the self as servant of Divinity.

3. *Ko devānāmavo adyā vrṇīte ka adityaň aditim

Who these days opts for and wins the protection and benedictions of the divine powers of nature? Who pursues and prays for the light of the suns in orbital phases, the generosity of nature and mother earth, and the secrets and mysteries of light? Whose achievement of knowledge and contribution to life's peace and joy is favourably in tune with the nature and operation of the laws and properties of the Ashvins, earth and the skies, Indra, the sun, and Agni, heat and magnetic energy of the earth? Answer: One who acts in cooperation with nature for life and in the service of Divinity.

तस्मा अग्निभारतः शम् यंसज्ज्याक्षपश्यात्सूर्यमुच्चरन्तम् ।

4. Tasmā agnirbhārataḥ śarma yamsajjyok paśyāt sūryam-uccarantam. Ya indrāya sunavāmetyāha nare naryāya nṛtamāya nṛṇām.

To him Agni, the cosmic power and presence that holds, sustains and governs the world of nature and humanity, provides a happy home, and he would watch the rising sun for a long long time who is able to say this with confidence: We pursue knowledge and create the means of comfort and happiness for humanity, the world of human interests, and the highest qualities and attainments of human values among the people of the world, and this we do for Indra, Lord of humanity and the entire world of existence.

5. Na tam jinanti bahavo na dabhrā urvasmā aditih śarma yamsat. Priyah sukṛtpriya indre manāyuh priyah suprāvīh priyo asya somī.

Neither many nor few, nor even the fiercest, can overpower him who acts in the service of Indra, governing power and presence of the universe. Indeed mother earth, in fact mother nature of imperishable wealth, blesses him with abundant peace and joy in a happy home, for, to Indra, the one who does good is dear, the lover of Divinity is dear, the follower of the path of rectitude is dear, and the creator of comfort, joy and enlightenment for life is dear to this lord.

सुप्राव्यः पाशुषाल्घ वीरः सुष्वः पक्तिं कृणुत् कवलन्दः ।
नासुष्वरापिन सखा न जामिर्दुष्प्राव्या वहन्तदवाचः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Suprāvyah prāśuṣāleṣa vīrah suṣveh paktim krṇute kevalendrah. Nāsuṣverāpirna sakha na jāmirdusprāvyo'vahantedavācaḥ.

Indra, leader and ruler, instant destroyer of enmity, is openly accessible to the person who creates and produces good things and thus contributes positively to the peace, progress and happiness of life, and he fully protects and promotes such people and raises them to maturity as the sun ripens grain. But to the person who is uncreative, and malignant scandalizer, he is not accessible, not a friend, or a brother, or protector, in fact he is awfully opposed to such negatives.

(Creativity and a positive, contributive attitude to life is a value, while uncreativity and a negative, destructive attitude is a dangerous disvalue. The former is to be protected and promoted, but the latter has to be opposed and eliminated.)

न रुवता पणिना सुख्यमिन्दा सुन्वता सुतुपा: सं गृणीत ।

7. *Na revatā pañinā sakhy mindro'sunvatā sutapāḥ
sam grṇīte. Āsyā vedāḥ khidati hanti nagnam vi suṣvaye paktaye kevalo bhūt.*

Not with the miserly man of wealth does Indra bargain any friendship since he is the master creator of peace and joy and lover of honour and excellence. He does not acknowledge, much less approve of the wealth of the ungenerous. In fact, he exposes the wealth of the hoarder until, exposed and ashamed, he is reduced to nullity, because, basically and exclusively he is for the creative and generous who produce and mature the wealth of the nation to the state of honour and dignity.

इन्द्रं पर वरमध्यमास॒ इन्द्रं यान्ता वसितास॒ इन्द्रैम् ।

8. Indram pare'vare madhyamāsa indram yānto'- vasitāsa indram. Indram kṣiyanta uta yudhyamānā indram naro vājayanto havante.

People at the farthest and at the nearest, highest and lowest, and people at the middle, all call upon Indra, lord of honour and excellence. People on the move and those at the end of the journey call upon Indra, lord of peace and security. People settled in the home and warriors on the battle field call upon Indra, lord of prosperity and victory. And the leaders of the people and the men fighting for food, struggling for energy and panting for speed and progress call upon Indra, lord giver of food, energy and advancement.

Mandala 4/Sukta 26

1. *Aham manurabhavam sūryaścā'ham kakṣīvāñ

I am the thinker and law-giver of existence, I am the light of life, I comprehend the time and space of the universe, I am the visionary, I am the centre and shaker at the core. I create the thunder and light and I make the thunderbolt. I am the poet of omniscience and passionate lover of my creation. Come ye all and see.

2. *Aham bhūmimadadāmāryāyā'ham vṛṣṭim dāśuse

I give the earth for noble humanity, and I bring rain and rolling oceans and waves of energy for the mortals who give in charity, and, in consequence, saints and sages who love are blest with light divine.

3. *Aham puro mandasāno vyairam nava sākam

In the state of perfect bliss, I first move ninety and nine streams of cloud showers together, and as I protect and promote the man of hospitality and the giver of enlightenment, I open hundred-fold gates of delight and prosperity for the whole world.

4. Pra su ṣa vibhyo maruto virastu pra śyenaḥ śyenebhya āśupatvā. Acakrayā yatsvadhadhayā suparṇo havyam bharanmanave devajuṣṭam.

Just as the eagle bird is the fastest of all the birds of prey in flight and descent so may that glorious heavenly bird of light wings, the sun, which moves by its own mighty force without wheels and which is prime among the powers of nature, the Maruts, may bring for humanity food and energy blest by the best and brilliant bounties of Divinity.

5. Bharadyadi virato vevijānah pathoruṇā manojavā asarji. Tūyam yayau madhunā somyenota śravo vivide śyeno atra.

When the bird of the wings of light, vibrating as sunrays, flying fast as thought by the wide paths of space brings and releases food and energy here, and then from here itself flies back fast with earthly, sweets of soma juices (to bring them back, reinvigorated), thus this eagle wins thanks and praise from earthly humanity.

6. Rjīpī śyeno dadamāno amśum parāvataḥ śakuno mandram madam. Somam bharaddādṛ-hāno devāvān divo amuṣmāduttarādādāya.

The eagle bird of light, enjoying the company of heavenly planets, coming from far off country by simple paths, having taken from that distant region of light sweet celestial delights of soma energies of life, gives us that nectar and, taking the soma sweets of earth grows stronger and more generous.

7. Ādāya śyeno abhart somam sahasram savāñ ayutam ca sākam. Atrā purandhir-ajahādarātīrmade somasya mūrā amūrah.

The eagle bird of light, ruler and illuminator of the world, bears and brings a thousand delights of soma for life with unbounded yajnic creations of organic tonics for health and, in the ecstasy of the drink of soma on earth, doing noble actions and maintaining human habitations with wisdom and equanimity of mind, eliminates all stupidity and negativities!

Mandala 4/Sukta 27

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

गभु॒ नु॒ स ान्वेषामवद्महं॒ दुवानां॒ जनिमानि॒ विश्वा॑ ।

1. Garbhe nu sannanveṣāmavedamaham devānām janimāni viśvā. Śatam mā pura āyasīrarakṣānnadha śyeno javasā niradiyam.

Having been in the mother's womb, I have witnessed and known the birth and growth of all these divine creations (such as the elements, earth, water, senses, and mind, etc.). Hundreds of golden cities and iron walls have protected me. And having lived all this, I have got out to freedom like a falcon bird of the winds with impetuous speed.

(The mantra describes the soul's journey through births and death's across the body forms and then the release to the freedom of Moksha.)

न घा स मामप् जाषं जभारा भीमासु त्वं सा वीर्यण ।

2. Na ghā sa māmapa joṣam̄ jabhārā'bhīmāsa tvakṣasā vīryena. Īrmā purandhirajahādarātīr-uta vātāṁ ataracchūśuvānah.

That womb of nature couldn't hold me against my will and pleasure. I sat in there with all my vigour and penetrative vision. And when the Lord inspirer who sustains the hundreds of golden cities and iron walls of prison wards off the contraries of flesh and blood, then the falcon bird of the spirit, rising up and high, crosses the storms and shears of winds to freedom.

अव यच्छ्यना अस्वनीदध्य द्यावि यद्यदि वात ऊहः पुरन्धिम ।

3. Ava yacchyeno asvanīdadha dyorvi yadyadi vāta ūhuḥ purandhim. Sṛjadyadasmā ava ha kṣipajjyāṁ krśānurastā manasā bhuranyan.

When the falcon bird of the spirit descends from heaven singing and roaring with energy, then if the winds and storms of existence hijack the master of the golden city, then, just as the warrior draws the string of the bows and shoots off the arrow, so the soul, archer subduer of contraries, with the light radiating from the flame of the heart, draws up the string of yoga meditation and shoots away the fluctuations.

ऋजिष्य इमिन्दौवता न भुज्युं श्युना जभार बृहुता अधि

4. Rjipyā īmindrāvato na bhujyum śyeno jabhāra bṛhato adhi śnoḥ. Antaḥ patatpatatryasya parṇamadha yāmani prasitasya tadveḥ.

The falcon bird of the spirit, going by the path of rectitude always under the protection of Indra, lord of life, bears the sacred vessel of the body like a prize from the vast regions of joy and energy and, at the end, flying up, the bird on the wing jettisons the sacred vessel like the plume of a bird bound down to the nest.

अधैश्वतं कलशं गाभिरक्तमापिष्यानं मघवा शुक्रमन्धः ।

Let Indra, the brave soul, blest with and commanding honour and prosperity, bear, in response to the Lord's grace, the bright and beauteous body vessel nourished by mother earth and cows, satisfying, pure and powerful, and let him enjoy the food seasoned and sanctified by holy yajakas, and prime delicious drink for realising the beauty and ecstasy of existence. Yes, let the fearless brave spirit bear the body vessel to drink of the joy of life and to celebrate the gift of divine rapture.

Mandala 4/Sukta 28

Indra-Soma Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

1. Tvā yujā tava tatsoma sakhya indro apo manave sasrutaskah. Ahannahimariṇāt sapta sindhūna-pāvṛṇodapihitēva khāni.

With you and for your friendship, O Soma, power, pleasure and excellence of life, did Indra, resplendent ruler of the world, set the spatial waters afloat, broke the cloud, made the seven streams of water flow and opened up the hidden treasures of life.

त्वा युजा नि॑ खिद॑ त्सू॒ यस्यन्द॑ श्चकं॑ सहसा॑ स॒द्य इन्दा॑ । अधि॑

2. Tvā yujā ni khidat-sūryasyendracśakram sahasā sadya indo. Adhi ṣṇunā brhatā vartamā-nam maho druho apa viśvāyu dhāyi.

Soma, power of cool and bliss of nature's cosmic energy, with force, constantly counters the cycle of solar radiations operating with mighty catalysis and coming from higher regions, and thus the great all round negativity of sun rays against life is warded off.

अहीन्दा॑ अदहृग्निन्दा॑ पुरा॑ दस्यू॑ न्मध्यन्दिनाद॑ भीकं॑ ।

3. Ahann-indro adahad-agnir-indro purā dasyūn madhyandinādabhīke. Durge durone kratvā na yātām purū sahasrā śarvā ni barhīt.

Indu, Soma, cool and bliss of mind, nature and people of the land and forces of peace, with your balancing action, Indra, powerful and blazing, destroys darkness and evil, as fire burns off the demoniac forces before the mid-day yajna in the battle of life. Thus does the spirit of life, with Indra and Soma, hot and cold in the existential circuit of nature, destroy and ward off a thousand onslaughts of impending dangers and attacks. And so do the acts of yajna in the home of the family and fortress of the ruler.

Indra, ruler of the world blazing as the sun, reduce the evil and wicked to nullity all round, and save the people and the forces of generosity from ignominy. Indra and Soma, power and peace of the land, ruler and people, bind down the enemy forces, give peace and security to the good, and thus win honour and fame with your weapons of protection.

5. Evā satyam maghavānā yuvam tadindraśca somorvam-aśvyam goḥ. Ādardṛtam-apihitāny-śnā riricathuh kṣāścit-tatrdānā.

It is true, O potent commanders of honour and excellence, Indra and Soma, destroyer of evil and creator of peace and prosperity, together you release the earth's vast energy and progressive forces, break open the resources of wealth and fertility, and release the lands from oppression into freedom.

1. Ā nah stuta upa vājebhirūtī indra yāhi haribhir-mandasānah. Tiraścidaryaḥ savanā purūṇyāṅgū-ṣebhirgrñānah satyarādhah.

Indra, lord ruler of honour and excellence, spirit incarnate of power and prosperity, come with all the vigour and velocity for our protection and progress. Invoked and invited, happy and rejoicing, come with the fastest achievements. You are the wealth of the nation incarnate, truly the harbinger of success. Praised, appraised and pursued by the highpriests of knowledge and action, come directly and indirectly by all paths of centripetal movement to bless our manifold yajnic programmes of creation and production.

And he does come, lord of men and master of knowledge all-aware, when he is invoked and invited to the yajna by those who distil the soma for yajna and sprinkle the yadi with holy water and ghrta. Then, commanding the horse and speed of the chariot, brave and fearless, self-confident and honoured, he rejoices with the heroes who create the soma, honour, grandeur and the joy of life for humanity.

And then he, Indra, ruler of all and creator of honour and excellence, generous as showers and blazing brave in action, would create paths of progress into a state of freedom from fear and success, and thence would flow the ultimate release.

Mandala 4/Sukta 30

Indra, Indra and Usha Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

नकिरिन्द्र त्वदुत्तरा न ज्यायाँ अस्ति वृत्रहन ।
नकिरवा यथा त्वम ॥ १ ॥

1. *Nakirindra tvaduttaro na jyāyāñ asti vṛtrahan.
Nakirevā yathā tvam.*

Indra, lord ruler of the world, destroyer of evil and breaker of the cloud like the sun, there is none higher than you, none beyond, none greater, none even equal to you as you are.

सत्रा त अनु कृष्टया विश्वा चक्रव वावृतुः ।
सत्रा महाँ असि श्रुतः ॥ २ ॥

2. *Satrā te anu kṛṣṭayo viśvā cakreva vāvṛtuḥ.
Satrā mahāñ asi śrutah.*

In truth and honour of conduct, all the people together move around you in orbit, harmoniously, as do the wheels of the chariot revolve round the axle. Truly you are great, commanding honour and universal fame.

विश्वं च॒नदुना त्वा दुवासे इन्द् युयुधुः ।

3. *Viśve canedanā tvā devāsa indra yuyudhuḥ.
Yadahā naktamātirah.*

Indra, lord ruler of the world, all the nobilities of humanity and divinities of nature, with all their wisdom and resolution, relentlessly fight for you day and night so that you are always victorious over the enmities and negativities of life.

यत्रात् बाधि॒तभ्यश्चकं कुत्सायु युध्यत ।

4. *Yatrotā bādhitebhyaścakram kutsāya yudhyate.

Where the battle rages in support of the warriors fighting in defence of the oppressed and the wise, there Indra, O lord of honour, power and justice, take up the solar disc of thunder and crush the wicked.

यत्रे दुवाँ ऋघायुता विश्वाँ अयुध्य एक इत ।
त्वमिन्द् वनूरहन ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Yatra devān ṛghāyato viśvān ayudhya eka it.
Tvamindra vanūrahan.*

Where in the battle against the evil and the violent oppressing and fighting against all the nobilities of the world you take up arms, you destroy the wicked forces all alone.

यत्रात् मत्यायु कमरिणा इन्द्र सूर्यम् ।
पावः शचीभिरतशम ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Yatrota martyāya kamariṇā indra sūryam.

अत्राहु दानुमातिरः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Kimādutāsi vṛtrahan maghavan manyumat-tamah. Atrāha dānumātirah.

Striyam yaddurhaṇāyuvam vadhiṇduhitaram

This truly is the manly valour you display in action. In addition, this too is your wonder that you dispel and ward off the rays of the malevolent star which, though, is the daughter of heaven like the dawn, the light of which, too, you overcome.

द्विवश्चिद धा दुहितरं महान्महीयमानाम ।

9. *Divaścid-ghā duhitaram mahān mahīyamānām.

Indra, great you are. Surely the dawn is glorious, daughter of heaven, which you refine, adorn and glorify, and then make her disappear when she waxes with pride.

10. *Apoṣā anasāḥ saratsaṁpiṣṭādaha bibhyuṣī.
Ni yatsīṁ śiśnathad vṛṣā.*

Indra, mighty ruler of heavens, breaks the chariot of the dawn as she waxes, but when the chariot is broken, she withdraws from the broken chariot in fear and awe. (So do the forces of gate-crashing pride withdraw under the blazing power of the ruler.)

एतदस्या अनः शायु सुसंपिष्टं विपाश्या ।

11. *Etadasyā anah śaye susaṁpiṣṭam vipāsyā.

15. *Uta dāsasya varcinaḥ sahasrāṇi śatāvadhīḥ.
Adhi pañca pradhīñriva.*

But destroy the hundreds and thousands of the violent demons who are fixed in society like five fellies fixed round the spokes of a wheel.

उत त्यं पुत्रमगुवः परावृक्तं शतकतुः ।
उवथच्चिन्दु आभजत ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Uta tyām putramagruvaḥ parāvṛktam śatakratuh.

And Indra, who performs hundreds of yajnic acts of creation and generosity with his knowledge of the Shastras, invites the formidable children of leading pioneers of the nation to participate in the theoretical and practical affairs of the state.

17. *Uta tyā turvaśāyadū asnātārā śacīpatih.
Indro vidvāñ apārayat.*

Indra, lord of the people and the sacred voice, ruler of the world and master of knowledge, helps the man of efficiency, the man of effort, and also the simple folk who do not know how to swim and enables them all to cross the hurdles of life over to the shore.

उत त्या सूद्य आयो सूर्यारिन्द्र पारतः ।
अणाच्चित्ररथावधीः ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Uta tyā sadya āryā sarayorindra pārataḥ.

Indra, lord of goodness and nobility of power, always smashes the grabber and the smuggler in possession of wondrous transport across the world of movement and communication over the border.

अनु द्वा जहिता नया न्धं श्राणं च वृत्रहन ।

19. *Anu dvā jahitā nayo'ndham śronam ca vṛtrahan.

शतमश्मन्मयीनां पुरामिन्दा व्यास्यत ।
दिवादासाय दाशुषे ॥ २० ॥

20. *Śatamaśmanmayīnāṁ purāmindro vyāsyat.

Indra, lord of power, justice and generosity, for the sake of the creative and the generous giver you break a hundred adamantine strongholds of hoarded wealth like the sun that breaks the cloud concentrations of rain to bless the generous earth.

अस्वापयद्भीतय सहस्रा त्रिंशतं हथः ।
दासानामिन्दो मायया ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Asvāpayad-dabhītaye sahasrā trimśatām hathaih.

Indra, the ruler, should smash three hundred thousand of social saboteurs with weapons of far reaching calibre for the peace and security of the law-abiding servants of the nation and for keeping down of the violent.

Indra, such as you are, ruler and protector of the earth, destroyer of evil and promoter of the good, you are equal and kind, like the sun, for all in treatment since you bring about all that you do and achieve for all of them as they deserve according to law and justice.

18. *Sahasrā te śatā vayam gavāmā cyāvayāmasi.
Asmatrā rādha etu te.*

Indra, lord of excellence and beneficence, we activate and accelerate a hundred and thousand schemes of development of research and extension of knowledge, enrichment and fertility of lands and improvement of cows, other cattle wealth and milk products, and hope that the wealth and prosperity of your social order would benefit us all.

19. *Daśa te kalaśānam hiraṇyānāmadhīmahi.

We study, research and produce tens of jars of liquid gold. Destroyer of ignorance and poverty, you are the giver and creator of unbounded wealth.

भूरिदा भूरि दहि ना मा दुभं भूया भर ।
भूरि घदिन्द दित्ससि ॥ २० ॥

20. *Bhūridā bhūri dehi no mā dabhraṇ bhūryā bhara.
Bhūri ghedindra ditsasi.*

Indra, giver of unbounded wealth, give us immense wealth, withhold not, give us not little, bear and bring us profuse amounts of wealth. For you give and wish to give nothing less than immensity.

भूरिदा ह्यसि श्रुतः पुरुत्रा शूर वृत्रहन ।

21. *Bhūridā hyasi śrutah purutrā śūra vṛtrahan.
Ā no bhajasva rādhasi.*

Indra, destroyer of want and darkness, for sure you are the giver of immensity. Brave and magnificent, you command universal fame and glory. Come, we pray, bless us, you are the giver of success and glory.

22. *Pra te babhrū vicakṣaṇa śamsāmi goṣaṇo napāt.
Mābhyaṁ gā anu śiśrathah.*

Lord of omniscience and the universal eye, giver of the Divine Word and the earth and her wealth, power and presence imperishable, I praise and celebrate your divine agencies that bear and bring us the wealth of life. Let these divinities keep it up, and allow not the earths and inspirations to slacken.

23. *Kanīnakeva vidradhe nave drupade arbake.
Babhrū yāmeṣu śobhete.*

Like the two pupils of the eyes, overly strong and lasting, ever new, ever cherished and subtle divine harbingers of the truth, goodness and beauty of existence, let nature's complementaries ever shine blissfully in the hours of human yajna.

अरं म उस्त्रयाम्ण रुमनुस्त्रयाम्ण । बृभूयामष्वस्त्रिधा ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Aram ma usrayāmne' ramanusrayāmne.
Babhrū yāmeśvasridhā.*

May the waves of divine energy, instant, constant and never failing, never hurtful, travelling in the day and in the night, to the upper solstice and the nether solstice, be ever blissful to me in the hours of yajnic life.

Mandala 4/Sukta 33

Rbhavah Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

प ऋभुभ्या दूतमिव वाचमिष्य उपस्तिर शवतरीं धनुमीळ ।
य वातजूतास्तरणिभिरवः परि द्यां सद्या अपसा बभूवुः ॥ १ ॥

1. Pra ṛhubhyo dūtamiva vācamisyā upastire śvaitarīm dhenumile. Ye vātajūtāstaranibhirevaih pari dyām sadyo apaso babhūvuh.

I send up my words to the Rhubs, scientists, as a messenger, in order that they be broadcast around, and I hope that they would be converted into a subtle, clearer and more powerful message—words which, carried up by currents of energy by their own floating vibrations, immediately rise to the upper layers of space and become acts of nature to come back in the finer form I want.

आदिद्वानामुपे सख्यमायुन्धीरासः पुष्टिमवहन्मनाय ॥ २ ॥

2. Yadāramakrannrbhavah pitṛbhyām pariviṣṭī veṣaṇā daṁsanābhih. Ādidevānāmupa sakhymāyan dhīrāsaḥ puṣṭimavahan manāyai.

When the Rbhūs, sages and scientists, through service and action, receive instruction from parents and teachers, and have done enough to their own satisfaction and satisfaction of the seniors, they graduate to join the fraternity of the enlightened, and then, constant in study and meditation, bring about maturity and fullness of mind and spirit for independent work.

पुन्य चकुः पितरा युवाना सना यूपेव जरुणा शयाना । त

3. Punarye cakruḥ pitarā yuvānā sanā yūpeva jarañā śayānā. Te vājo vibhvāň ṛbhurindra-vanto madhupsaraso no'vantu yajñam.

And then they, the Rbhūs, who, with their knowledge and dedicated service, rejuvenate their parents and senior generation grown old, nerveless and almost lying like a broken pillar, and bring them back to their youthful time, thus keeping the tradition young and alive: may they, vigorous geniuses, far reaching in imagination, marvellous in invention, mighty and majestic in achievement, and brilliant and blissful in conduct, come to our yajna of science and research, protect us and promote our progress and advancement far ahead.

The Rbhūs, sages and scholars of genius and knowledge, bold and blissful, who protect the cow, mother knowledge and the speech of knowledge, and also the mother earth like nursing a holy child, those who serve the mother tradition and rejuvenate and strengthen every part of its body like a darling love, who bring new vigour and new lights to its body of science and knowledge, they, the Rbhūs, attain to immortality in the living history of the advancement of human civilisation by these noble acts of holiness.

कनिष्ठ आह चतुरस्करति त्वष्ट्रभवस्तप्यनयद्वचावः ॥ ५ ॥

5. Jyeṣṭha āha camasā dvā kareti kaniyān trīn kṛṇavāmetyāha. Kaniṣṭha āha caturaskareti tvaṣṭra ṛbhavastat panayad vaco vah.

The eldest of the Rbhūs says: Let us make two cups for the drink of soma for the celebration of life's enlightenment. The younger, more brilliant, says: Let us make three. The youngest, most brilliant, says: Let us make four. Tvashta, the teacher, universal lord maker of forms, O Rbhūs, honours and praises these words of yours. (Thus knowledge, science and technology grows from one generation of scholars to another.)

The four cups of life may be interpreted as Dharma, righteousness, artha, material goods, 'kama', material and mental fulfilment, and Moksha, ultimate purpose of living and ultimate freedom.

6. Satyamūcurnara evā hi cakruranu svadhāmrbhavo jagmuretām. Vibhrājamānāṁścamasāñ ahevā'venattvaṣṭā caturo dadrśvān.

The Rbhus, brave and blessed, speak true what they speak, then they accomplish what they say, and then they achieve this reward of their action. Tvashta, the divine maker, wise and all-seeing eye of the world, who sees the Rbhus' cups of life shining as daylight sees them, loves them and blesses the makers. Thus should men do in life.

द्वादश द्यून्यदग्निस्या तिथ्य रण् त्रृभवः सुसन्तः । सु त्रृ-

7. Dvādaśa dyūn yadagohyasyā''tithye raṇannrbhavaḥ sasantah. Sukṣetrākṛṇvannanayanta sindhūn dhanvātiृsthann-oṣadhi-r-nimnamāpaḥ.

When the scholars and sages of the science of yajna remain on holiday for twelve days in the years, resting and refreshing themselves, enjoying the hospitality of a prominent host, then the sky is overcast, the showers pour, fields are made fertile, the rivers flow and vegetation grows on barren lands, (and this by rain yajna).

रथं य चकुः सुवृतं नरुषां य धनुं विश्वजुवं विश्वरूपाम ।

8. Rathāṁ ye cakruḥ suvṛtam nareṣṭhāṁ ye dhenum viśvajuvam viśvarupām. Ta ā takṣantvṛbhavo rayim nah svavasah svapasah suhastāḥ.

The Rbhus, who design and manufacture a strong built chariot for people to travel by, create a universal language of universal knowledge for the world prevailing all over the world. May they create universal wealth for us all — heroes of noble action, noble protection, and dexterous of hand as they are.

9. Apo hyeṣāmajuṣanta devā abhi kratvā manasā dīdhyānāḥ. Vājo devānāmabhavat sukarmendrasya ṛbhukṣā varuṇasya vibhvā.

The wonderful acts and products of these Rbhuses, exceptional scientists, later, the younger intellectuals, themselves brilliant with their mind and work, honour and apply for further development: thus the food and energy becomes the favourite input for the ‘devas’, following researchers, for higher outputs of finer food and energy, the powerful thunderbolt becomes the arm for Indra, ruler and defender, and the extensive waves of subtle transmission become the perceptive and active agencies of Varuna, the presiding power.

10. Ye harī medhayokthā madanta indrāya cakruḥ suyujā ye aśvā. Te rāyaspoṣam draviṇānyasme dhatta ṛbhavaḥ kṣemayanto na mitram.

The Rbhuses, holy thinkers, creators and makers, who, using their intellect and imagination and rejoicing with the revelations of the chants of sacred verses, create the circuit of energies, produce the motive powers, and construct the chariot for Indra, ruler and the nation, may, we pray, bring us health and nourishment and wealth and build permanent assets for us as protective and promotive friends doing good to friends.

11. Idāhnah pītimuta vo madam dhurna rte śrāntasya sakhyāya devāḥ. Te nūnamasme ṛbhavo vasūni ṣṭīye asmintsavane dadhāta.

O Rbus, noble creators and makers, today the holy men bring you soma to celebrate and enjoy. The divines favour not the slothfuls, they extend no hand of friendship unless you are tested in the crucibles of hard work and self sacrifice. May the Rbus bring us, in truth, the wealths of life in the third session of yajna.

May the peace and pleasure of life reach you, may divine intelligence and the ruling powers of the world with munificence bless you. And may you, for our sake, arouse the wealth of the nations, brave citizens and the coming generations.

O Rbus, leaders of humanity, may the yajna of yours be a source of jewel wealth for the common man, for the generous giver and for the organiser and sustainer of the programme. O leaders and pioneers of the speed of winds, carry on with joy, let all enjoy the fruits. I dedicate the final session of the yajna to the ecstatic joy of you all.

Come, O potent, brilliant and great Rbus, best of the leaders of men, commanding the wealth and knowledge of the world, praised and celebrated, come as a rising glowing youth comes home at the end of the day, and may these exhilarating drinks offered to you delight you.

Loved and loving Indra, lord of power and honour, come, share and promote the joy of the soma celebration of honour with Varuna, men of high endeavour and success. Loving friend, praised and celebrated, come, celebrate with the Rudras, people of justice and rectitude in the land, and protect and promote their honour and prestige. Loving, joining, socialising and celebrating with the leading pioneers, planning guardians of the nation according to the change of seasons, wedded couples, households and trustees of the jewel wealth of the land, protect and promote the honour and excellence of life with soma celebrations of joy.

O Rbhūs, scientists and intellectuals, create joy and rejoice: Rejoice with the Adityas, scholars of the top order of brilliance in accord with the various phases of the sun, rejoice in harmony with the clouds and the mountains, rejoice together with the divine energy of nature and the life-sustaining light of the sun, and rejoice in confluence with the flowing rivers and the rolling seas and the treasures of the jewel wealth of nature, and share the joy with us too.

Those who create and activate complementary circuits of energies, who serve the parents and sustain and rejuvenate health anew, who provide protection and promotion, who refine and extend knowledge and the language of knowledge, develop cattle wealth and renew the earth resources, who design and structure fast modes of travel and communication, who design and construct armour against external attacks, who cross the globe unto the sky and space and who command universal knowledge: pioneers and leaders of the best of men who can raise, train and organise a noble younger generation.

1. Ihopa yāta śavaso napātah saudhanvanā ṛbhavo māpa bhūta. Asmin hi vah savane ratnadheyam gamantvindramanu vo madāsaḥ.

O Rbhus, mighty strong, imperishable warriors of the bow, come here close to us, do not stay away, never feel dispraised. In this yajna enacted for you, let the honour and joy of creation and celebration be as much for you as for Indra, resplendent lord giver of wealth.

Let the jewel wealth of the Rbhus' performance come and let the joy of the soma success distilled from nature be here for the people to share who deserve the prize, since with their admirable action and brilliant intelligence and will they have designed and manufactured one chariot fourfold in performance.

3. Vyakṛṇota camasam caturdhā sakhe vi śikṣet-yabratvita. Athaita vājā amṛtasya panthāṁ gaṇam devānāmṛbhavaḥ suhastāḥ.

You develop the cup of life to fourfold success of completion and perfection: Dharma, artha (material development), kama (self-fulfilment), and Moksha (ultimate freedom). O friend, teach and say: This is it, this is the art of living. And then, O eminent scholars, dynamic scientists, dexterous technologists, join the fraternity of divines and move on to the path of immortality.

O Rbhus, with your truth of knowledge and holy science, you rejuvenate your parents to youthful health. With truth of vision and imagination, you reveal the fourfold cup of life's beauty and joy for the drink of divinities. With your truth of science and technology you create the power and construct the chariot faster than bullet speed for the ride of Indra, world's presiding power of rule and law. You are really the master creators and controllers of the speed and jewels of life on earth.

Indra, world ruler of honour and majesty, rider of the chariot of sun rays, drink the soma distilled in the morning. Drink the soma distilled at midday only for you. Drink with the Rbus, men of science and wisdom, creators of the jewels of wealth, whom you have drafted as friends by your noble action.

Drink it with the exciting pleasure of your senses, mind and soul.

O Rbhus, fast and imaginative scientists and engineers universally recognised and honoured, that practical realisation of yours of the divine word and formula becomes a great news for the brilliant leaders and scholars, since by that you rejuvenate the parental ancestors old and worn out for long and equip them with new life and energy of youth to go about and onward in time.

You develop one cup of soma into four, make one versatile chariot into fourfold efficiency, and reclaim and develop barren and eroded land back to fertility with your thought and imagination, and thus immediately you attain to a status of immortality among the divine benefactors of humanity. Rbhūtas of world fame and high speed of action, such achievement of yours is admirable.

The wealth most meritorious, received through the Rbhūtas, that which is created by the most famous and dynamic leaders, that which is created by the world famous Rbhūtas themselves, the person wide awake and perceptive whom the wise and generous divinities protect and promote: this is worthy of honour and celebration at public assemblies.

O Rbus, scholars and scientists of high order, with your knowledge, art and wisdom, create and provide for us the food, energy and modes of care and comfort we need for the sustenance of humanity. Create and bring us the light of science and progress of technology, strength and power coupled with generosity, highest form of life's wealth and health and age.

O scholars of science and wisdom, give us that wonderful art and knowledge and all round progress.

1. Upa no vājā adhvaramrbhukṣā devā yāta pathibhirdevayānaiḥ. Yathā yajñam manuṣo vikṣvāsu dadhidhve raṇvāḥ sudineśvahnām.

O generous Rbhus, brilliant sages, eminent scholars and leaders of science and progress, come and grace our yajnic programme of non-violent development, come by the paths of divinity so that, happy and joyous, you may take over the humanistic project of the people in these happy days of the season.

May those yajnic projects of yours for the creation of happiness and prosperity be satisfying and delightful to your heart and mind, and may the fruits of yajnas served by holy men and fed with ghrta flow to you with fragrance. May the soma cups of joy full to the brim enrapture you and, drunk to the leas, excite and exhilarate you to your best performance.

Rbhus, eminent scholars and miraculous makers, as your threefold gift of science, technology and wealth of power and excellence for the highest of people is a source of bliss and comfort, so do I as one among the same people high and low, dedicated to the vast divinities, offer you the treat of soma, best of wealth and joy as gift, in truth of thought, word and deed, offering loved by the noblest divine souls, the Rbhūs.

O Rbhūs, commanding mighty horse power, riding brilliant chariots, clad in corselets of steel, be golden great, tempestuous as winds. Consequently, O children of Indra, universal energy, unassailable images of strength and power, for your joy and celebration, the first and foremost tribute of soma yajna is selected and offered.

O Rbus, leaders and pioneers of vision and progress, O lord ruler of the world, Indra, never failing, ever true, teach us, give us that order of wealth and speedy progress with power and horse which leads the people to honour and prosperity in life to the full.

Mandala 4/Sukta 38

*Dyavaprthivi, Dadhikra Devata, Vamadeva
Gautama Rshi*

उता हि वां दात्रा सन्ति पूवा या पूरुभ्यस्त्रसदस्युनिताश ।

1. Uto hi vām dātrā santi pūrvā yā pūrubhyastra-sadasyurnitośe. Kṣetrāsām dadathururvarāsām ghanām dasyubhyo abhibhūtimugram.

O heaven and earth, ruler and commander, generous givers, whatever the gifts of munificence earlier than the earliest for the many recipients, they are all yours: whether they are gifts of fields and fertile lands with generous grants or, as terror for the wicked, you give to the evil doer the crushing bolt and intense fall from grace.

उत वाजिनं पुरुनिष्ठिध्वानं दधिकामु ददथुविश्वकृष्टिम ।

2. Uta vājinām puruniṣṭidhvānam dadhikrāmu dadathurviśvakṛṣṭim. Rjipyām śyenām prusita-psumāśum carkṛtyamaryo nṛpatim na śūram.

Or, like the brave parental master, you give the war horse, destroyer of many enemies, or the roaring war craft, winner of victories for many people of the world, and the resplendent hero like the rising sun, supporter and defender of humanity, or the simple man of rectitude, or the eagle like fighter that pounces upon the target, or the instant flier and pilot or the relentless doer of the master's order.

3. Yam sīmanu pravateva dravantam viśvah pūrur-madati harṣamāṇah. Padbhīrgṛdhyantam medha-yum na śūram rathaturam vātamiva dhrajantam.

War horse or the aircraft which, rushing like turbulent waters to the sea, the people of the world admire and celebrate with joy, which, like a brave and tempestuous warrior, advances to the heat of battle by leaps and bounds and grabs the enemy and which, rushing like a wind sheer tears the enemy force apart.

4. Yaḥ smārundhāno gadhyā samatsu sanutara-ścarati goṣu gacchan. Avirṛjiko vidathā nicikyat tiro aratim paryāpa āyoh.

Which in battles stems the united force of the enemy and goes over lands and seas of the earth in majesty, which openly displays its strength of arms and thrust openly, and watches over the grand yajnic programmes of humanity and wards off the enemies and adversities from the life of noble people.

उत स्मनं वस्त्रमथिं न तायुमनु काशन्ति फ्रातया भरषु ।

kṣitayo bhareṣu. Nicāyamānam jasurim na śyenam śravaścācchā paśumacca yūtham.*

Just as people cry out for help when a thief attacks their cloth and hearth and home, so do people call out to the fighter warrior in battles for the safety of their hearth and home and herds of cattle wealth when they see the terrible enemy descending like a hawk intending to attack.

उत स्मासु पथ्रमः सरिष्या वैवति श्रणिभी रथानाम् । स्त्रजं

6. *Uta smāsu prathamah sariṣyan ni veveti śrenibhi rathānām. Srajam kṛṇvāno janyo na śubhvā

Keen to be the first and prime leader in front of these battle formations of the war chariots, creating a garland pattern, graceful like a bridegroom in procession, he goes like the wind raising a cloud of dust and radiating beams of light like the sun.

उत स्य वाजी सहुरित्रहतावा शुश्रूषमाणस्तन्वा समय । samarye. Turam yatiṣu turayannṛjipyo 'dhi bhruvoh kirate renumṛñjan.*

And that hero, mighty and brilliant, dedicated to truth, keen for service in battle in his own person, commanding the strong and smart warriors on fronts, going up and forward by straight paths, tossing up dust in battle, shaking it off from the eyebrows, goes on making things straight and favourable for all.

8. Uta smāsyā tanyatoriva dyorṛghāyato abhiyujo bhayante. Yadā sahasramabhi śīmayodhīd durvartuh smā bhavati bhīma ṛñjan.

And when the hero in passion takes up arms in battle, those who face him shake in fear as from the thunder of lightning from the skies, and then when he engages thousands of adversaries he grows terrible and irresistible and comes out victorious.

उत स्मास्य पनयन्ति जना जूतिं कृष्टिपा अभिभूतिमाशाः ।

9. Uta smāsyā panayanti janā jūtim kṛṣtipro abhibhūtimāśoh. Utainamāhuh samithe viyantah parā dadhikrā asarat sahasraih.

And people praise the drive and superior power of this hero of human endeavour and accomplishment for humanity, and the warriors going to battle describe him as the roaring war horse, the booming war craft of the skies and the supreme of arms going with but ahead of thousands.

10. Ā dadhikrāh śavasā pañca krṣṭīh sūrya iva jyotiṣāpastatāna. Sahasrasāh śatasā vājyarvā pṛṇaktu madhvā samimā vacāṁsi.

Just as the sun with its rays fills the skies and space, so does Dadhikra, the roaring war horse, the booming war-craft and the superior war hero with characteristic power and majesty fascinate all the five classes of people. May this hero, tempestuous mover, giver of a hundred and thousand favours to the people bring our words of praise to golden honey sweets of success and fulfilment.

Varily we praise the swift Dadhikra, the war horse of earth and skies, and we sing in praise of earth and heaven too. May the glorious dawns inspire and mature me, cleansing me of all the evils and weaknesses of earthly existence.

O Mitra and Varuna, President of the Council and commander of the army, dear as pranic energies of life, inspired and enlightened, I praise the mighty war horse, Dadhikra, sustainer of sustainers, a shower of blessings, saviour of the people, a gift swift and blazing as fire, which you have given for the sake of noble humanity.

Whoever does honour and worship to Dadhikra, mighty life sustaining energy of the Divine and offers oblations into the burning fire at the rise of dawn, him Aditi, mother earth and the skies and space, lead to a state of purity from sin and evil and elevate him to a state of love and friendship with Mitra and Varuna, friend and highest authority of humanity.

While we study and discover the food, energy and power gifts of the great Dadhikra, cosmic sustainer of sustaining energies and of the good that the Maruts, powerful people, for sure do for our good and advancement, we at the same time study with devotion Varuna, water energy, Mitra, solar energy, Agni, fire power, and Indra, electricity which wields the arms of thunder.

Science researchers and engineers and technologists going to centres of production, and both the rulers and the people, all invoke and develop Indra, electrical energy, Dadhikra, basic energy, flow of waters, and awareness of the modes of comfort which the friendly and generous powers, Mitra and Varuna, at national and international levels, give us as gifts for the people.

We study and develop for human purposes the forces of Dadhikra, all victorious cosmic energy which impels various forms of natural energy, and we tap and develop the power sources of water, fire, dawns, sun, Brhaspati and pranas. May all the lights of the dawns and new revelations inspire me and mature my projects.

Dadhikrava, cosmic energy, potent and omnipresent, all sustaining, all inspiring of sense and mind, responsive to the dedicated enquirer, acting fast in foods, power sources and light of the dawns, true and imperishable, dynamic, flowing, heating, flying, may respond and create food, energy and the joy of life.

Dadhikra, cosmic energy, flowing, running, accelerating, flying, driving and pressing forward like an eagle, and traversing the spaces with terrific power and velocity.

Hansa, the divine bird, soul unpolluted, resides in purity in biological forms in the skies, and, as yajnic doer, sits on the vedi in family home among people, the best ones, and rises up to the heights of heavens. It is born of the waters on the earth from the Law of existence and from the clouds. That is the truth, the Law.

Mandala 4/Sukta 41

Indra-Varuna Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

Indra, O lord of power and glory, O Varuna, lord of justice and rectitude, who could win the favour of your blessing, which song of praise and prayer, expressive of yajnic reverence like an immortal yajaka would win your favour? Which song and tribute, O Indra and Varuna, sung in your honour, expressing humility and surrender as holy offering would touch your heart?

Indra and Varuna, lord of power and of justice, abounding in strength and grace, generous and resplendent, the man who tries in honest action to win your friendship destroys darkness and evil and wins over enemies in battles with great weapons of defence and protection.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and the elected people in power, if they hold and govern the jewel wealth of the nation in trust for the people, and the people would then appreciate, approve and admire them, then this way, they, both friends in agreement, for friendship of the people, would be happy and rejoice with the honour and prosperity of the law created with the honest effort of all in unison.

Indra, ruler, and Varuna, chief of justice, mighty impassioned powers in this system, wield the light of knowledge and law in the social order. Who ever is malignant, evil doer and terror monger against us, strike the shattering blow of justice and punishment on him and create faith and confidence in the light and lustrous power of the law.

Indra, leader and giver of knowledge and power, and Varuna, embodiment of cherished virtue and intelligence, as Indra, lord of clouds sends down rain showers on earth and fertilises her, so, be the promoters of the intelligence and enlightenment of the children of the earth so that, as the earth, rich in vegetation, overflows with food in a thousand ways, so the knowledge, language and enlightenment of the community may grow a thousandfold and overflow with creative work on the great moving earth.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and administrator, for the good of our children and grand children on these fertile lands on this moving and progressive earth, be the sun for the health and beauty of life, be the cloud for the fertility and virility of the nation. Indra, giver of light and energy, Varuna, lord of law and justice, with all your protections and promotions, be the destroyers of want and suffering, be the harbingers of health and plenty and enlightenment.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and sustainer, lord of life and power, giver of freedom and justice, we choose to dedicate ourselves to you for the sake of protection and progress as ever before, great and beneficent friends like brothers, brave and fearless, greatest majestic, and kind as parents as you are. Lovers of the earth and cows, knowledge and the language of Divinity as we are, we opt for you in freedom for the sake of love and friendship.

Indra and Varuna, benevolent energy and inspiration of nature and Divinity, all senses, mind and intelligence in search of efficiency and refinement in the business of life flow to you for the sake of protection and promotion. So may my mind, senses, vision and voices of exploration and celebration turn to Indra and Varuna for light and inspiration and abide by them for beauty and delicacy like the earth and other planets relating to the moon for the sweetness and beauty of their products.

These senses and mind of mine keenly desiring to win the wealth and vision of life may proceed to Indra and Varuna, light and power and inspiration of nature and Divinity, and abide thereby, awaiting, getting and enjoying the wealth and wisdom of life like little Brahmacharinis of a girls' institution of education waiting upon their teacher mother.

May we, with our mind and soul, be masters of the lasting wealth of horses and chariots, of achievement and further progress, of health and nourishment, and may those two, Indra and Varuna, ruler and administrator, teacher and preacher, ever active with their latest modes of protection, promotion and progress join us and share our health.

Indra ruler, and Varuna, administrator and commander, great and majestic, come to us with the best of protection, promotion, progress and welfare and join our battle of life so that, participating in the struggles of that battle, joining and shining together with you, we may play our game with the best of capacities.

Mandala 4/Sukta 42

Atma, Indra-Varuna Devata, Trasadasyu Paurukutsya Rshi

मम द्विता राष्ट्रं त्रियस्य विश्वायाविश्वं अमृता यथा नः ।
कर्तुं सचन्त् वरुणस्य दुवा राजामि कृष्टरुपमस्य व्रवः ॥ १ ॥

1. Mama dvitā rāṣṭram kṣatriyasya viśvāyorviśve amṛtā yathā nah. Kratūm sacante varuṇasya devā rājāmi kṛṣṭerupamasya vavreh.

I am Indra, sovereign spirit of the universe. Twofold is my kingdom: heaven and earth, or, the world of nature and the world of humanity. I am Varuna, highest Intelligence and the Ruling Power of the universe. All the Immortals, divine forces in the service of Varuna are ours, they comprise and conduct the mighty yajna system of the universe. Thus I rule all: the world of humanity, all that is highest and closest in the world of forms, and all that is hidden.

(This mantra is a metaphor of the living, breathing, intelligent, self-organising, autonomous and sovereign system of the universe as macrocosm as well as microcosm. At the macrocosmic level, Indra is the Supreme Sovereign, immanent and transcendent Spirit, and Varuna is the immanent ruling force, intelligence and the law of Rtam. Indra-varuna is a functional version of the Supreme Spirit which is both immanent and transcendent. At the microcosmic level, Indra-Varuna is the individual soul with all its faculties of awareness, intelligence, mind and senses. At the world level too, Indra-Varuna may be interpreted as the Ruler and the President-in-council.)

कतुं सचन्तु वरुणस्य द्रवा राजामि कृष्टपूमस्य वृवः ॥ २ ॥

2. Aham rājā varuno mahyam tānyasuryāni prathamā dhārayanta. Kratum sacante varunasya devā rājāmi kr̄ṣterupamasya vavreh.

I am Varuna, ruling spirit of the world, best and highest. For me do the first manifestations of the spirit in nature hold the wealth and power of existence. They are the divine immortals who comprise and conduct the creative yajna, the spirit in body form. I rule the world of humanity, the phenomenal forms and all that is hidden in potentiality.

3. Ahamindro varunaste mahitvorvī gabhīre rajasī sumeke. Tvaṣṭeva viśvā bhuvanāni vidvānt-samairayam rodasī dhārayam ca.

I am Indra, the highest, omnipotent, and transcendent. I am Varuna, highest and best immanent and omniscient. Happy and exalted, having created the vast and deep and firm heaven and earth as Tvashta, cosmic maker, I hold and move in unison the sun and earth and all other regions of the universe.

अहमपा अपिन्वमु त्माणा धारयं दिवं सदनं कृतस्य ।

4. Ahamapo apinvamukṣamānā dhārayaṁ divam sadana ṛtasya. Rtena putro aditerṛtāvota tridhātu prathayad vi bhūma.

I shower the rains of energising and fertilising waters. I hold and rule the sun and cosmic energy in the space of nature within eternal law. By the same eternal law of mine, the child of eternity, the threefold world of natural constituents, sattva, rajas and tamas (thought, energy and matter) manifests and expands and keeps to the law. Thus do I create, hold and rule the universe.

मां नरः स्वश्वा॑ वा॒जयन्ता॑ मां वृत्ताः॑ सु॒मरण॑ हृवन्त॑ ।

5. Māṁ narah svāsvā vājayanto māṁ vṛtāḥ samarane havante. Krṇomyājīm maghavāhamindra iyarmi renum-abhibhūtyojāḥ.

The best of men and leaders, equipped with good horses and modes of transport and communication, fighting for strength and sustenance, the chosen ones, knowing me and struggling to attain to me call upon me in the battle of existence. I, Indra, commanding the wealth and power of the world, highest of the lustre and glory in existence, create the battle for their victory and raise the heat of action.

6. Aham tā viśvā cakaram nakirmā daivyam saho varate apratītam. Yanmā somāso mamadanyad-ukthobhe bhayete rajasi apāre.

I do all those acts of creation, sustenance and victory. None can restrain or resist the supernal power that's mine, mysterious and unknown. When the flames of my soma yajna rise, the fire crackles and the hymns of celebration reverberate, the boundless heaven and earth shake in fear. There is none that equals me.

विदुष्ट विश्वा भुवनानि तस्य ता प ब्रवीषि वरुणाय वधः । varuṇāya vedhah. Tvam vṛtrāṇi śṛṇviṣe jaghan-vān tvam vṛtiān arinā indra sindhūn.*

That greatness and grandeur of yours all the scholars of the worlds know. O lord omniscient, you yourself speak of it to the selected men of vision. You are the breaker of the clouds, we hear, and you set the rivers aflow and release the waters locked up in lakes and clouds.

अस्माकमत्र पितरस्त आसन्त्सुम ऋषया दागह बृध्यमान ।

8. Asmākamatra pitarasta āsantsapta ṛṣayo daur-gahe badhyamāne. Ta āyajanta trasadasyu-masyā indram na vṛtraturam-ardhadevam.

When the seven sages, senses, pranic energies and flowing streams, which are our feeding and sustaining powers like father and mother, are locked up in darkness then, as they join Indra, so they join the sun (wakefulness), who is superior to the darkness of Vrtra and presides over half of this world with his light (until light and life is restored).

पुरुकृत्सनी हि वामदाशद्विभिर्न्दावरुणा नमाभिः ।

9. Purukutsānī hi vāmadāśaddhavyebhirindrāvaruṇā namobhiḥ. Athā rājānaṁ trasada-syumasyā vṛtrahaṇam dadathur-ardhadevam.

O Indra and Varuna, the abundant power of the thunderbolt, light and showers offer you the homage of yajnic inputs of food for consumption and holistic expansion of creative nourishment. And thence, further, you give it on to this earth's ruler, destroyer of darkness and evil, who presides over half the world (and rises in majesty with the break of dawn).

राया वयं सस्वांसो मदम हृव्यनं द्वा यवसन् गावः । तां धनुमिन्दावरुणा युवं ना विश्वाहा धत्तुमनपस्फुरन्तीम ॥ १० ॥

10. Rāyā vayam sasavāṁso madema havyena devā yayasena gāvah. Tāṁ dhenum-indrāvaruṇā yuvam no viśvāhā dhattam-anapasphurantīm.

Let us rejoice with the wealth of peace and refreshment with energy while we sleep, just as the devas, divine powers of nature, are replenished with spirit and joy by the offer of yajnic homage, and cows rejoice with grass. That vibrating energy of life, Indra and Varuna, you bear and bring for us day and night without break. Reveal that language of enlightenment, all calm and undisturbed.

Who listens? Which of the adorables? Which brilliant divinity loves and entertains the song of prayer and adoration? To whose heart shall we dedicate this eulogy, divine, highly presentable, and dearest to the immortals.

Who is kind and blissful? Which one comes at the fastest and earliest? Which one of the adorable divinities is the most benevolent? Which one is the chariot, power driven, which moves instantly at the fastest, they say, which the daughter of the sun, the Dawn, chooses for the ride?

3. Makṣu hi ṣmā gacchatha ivato dyūnindro na śaktiṁ paritakmyāyām. Diva ājatā divyā suparnā kayā śacīnām bhavathahā śaciṣṭhā.

Ashvins, complementary powers of nature and humanity, magnificent on the move, you come instantly at the call of time like rays of the sun displaying his power over the smiling earth at the end of night. Coming from the heavens, divine with wings of light, by which one of nature's immaculate forces do you become the most powerful and eloquent?

Ashvins, what could be the simile or metaphor to describe or define you? On whose invocation and invitation would you come to us? Even though someone might be great, who could be as great and selfless around as you? Sweet powers, destroyers of evil, rise higher and higher for our defence and protection.

Great and grand is your chariot that goes round the regions of light, it comes to you from the oceans and from the oceans of spatial waters. Honey sweet you are, honey sweet is your wisdom. You and your wisdom shower us with sweetness of honey when your people at the stage of ripeness reach you for company and advice.

6. Sindhurha vām rasayā siñjadaśvān ghṛṇā vayo'-ruṣāsaḥ pari gman. Tadū ṣu vāmajiram ceti yānarī yena patī bhavathah sūryāyāḥ.

The waters of the flowing rivers and rolling seas evaporate and lend moisture to your horses of sun rays which rise like birds bright and red, and then your chariot, quick and soaring, coming and rising, is seen and known by which you become masters of the dawns.

Here itself in this world, O Ashvins, both of you, ever correct and true as you are, of equal mind and rich with the treasures of wealth and speed of light, may that holy and dynamic intelligence and wisdom which attends on you may, we pray, be for us too and may it bless and promote the celebrant who, looking to you with surrender and faith, may achieve the desire of his heart. Our ambition and fulfilment is centred on you only.

Ashvins, complementary currents of cosmic energy of the Divine, today we invoke you and call for that chariot of yours which is wide extended, joins earth and heaven, carries the light and energy of sunrays, ages not, carries the sound and which is abundant in various wealth which never diminishes but continuously enriches the earth.

Both of you, we pray, protect, promote and elevate the celebrant. Our desire and ambition depends on you and we look forward up to you alone.

There rises the sun, chariot of the Ashvins in motion. It goes high up on top of the heavens, gaining heights and leaving the regions below. In this are three analogous kinds of food and energy: wind, water and electricity. And there is the fourth, the cloud on top of all, laden with the honey sweets of showers.

On the rise of dawns, honey sweets of foods and energies and the horses and the chariots raise you high up, Ashvins, while they remove the veil of darkness and spread the brilliance of morning light like the glory of heaven all round.

Ashvins, drink the sweets with lips addicted to the taste of honey. Start the chariot to reach the dear sweets of life. Take to the high road on the way home by the chariot bearing the sweets of success as the sun and wind bear the cloud of showers.

Flying gracefully like hansa birds, pleasant and agreeable, fleet and comfortable, golden winged morning birds floating across mists and waters, giving the luxurious feel of breezy ecstasy: such are your horses which transport you across the spaces like bees flying to the honey cups of flowers, by which you proceed to the yajnic programmes of humanity creating the honour and excellence of life.

Holy yajnic performers, creating and bearing honey sweets of vitality, leaders and pioneers brilliant as fire, every morning, welcome and praise the first rays of the sun, while the clean handed, clear eyed, wise priest, saviour from sin and disease, grinds with stones the holy plant of soma for honey juice and all wait for your arrival, O Ashvins, harbingers of morning joy.

Ashvins, path makers of the world, having the knowledge and intelligence that I have attained, I speak to you of the chariot that's yours, which is imperishable, equipped with unfailing horse power, by which you instantly and all time go over the skies and spaces and by which you bear and bring excellent food and energy full of sacrificial vitality that carries us across the seas of life.

इह वां सामपीतय ॥ ७ ॥

Indra and Vayu, here may be the end of your journey for the drink of soma and here may the chariot and the horses be released so that you may drink the soma of Moksha.

(This sukta may be interpreted in another way in the light of this mantra: Indra as the soul, Vayu as the prana energy of breath and blood circulation, the chariot as the body and horses as the organs of perception and volition, distillation of soma as creative yajnic action, drinking as the fruit of action, and release of chariot and horses as the freedom of the soul from the body and senses.)

*Brhaspati, Indra-Brhaspati Devate, Vamadeva
Gautama Rshi*

यस्तस्तम्भं सहसा वि ज्मा अन्तान्बृहस्पतिस्त्रिषधस्था

nāḥ puro viprā dadhire mandrajihvam.*

Brhaspati, the sun, which, positioned in the midst of the three regions of earth, skies and heaven, sustains the earth and other planets to the ends with its force and its rays of light and gravitation;

Or, the Lord of mighty universe who is omnipresent in the worlds of earth, skies and the heavens of light and rules the universe to the ends of it with his omnipotence and Word of revelation;

Or, the ruler, who, self-established in knowledge, action, and prayer, rules the world to the ends of the earth with his power and word and force of law;

Or, the eminent scholar, who, master of the three realms of knowledge, Divinity, Prakrti, and the soul with the word of the Veda, rules the heart and intellect of the people to the ends of the earth with his knowledge that is power and his word:

Him, lord of sweet voice and vibrations of communication and gravitation, the ancient seers, shining since the first moments of human existence, vibrant with living knowledge and holy desire, sing, celebrate and advance in human consciousness.

2. Dhunetayah supraketam mandanto brhaspate aghi ye nastatasre. Pr̄ṣantam sr̄pramadabdhamūrvam br̄haspate rakṣatādasya yonim.

O Brhaspati, vibrant scholars and heroes are they who inspire the holy and brilliant man of knowledge and centres of advancement, and help us progress in culture and achievement. O lord of progress and advancement, protect and promote the home and profession of every such person and institution, creative, brilliant, fearless, and generous and extensive in possibilities.

3. Bṛhaspate yā paramā parāvadata ā ta rtasprśo ni ṣeduh. Tubhyam khātā avatā adridugdhā madhvah ścotantyabhito virapśam.

Brhaspati, far off and most high is your seat of majesty whence travel and ever abide your rays of light and Law which then touch the oceans of water to break them into vapours so that, like deep dug wells and clouds laden with milky showers of honey sweets, they pour down in abundant rain in your service for you and your people.

4. Bṛhaspatih prathamam jāyamāno maho jyotiṣah parame vyoman. Saptāsyas-tuvijāto ravena vi saptaraśmir-adhamat-tamāṁsi.

Brhaspati, the cosmic sun, first born of the supreme light of existence in the highest heaven, with seven mouths for consumption of materials and seven rays of light for creation of energy, born among many the mightiest, dispels the darknesses from the world with the thunder and lightning power of its majesty.

(So should the ruler and the scholar be in knowledge and power.)

5. Sa suṣṭubhā sa ṛkvatā gaṇena valam ruroja phaligam ravena. Brhaspatirusriyā havyasūdah kani-kradad vāvaśatīrudājat.

With a mighty jubilant roar of thunder and terrible shower of electric energy, Brhaspati breaks the crooked cloud, releases the showers, activates the production of food for holy offerings and wins the gratitude of the green earth, fertile cows and rejoicing humanity.

एवा पित्रे विश्वदेवाय वृष्णि यज्ञविधम् नमसा हुविभिः ।

6. Evā pitre viśvadevāya vṛṣṇe yajñairvidhema namasā havirbhiḥ. Brhaspate suprajā vīravanto vayam syāma patayo rayinām.

Thus do we, O lord Brhaspati, offer homage to the father, divine giver of light and rain showers, with food, and salutations, yajnas and oblations of fragrant havis, and we pray that we may be blest with noble and brave progeny, and we may be masters of the wealths of life.

He surely is ruler of the world who faces all the practical battles of life with his own strength and courage, and who holds in faith, honours and worships Brhaspati, lord supreme sustainer of the universe, most cherished and the first immanent lord of life.

स इति अधित् सुधित् आकस्मि स्व तस्मा इळा पिन्वत

8. *Sa itkseti sudhita okasi sve tasmā iḷā pinvate

Surely he dwells with peace and contentment in his own home, and him nature favours with all her gifts as her loving all-generous child, and to him all people spontaneously bow in reverence, whom Brahma, Lord Supreme as well as visionary of the Vedas, prime Spirit and prime person, favours and blesses as the brilliant ruler with the divine presence.

9. *Apratīto jayati sam dhanāni pratijanyānyuta yā

Unchallenged, unopposed, that ruler wins over and rules all the wealth and powers, assets and liabilities, whether they belong to the opposition or to his own supporters, who does honour and service to the holy man of Vedic knowledge, who feels he needs protection and support and offers worship and support to the lord omniscient and omnipotent in support of his people. Indeed all the nobilities of humanity and all powers of nature strengthen, support and protect that ruler as the man of God for all his people.

10. Indrasca somam pibatam bṛhaspate'smin yajñe mandsānā vr̄ṣaṇvasū. Ā vām viśantvindavah svābhavo'sme rayim sarvavīram ni yacchatam.

Brhaspati, master of the knowledge of omniscience, and Indra, lord ruler of the world, both rejoicing and giving showers of wealth and comfort to the people, drink the soma of bliss in this yajna of human excellence. O lords of glory in your own right, may the majesty and sublimity of divinity bless you both and may you create and give us the wealth and honour of a brave and perfect nation with a brave young generation.

11. Bṛhaspata indra vardhatam naḥ sacā sā vām sumatirbhūtvasme. Aviṣṭam dhiyo jigrtam puran dhīrajastamaryo vanuṣāmarātih.

Brhaspati and Indra, scholar teacher of science and Divinity, ruler of the world, lead us on to advancement, we pray, be with us as our own, and may your vision and wisdom be ours for ourselves. Inspire and protect our mind and soul, awaken our thought and action. Lord and master, kind and favourable, help us exhaust and eliminate our weaknesses, want and poverty, dedicated supplicants as we are.

Mandala 4/Sukta 51

Usha Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

इदमु त्यत्पुरुतमं पुरस्ताज्यातिस्तमसा वृयुनावदस्थात ।
नूनं द्विवा दुहितरा विभातीगातुं कृणव तुषसा जनाय ॥ १ ॥

1. Idamu tyat purutamam purastājjyotistamaso vayunāvadasthāt. Nūnam divo duhitaro vibhātīrgātum kṛṇavannuṣaso janāya.

Yonder in the east arises and shines that glorious light of the dawn revealing itself from the depths of night's darkness and inspiring us to wake up and see the light of knowledge. Surely daughters of heaven, the sublime lights of the dawn illuminate the earth for us to see the paths of the day's action.

अस्थुरु चित्रा उषसः पुरस्तान्मिताइव स्वरवा ध्वरषु ।

2. Asthuru citrā uṣasah purastān-mitā iva svaravo'-dhvareṣu. Vyū vrajasya tamaso dvārocchantīra-vrañ-chucayah pāvakāḥ.

The lights of the dawn, various wondrous, shine magnificent in the east like daughters of omniscience, bright and bold like flag posts of yajnas of the day, pure and purifying as flames of fire, opening the doors of light from the deep folds of the night's darkness.

उच्छन्तीरुद्य चितयन्त भाजानाधुदयोयाषसा॑ मुघानीः ।

3. Ucchantīradya citayanta bhojān rādhodeyā-yoṣaso maghonīḥ. Acitre antah paṇayaḥ sasantva-budhyamānās-tamaso vimadhye.

Brilliant and blissful magnificent lights of the dawn now in the early hours of the morning wake up and inspire liberal yajakas for the gifts of charity and performance of the morning yajna, while deep down in the folds of impenetrable darkness the slothful misers sleep on, unconscious, unaware and lost in the state of ignorance.

कुवित्स दर्वीः सुनया॒ नवा॑ वा॒ यामा॑ बभूयादुषसा॒ वा॒ अ॒द्य ।

4. Kuvitsa devīḥ sanayo navo vā yāmo babhū-yāduṣaso vo adya. Yenā navagve aṅgire daśagve saptāsyे revatī revadūṣa.

O divinities of the dawn, let that ancient chariot of yours which is ever new every morning be ever so great and magnificent by which, rich and luxurious in wealth and grace of beauty, you come and shine for your darling, dear as breath of life, who has nine cows or ten, i.e., earthly virtues, and seven mouths for consumption and many more for creation.

यूयं हि दर्वीत्रष्टयुग्मिरश्वः परिपयाथ भुवनानि सद्यः ।

5. Yūyam hi devīr-rtayugbhiraśvaiḥ pariprayātha bhuvanāni sadyah. Prabodhayantīruṣasah sasantam dvipāc-catuṣpāc-carathāya jīvam.

O divine lights of dawn, you always move over and across regions of the world by the rays of light travelling by the straight paths of truth and natural law across the oceans of space, waking up and inspiring the sleeping world of life, humans and animals, to rise and move for the day's activity.

क्रे स्वदासां कतुमा पुराणी यया विधाना विद्युत्त्रैभूणाम ।

6. Kva sivadāsāṁ katamā purānī yayā vidhānā vidadhur-ṛbhūṇām. Śubham yacchubhrā uṣasaścaranti na vi jñāyante sadṛśir-ajuryāḥ.

Where and which of these dawns is that ancient one by which the wonder works of the Rbus, miraculous artists and experts, were accomplished? Which one of these glorious dawns that go about so blissfully, all alike and unaging? No, not known.

ता घा ता भदा उषसः पुरासुरभिष्ठिद्युम्ना त्रहतजातसत्याः ।

7. Tā ghā tā bhadrā uṣasah purāsurabhiṣṭidyumna ṛtajātasatyāḥ. Yāsvījānah śaśamāna ukthaiḥ stuvañchaṁsan-dravīṇām sadya āpa.

For sure those were the dawns of ancient time, givers of abundant wealth of one's heart's desire, born of the law of Divinity, rooted in eternal truth and rectitude, in which the holy yajaka, worshipping the Divine with songs of praise and celebration, always and immediately achieved the wealth of his choice and desire. They are the same even now, the old ever new.

ता आ चरन्ति समना पुरस्तात्समानतः समना पंपथानाः ।

8. Tā ā caranti samanā purastāt samānataḥ samanā paprathānāḥ. Rtasya devīḥ sadaso budhānā gavāṁ na sargā uṣaso jarante.

They are the celestial lights of Divinity, part of cosmic dynamics, waking up the homesteads to activity and proceeding like streams of cows going to the pastures. Thus do the dawns arise, radiate, wake up life and celebrate the Divine. They rise and act the same way in the east since eternity, radiate equally the same way, illuminating the same way, eternal, ever new, old yet ever young.

ता ह वृक्षव समना समानीरमीतवणा उषसश्चरन्ति ।

9. Tā innveva samanā samānīr-amītavarnā uṣas-ścaranti. Gūhantīr-abhvamasitam ruśadbhiḥ śukrāstanūbhīḥ śucayo rucānāḥ.

Thus do the dawns, equal, alike, unobstructed and inviolable, radiate and roam around, covering the vast spatial darkness with light and vesting things with beautiful forms of their own by their catalytic rays of light and blaze, penetrating, pure, purifying, beautiful and edifying.

रूयिं दिवा दुहितरा विभातीः पजावन्तं यच्छतास्मासु दवीः ।

10. Rayim divo duhitaro vibhātīḥ prajāvantam yacchatāsmāsu devīḥ. Syonādā vah pratibudhya-mānāḥ suvīryasya patayah syāma.

O daughters of the light of heaven, angelic damsels of divinity, bear and bless us with the wealth of progeny so that, illuminative as you are, edified into a state of wakefulness and enlightenment through the peace and bliss of your love and beauty, we, awake and enlightened, may command a blessed force of warlike heroes.

तद्वा दिवा दुहितरा विभातीरुपं ब्रुव उषसा यज्ञकंतुः । वृयं

11. Tadvo divo duhitaro vibhātīrupa bruva uśaso yajñaketuh. Vayam syāma yaśaso janeṣu tad dyauśca dhattām pṛthivī ca devī.

O lights of dawn, daughters of the glory of heaven, brilliant, radiating and illuminative as you are, I sing of you as you are, symbol of cosmic yajna, and I pray we may be blest with the glory of divinity, splendour of humanity and the honour and wealth of excellence which the heaven and earth and the daughters of heaven and earth may bear and bring for us.

(Swami Dayananda extends the meaning of the dawns from ‘daughters of heaven’ to heavenly daughters of humanity’, enlightened women, makers of happy homes. A happy home is a very heaven, he says.)

Mandala 4/Sukta 52

(Swami Dayananda interprets the dawn literally as well as metaphorically: The dawn is not only the light of the morning, daughter of the sun, but also the light of the home, blessed and beautiful lady of the house who fills the home with light and virtue and inspires her beloved husband with love and bliss.)

Lord Savita, giver of abundant light and joy, is adorable for all of us, the lord who is now praised and worshipped day in and day out by the best of men and leaders of humanity, and who gives for the people abundant good fortune of the jewels of wealth just as he creates and gives the best and highest of wealth for us.

Savita, lord creator of life, you alone first of all create and inspire the immortal bliss of freedom, the highest gift of divinity for mankind, awarded to the devotees of yajna and divine worship, and then you alone reveal yourself and open up the treasures of divine gifts for the generous people followed by children who keep up the family tradition of piety.

Whatever our trespass whether out of ignorance, or helplessness, or pride, or arrogance, or sense of power, either among or toward the divine people, or the generous and brilliant, or even ordinary people, for that trespass, O lord Savita, giver of light and inspiration, give us the strength and inspiration to correct ourselves and be free from sin and evil here itself in this life we are human, after all.

Never shall the grandeur of divine Savita be violated and destroyed, grandeur by which he wields and shall ever wield the whole universe, by which he creates the wide expanse of the earth and the glory of high heaven whereon is seen the imprint of his fingers. That grandeur is ever true, imperishable.

Savita, O lord creator, you create the stars and forces great as the sun and cosmic energy, greater than the mighty mountains and the thunderous clouds, and you create the regions and orbits for these wherein they abide like home dwellers. And as these fly around and observe the cosmic law, so they abide for your honour and grandeur doing homage to your glory.

(So may our mother and father guide, protect and sustain us.) And we must not try, much less even feel, that we can hurt or compromise the high position and favour of Mitra, the friend, Varuna, senior guide and judge, and Agni, leader, fire and vital energy.

वृयं नाम प ब्रवामा घृतस्या स्मिन्यज्ञ धारयामा नमाभिः ।
उप ब्रह्मा शृणवच्छस्यमानं चतुःशृङ्गा वमीद्वार एतत ॥ २ ॥

2. Vayam nāma pra bravāmā ghṛtasyā'smin yajñe dhārayāmā namobhiḥ. Upa brahmā śṛṇavacchasyamānam catuhśrīngo'vamīd gaura etat.

The name and identity of that spirit of energy and immortality we sing and celebrate in divine words in this yajna, and, with reverence, surrender and self sacrifice, give it unto ourselves in the soul to hold on to it in life. May the Lord Omniscient so close to us hear it well chanted in celebration, the same Lord of Vak, the eternal Word, who commands the four Vedas as high peaks of knowledge and breathes out the same for us in revelation.

चृत्वारि शृङ्गा त्रया अस्य पादा द्व शीष सुप्त हस्तासा अस्य ।
त्रिधा बृद्धा वृषभा ररवीति महा दुवा मत्याँ आ विवश ॥ ३ ॥

3. Catvāri śṛṅgā trayo asya pādā dve śīrṣe sapta hastāso asya. Tridhā baddho vṛṣabho roravīti maho devo martyāñ ā viveśa.

Of this mighty self-refulgent Lord, Word and Dharma, four are the high peaks of light and self proclamation: Rgveda, Yajurveda, Samaveda and Atharva-veda; three legs on which it rests: jnana or knowledge, karma or action, and upasana or prayer; two heads: abhyudaya or worldly well being, and Nihshreyas or moksha or ultimate freedom; seven hands or the seven verse forms. Three way bound in faith, action and meditation, it is the thundervoice of Divinity which proclaims itself through the beauty, wonder and terror of nature and the music of the Veda. And this mighty presence of mighty self-refulgent Lord and the self-awareness of omniscience is enshrined in the heart of mortal humans.

4. Tridhā hitam panibhirguhyamānam gavi devāso ghṛtam anvavindan. Indra ekam sūrya ekam jajāna venādekaṁ svadhayā niṣṭatakṣuh.

Ghrta, the essence of the nature, purpose and science of life, three way hidden in mystic language and held by natural forces, the enlightened ones discover, create and produce: Indra, cosmic energy, electricity, thunder and lightning, holds and reflects one, the sun holds and radiates another, and the third they discover from their meditation on Divinity with their own vision and intelligence.

एता अषन्ति हृद्यात्समुद्राच्छतवजा रिपुणा नावच । धृतस्य

5. Etā arṣanti hṛdyātsamudrācchatavrajā ripuṇā nāvacakṣe. Ghṛtasya dhārā abhi cākaśīmi hiran-yayo vetaso madhya āsām.

These streams of light and life's energy flow in a hundred streams from the innermost depth of the heart-ocean, but not perceptible to the negative soul. Residing in the golden grove, myself wrapped in golden hue in their midst, I watch the light all round, the gold and the essence of life.

6. Samyak sravanti sarito na dhenā antarhṛdā manasā pūyamānāḥ. Ete arṣantyūrmayo ghṛtasya mṛgā iva kṣipanorīṣamānāḥ.

These streams of light and life flow like vibrations of the voice divine, purified and sanctified by the innermost soul of the heart and mind. The streams of ghrta, joy of life, flow like deer flying from the hunter's arrows towards the shelter of the divine saviour.

सिन्धारिव पाध्वन शूघ्नासा वातप्रमियः पतयन्ति यह्वाः ।

7. Sindhoriwa prādhvane śūghanāso vātaprāmiyah patayanti yahvāḥ. Ghṛtasya dhārā aruṣo na vājī kāṣṭhā bhindannūrmibhiḥ pinvamānah.

The streams of ghrta, life's energy, flow on to join the sea like strong currents of a river rushing on in tumult by simple, straight and holy paths of the bed carved by Divinity, and I, inspired by the waves of ghrta, like a fiery stallion flying, breaking the bounds of world pressures all round by the force of inner vibrations, move on to my divine destination.

8. Abhi pravanta samaneva yosāḥ kalyānyah smaya-mānāso agnim. Gṛtasya dhārāḥ samidho nasanta tā jusāṇo haryati jātavedāḥ.

As youthful ladies of love and virtue, inspired with passion and smiling in bliss, proceed to meet agni, enlightened husband, so do streams of ghrta move and flow into the vedi to meet the lighted fire, and the rising fire, loving and gracious, cherishes to receive the flow of the holy yajaka's offer.

कृन्याह्व वहृतुमत्वा उ अञ्ज्यञ्जाना अभि चाकशीमि ।

9. Kanyā iva vahatumetavā u añjyañjānā abhi cāka-sīmi. Yatra somah sūyate yatra yajño ghṛtasya dhārā abhi tatpavante.

Where the yajna of holy action and meditation is enacted and the bliss of divine soma is created, there I see all round the flow of the streams of consciousness into that vedi of divine fire wherein, like a maiden in all her beauty, finery and perfume proceeding to meet her bridegroom at the wedding yajna, the individual soul flies and is accepted and sanctified in the supreme spirit of Divinity.

अभ्यष्टुतिं गव्यमाजिमस्मासु भदा दविणानि धत्त ।

10. Abhyarsata sushtutim gavyam-ājim-asmāsu bhadrā dravināni dhatta. Imam yajñam nayata devatā no ghṛtasya dhārā madhumat-pavante.

Let the voice of holy praise and divine celebration rise and resound, O saints and sages and scholars of eminence, bear and bring us the light of knowledge enshrined in holy speech, lead us to honour, excellence and victory, and help us create wealth for the world leading all to the bliss of peace and common good. Guide, lead and direct this yajna of ours, the streams of honeyed ghrta flow for the fire divine.

धामन्त विश्वं भुवनमधि श्रितमन्तः समुद हृद्यन्तरायुषि ।

O Lord, within your presence by your power is sustained the entire world of existence. That same power and presence vibrates in the depths of the oceans, in the cave of the heart, in the breath of life and age, in the waves of water and energy, in the vibrations of thought, and in the heat of action in nature and humanity. That power and presence vibrating in existence, O Lord, we pray, let us realise. Let us flow with that constant flow of vibration of Divinity in and across the fluctuations of mutability.

MANDALA 5

Mandala 5/Sukta 1

Agni Devata, Budha-Gavishthara of Atreya Family Rshis

अबाध्यग्निः समिधा जनानां पति धनुमिवायुतीमुषासम् ।
युह्वाइव प वयामुज्जिहानाः प भानवः सिस्रत् नाक-मच्छृ॥ १ ॥

1. Abodhyagnih samidhā janānām prati dhenumi-vāyatūmuśāsam. Yahvā iva pra vayāmujjhānāḥ pra bhānahah sisrate nākamaccha.

Agni is seen and known while rising by the burning samidhas lighted by the yajakas at dawn coming up like a cow early in the morning, and the flames, like branches of a mighty tree, rise brilliantly and touch the sky where there is no pain, no darkness.

अबाधि हातो यजथाय द्रवानुध्वा अग्निः सुमनाः पातरस्थात ।
समिद्धस्य रुशददशि पाजो महान्दवस्तमसा निरमाचि ॥ २ ॥

2. Abodhi hotā yajathāya devānūrdhvo agnih sumanāḥ prātarasthāt. Samiddhasya ruśadarśi pājo mahān devastamaso niramoci.

The yajaka Agni, good at heart, is seen to invoke the divinities and noble sages to the yajna and rises high while the fire keeps burning and rising. The light of the burning fire is seen as a blissful divine power and then the great resplendent sun rises from the night's darkness.

यदींगणस्य रशनामजीगः शुचिरङ्ग् शुचिभिगाभिरुग्निः ।
आद्विणा युज्यत वाज्यन्त्युत्तानामुध्वा अध्यजुहूभिः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Yadīm gaṇasya raśanāmajīgah śuciraṅkte śucibhirgobhiragnih. Āddakṣinā yujyate vājanya-nyuttānāmūrdhvo adhayajjuhūbhīḥ.

When the pure and lustrous fire of yajna, as the sun, rises with its pure bright flames and takes over the reins of the conduct of the yajnic world around, then the invigorating and powerful dakshina offering is made with the ladles, the flames of fire rise high, and the fire higher and higher up voraciously consumes the offering.

4. Aghimacchā devayatām manāmsi cakṣūṁśīva sūrye sam̄ caranti. Yadīm suvāte uṣasā virūpe śveto vājī jāyate agre ahnām.

The minds of holy celebrants of Divinity turn intently to Agni as their eyes wait for and turn to the rising sun. And when the heaven and earth, both different of form, one bright and the other dark and green, bring forth this Agni at the rise of the dawn, day light appears and the world grows bright.

जनिष्ट हि जन्या अग् अह्नां हिताहितवृष्टा वनषु ।

5. Janiṣṭa hi jenyo agre ahnām hito hitesvaruṣo vaneṣu. Damedame sapta ratnā dadhāno'gnirhotā ni ṣasādā yajītyān.

Arises Agni, victorious yajaka, the fire and the sun, for sure in advance of the day every morning, benevolent, active in everything good and holy, bright in the woods and every home, bearing sevenfold jewels of light and flame, and then settles in yajnic business, carrying the yajna on and on. The yajna must go on.

6. Agnirhotā nyasīdadyajītyānupasthe mātuḥ surabha u loke. Yuvā kavīḥ puruniḥṣṭha rtāvā dhartā krṣṭināmuta madhya iddhah.

Agni, host and performer of yajna, settles in the lap of the mother, earth and nature, in the beautiful fragrant world and its people, conducting the yajnic business of life which must go on. Young and bold, bright, intelligent and creative, imaginative as a poet, dedicated to all without exception, committed to truth and the law divine, sustainer and controller of the people, he goes on at the centre of everything, bright and blazing, never relenting, never slackening. The yajna must go on.

7. Pra ḡnu tyam vipramadhvareṣu sādhumagnim hotāramīḍate namobhiḥ. Ā yastatāna rodasi rtena nityam mrjanti vājinam gṛtena.

Ever and onward, with food, surrender and service in faith, people light, praise and worship that Agni, wise and vibrating, excellent in the accomplishment of yajnic projects, host, priest and organiser of life's business, who pervades heaven and earth with light and fragrance and blesses the people with enlightenment. Daily they renew their dedication and commitment with vows of truth, feed the power with ghrta, and refine the light and power to shine it more and more.

8. Mārjālyo mrjyate sve damūnāḥ kavipraśasto atithih śivo nah. Sahasraśrīngo vṛṣab hastadojā viśvāñ agne sahasā prāsyanyān.

Agni, pure and purifying catalytic power, is refined in itself. Self-controlled and a powerful controller, sung and celebrated by poets, it is a welcome guest, auspicious and beneficent for all of us as a breeze of peace and freshness. Agni, O light of a thousand flames of eminence, generous as cloud showers, blazing lustrous, you are the pioneer, overtaking, conquering, and leading all others forward with your power and force.

9. Pra sadyo agne atyeṣyanyānāviryasmai cāru-tamo babhūtha. İlenyo vapuṣyo vibhāvā priyo viśāma-tithirmānuṣīṇām.

Agni, lord of light and power, for whosoever you rise on the vedi, light up in the home, or shine in flame in the cave of the heart most lovely and gracious, for him you excel and surpass everything else instantly and forever: adorable, sublime, effulgent, dearest and most welcome guest of all communities and habitations of men and women.

10. Tubhyam bharanti kṣitayo yavishtha balimagne antita ota dūrāt. Ā bhandiṣṭhasya sumatim cikiddhi brhatte agne mahi śarma bhadram.

Agni, most youthful power and presence, devoted people from far and near bear and bring and offer homage and yajaka to you. Listen, know and accept the praise and prayer of the celebrant. May your shelter and protection for us be wide and great, full of peace and well being.

11. Ādya ratham bhānumo bhānumantamagne tiṣṭha yajatebhīḥ samantam. Vidvān pathinām-urvanta-rikṣameha devān haviradyāya vakṣi.

Agni, resplendent lord of knowledge, ascend your strong and brilliant chariot of light today with your adorable powers and associates, and across the wide paths of space bring here the nobilities of eminence of your alliance for joining and sharing our feast of yajnic offerings to the divinities.

अवाचाम कुवय मध्याय वचा वन्दारु वृषभाय वृष्ण ।

12. Avocāma kavaye medhyāya vaco vandāru vṛṣa-bhāya vṛṣne. Gaviṣṭhiro namaśā stomamagnau divīva rukmamuruvyañcamaśret.

We sing this song of adoration in honour of the lord of light and knowledge, holy, potent, and generous. The holy yajaka dedicated to sacred speech and light of heaven, thus, ought to direct his beautiful song of praise and prayer with oblations and salutations rising high to the skies as to the sun in heaven.

Mandala 5/Sukta 2

Agni Devata, Kumara Atreya or Vrsha Jana or both Rshis

कुमारं माता युवतिः समुद्धूं गुहा बिभति न ददाति पित्र ।
अनीकमस्य न मिनज्जनासः पुरः पश्यन्ति निहित-मरूता ॥ १ ॥

1. Kumāram mātā yuvatih samubdham guhā bibharti na dadāti pitre. Anīkamasya na minajjanāsaḥ puraḥ paśyanti nihitamaratau.

The youthful mother bears and supports the foetus concealed in the womb, she does not, cannot, give it to the father in the state of immaturity. People cannot hurt its strength and vitality hidden in secret. But when it is born, they see its beauty and vitality before their eyes.

कमूतं त्वं युवत कुमारं पषी बिभषि महिषी जजान ।

2. Kametam tvam yuvate kumāram peṣī bibharṣi mahiṣī jajāna. Pūrvīhi garbhah śarado vavar-dhā'paśyam jātam yadasūta mātā.

O youthful lady, sweet is this baby you carry which the consecrated mother bore. I saw the foetus grow and grow for many many years many times before. And I see it born of the mother when she delivered it.

हिरण्यदन्तं शुचिवणमारात त्रादपश्यमायुधा मिमानम ।

3. Hiranyadantam śucivarnam-ārāt-kṣetrādapaśya-māyudhā mimānam. Dadāno asmā amṛtam viprkvatkīm māmanindrāḥ kṛṇavannanukthāḥ.

I see him born of the mother's womb far and near with a golden spoon in his month, pure and bright of form, wielding his weapons of essential potential. And I give him the feed of immortal elixir for life. What can those deny Indra, the soul? What can those who reject knowledge and celebration of Divinity do against me? Nothing.

त्रादपश्यं सनुतश्चरन्तं सुमद्युथं न पुरु शाभमानम ।

4. Kṣetrādapaśyam sanutaścarantam sumadyu-tham na puru śobhamānam. Na tā agṛbhann-ajaniṣṭa hi ṣah paliknīr-id-yuvatayo bhavanti.

I see him born of the mother, mother earth and Mother Nature, see him roaming around since eternity by himself like an army on the march, commanding great beauty and grace. When he is born they hold him not, withhold him not, they cannot, and the young mothers, having given him birth, grow old and grey haired, and then they grow youthful again.

5. Ke me maryakam̄ vi yavanta gobhirna yeśām̄ gopā aranaścidāsa. Ya īṁ jagrbhurava te srjantvājāti paśva upa naścikityān.

Who can take away my wealth alongwith my lands and cows, sense and mind, feeling as if they are the cowherd stealing away my bull alongwith the cows, when in fact Agni himself is their protector and energiser? And those who try to grab them must despair and give up since the lord omniscient continues to protect, create and recreate the human wealth.

बसां राजानं वसुतिं जनानामरातया नि दधुमत्यंषु ।

6. Vasām̄ rājānam̄ vasatim̄ janānāmarātayo ni ddhurmartyeṣu. Brahmāṇyatrerava tam̄ srjantu ninditāro nindyāso bhavantu.

The law and order of humanity and the human habitations, negative forces try to obstruct and sabotage in the communities among themselves. But the power, potential and intelligence of Atri, enlightened people free from physical, mental and spiritual fears and limitations deflate that negative effort and the saboteurs themselves become self-condemned.

7. Śunaścicche pām nidi tam sahasrād yūpāda-muñco aśamiṣṭa hi śah. Evāsmadagne vi mu mu-gdhi pāśān hotaścikitva iha tū niṣadya.

Agni, O lord of light and ruler of the world, you save even shunah-shepa, the connoisseur lost in senses, reviled and condemned; you save him from a thousand snares of the world so that the man settles back in peace of mind. Same way, O lord and light of the world, come, O highpriest of the yajna of life, grace our yajna here and snap the snares of suffering and slavery off our body, mind and soul.

हृणीयमाना अप् हि मदयः प म् द्रवानां वत्पा उवाच ।

8. Hṛṇīyamāno apa hi madaiyeh pra me devānām vratapā uvāca. Indro vidvān anu hi tvā cacakṣa tenāhamagne anuṣiṣṭa āgām.

The observer of the laws of righteousness and divinity says: Let the element of hate and anger be away from me. Indra, man of knowledge and power, who knows and speaks of you, O Agni, destroyer of the pollution and impurity of body, mind and soul, has spoken to me and, instructed by him, I come to you in search of purity and purgation.

वि ज्यातिषा बृहता भात्यग्निराविविश्वानि कृणुत महित्वा ।

9. Vi jyotiṣā bṛhatā bhātyagnirāvirviśvāni kṛṇute mahitvā. Pradevīrmāyāḥ sahate durevāḥ śisīte śṛṅge rakṣase vinikṣe.

Agni shines and blazes expansively with mighty rising flames of light, and with its lustre and power illuminates and reveals all things of the world. It sharpens and extends its arms of light and power for the destruction of evil and challenges and throws out the strength and wiles and acts of the clever forces of negation and destruction.

उत स्वानासा दिवि षन्त्वग्रस्तिगमायुधा र ईसु हन्तवा उ।

10. Uta svānāso divi ṣantvagnes-tigmāyudhā rakṣase hantavā u . Made cidasya pra rujanti bhāmā na varante paribādho adevīh.

And let the blazing weapons of fire roaring in the heights of the skies be raised for the destruction of evil forces, for as they strike for the joy and victory of life's positive forces as the very flames of terror, the obstructive forces of evil would fail to avert or oppose them.

एतं तु स्तामं तुविजात् विपा रथं न धीरः स्वपा अत ाम ।

11. Etam te stomam tuvijāta vipro ratham na dhīrah svapā atakṣam. Yadīdagne prati tvam̄ deva haryāḥ svarvatīrapa enā jayema.

Agni, light and power divine among the strong and wise, I, dedicated to knowledge and service, bold and patient, keen to do good in word and action, structure this song of celebration like a skillful engineer designing and making a chariot for you. O lord resplendent, if you are kind and gracious to accept it, then by the same song we would win sweet and heavenly waters of life, light and energy for the joy of life.

Agni, strong and graceful power and flame, roaring as a bull and generous as cloud showers, growing and promoting, free from enemies, master ruler and sustainer, creates and bestows wealth and power of the noblest kind: Thus do men of spiritual vision and divine wisdom celebrate this Agni in holy words. May Agni bless the man of generosity and self sacrifice, man of thought and discrimination, with a happy and peaceful life, holy family and a happy home.

Mandala 5/Sukta 3

Agni Devata, Vasushruta Atreya Rshi

1. Tvamagne varuno jāyaso yat tvam mitro bhavasi yatsamiddhaḥ. Tve viśve sahasasputra devā stvamidro dāśuṣe martyāya.

Agni, flaming fire, light of knowledge and power of the world, when you are born, you shine like Varuna, light of the dawn and spirit of justice and discrimination in mankind. When you are in full blaze of your glory, you are like Mitra, bright sun, friend of all. In you reside and abide all the powers of nature's divinity, O child of omnipotence, and you are Indra, giver of honour and excellence for the man of charity and generosity.

2. Tvamaryamā bhavasi yat kanīnāṁ nāma sva-dhāvan guhyam bibharṣi. Añjanti mitram sudhitam na gobhiryaddampatī samanasā kṛṇoṣi.

Agni, lord of energy and living vitality, when you bear the mysterious name of youth among men and women, you become Aryama and assume the role of a judge with discrimination. When you join man and woman in wedlock, with equal love of mind and heart, they celebrate you with holy words and hospitality with cow's milk and butter.

3. Tava śriye maruto marjayanta rudra yatte janima cāru citram. Padam yadvishnorupam nidhāyi tena pāsi guhyam nāma gonām.

Agni, you are Rudra, lord of justice and dispensation. For your honour and excellence vibrant people come to you and anoint you and glorify the beautiful and wonderful name that is yours. The office of Vishnu, protector and sustainer, is vested in you, by that you protect and maintain the secret name and identity of the lights of stars.

4. Tava śriyā sudrśo deva devāḥ purū dadhānā amṛtam sapanta. Hotāramagnim manuṣo ni ṣedurdaśasyanta uśijah śāmsamāyoh.

O lord of light and generosity, ruler of the world, by virtue of your light, honour and grace, brilliant scholars of vision, commanding wide powers and immortal knowledge, and the people in general, loving and desiring admirable wealth and beauty of life, establish, serve and expand the fire of various forms of yajna of social and scientific projects, in your honour, holy yajaka and giver of life's benefits.

5. Na tvaddhotā pūrvo agne yajīyān na kāvyaiḥ paro asti svadhāvah. Viśaśca yasyā atithirbha-vāsi sa yajñena vanavad-deva martān.

Agni, there never is a generous giver and yajnic performer before you, nor is there any one higher celebrated by poets in hymns, lord of your own essential wealth and power as you are, worthy of homage. Lord of light and generosity, whoever the host where you are invoked and invited as yajnic deity, you bless the people by the yajna with fulfilment.

6. Vayamagne vanuyāma tvotā vasūyavo haviṣā budhyamānāḥ. Vayaṁ samarye vidatheśvahnāṁ vayaṁ rāyā sahasasputra martān.

Agni, lord resplendent ruler of the world, may we grow and prosper, we pray, under your protection, searching for wealth, raising the fire with havi offerings and ourselves rising in wealth and knowledge with the yajna. Let us win in life's contests, in yajnas, day by day, O child of strength and protector of power and valour, and let us be blest with children and grand children.

7. Yo na āgo abhyeno bharātyadhīdaghamagha-śāmse dadhāta. Jahī cikitvo abhiśastimetā-magne yo no marcayati dvayena.

Whoever commits sin and crime against us, may Agni, lord ruler and dispenser of justice, turn that sin and crime upon the sinner and calumniator. May the lord of light and knowledge, Agni, silence that imprecation, whoever be the person that hurts us with double dealing, sin and scandal.

8. Tvāmasyā vyuṣi deva pūrve dūtam kṛṇvānā ayajanta havyaiḥ. Saṁsthe yadagna īyase rayināṁ devo martair-vasubhir-idhyamānāḥ.

Agni, refulgent power of light and generosity settled in the midst of this people, yajakas ever since time immemorial honouring you as harbinger of nature's wealth join you and adore you in yajna with oblations of havi. And when you join them and settle in their midst then, raised and fed by the people on fragrant materials, you rise in flames as brilliant lord giver of the wealth of life.

9. Ava sprdhi pitaram yodhi vidvān-putro yaste sahasah sūna ūhe. Kadā ceditvo abhi cakṣase no'gne kadāñ rtacidyātayāse.

Agni, born of omnipotence, I think of you, meditate on you: You are the saviour from suffering and mortality as a child is for the parent. You are the scholar of science, visionary of existence and observer of the eternal laws of Dharma. Emulate, excel and save the parent, the protector and the yajaka who lights you in the vedi, fight out and eliminate suffering, sufferance, evil and destruction. Pray when would your eye of grace favour us? When would you inspire us and show the path of rectitude to guide us?

10. Bhūri nāma vandamāno dadhāti pitā vaso yadi tajjosayāse. Kuviddevasya sahasā cakānah sumnam-agnir-vanate vāvṛdhānah.

O shelter home of life, Agni, father and sustainer of living beings as you are, the worshipper adores you by many names which adoration if you accept and acknowledge with pleasure then the worshipper, loving, adoring and growing like fire by the light and power of the generous lord, creates joy and well being for himself, and Agni too, loving and favouring the adorer by his own divine knowledge and power, waxing with love and kindness, bestows the joy and well being of life upon the supplicant.

11. Tvamaṅga jaritāram yaviṣṭha viśvānyagne duritāti parṣi. Stenā adrśranripavo janāso-jñātaketā vṛjinā abhūvan.

Dearest ruler of the earth, most youthful power of the world, Agni, save the celebrant, purge the supplicant of all the evil and sufferings of the world: thieves are seen prowling around, enemies lying in wait, ignorant people lying in hidden corners, all following crooked ways, flags flying.

12. *Ime yāmāsas-tvadrig-abhūvan vasave vā tadi-*dāgo avāci. Nāhāyam-agnir-abhiśastaye no na rīṣate vāvṛdhānah parā dāt.

These celebrants and supplicants observing the law divine are dedicated to you, O lord Agni. Also, whatever their weakness or trespass, that too has been confessed to the lord protector and sustainer. We pray may this Agni, lord omniscient and omnipotent, increasingly pleased and gracious, never forsake us and never deliver us unto the maligner or the injurer or the evil of failure and disaster.

Agni, lord ruler commanding knowledge of the world of existence, constantly supported by relentless active assistants, as a sailor helps travellers to cross the sea by boat, so do you, we pray, help us cross the most difficult obstacles of the world. ### Mandala 5/Sukta 6

अग्निं तं मन्यु या वसुरस्तं चं यन्ति धूनवः । अस्तुमवन्त
आशवा स्तं नित्यासा वाजिन् इषं स्तातृभ्यु आ भर ॥ १ ॥

1. Agnim tam manye yo vasurastam yam yanti dhenavah. Astamarvanta āśavo'stām nityāso vājina iṣām stotrbhya ā bhara.

Agni is that power and presence of energy, I believe, which pervades everything and in which and by which all things abide and function. The cows abide in it, move by it and end up into it. Horses abide in it, move by it and end into it. So do all fast moving streams and objects, permanent forms, and all forms of energy move by it and retire into it. O scholar of Agni, universal energy, produce and bring up food and energy for the celebrants and supplicants for Agni. This energy is originally set in motion by Agni, the Cosmic omnipotent Spirit. (In the mantra agni is described as astam, i.e.,

सा अग्निया वसुर्गृण सं यमायन्ति धुनवः । समवन्त्ता रघुद्रुवः
सं सुजातासः सूरय इषं स्तातृभ्य आ भर ॥ २ ॥

2. *So agniryo vasurgrne sam̄ yamāyanti dhenavah.
Samarvanto raghudruvah sam̄ sujātāsaḥ sūraya iṣam̄ stotrbhya ā bhara.*

That is Agni which is the abiding power, pervasive and moving force, and that is what I study and celebrate. The cows and horses, stars and planets and the rays of light, and sound and word come from, move by and go unto it, from which and into which and by which the slow moving ones move and function; and by which and toward which brave and eminent scholars rise to fame and create and produce the wealth of food and energy for the celebrants and supplicants.

अग्निहि वाजिनं विश ददाति विश्वचर्षणिः । अग्नी राय

3. Agnirhi vājinam̄ više dadāti viśvacarṣaṇih. Agnī rāye svābhuvam̄ sa prīto yāti vāryamiṣam̄ stotrbhya ā bhara.

Agni, light and energy of existence, alone provides fast modes of transport for the people. Studied and developed for wealth, Agni provides automatic and self-sustaining energy for the people. O scholar scientist, create and bring choice foods and energies for the celebrants and supplicants.

आ तं अग्ने इधीमहि द्युमन्तं दवाजरम् । यद्भु स्या तं पनीयसी

4. Ā te agna idhīmahi dyumantam̄ devājaram.
Yaddha syā te panīyasī samiddīdayati dyavīṣam̄
stotrbhya ā bhara.

Let us kindle you, light and fire of life, generous divinity, resplendent and unaging so that the wonderfully admirable light of your blaze shines in heaven and you bring food and energy for the celebrants.

आ तं अग्ने ऋचा हृविः शुकस्य शाचिषस्पत । सुश्चन्द्रु

5. Ā te agna ṛcā haviḥ śukrasya śociṣaspate.
Suścandra dasma viśpate havyavāṭ tubhyam̄ hūtaya iṣam̄ stotrbhya ā bhara.

Agni, light of life, lord of power, purity and splendour, golden beautiful, generous, sustainer of the people and carrier of fragrant oblations across the spaces, fragrant offers are made to you with the chant of holy verses in praise of your identity, attributes and functions. Generous creative power, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

पा त्य अग्नया ग्रिषु विश्वं पुष्यन्ति वायम् । त हिन्विर् त

6. Pro tye agnayo'gnisu viśvam̄ puṣyanti vāryam.
Te hinviṛe ta inviṛe ta iṣāṇyantyānuṣag-iṣam̄- stotrbhya ā bhara.

Those radiations of your energy into other forms of energies feed, invigorate and develop the wealth and growth of life in existence. They inspire, impel and collect, they expel, expand and organise, and thus they animate the circuitous dynamics of centripetal and centrifugal forces in systemic unison of the universe. O living power, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

तव् त्य अग्ने अचया महि वाधन्त वाजिनः । य पत्वभिः

7. *Tava tye agne arcayo mahi vrādhanta vājinaḥ.
Ye patvabhiḥ śaphānām vrajā bhuranta gonām-iṣām stotrbhya ā bhara.*

Agni, O mighty power of the universe, those mighty radiations of your flames of energy feed and animate all objects into motion in space and they, with the radiating waves of your power, energise, expand and hold in poise the orbits of motions for the stars, planets and the galaxies. O mighty power, create and hold the food and energy of life and bless the celebrants.

नवा ना अग्ने आ भर स्तातृभ्यः सुक्षितीरिषः । त स्याम् य

8. *Navā no agna ā bhara stotrbhyah sukṣitīriṣah.
Te syāma ya ānṛcas-tvādūtāso damedama iṣām stotrbhya ā bhara.*

Agni, mighty power and light of knowledge, bring us new forms of food and energy and give us new revelations of blissful earths and stars in existence. And we pray, may we, who worship and celebrate you, be your messengers in every home. O lord, bring us the food and energy of life and light of knowledge ever new for us, your celebrants and supplicants.

उभ सुश्चन्द सपिषा दवीं श्रीणीष आसनि । उता न उत्पुप्या

9. Ubhe suścandra sarpriṣo darvī śrīṇīṣa āsani. Utona ut papūryā uktheṣu śavasaspata iṣam stotrbhya ā bhara.

Agni, mighty lord of golden glory in form, creator and wielder of universal energy, you catalyse two ladlefuls of liquid fuel in your crucible for impulsion and expulsion in cosmic metabolism. Thus, O lord, fulfil us too in holy tasks of yajna and create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

एवां अग्निमज्जयमुगीभियज्ञभिरानुषक । दधेदुस्म सुवीयमुत

10. Evāñ agnim-ajur-yamur-gīrbhir-yajñe bhir-ānuṣak. Dadhadasme suvīryamuta tyadāśvaśvyamīṣam stotrbhya ā bhara.

Thus do the celebrants and supplicants positively dedicated to Agni study and apply natural energy for practical purposes by holy speech and yajnic structures of research and experimentation, so that agni may hold and bring us lustrous strength and dynamic energy of electric speed and success.

O lord of power and energy, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

Mandala 5/Sukta 7

Agni Devata, Isha Atreya Rshi

1. Sakhāyah sam vah samyañcamisaṁ stomam cāgnaye. Varṣiṣṭhāya kṣitīnāmūrjo naptre sahasvate.

O friends, all your food and energy well collected and all your song of description and celebration is for Agni and is dedicated to Agni, lord giver of light and energy, highest of the powers and abodes in the universe, power manifest in divine manifestations of energy and the power omnipotent over all.

कुत्रा चिद्यस्य समृता रुप्वा नरो नृषदन् ।

2. Kutrā cidyasya samṛtau ranvā naro nr̄sadane. Arhantaścidyamindhate samjanayanti jantavah.

Where is that Agni on whose revelation and arrival in the home-steeds of humanity, people, the best and highest of them, rejoice? which scholars and sages light and raise? and which even the least of living beings generate?

3. Sam yadiṣo vanāmahe sam havyā mānuṣāñām. Uta dyumnasya śavasa ṛatasya raśmimā dade.

When we join together and pray for foods and energy forms, and the oblations of holy materials into the fire for the good of humanity rise in fragrance, then Agni with its power takes over the reins of rain showers and abundance of wealth and well being.

4. *Sa smā kr̄noti ketumā naktam ciddūra ā sate.
Pāvako yad-vanaspatīn pra smā minātyajarah.*

He, the power unaging, pure and purifying, gives signals of his light and guidance even for those who are far away when he leaves behind the night and rides the waves of light over the tops of trees.

अव स्म यस्य वर्षण स्वदं प्रथिषु जुह्वति ।

5. *Ava sma yasya veṣane svedam̄ pathiṣu juhvati.
Abhīmaha svajenyam̄ bhūmā pr̄ṣṭheva ruruhuh.*

On whose rise, as the sun's, and in whose service people shed the sweat of their brow in pursuit of the paths of life, to that Agni and the sun, the entire people of the earth look up and rise as children rise on the back of the parent.

यं मत्यः पुरुस्पृहं विद्विश्वस्य धायस ।

6. Yam̄ martyah puruspr̄ham̄ vidadvīsvasya dhā-yase. Pra svādanam̄ pitūnām-astatātim̄ cidāyave.

For the service of Agni, unaging sustainer of the world, let mortal man know and attain to Agni, favourite love of all, because Agni is supreme among the pleasures of life and Agni is the ultimate home of living beings, in fact, of everything in existence.

स हि ष्मा धन्वांति दाता न दात्या पशुः ।

7. *Sa hi ṣmā dhanvākṣitam dātā na dātyā paśuh.
Hiriśmaśruḥ śucidannṛbhuranibhṛṣṭataviṣih.*

Like a generous man with a golden beard and pure white teeth, Agni, wise and expert with his forces intact, his effulgence undiminished, watches all and, like a liberal giver, gives to the dedicated supplicant a dwelling in the skies.

शुचिः प्य यस्मा अत्रिवत्प स्वधितीव रीयते ।

8. *Śuciḥ ṣma yasmā atrivat pra svadhitīva rīyate.
Suṣūrasūta mātā krāṇā yadānaše bhagam.*

For him, i.e., the supplicant yajaka, the man free from threefold suffering of body, mind and soul, Agni, bright and pure, releases the honour and splendour of life like currents of thunder power, which mother nature spontaneously generates for him and which flows to him incessantly.

आ यस्त सपिरासुत ग्र शमस्ति धायस ।

9. *Ā yaste sarpirāsute'gne śamasti dhāyase.
Aiṣu dyumnam-uta śrava ā cittam martyeṣu dhāḥ.*

Agni, lord of light, giver of peace and power, when the ghrta has been offered into the fire and the flames arise, then let there be a shower of peace for the bearer of oblations, your gift for the yajaka. O lord, bear and bring wealth of honour and excellence, food and energy, and a noble mind with wisdom and vision and vest the same in these dedicated people.

इति चिन्मन्युमधिजस्त्वादात्मा पशुं ददे । आदग्ने अपृणता त्रिः सासह्याद्दस्यूनिषः सासह्या दून ॥ १० ॥

10. Iti cinmanyum-adhrijas-tvādātamā paśum dade. Ādagne aprṇato 'triḥ sāsahyād-dasyūn-iṣah sāsahyān-nṛn.

This is the song of praise and prayer, O lord, Agni, giver of light, peace and power. Born among the dedicated aspirants, I accept the gift of peace and passion, power and property and cattle wealth. Let man be Atri, free from threefold suffering of body, mind and soul. Let man challenge the ungenerous and fight out the impending dangers, human as well as natural, and hold on to noble men and aspirations.

Mandala 5/Sukta 8

Agni Devata, Isha Atreya Rshi

त्वामग्ने ऋत्यायवः समीधिर पत्नं पत्नास ऊतय सहस्कृत ।
पुरुश्चन्द्रन्दं यजुतं विश्वधायसुं दमूनसं गृहपतिं वरण्यम ॥ १ ॥

1. Tvāmagine ṛtāyavah samīdhire pratnam pratnāsa ūtaye sahaskrta. Puruścandram yajatam viśvadhāyasam damūanasam grhapatim varenyam.

You, light of the world, life of life, Agni, the lovers of Truth and universal law dedicated to yajna since time immemorial kindle and install in the home for protection and progress: Agni, ancient and eternal born of omnipotence, golden glorious, worthy of reverence, sustainer of the universe, self-controlled and abiding in divine law, head of human family, chosen and worthy of choice.

(Swami Dayananda applies this hymn by implication and extension to home life and the homely fire yajna, of which the head and yajamana is the married couple. Agni, further, may be interpreted as the head of a state and of the world government elected and anointed by common consent.)

त्वामग्नु अतिथिं पूर्व्यं विशः शाचिष्कशं गृहपतिं नि षदिर।

Agni, light of life, people have enshrined and consecrated you in their heart and home: Agni, a welcome guest on the rounds, ancient presence with flames of fire for locks of hair, master of the home, high beacon of light, pervasive in all forms of the world, creator, lover and giver of wealth, neatly settled in homes, commanding noble and sure modes of protection and progress, pure, cleansed and free from hate and poisonous enmity.

Agni, human communities all adore you enshrined in the heart, knower of the yajakas and the delicacies of yajna, discriminator between right and wrong, positive and negative, good and evil, highest treasurehold of the jewels of wealth, gracious and glorious with honour and excellence, light of the universe, loud and bold in universal service, directly accessible in yajna and rising in flames by ghrta.

4. Tvāmagne dharṇasim viśvadhā vayam gīrbhirgṛnanto namasopa sedima. Sa no juṣasva samidhāno aṅgiro devo martasya yaśasā sudītibhiḥ.

Agni, lord of light and sustainer of the world, celebrating you in many ways with holy songs of praise and prayer, we sit by you with reverence, with offers of oblations in the holy fire. O lord Angira, pervasive in every particle of the universe, bright and generous, kindled and rising in flames by the mortals' offers of havi, be gracious, accept our homage and bless us with honour and excellence in life.

5. Tvamagne pururūpo viśeviše vayo dadhāsi pratnathā puruṣṭuta. Puruṇyannā sahasā vi rājasī tviṣih sā te titviṣāṇasya nādhṛṣe.

Agni, pervading in all the many forms of existence, praised and celebrated by all since time immemorial, you bear and bring abundant food and health and life for every individual and every community. You shine with might and splendour, and that splendour of yours, glorious one, no one dare challenge.

6. Tvāmagne samidhānam yaviṣṭhya devā dūtam cakrire havyavāhanam. Urujrayasam ghṛtayonimāhutam tveśam cakṣurdadhire codayanmati.

Agni, ever youngest, unaging power of existence, kindled and shining in flames, bright and generous sages and scholars among humanity and divinities of nature make you the carrier and disseminator of fragrant energies of life and health, and install and enshrine you in the vedi, ghrta fed, wide expansive, brilliant, watchful and inspirer of intelligence, ever invoked and invited.

Agni, light of life invoked and received from the revelations of heaven, enlightened people in pursuit of self-realisation enkindle and raise you in the vedi with fuel and ghrta of the holiest kind. They light you in the heart with the fuel of their sense and mind and self-awareness. And you, rising with the fuel and sprinkled with ghrta, ever abide expansive in all their business of earthly existence.

1. Tvāmagne haviṣmanto devam̄ martāsa īlate.
Manye tvā jātavedasam̄ sa havyā vakṣyānuṣak.

You, O fire divine, mortals bearing havis with reverence in homage, honour, celebrate and worship, and I meditate on your presence in omniscience to pray: Radiate the holy light and fragrance all round and let it come to me also, generous one.

2. Agnirhotā dāsvataḥ kṣayasya vṛktabarhiṣah. Sam̄ yajñāsaścaranti yam̄ sam̄ vājāsaḥ śravasyavah.

Agni is the high-priest of Nature's abundance for humanity, blessing the house of the liberal devotee ready to kindle the holy fire, since all nutriments, energies and all yajnic gifts of Divinity coexist and work with Agni.

उत स्म यं शिशुं यथा नवं जनिष्टारणी ।

3. Uta sma yam̄ śiśum̄ yathā navam̄ janistāraṇī.
Dhartāram̄ mānuṣīṇām̄ viśāmagnum̄ svadhvaram.

And just as two arani woods produce the fire, and just as mother and father beget and nurse a new born baby, so do we kindle, raise and serve the holy fire of yajna and worship the lord of life, sustainer of human communities and high-priest of cosmic yajna.

4. *Uta sma durgrbhīyase putro na hvāryāñām.

You who burn up vast forests and devour grasses like a hungry animal are a product of tortuous waves of energy, too tempestuous and too difficult to grab.

5. *Ādha sma yasyārcayah samyaksamyanti dhūminah. Yadīmaha trito divyupa dhmāteva dhamati Fire whose flames mixed together with smoke rise up and shine when the yajaka or the yogi, thrice excelling others in body, mind and soul, lights up the fire, refines, intensifies and raises the flames close to and into the heights of heaven just like a smelter blowing and intensifying the fire with the blower.

6. *Tavāhamagna ūtibhirmitrasya ca praśastibhiḥ.

O light and fire of life, Agni, may we, with your protections and friendly exhortations, cross over the sins and weaknesses of mortal humanity as we overcome the hate and enmity of the wicked.

O lord of patience and power, Agni, create the right leaders among us. Bless us with the wealth of life. Inspire and move us to act. Come, be with us for the achievement of food, energy and prosperity. Help us win and make progress in our battles of life.

Mandala 5/Sukta 10

Agni, irresistible power of motion and advancement for the aspirants, bring us the most brilliant honour and excellence of life. Bless us with abundant wealth, open the path of progress and guide us on the way.

Agni, unique unrivalled power of the world, help us advance by yajnic action and the greatness of our experts. The man rising in divine strength and intelligence and acting in your service is adorable for us.

3. *Tvam no agna eṣāṁ gayaṁ puṣṭiṁ ca vārdhaya.

For us, Agni, lord of light and knowledge, increase and exalt the health and home of these, men of vision and splendour, sages, scholars, teachers, leaders and all, bright and brave who, with songs of praise and prayer, have come to attain the honour and excellence of existence.

Agni, lord of beauty, majesty and ecstasy, the words of your voice, potent and pregnant with sense and power, shine and reverberate all round in space with the message of action and achievement at the fastest, the wise expansive vibrancy of which, a shower from heaven, by itself, awakens and inspires the leading people of imagination with flames of fire.

Agni, those flames of your light and fire, bright and blazing, go round with might and majesty like cosmic waves of lightning energy commanding the kingdom of the world, as if by a roaring chariot leading to victory.

6. *Nū no agna ūtaye sabādhasaśca rātaye.

And now Agni, for our protection and progress and for the relief and advancement bound in limitations, come so that all our leaders, bright and bold, may cross over all the bounds in all the directions of space.

Agni, light of the world, dear as breath of life, generous sage and scholarly yajaka, liberal giver, praised by devotees and approving and praising the celebrants, bring us wealth for the devotees and the worshipper good enough to challenge the mighty, and come for us so that we may win the battles of life and grow higher and higher.

Mandala 5/Sukta 11

Agni Devata, Sutambhara Atreya Rshi

जनस्य गृष्मा अजनिष्ट जागृविरुद्धिः सुद ऋः सुविताय नव्यस ।

1. Janasya gopā ajaniṣṭa jāgrviragnih sudakṣah suvitāya navyase. Ghṛtapratīko bṛhatā divisprśā dyumadvi bhāti bharatebhyaḥ śucih.

Agni, fire energy, friend and protector of man, ever awake, versatile power, it arises for the latest good of humanity. Feeding and rising on the fuel of ghrta, shining pure and magnificent with heat and light touching the skies, it shines and gives light for those who feed and keep the fire burning.

2. Yajñasya ketum prathamam purohitamagnim narastriṣad hasthe samīdhire. Indreṇa devaiḥ saratham sa barhiṣi sidanni hotā yajathāya sukrutah.

Agni is the leader, mark of the science of yajna, first highpriest in the process, which the leading lights among people kindle and establish in three stages of life in three departments of the acquisition of knowledge, observance of Dharma and performance of karma, in three regions of earth, sky and the solar sphere. And Agni takes the prime seat on the grass on the vedi with Indra, power, devas, divine givers of nature, as it comes with its chariot which carries it with fragrance to all regions. It is the sanctifier for yajnic initiation, conduct and congregation, and it is the very light, beauty and grace of the holy project.

3. Asam̄mṛṣṭo jāyase mātroph śucirmandrah kavirudatiṣṭho vivasvataḥ. Gṛtena tvāvardhayannagna āhuta dhūmaste keturabhavad-divi śritah.

Agni, born of parents natural, unadorned and free, pure and radiant, charming, with the gift of being the leading light rising from the sun, when you are invoked and invited, people raise and advance you with oblations of ghrta and then your light and fragrance as the flag of your majesty rises to the regions of the sun.

4. Agnirno yajñamupa vetu sādhuyā 'gnim naro vi bharante grhegrhe. Agnirdūto abhavaddhavyavāhano'gnim vṛṇānā vṛṇate kavikratum.

May Agni come straight to our yajnic actions of social value. Leading and enlightened people light and raise Agni in every home. Agni is the disseminator of the fragrance of yajna over lands and spaces. Intelligent people of holy action take to Agni, the power that effects creative actions of the enlightened for social good.

(Swami Dayananda interprets agni in the sense of the enlightened leading heights of society who help people to do good to the community. Agni is thus not only the divine fire but also the leader, teacher and the preacher.)

तुभ्यदमग्न मधुमत्तमं वचस्तुभ्यं मनीषा द्रुयमस्तु शं हृद ।

5. Tubhyedamagne madhumattamam vacastu-bhyam maniṣā iyamastu śam hrde. Tvām girah sindu-mivāvanīrmahīrā prṇanti śavasā vardhayanti ca.

Agni, this sweetest song of honour and adoration is presented to you. The holy sentiment and prayer is addressed to you in praise of your holiness and peace at heart. The great holy voices protect, promote and fulfil you and make you stronger with power just as great rivers flow and add to the depth and power of the sea.

6. Tvāmagine aṅgiraso guhā hitam-anvavindañ-chiśriyāṇam vanevane. Sa jāyase mathyamānāḥ saho mahat tvāmāhuh sahasasputram-aṅgirah.

Angira, life breath of the universe, light and fire of the world, Agni, pervading every forest, every ray of light and every living being, holy yajakas dedicated to you as to the breath of life awaken and realise you through meditation in the cave of the heart when you are hidden as a mysterious flame, and you, stirred through contemplation, concentrated and enkindled, rise as a great power of light and victory. Rightly they call you manifestation of the omnipotent.

Mandala 5/Sukta 12

Agni Devata, Sutambhara Atreya Rshi

1. Prāgnaye br̥hate yajñiyāya ṛtasya vṛṣṇe asurāya manma. Ghṛtam na yajña āsyे supūtam giram bhare vṛṣabhāya pratīcīm.

As in yajna, we bear and bring and offer oblations of ghrta into the vedi, so do I compose and bring the language of inner consciousness purified in meditation and offer it in honour of Agni, great, adorable in yajna, giver of the showers of water and the light of truth, life breath of the world, inspirer of thought, and generous giver of strength and power.

2. R̥tam cikitva ṛtamiccikiddhyṛtasya dhārā anu tr̥ndhi pūrvīḥ. Nāham yātum sahasā na dvayena rtam sapāmyaruṣasya vṛṣṇah.

Agni, light of the world, you know the law and dynamics of world order. Know the truth and sincerity of our yajna and worship, and release the showers of eternal light of truth and open the doors of nature's generosity. I follow the generous and brilliant lord's path of truth and rectitude but not by violence nor with duplicity. I follow the path of honesty and sincerity.

3. Kayā no agna ṛtayannṛtena bhuvo navedā ucathasya navyah. Vedā me deva ṛtupā ṛtūnām-nāham patim saniturasya rāyah.

For what reason, Agni, you being the latest scholar and observer of the laws of truth by the laws of truth, would you not know of the earth and of our songs of adoration? Lord protector and observer of the laws and cycle of the seasons, generous and brilliant, give me the knowledge. I do not well know the lord giver and protector of the wealth of life.

4. *Ke te agne ripave bandhanāsaḥ ke pāyavah

Agni, ruler of humanity, what are your injunctions and prohibitions of law and order to deal with the opposite forces? Who are the guards and what are the safeguards? Who are your allies? Who the leading lights? Who preserve and maintain food supplies and food resources? Who are the people and what the elements that shelter falsehood? What are the safeguards against false and malicious words and reports?

Agni, bright ruler, those friends and allies of yours, wide spread and intelligent, who were favourable earlier but have become unfavourable and negative later would of themselves be destroyed, all these, by their own words, speaking crooked things to simple people of rectitude. See they are eliminated.

O brilliant ruler, Agni, whoever the man with reverence and holy oblations in yajna serves your yajna of the social order, he protects and promotes the rule of truth and rectitude, the rule of the generous, brilliant and non-violent ruler. May his house as the house of the ruler go on rising high and higher, from good to better, the house of the progressive man on sound foundations of economic surplus and all round security.

1. *Acchā vo agnimavase devam gāsi sa no vasuh.
Rāsat putra ṛṣunāmṛtāvā parṣati dviṣah.*

Sing well of Agni, light of Divinity, with enthusiasm, for your protection and progress. He, spirit of truth and rectitude, who inspires the sages with the light of truth and life's stability may, we pray, give us wealth and stability. Agni is a saviour as a son is, overcomes hate and enmity and takes us across the seas of life.

wealth, all energy and all victories flow from you.

Mandala 5/Sukta 27

Agni and Indra-Agni Devata, Tryaruna Traivrshna, Trasadasyu, Paurukutsa, Ashva-medha Bharata, or Atri sahasrair-vaiśvānara tryaruṇaściketa.

Agni, life and leader of humanity, the Lord, protector and sustainer of the true and the good, giver of higher knowledge, mighty powerful and dear as breath of life, shower of bliss for and from the earth and heaven and the sky, commanding existence, omniscience and beatitude, has blest me with tens, hundreds and thousands of cows and transports. I honour and exalt the lord of all wealth and power and pray the lord may know my people and my gifted power and potential and protect the same.

Agni, life and light pervasive in the world, leader of entire humanity, honoured, exalted and exalting in the universe, you give me teams of twenty and hundred cows and horses yoked to well structured and firmly balanced chariots, pray give a happy and comfortable home for the man aspiring for the truth, beauty and goodness of life.

O lord of light and life, Agni, thus does Trasadasyu, the man terror for the wicked, aspiring for favour of your attention and kindness, Tryaruna, blest with physical health, mental insight and spiritual vision, with concentrative mind sings anew in praise of you, lord ever fresh and most youthful, who ‘for me (i.e.Trasadasyu, Tryaruna) reveal the ancient and eternal Word of omniscient awareness’.

4. *Yo ma iti pravocatyaśvamedhāya sūraye.
Dadadṛcā sanim yate dadanmedhāmṛtāyate.*

“Who for me reveals the ancient and eternal Word...”, whoever speaks thus in homage to Agni in the interest of the social order of the world and for advancement of the brave, enlightened people, to him, endeavouring with holy chant, may Agni give wealth, to him, aspiring for truth and rectitude, may the lord grant the light of divine intelligence.

5. *Yasya mā paruṣāḥ śatamuddharsayantu-kṣaṇah.
Aśvamedhasya dānāḥ somā iva tryāśirah.*

The loud and bold voices, creative acts and generous gifts of ‘ashvamedha’, national yajna in relation to threefold programmes for life, environment and energy, like a drink of soma, give me pleasure in a hundred ways.

6. *Indagnī śatadāvnyaśvamedhe suvīryam.
Kṣatram dhārayatam bṛhad divi sūryamivājaram.*

May Indra and Agni, knowledge and power, force of law and enlightenment, generous and giving in a hundred ways, in this ashvamedha yajna, i.e., non-violent holy plan and programme of national development and governance, enact, uphold and sustain the social order as they hold the sun in the vast heaven. Unaging, ever young harbingers of honour and valour to the system, ever fresh they are.

Mandala 5/Sukta 28

Agni Devata, Vishvavara Atreyi Rshi

1. Samiddho agnirdivi śociraśret pratyāñnuśasamurviyā vi bhāti. Eti prācī viśvavārā namobhirdevānī lānā haviṣā ghṛtācī.

The fire of yajna, kindled and rising, reaches the light and energy in the solar sphere and, with its various and expansive lustre, extends to the dawn, and then the East. Vishvavara, laden with versatile food and energy for the world, activating nature's bounties like a yajnic ladle full of ghrta, it illuminates and showers the world with gifts of Divinity at the end of the dewy night.

सुमिध्यमाना अमृतस्य राजसि हुविष्कृण्वन्तं सचस

Agni, O light and fire of life, kindled and raised in the vedi and in the mind, you rise and shine in the midst of immortality and abide with the suppliant yajaka as a friend for his life's well being. Whoever you inspire, invigorate and, as a friend, take up under your care and protection, the person wins, holds and commands the world's wealth in existence and, since then for all time, O light divine, he offers service with complete surrender in obedience to your will like hospitality in obligation to an honoured guest.

अग्ने शार्धे महत साभगाये तवे द्युम्नान्युत्तमानि सन्तु । सं

Agni, mighty power, may your highest gifts of wealth, honour and splendour be for great good fortune and well being in life. Make our homes full of conjugal bliss, well maintained with discipline and control. Help us face and fight out the greatest enemies in the conflicts of life.

समिद्धस्य पमहुसा ग्रे वन्दे तवे श्रियम् ।

4. *Samiddhasya pramahaso'gne vande tava śriyam.

Agni, mighty ruling power of the world, burning bright and great, I honour and adore your wealth and splendour. Valorous and generous, prosperous and majestic, you shine glorious in the yajnic projects of the world.

5. *Samiddho agna āhuta devān yakṣi svadhvara.

Agni, invoked, kindled and raised to the full in light and splendour, you honour and inspire the nobilities of humanity and feed and replenish the bounties of nature. O noble power of the yajnas of love and non-violence, you are the receiver and disseminator of our oblations and you are the harbinger of the gifts of nature's bounties.

आ जुहाता दुवस्यता ग्रिं पयुत्यध्वर ।

6. *Ā juhotā duvasyatā'gnim prayatyadhvare.

O man, honour and serve Agni with offers of fragrant havi in creative and developmental programmes of love and non-violence in humanity. Select, elect and serve the light and fire of life, receiver of our oblations and giver of the gifts of life and nature.

(Swami Dayananda interprets Agni as the fire of yajna, as the scholar and teacher who gives knowledge, and as the ruler who receives, creates and distributes the wealth in the social order of humanity with love and without violence.)

Mandala 5/Sukta 29

Indra, Indra Ushana Devata, Gauriviti Shaktya Rshi

ऋ॒युमा मनुषा द्रुवतीता॑ त्री रा॒च्ना॑ दि॒व्या॑ धारयन्त् । अच॑न्ति॑

1. Tryaryamā manuṣo devatātā trī rocanā divyā dhārayanta. Arcanti tvā marutah pūtadakṣas-tvameśām-ṛṣir-indrāsi dhīrah.

Indra, lord of power and ruling power of the world, in the holy yajna of the social order, its governance and administration, those heroes of the speed of winds honour and serve you whose strength and expertise is pure and sanctified : men of judgement and discretion who are thrice blest with full knowledge, noble action and devotion to Divinity; men of brilliance who are self-established with health of body, mind and soul, familial joy and social commitment; and men who enjoy the favour and grace of Divinity. Indra, you are their seer, philosopher and guide, imperturbable, inviolable and unchallengeable.

2. Anu yadīm maruto mandasānamārcannindram papivāṁsam sutasya. Ādatta vajramabhi yadahim hannapo yahvīrasrajat sarvatā u.

With dedication and loyalty, when the Maruts, supportive heroes of the social order, serve and honour Indra, the ruler, happy and honourable, ruling and enjoying the state entrusted to him, then, just as the sun with thunder and lightning breaks up the clouds and releases the showers and mighty streams aflow, he too takes over the thunderbolt of law and power and, striking the serpentine demons of darkness and evil, sets the mighty streams of national energy to flow in showers and creative streams.

उत ब्रह्माणा मरुता म अस्यन्दः सामस्य सुषुतस्य पयाः ।
तद्विहृव्यं मनुषं गा अविन्दुदहु अहिंपपिवाँ इन्दो अस्य ॥ ३ ॥

3. Uta brahmāṇo maruto me asyendrah somasya suṣutasya peyāḥ. Taddhi havyam manuṣe gā avindad-ahann-ahim papivāñ indro asya.

And may the Maruts, heroes of the winds, dedicated to Brahma and the Vedas and the ruling lord Indra, now drink of this soma of national honour and glory so well distilled by me. That honour and glory alone, dedicated to Divinity in yajna, for man can win cows and lands and holy wisdom, of which Indra alone is the guardian, having destroyed the forces of evil.

आदादसी वितरं वि ष्कभायत्संविव्यानश्चिद्द्वियसं मृगं

4. Ād rodasi vitaram vi ṣkabhāyat samvivyānaścid bhiyase mrgam kah. Jigartim-indro apajargurā-ṇah prati śvasantamava dānavam han.

And then Indra holds and firms up the earth and heaven separate and yet together pervading both with his presence and power just like separating a fear-stricken deer and a devouring tiger by the power of his presence and holding off the demon tiger snorting fiercely.

(Compare the laws of gravitation separating and holding together in firm relationship two heavenly bodies according to their mass and distance under the presiding presence of the force of natural omnipotence.)

अध॑ कत्वा मघवन्तुभ्यं द्रवा अनु विश्व अददुः सामपयम् ।

5. Adha kratvā maghavan tubhyam devā anu viśve adaduḥ somapeyam. Yat sūryasya haritah patantīḥ puraḥ satīruparā etaśe kah.

And further, O lord of honour and power of omnipotence, all the divinities of nature and humanity offer you the drink of soma in response to your yajnic action of systemic integration and sustenance when the various rays of the sun radiating forward all round and nourishing life stop on the planet on your behest (to feed life and drink up the sweet juices of soma).

नव यदस्य नवतिं च भागान्त्साकं वज्ञण मघवा विवृश्चत ।

6. Nava yadasya navatim ca bhogāntsākam vajrena maghavā vivṛścat. Arcantīndram marutah sadhasthe traṣṭubhena vacasā bādhata dyām.

When Indra with thunder and lightning destroys ninetynine serpentine strongholds of evil and darkness obstructing the light of Divinity in this world, then the Maruts, guardian forces of humanity on earth, honour and adore the omnipotent lord with trishtubha hymns of celebration.

सखा सख्ये अपचत्तूयम्‌गिरस्य कत्वा महिषा त्री शतानि ।

7. Sakhā sakhye apacat tūyamagnirasya kratvā mahiṣā trī śatāni. Trī sākamindro manusah sarāṃsi sutam pibad bṛtrahatyāya somam.

Agni, a friend, for a friend, Indra, alongwith Indra and the holy action of Indra, the sun, in this world soon ripens the sap in three hundred fields and forests of man, and then Indra, great and generous, drinks up the soma in order to break the clouds of rain and let the rivers flow to fill three great lakes in three worlds of heaven, earth and sky.

त्री यच्छुता महिषाणमघा मास्त्री सरांसि मधवा सम्यापाः ।

8. Trī yacchatā mahiṣāṇāmagho māstrī sarāṃsi maghavā somyāpāḥ. Kāram na viśve ahvanta devā bharamindrāya yadahim jaghāna.

Indra, inviolable lord, commanding honour, power and excellence, when you ripen and mature three hundred great fields and forests and create and protect three great lakes of soma, all the divinities of the world invoke Indra like a great hero and offer homage since he breaks the cloud of serpentine hoards of showers.

उशना यत्सहस्रेऽरथातं गृहमिन्द जूजुवानभिरश्वः ।

9. Uśanā yat sahasyairayātām gṛhamindra jūjuvānebhiraśvaiḥ. Vanvāno atra sarathāṁ yayātha kutsena devairavanorha śuṣṇam.

Indra, glorious ruler, when the man of light and passion and you both come home by chariot driven by swift and robust horses, then, again with love and desire for victory, pray go with the thunderbolt and the best of the brilliancies and defend the strength and honour of the nation.

10. Prānyaccakramavṛhah sūryasya kustāyānyad varivo yātave'kah. Anāso dasyūñramṛṇo vadhenā ni duryona āvṛṇān mṛdhravācaḥ.

Extend the orbit of enlightenment for the thunderbolt. Clear the paths and areas for development, peace and freedom of movement. Eliminate the shameless, the wicked and the thieves with punishment, and stop the entry of the malicious, throw them in jail.

11. Stomāsastvā gaurivīteravardhannarandhayo vaidathināya piprum. Ā tvāmrjiśvā sakhyāya cakre pacan paktīrapibah somamasya.

May the eulogies of the poetic lovers of song and their singers exalt you. Punish the man who exalts and raises the warring forces against you. Let the men of simple honest mind be keen to make friends with you. Maturing and completing the plans and programmes of the state, celebrate and enjoy the honour and splendour of the order.

12. Navagvāsaḥ sutasomāsa indram daśagvāso abhyarcantyarkaiḥ. Gvyam cidūrvamapidhānavantam te cinnarah śāśamānā apa vran.

Men of new ideas treading new paths of knowledge and polity, men of controlled mind and senses, celebrants ready with distilled exhilarating soma, adore Indra with songs and presentations of homage and, celebrating him, the dedicated admirers, best of men and leaders, extol him revealing his vast but hidden virtues of divine knowledge.

13. Katho nu te pari carāṇi vidvān vīryā maghavan yā cakartha. Yā co nu navyā kṛṇavah śaviṣṭha predu tā te vidatheṣu bravāma.

Indra, ruler of the world, mightiest hero commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, sage and scholar, how shall we, in yajnic assemblies of the nation, fully describe, sing and celebrate your achievements and your potential, the exploits that you have done and those new ones you are sure to achieve henceforth ?

All these many exploits of the world [from creation and sustenance to organisation, organisational elimination included], Indra, ruler and lord of power and excellence, which you have done and which you would do, unresisted and irresistible, by nature and nurture, by vigour and valour, O wielder of the thunderbolt, bold and terrific, no one can comprehend. There is none who can obstruct, hold or surpass those overwhelming powers and forces of yours.

Indra, the holy chant and homage of gifts, newest and latest, being offered, graciously accept and cherish, which, for you, O lord most powerful, we have created. Like a beautiful dress of thought and devotion, I, a sincere artist in pursuit of life's wealth and peace and a steadfast and skilful maker, have designed and created the song like a chariot.

Mandala 5/Sukta 30

Indra, Indra and Rnanchaya Devata, Babhru Atreya Rshi

1. Kva sya vīrah ko apaśyadindram sukharatha-mīyamānam haribhyām. Yo rāyā vajrī sutaso-mamicchan tadoko gantā puruhūta ūtī.

Where is that thunderous catalytic power? Who saw that Indra, harbinger of peace and comfort travelling like a pleasing chariot along the waves of attraction and repulsion which, laden with wealth and wielding the force of thunder moves on and, invoked and invited by many for protection and promotion, goes to the house of the host with desire for the taste of life's pleasure?

2. Avācacakṣam padamasya sasvarugram nidhā-turanvāyamicchan. Apr̄cchamanyān̄ uta te ma-āhurindram naro bubudhānā aśema.

With the desire to pursue and achieve success, I have discovered and described the science of this mighty source of immanent energy. Let me consult and ask others too who would speak of Indra, the energy, to me. And the best of men and leading scholars among men, enlightened all, we would realise and achieve it in full.

3. Pra nu vayam sute yā te kṛtānīdra bravāma yāni no jujoṣah. Vedadavidvāñchṛṇavacca vidvān vahate'yaṁ maghavā sarvasenah.

The knowledge acquired and energy created in practice, O scholar, Indra, let us speak of and proclaim your achievements which you share with us. Let those who don't know hear and know of it too. This scholar who bears the knowledge and power is the mighty possessor of honour and excellence, and he commands all the power and the forces.

4. Sthiram manascakrṣe jāta indra veṣideko yudhaye bhūyasaścit. Aśmānam cicchavasā didyuto vi vido gavāmūrvamusriyāñām.

Indra, commander of light, knowledge and power, rising, you firm and resolve the mind to stability and constancy. In battle, you alone, by yourself, overcome many. You illuminate the cloud and the firmament and break the mountain with your power and force, and you recover and reveal the vastness of earth, the sun rays, the wisdom of knowledge and the ocean fire enshrined in words.

5. Paro yat tvam parama ājanisṭhāḥ parāvati śrutyam nāma bibhrat. Ataścidindrādabha-yanta devā viśvā apo ajayad dāsapatnīḥ.

When you, highest and best power, arise and manifest, bearing great name and high renown in far off regions, and win over and release the waters concealed in the cloud, since then all the forces of nature accept the power of Indra and obey the divine law.

6. Tubhyedete marutah suśevā arcantyarkam sunvantlyandhah. Ahimohānamapa āśayānām pra māyābhirmāyinām sakṣadindrah.

Vibrant heroes and these yajakas in obedient service offer you songs of adoration, prepare the food and distil the soma for you, Indra. And with his wondrous forces, Indra engages the crafty cloud holding the waters by his deceptive wiles and sleeping like a giant in apparent security.

7. Vi ṣu mṛdho januṣā dānaminvannahan gavā maghavantsamīcakānah. Atrā dāsasya namuceḥ śiro yadavartayo manave gātumicchan.

Indra, commander of honour and valour, ruling lord of excellence, from your very emergence thirsting for battle, breaking the cloud with the roar of thunder and lightning, energising and winning prizes for humanity with the desire to make way for progress, you arise here and now and break the stronghold of the dark cloud locking up the waters of rain showers.

Make me your friend and instrument since you break the top of the cloud, replete with vapours but resistant to release the rain, hold the firmament wheeling, circling and resounding, and divide space into earth and heaven and make them turn round and round like wheels for the winds to blow in the firmament and the humans to live on the earth.

9. *Striyo hi dāsa āyudhāni cakre kim mā karanna-

Dasa, enemy of an inferior order, uses women as secret weapons and warriors. But what can these poor forces do against me (in violation of my discretion]. Let the ruler, Indra, see deep into both the language and warriors [of this enemy, the open policy and the secret tactics), and then advance upon the slavish enemy to engage him in battle.

10. Samatra gāvo'bhito'navanteheha vatsairvityutā yadāsan. Sam tā indro asrjadasya śākairyadīm somāsah suṣutā amandan.

If the cows exult in unison with calves everywhere, if the sunrays play together on the herbs, if the lands smile with greenery and the earth rejoices with her children, and then, suppose the cows were separated from the calves, the rays of the sun were intercepted from the herbs, the lands were locked off from greenery, the earth were bereft of her children, then must Indra, brilliant ruler of the earth and the skies, should join the mothers and children with his might so that the soma drinks distilled may gladden him and his ruling order.

11. Yadīm somā babhrudhūtā amandannaroravīd vrṣabhaḥ sādaneṣu. Purandaraḥ papivān indro asya punargavāmadadādusriyāñām.

When the somas, honours and pleasures of the earth, created, distilled and energised by the sagely scholars and people of yajnic creativity, exhilarate Indra, the ruler and his order, then the generous and valorous lord roars in the assemblies and in the homesteads and he, breaker of the enemy strongholds, having drunk of the honour and glory of the nation, again gives to the nation fertile lands, cows, open sunlight and words of holy speech.

Agni, resplendent ruler, it is a great blessing of Indra, the sun, giver of four thousand rays of light, wealth of existence, and destroyers of negativities, which he collects from nature, and gives us. He is the best leader and guide of humanity, and with gratitude and best efforts we should acknowledge and benefit from these gifts of energy and power.

Agni, resplendent ruler, brilliant forces, destroyers of evil and darkness, create and give me a beautiful home with a thousand bright rays of light, and at the end of the departing night in the light of the dawn, blazing fires bear distilled soma oblations and rise to Indra, the sun, and give him delight.

When the fugitive night of rest and peace in the home departs, having made up the want of light at the rise of dawn, blest and beautiful, collecting and bearing nature's gifts, then babhru, the crimson sun, sustainer of life, moving like a flying horse at instant speed, showers four thousand gifts of energy and intelligence and the creative yajaka receives and shares the gifts on and from the vedi.

15. Catuh sahasram gavyasya paśvah pratyagrabhīṣma ruśameṣvagne. Gharmāścit taptah pravrje ya āśīdayasmayastamvādāma viprāḥ.

Agni, O self-refulgent light of life, glorious ruler of the world, let us receive and share four thousand gifts of the wealth of light, energy and intelligence present in the lights of the dawn, and let us, O friends of knowledge, vibrant scholars, receive and share that golden wealth and heat of life which is tempered and refined in the pravargya yajna of self sacrifice and surrender.

Mandala 5/Sukta 31

*Indra, Indra or Kutsa, Indra or Ushana, Indra and

1. Indro rathāya pravatam kṛnoti yamadhyasthā-nmaghavā vājayantam. Yūtheva paśvo vyunoti gopā arisṭo yāti prathamah siṣāsan.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, commander of power and forces, accelerates whichever supersonic chariot he rides and inspires whichever region he rules for a great leap forward to the heights. All round protector and pioneer, like a shepherd who leads and drives his flock and followers forward, he gives the clarion call, gathers his forces with the desire to advance and win, and goes fast forward, unhurt and unobstructed, first and foremost leader and pioneer thirsting to realise his ambition.

Indra, commander of horse and speed of progress, giver of golden wealth, advance all round, be not lustful, be with us and share the honours. There is none better settled, successful and prosperous than you. Look after the unmarried, widows and widowers, help them to have a meaningful life.

When strength and virility is born and matures with the growth of health and vitality, then let Indra, the disciplined soul, control and command all the senses, mind and intellect, awaken and exercise the creative potentials innate but yet dormant within, and with inner light of the soul keep off the resurgent darkness.

4. *Anavaste rathamaśvāya takṣān tvastā vajram

Indra, mighty ruler, expert craftsmen design and make the chariot for your fast movement and communication, the defence scientist and engineer, Tvashta, makes the blazing thunderbolt for you, and the scholars of the Veda celebrate your power and glory with hymns of adoration and exalt you to break the demonic cloud of darkness and want for showers of rain and prosperity.

Indra, ruler of honour and excellence, when the brave warriors and noble citizens offer songs of adoration to you, then, O generous lord, the clouds and the sky in unison with them and with you and those dynamic powers even without horse and chariot, inspired by your power and grace, surround the wicked and destroy them.

6. Pra te pūrvāṇi karaṇāni vocam pra nūtanā maghavan yā cakartha. Śathīvo yad vibharā rodasī ubhe jayannapo manave dānucitrāḥ.

Indra, lord of wealth, honour and excellence, commanding force and power, let me speak to you of the acts and instruments old and new which you have achieved and which you would achieve, which scholars and scientists, having immense knowledge and bearing immense possibilities of gifts for mankind, exploring both earth and the skies, would make it possible for you to win waters from the clouds and pranic energies from air.

7. Tadinnu te karaṇāṁ dasma viprā'him yad ghnaannojo atrāmimithāḥ. Śuṣṇasya cit pari māyā agrbhñāḥ prapitvām yannapa dasyūñrasedhāḥ.

That is your act, achievement and further possibility, generous ruler of the world, giver of gifts, and eminent scholar, since you break the clouds, destroy the serpentine demons of darkness, create prosperity and excellence for mankind here on earth, and, mastering the wondrous knowledge of the secrets of energy and techniques of power, you stall the negativities, make the waters flow and achieve further progress.

8. Tvamapo yadave turvaśayā'ramayah sudughāḥ pāra indra. Ugramayātamavaho ha kutsam̄ sam̄ ha yad vāmuśanāranta devāḥ.

Indra, ruler of the world, giver of honour and glory, pioneer and helmsman of the people, you make the abundant waters flow for Yadu and Turvasha, men of management, production and control, you achieve the rare and difficult energy of electricity powerful as thunderbolt, and then the brilliant people, lovers of life and humanity all, enthusiastically admire and celebrate both you and your thunderous achievement.

9. Indrākutsā vahamānā rathenā''vāmatyā api karne vahantu. Nih śīmadbhyo dhamatho nih sadhasthānmaghono hrdo varathastamāṁsi.

Indra, ruler of the world, and Kutsa, creator and controller of energy and the force of power, both travelling by chariot, let the running horse powers of energy at instant speed transport you both to the centre of life's business. Both energy and power arise from the currents of waters and waves (as of sunrays), and both of you control and complete the projects from your seat of office and residence, wherefrom you dispel the darkness and want from the centre of their power and prosperity.

Let this scholar of creative vision working for defence and protection, take to, explore and advance the forceful currents of winds employed as effective agents of travel and transport. All your scholars, friends and forces here, O powerful ruler, at the speed of winds increase and advance the power, prosperity and defence potential of the land.

11. Sūraścid ratham paritakmyāyām pūrvam kara-duparam jūjuvāṁsam. Bharaccakrametaśah sam riṇāti puro dadhat saniṣyati kratum nah.

Let the brave and brilliant pilot of the chariot first steady the chariot in the initial motion in the night and then take off rising to the clouds. The craft bearing its gears and stages of motion presses forward, conducting our project onward perfectly as intended.

O citizens of the land, this Indra, the ruling lord, has come to the yajna vedi to see his friends and all with the desire to observe and enjoy the finest achievements of the nation. The scholars too proclaiming their achievements are brought to the vedi where learned priests dedicated to the yajna of love and non-violence conduct and manage the programme and its progress.

O lord of immortality, Indra, those who love truth, knowledge and peaceful progress for themselves and others may abide loving and self sacrificing. May the mortals never come to suffer evil, never commit sin and crime. Bond with the yajakas who are committed to truth and holy action, vest them with honour and splendour, and bless us that we too, your own, be among them.

Mandala 5/Sukta 32

1. Ādardarutsam-asṛjo vi khāni tvamarṇavān bad-badhānāñ aramṇāḥ. Mahāntamindra parvataṁ vi yad vah sṛjo vi dhārā ava dānavāṁ han.

Indra, maker and breaker of things, you break open the springs, open the doors, let the streams aflow, and free the bonded to live free and enjoy, you who break the cloud and the mountain, let out the streams to flow into rivers and the sea, having destroyed the demons and broken the cloud.

2. Tvamutsāñ ṛtubhirbadbadhānāñ aramha ūdhah parvatasya vajrin. Ahim cidugra prayutam̄ śayānam jaghanvāñ indra taviṣīm-adhatthāh.

Indra, lord of the thunderbolt, you let the locked up springs of water flow like milky streams of the cloud down the mountain slopes according to the seasons. O ruling lord of light and lustre, breaker of the serpentine cloud of darkness, take up and command the blazing forces for action.

3. Tyasya cinmahato nirmṛgasya vadharjaghāna taviṣībhīr-indrah. Ya eka idapratirmanyamāna ādasmādanyo ajaniṣṭa tavyān.

Indra, the ruling lord, alone by himself, unequalled and universally acknowledged and adored, destroys the might of that great formidable demon of darkness and negativities with his blazing powers and actions like the sun breaking the cloud, and then he creates other powers greater than demonic negativities.

4. Tyam cideśām svadhayā madantam miho napātam suvṛdham tamogām. Vṛṣaprabharmā dānavasya bhāmām vajreṇa vajrī ni jaghāna śuṣṇam.

That demon of darkness and negativity whose might is only the drought, locking up the rains and consuming and thriving on the food and morale of these people of the earth, growing and growing and roaming around in the prevailing darkness and want is strong: yet the might and rage of that demon, shushna, drought and famine, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, destroys with his lightning strike and rises as lord victor of the clouds and rain showers.

5. Tyam cidasya kratubhir-niṣattam-amarmaṇo vidadidasya marma. Yadīm sukṣatra prabhṛtā madasya yuyutsantam tamasi harmye dhāḥ.

O noble lord of the mighty social order, Indra, with your actions and intelligence you know and expose the hidden weakness of this otherwise incomprehensible demon thirsting for fight, and, happy and elated in the hope and thrill of victory, you shut him up in the depths of darkness.

त्यं चिदित्था केत्पयं शयानमसूय तमसि वावृधानम् ।

6. Tyam ciditthā katpayam śayānam-asūrye tamasi vāvṛdhānam. Tam cinmandāno vṛṣabhaḥ sutasyo-ccair-indro apagūryā jaghāna.

That demon of drought and negativity thus lying and sleeping in sunless darkness with some vapours of water but still growing, Indra, ruler of the social order, great and generous, exhilarated by the hope and joy of victory and raising his thunderbolt breaks, and destroys that demon.

7. Ud yadindro mahate dānavāya vadhyaryamiṣṭa saho aprititam. Yadīm vajrasya prabhṛtau dadābha viśvasya jantoradhamam cakāra.

And when Indra raises the thunderbolt of justice and punishment against the great demon of wickedness, in favour of the great and generous man of charity, and thus displays his mysterious force and power, and at the raising of the bolt he punishes the wicked, he reduces them to the lowest state of living beings.

त्यं चिदण्डं मधुपं शयानमसिन्वं वृवं मह्याददुगः ।

8. Tyam cidarnam madhupam śayānam-asinvam vavram mahyādadugrah. Apādamatram mahatā vadhenā ni duryona āvṛṇaṁ mṛdhra-vācam.

For sure that flood of water, honey sweet, dormant, unbounded, cavernous, floating, expansive and roaring, the blazing sun, Indra, seizes with a great blow of electric charge of thunderbolt and breaks it in its own place.

(So should the ruler break open the hidden treasures of the land.)

9. Ko asya śuṣmāṁ taviṣīṁ varāta eko dhanā bharate apratītah. Ime cidasya jrayaso nu devī indrasyaujaso bhiyasā jihāte.

Who can comprehend and hold his force and blaze? The One alone by himself bears all the wealths though unseen. And these two divine creations, heaven and earth, move by the awful force and blazing splendour of this mighty Indra.

न्यस्म द्रवी स्वधीतिजिहीत इन्द्राय गातुरुशतीव यम ।

10. Nyasmai devī svadhitirjihīta indrāya gāturuśatīva yeme. Sam yadojo yuvate viśvamābhiranu svadhāvne kṣitayo namanta.

To this Indra, cosmic energy and the earth, both divine, submit in love and obedience like a maiden in love submitting herself to her lover. When Indra radiates the cosmic splendour and power with these natural phenomena, then the entire humanity and all stars and planets do homage to the divine and self-refulgent omnipotence of Indra with these acts of obedience to the law.

I hear you, feel your vibrations manifested among the people: One and only one self-existent and self-refulgent lord and protector in truth, guardian of all the five people, commanding divine excellence and majesty. I hope and pray that my people, hoping and loving, self sacrificing day and night, may attain to the latest manifestations of Indra and his newest gifts of excellence.

Indra, ruling lord of the world, thus do I hear of you, I feel the vibrations, inspiring life according to the seasons, bestowing wealth and honour on noble scholars, what the sages dedicated to divine knowledge receive and what desires and ambitions with prayers they place in you.

Mandala 5/Sukta 33

Indra Devata, Samvarana Prajapatya Rshi

महि मृह तुवस दीध्य नृनिन्दायत्था तुवस अतव्यान ।

1. Mahi mahe tavase dīdhye nṛnindrāyetthā tavase atavyān. Yo asmai sumatim vājasātāu stuto jane samaryaściketa.

For the sake of great strength and power, let me thus focus on the people who are not too strong and draw the attention of this mighty ruler, Indra, who, honoured and admired among people, is keen to fight for progress and, in the struggle onward, enlightens our mind and directs our efforts on the right path.

स त्वं नै इन्द धियसाना अकहरीणां वृष्ण्याक्त्रमश्रः ।

2. Sa tvam na indra dhiyasāno arkairhariṇām vṛṣan yoktramaśreh. Yā itthā maghavannanu joṣam vakṣo abhi prāryaḥ sakṣi janān.

And you Indra, master and ruler of the nation, commanding power and prosperity, generous as showers of rain, thus addressed with reverence and listening to our prayer, take up the reins of the people, be with them and harness their energy, and with love and faith pursue the noble policies for advancement to completion.

3. Na te ta indrābhya madṛṣvā'yuktāso abrahmatā yadasan. Tiṣṭhā rathamadhi tam vajrahastā'' raśmim deva yamase svaśvah.

Indra, mighty lord, resplendent and generous, those who are not with us and are not for you are disjoined from reality. It is their ignorance and impiety toward the motherland. O lord of the force of thunder in hand, ride the chariot, take up the reins, equipped as you are with excellent forces for advancement. Guide and lead.

4. Purū yat ta indra santyukthā gave cakar thorvaraśu yudhyan. Tatakṣe sūryāya cidokasi sve vṛṣā samatsu dāsasya nāma cit.

Many are your acts of generosity, Indra, which you have done for the land and cattle wealth and for fertility of the fields, O generous lord, and while fighting in the battles of life in your own seat, you create the light of life like the sun and earn for yourself the name and fame of the abundant cloud of showers.

Indra, lord illustrious breaker of the dark cloud of might, we are yours, and these leaders creating and forming power and force, the chariots that go round for transport, all these are yours. Come, O lord, and bless us with all your imperishable power, come like power and splendour incarnate, most welcome among the cherished ones.

6. Paprksenyamindra tve hyojo nr̄mñāni ca nr̄ta-māno amartah. Sa na enīm vasavāno rayim dāḥ prāryah stuṣe tuvimaghasya dānam.

Incomprehensible is the splendour in you, Indra, lord of glory, all the wealths of humanity abide in you, yours is the ongoing dance of creation, yours is immortality. Universal abode of existence, give us the pure wealth of life, wealth that is possible. You are the lord and master commanding immense wealth, honour and power. I praise, admire and pray for your grace and generosity.

7. *Evā na indrotibhirava pāhi gr̄natah śūra kārūn.
Uta tvacam dadato vājasātau piprīhi madhvah

Thus O lord brave and fearless, Indra, protect us, the celebrants, poets, makers and artists, teachers and preachers with all modes of safety and security. And giving us the glowing corselet of self defence in the battle business of life, enjoy the beauty and sweetness of life created, distilled and offered by the admirers and worshippers.

8. Uta tye mā paurukutsyasya sūrestrasadasyor-hiranino rarānāḥ. Vahantu mā daśa śyetāśo asya gairikṣitasya kratubhirnu saśce.

And may those ten horses (ten senses of perception and volition or five senses of perception and five pranic energies) of the child of the wielder of the thunderbolt, wise and bold, terror of the wicked, lord of golden wealth, abiding on the heights carry me on in life. Playful yet stable are they, gifts of the bountiful, and with holiness of words and actions I abide with them, (and enjoy the beauty and sweetness of life).

9. Uta tye mā mārutāśvasya śonāḥ kratvāmaghāso vidathasya rātāu. Sahasrā me cyavatāno dadāna ānūkamaryo vapusē nārcat.

And may those vibrating gifts of the lord, who commands the winds as a charioteer drives and controls the horses, red hot in action, vested with holy perception and action, help me in the abundant creative yajna of the social order, so that the Lord and Master, inspiring me and giving me grace a thousand ways, may love and accept me like an ornament for the body.

10. Uta tye mā dhvanyasya juṣṭā lakṣmanyasya suruco yatānāḥ. Mahnā rāyah samvaraṇasya ṛṣe-rvrajam na gāvah prayatā api gman.

May the living voices of Vedic mantras and wealths of existence with all their grandeur of meaning and value, coexistent with the lord of original Word, loved by the scholar of holy intention and purpose, divined and envisioned in right selection of words by the Rshis, all dynamic and relevant by moving forward to modern contexts come to me like cows going to their stalls.

Mandala 5/Sukta 34

Indra Devata, Samvarana Prajapatya Rshi

अजातशत्रुमजरा स्ववृत्यनु स्वधामिता द्रुस्मीयत ।
सुनातन् पचत् ब्रह्मवाहस पुरुष्टुताय पत्तरं दधातन ॥ १ ॥

1. Ajātaśatrumajarā svarvatyanu svadhāmitā dasmamīyate. Sunotana pacata brahmavāhase puruṣṭutāya prataram dadhātana.

The lady of light and joy, grace unbound, unaging power, divine Shakti, as the human offering too, in yajna, follows the lord omnificent, Indra, omnipotent, free from enemies ever born. Sow the seed of piety, distil the soma, mature it for the lord creator, giver and receiver of food, energy and eternal wisdom, universally adored and worshipped, and bear and offer the fragrance that will take you across the seas of existence.

आ यः सामन जठरमपिप्रता मन्दत मधवा मधवा अन्धसः ।
यदीं मृगाय हन्तव महावधः सहस्रभृष्टिमुशना वधं
यमत ॥ २ ॥

2. Āyah somena jatharamapiprata' mandata maghavā madhvo andhasah. Yadīm mrgāya hantave mahāvadhaḥ sahasrabhr̥ṣtimuśanā vadham yamat.

He, lord of wealth, honour and power, who satisfies his hunger with soma and exults in honey sweets of food offered, and who, wielding the mighty thunderbolt of justice and punishment, out of love for life and the people raises his bolt of a thousand potentials to punish and destroy the wild beast of violence and ferocity: that is Indra, that is the ruler.

या अस्म घृंस उत वा य ऊर्धनि सामं सुनाति भवति द्युमाँ
अहै। अपाप शक्रस्ततुनुष्टिमूहति तनूशुभं मधवा यः कवासुखः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Yo asmai ghrāṁsa uta vā ya ūdhani somam̄ sunoti bhavati dyumān̄ aha. Apāpa śakras-tatanuṣṭimūhati tanuśubhram̄ maghavā yah kavāsakhaḥ.

He who creates soma day and night and offers it to this lord Indra surely rises to heights of brilliance in knowledge, power and honour. But Indra, the lord commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, disowns and throws off that man far and farther from himself who lives and works only for self-decoration and self-exhibition and associates with the selfish, miserly and wholly acquisitive.

यस्यावधीत्पितरं यस्य मातरं यस्य शका भातरं नात इषत ।

4. Yasyāvadhit pitaram̄ yasya mātaram̄ yasya śakro bhrātaram̄ nāta īṣate. Veti dvasya prayatā yataṁkaro na kilviṣādīṣate vasva ākarah.

If the powerful ruler punishes somebody's father or mother or brother, he does not for that reason forsake that person, nor does he go back on his decision. Indeed he expects and accepts the homage of the man since he loves effort and endeavour, and he is the shelter of all and a treasure of wealth. He does not fly away from sin and guilt, he faces it and fixes it.

न पञ्चभिदुशभिवष्ट्यारभं नासुन्वता सचतु पुष्टता चन ।

5. Na pañcabhir-daśabhir-vaṣṭyārabham nāsun-vatā sacate puṣyatā cana. Jināti vedamuyā hanti vā dhunirā devayum bhajati gomati vraje.

He does not wish to begin anything with the five senses and ten pranic energies in association with a selfish, slothful, unyajnic person even though he were otherwise thriving. In this manner he defeats and punishes the lazy and the selfish. But a terror as he is to the wicked, he loves and serves the pious and learned person in the place where cows roam around and the place resounds with chant of the sacred Word.

वित्व ठणः समृता चकमासुजा सुन्वता विषुणः सुन्वता

6. Vitvakṣṇah samṛtau cakramāsajo'sunvato viṣuṇah sunvato vṛdhah. Indro viśvasya damitā vibhiṣaṇo yathavaśam nayati dāsamāryah.

Brave in the battle of life, Indra destroys suffering and rides the wheel of time and cycle of the seasons. Averse to the selfish and uncreative, he helps and raises the creative men of yajna so that life may grow higher and better. Self-controlled and awe-inspiring, Indra is the ruler and ordainer of the world, a power, dynamic, ever modern and progressive, who controls the services of the nation according to the force and pressure needed on time.

समीं पूणरजति भाजनं मुष वि दाशुष्ट भजति सूनरं वसु ।

7. Samīm paner-ajati bhojanam muṣe vi dāsuṣe bhajati sūnaram vasu. Durge cana dhriyate viśva ā puru jano yo asya taviṣīmacukrudhat.

For sure he augments the food and comfort of the celebrant but takes away the grains of the thief, and for the charitable he gives wealth good for people. And into dungeon darkness are thrown all those people who challenge his blazing power and provoke his indignation.

सं यज्जना सुधना विश्वशधसा ववदिन्दा मघवा गाषु शुभिषु ।

8. Sam yajjanau sudhanau viśvaśardhasāvavedindro maghavā goṣu śubhriṣu. Yujān hyanyamakṛta pravepa nyudīm gavyam srjate satvabhir-dhunih.

If Indra, lord of honour and excellence, terror of the enemies and inspirer of the people by virtues of his nature and character, were to come across and select two men possessed of honest wealth and all round strength and courage from among the brilliant people over the reputed and spotless regions of the land, he would appoint one as his assistant, and the other for economic management providing for abundant water and wealth of cows and food products.

9. Sahasrasāmāgnivesim grṇīṣe śatrimagna upamāṁ ketumaryah. Tasmā āpah samyataḥ pīpayanta tasmin kṣatram-amavat tvesamastu.

Agni, resplendent ruler, you adore Indra, giver of a thousand gifts of fire and electric energy, powerful, self-evident mark of honour and grandeur. Such as you are, I pray, like rivers flowing in bounds to the sea, may the disciplined people be dedicated to you and may the social order, brilliance and majesty vest in you as their very home and glory incarnate.

Mandala 5/Sukta-35

Indra Devata, Prabhuvasu Angirasa Rshi

यस्त् साधिष्ठा वैसु इन्द् कर्तुष्टमा भर । अस्मभ्यं चषणीसहं सस्त्रिं वाजेषु दुष्टरम् ॥ १ ॥

1. Yaste sādhiṣṭho'vasa indra kratuṣṭamā bhara. Asmabhyam carṣaṇīsaham sasniṁ vājeṣu duṣṭarn.

Indra, lord resplendent, ruler of the world, for our protection and promotion, bear and bring for us that straight and most effective vision and action of yours which is pure and most bountiful, tolerant and yet challenging for people and formidable in our battles of life, the discipline inviolable.

यदिन्द त चतस्रा यच्छूर सन्ति तिस्रः ।
यद्वा पञ्चं तीनामवस्तत सुनु आ भर ॥ २ ॥

2. *Yadindra te catasro yacchūra santi tisrah.
Yad vā pañca kṣitīnāmavastat su na ā bhara.*

Indra, resplendent ruler, bear and bring us for the protection, progress and sustenance of the people those three, four or five principles of policy and values of society which, according to you, are the best ways of the peace and advancement of the people, and let us settle and establish ourselves therein with your law and inviolable power, brave one.

Note: This mantra is the basic formula of any socio-political structure and its governance and administration for the preservation, advancement and balanced sustenance of society. Details have to be worked out in the light of permanent values, history and tradition, and present and future implications. We may consider the following:

(A) Three: Physical, mental and spiritual well-being of the individual, society and the total human community, the departments of governance and administration, legislation and education; care, preservation and replenishment of the earth, environment and higher sphere; the government, the people, and the defence forces.

(B) Four: The four classes of the people, i.e., teachers and researchers, defence forces and administrators, producers and businessmen, and the ancillary workers; The four stages of individual and collective life, i.e., Brahmacharya (education, preparation and consolidation), Grhastha (family, professional life and social responsibilities and management), Vanaprastha (retirement and voluntary community service), and Sanyas (total freedom, renunciation and social service). This is Varnashrama Dharma.

(C) Five: Four classes of people and the other miscellaneous groups whosoever they be.

Five levels of organisation: individual, family, professional community, nation, and the global and environmental level.

Vedic suggestions are symbolic and general, particular details are to be worked out in the light of the Vedic purpose of life and living for the realisation of Dharma, righteousness in practical life, Artha, material well being, Kama, fulfilment of the Self, and Moksha, ultimate freedom.

Indra, resplendent lord of power and protection, we invoke and pray for your protection, most cherished, since you are the most generous and gracious. Uninterrupted is the shower of your grace like the showers of a cloud, as you arise, instantly victorious, commanding and bearing the protective blessings of existence such as knowledge, power and humility.

5. *Tvām tamindra martyam-amitrayantam-adrivah.

O lord most potent, let us have our cherished sustenance and word of wisdom in this kingdom of love and beauty. Let us know and meditate on the holy song of success and adoration in this kingdom of light and peace.

Come, Indra, lord of honour and excellence, you know the wealth, beauty and excellence, of the world of existence, you know how to give, you are the giver and treasure hold of the wealth of life, golden orb of the full moon. Like a sojourner of the skies, like a bird or bull, thirsting, loving, discriminating between truth and falsehood, come, drink the nectar of refreshing, rejuvenating, regenerating milk of life, your rightful share.

Indra, great and brave lord of heroic people, may love and sweetness play on your lips, let fragrance breathe from your nose, let success and glory play on your helmet like a soma creeper on mountain top. O ruler of the world all honoured and adored, like a victorious army rejoicing on victory, we all with all our voices in unison invoke and entertain you so that we all enjoy together.

Indra, invoked and adored, blazing as sun and generous as cloud, ever greater and greater, commanding knowledge, honour, power, and treasure hold of all wealth, like a wheel in motion my mind is trembling for fear of want of intelligence and understanding and, in praise and adoration of you as commander of the chariot, it raises the voice of prayer and supplication. Listen lord, shelter, haven and home of all.

Indra, lord of wealth, power and honour, you have attained the heights of wide spaces. This celebrant like a soma press which extracts streams of soma or like a cloud of showers sends up words of praise in your honour for your beneficence. You control and give gifts of wealth by both right and left hands. O warrior of the chariot and leader of men, we pray, do not ignore us.

Indra, you are brave and generous, may the gracious heaven elevate and exalt you. Generous and great, you move and rise by ground and powerful modes of transport and yajnic action. May the great lord of mighty chariot, clad in strong helmet, generous of action, wielder of the thunderbolt engage and protect us in the battle of life.

Let the people of the world bow in honour and reverence to the scholar, expert of the knowledge of motion and speed who teaches this young student the two allied subjects of the science of heat and electric energy with three hundred applications of it and designs a world famous vehicle for transport.

The flame of Agni, heat and light, invoked and kindled on the base of ghrta, water, rising fast and beautifully vies with the light of the sun. “This we create in honour of Indra, the ruler”: for the scholar scientist who says this, let untiring dawns of light and excellence shine blissfully.

2. Samiddhāgnir-vanavat stīrṇabarhir-yuktagrāvā sutasomo jarāte. Grāvāṇo yasyeṣirām vadantya-yad-adhvaryur-haviṣāva sindhum.

Agni, light and fire, raised and rising, touching the skies, suffusing the clouds, creating the soma for life and energy, crackles, and adores Divinity. The roaring clouds proclaim its force and refreshing power. The yajaka scientist with his yajnic inputs into the fire rises and moves to the sea (with fragrant vibrations rising to space, with waters flowing to the seas).

3. Vadhūr-iyam patim-icchanyeti ya īm vahāte mahiṣīm-iṣirām. Āsyā śravasyād ratha ā ca ghoṣāt purū sahasrā pari vartayāte.

Just as a loving bride goes to her groom and the bridegroom receives the consecrated bride, and both together run the home and take the family forward, so do fire and water mixed and working together drive the chariot and from the power and its revolution and thunderous roar many thousands of projects are moved forward.

न स राजा व्यथत् यस्मि न्दस्तीवं सामं पिबति गास-

That ruler does not face want and trouble in whose realm Indra, fire or electric energy, consumes intense liquid, friendly with earth connection, and goes forward with various forms of power. The ruler moves forward, breaks the clouds for rain, destroys the demon of darkness with light and knowledge, and settles his people in homes, thus progressing all forward in health and sustenance and earning a name for wealth and power.

5. *Pusyāt kṣeme abhi yoge bhavātyubhe vṛtau samyaṭi sam jayāti. Priyah sūrye priyo agnā bha-

That nation moves forward in yoga, creation of new assets, and in kshema, preservation of the progress and achievement earlier attained, rises higher in social dynamics both ways, and wins further ground in both together: the nation which reverentially loves solar energy, which reverentially takes interest in fire energy, and which spares its best and sweetest surplus in the service of Indra, development of electric energy.

Indra, hero of a hundred holy actions with insight and counsel, wide and high are your powers and wealth, abundant your gifts. Ultimate watcher and observer of all that is in the world, ruler of the mighty social order, lead us on to wealth, power, honour and excellence and help us rise to the heights.

2. Yadīmindra śravāyyam-iṣam śaviṣṭha dadhiṣe. Paprathe dīrghaśruttamam hiranyavarṇa duṣṭaram.

Indra, ruler of golden majesty, lord most potent, destroyer of suffering, whatever food, energy and light of knowledge, great and renowned, you bear and bestow upon us you increase and extend, and it resounds far and wide as the highest of fame most unchallengeable by mortal man.

3. *Śuṣmāso ye te adrivo mehanā ketasāpah.

O ruler of the clouds and mountains, dispenser of generous and adamantine justice, these powers and potent people of yours, these lights and the enlightened, all these brilliancies that obey your law and do your will both shine and exalt earth and heaven with their power and generosity for the achievement of cherished goals.

4. *Uto no asya kasya cid dakṣasya tava vrtrahan.

Indra, O lord destroyer of darkness, want and suffering, bring that human wealth of values, honour and excellence which is worthy of anyone here, there and everywhere in terms of efficiency of your divine order. Give us the power and freedom from fear, since you love us and wish us to rise and prosper.

Indra, lord of unbounded action and generosity, potent ruler of the world, may we with these cherished blessings under your benign protection be possessors, protectors and promoters of lands and cows and revelations of light. Let us be preservers and promoters without fear.

1. *Yadindra citra mehanā'sti tvādātamadriyah.

Indra, O lord of light and power, mysterious and sublime, resplendent ruler of the clouds and mountains, omniscient dispenser of munificence, whatever the rain of blessings showered by you, whatever the wealth and honour of success, not yet ours, pray give us with both hands.

2. Yanmanyase vareṇyam-indra dyukṣam tad-ābhara. Vidyāma tasya te vayam-akūpārasya dāvane.

Indra, whatever you think is worthy of choice, bear and bring that brilliant gift of heavenly quality. Let us receive that and let us know that as a blessing of your unbounded generosity worthy to be received and justified with gratitude.

3. *Yat te ditsu prarādhyam mano asti śrutam bṛhat.
Tena drlhā cidadriva ā vājam darṣi sātaye.*

Adriva, wielder of thunder arms and ruler of clouds and mountains, with that mind and courage of yours which is great, renowned and magnanimous leading to sure success, break down the strongholds of darkness and scatter the forces of negativity to reveal the light of rectitude for success and victory.

4. *Maṇhiṣṭham vo maghonāṁ rājānaṁ carṣaṇī-nām.

For the praise and celebration of Indra, greatest of the powerful among you and ruler of the people, offer songs of adoration with the eternal verses of the Vedas as did the ancients for the benediction of the lord and master.

5. *Asmā it kāvyam vaca uktham-indrāya śamsyam.

For this Indra, lord and master, indeed, is the holy poetic voice of praise. For that lord giver of universal wealth and light of knowledge and wisdom do poets free from threefold bondage of body, mind and soul raise and offer their songs of adoration. Him, the voices beautified with threefold graces of sound, meaning and structure, free from threefold defects of sound, meaning and structure exalt and glorify.

Mandala 5/Sukta 40

Indra, Surya, Atri Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

1. *Ā yāhyadribhiḥ sutam̄ somam̄ somapate piba.
Vṛṣannindra vṛṣabhir-vṛtrahantama.*

Indra, creator and protector of honour, excellence and prosperity, come with the clouds of rain showers, and taste and promote the distilled soma of the herbs of the earth. Come, generous lord, greatest dispeller of darkness and suffering, with the strongest and most enlightened, commanding the creation of glory.

2. *Vṛṣā grāvā vṛṣā mado vṛṣā somo ayam̄ sutah.
Vṛṣannindra vṛṣabhir-vṛtrahantama.*

Deep is the cloud, the hope and ecstasy is high, and this soma distilled is potent and delicious. O generous lord, Indra, creator of valour and destroyer of darkness and suffering, come and realise the highest prosperity with the showers of rain clouds.

3. *Vṛṣā tvā vṛṣanām̄ huve vajriñ-citrābhīr-ūtibhiḥ.
Vṛṣannindra vṛṣabhir-vṛtrahantama.*

Indra, potent lord of generosity, magnanimous giver of the showers of joy, wielder of the arms of thunder, greatest breaker of the clouds of rain and destroyer of evil, I invoke you with the strongest and most liberal powers and gifts of prosperity to come with various and wondrous securities, protections and promotions.

Dynamic guardian of the path of rectitude to the last, wielder of thunder, generously brave, breaker of tempestuous missiles instantly, terribly forceful, resplendent ruler and sovereign commander, destroyer of the darkest enemies and protector of peaceful prosperity and joy of the people, Indra comes post haste by fastest horses, and at the noon day session of yajna joins the celebrations of the nation's honour and excellence.

5. *Yat tvā sūrya svarbhānus-tamasāvidhyad-āsurah.
Akṣetravid yathā mugdho bhuvanān-yadīdhayuh.*

When the moon lighted by the sun affects the sun with the darkness of its shadow, when it is in line with the sun and earth, then the person who does not know his area feels confused during the eclipse and the regions too appear confusing. Similarly O sun, light of the spirit, when the veil of darkness covers knowledge and awareness of the spirit, then the ignorant man feels confused and the world too appears different, that is, the material appears as ultimate reality and the spirit is eclipsed. He makes no distinction between body and soul.

स्वभानुरध्य यदिन्द्र माया अवा द्विवा वतमाना अवाहन ।

6. Svarbhānoradha yadindra māyā avo divo vartamānā avāhan. Gūlham sūryam tamasāpavra-tena turīyena brahmaṇāvindadatriḥ.

And then Indra, when the cosmic energy which moves the stars and planets removes the shadow of the moon from the sun, then Atri, man of knowledge, with his fourth state of the soul, that is, turiya, direct vision of Reality, regains the sight of the sun earlier covered by the shadow of the moon.

Similarly, when Indra, lord of light, removes the illusion of darkness which intercepts the light of the spirit below it, then Atri, the sage of knowledge and discrimination, with this fourth stage of spiritual development, regains the light earlier covered by the darkness of ignorance.

मा मामिमं तव सन्तमत्र इरस्या दुर्गाधा भियसा नि गारीत ।

7. Mā māmimam tava santamatra irasyā drugdho bhiyasā ni gārīt. Tvaṁ mitro asi satyarādhāstau mehāvataṁ varunaśca rājā.

O sage, Atri, free from the bondage of confusion between body, mind and soul, I am your friend. Let not this malevolent ogre out of anger, dread or hunger devour me. You are a friend. So is this Varuna, ruler of light and man of judgement and discrimination. May you two, I pray, protect me from darkness, ignorance and confusion.

dhāt svarbhānorapa māya aghukṣat.*

Then Atri, sagely scholar of four Vedas, free from threefold confusion, illusion and sufferance, collecting hymns of adoration, joining wise sages, singing songs of adoration in honour of Divinity, teaches and illuminates the suppliant disciple, removes the clouds, dispels the veil of darkness and illusion, and restores the light of the heavenly sun into the spirit.

9. *Yam vai sūryam svarbhānus-tamāsavidhyadā-

That sun and light of heaven, covered by the shadow of the moon and hidden by the veil of darkness, the Atris, sages of knowledge in the fourth state of spiritual development, turiya, direct vision of Reality, free from threefold confusion, illusion and sufferance, restore and regain for themselves and their disciples. Others cannot see that light because they do not have the spiritual vision and freedom from illusion.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and bliss of heaven, complementary energies of prana and udana, friend and man of justice, teacher and preacher, who, for sure, dedicated to truth, can know you? Who can thank you in words? Protect and promote us wherever you be in your regions of truth and natural law in the light of heaven, the firmament or the earth, and bless us with food and energy, speed and progress, vision and wisdom, and material and spiritual wealth for the generous man of yajna.

May the light of the day and the peace of night, the ocean, the cosmic order, health and time of age, spiritual vision, spirit of nature, cosmic flow of energies, be friendly with us. May all these who, together in love and loyalty with Rudra, lord of generous abundance and universal justice of correctitude, bear and carry our prayers and adorations and yajnic offerings with all our obedience and salutations to the Lord.

Ashvins, complementary harbingers of light and life energy, observers and keepers of the laws of nature and guiding principles of humanity, teachers and preachers, I invoke you for extension of the paths of winds and clearance of the channels of progress, and I call upon you for strengthening and sophistication of the chariot powers of humanity. Come ye all fellow men, travellers and friends, concentrate your thoughts and intentions on the life breath of existence flowing from the regions of light as you bear and bring the food and fragrance for the yajna fire.

The resplendent yajaka, forbearing, challenging and victorious, intelligent and self-conscious (Kanya), Trita, active and expansive in the three regions of the universe, i.e., the sun, wind and electric energy, heat and light, nourishment and growth, power, prosperity, honour and excellence, all operative together in love like friends, with brilliant holy ambitions for the advancement of the world, may, we plan and pray, come like warriors flying to the battle business of life on the wings of fastest coursers.

O Maruts, dynamics of nature and progressive forces of humanity, create, bear and bring the wealth and power born of action and advancement. Develop, hold and use knowledge and intelligence for the achievement of all forms of power, honour and prosperity. All the actions and movements of yours are for your good, and by all these progressive steps of yours, the yajaka, creator and giver of fragrance, humanity, the child of brilliant ambition, grows happy and enjoys peace and comfort.

With your holy chants of mantras and offers of fragrant inputs into the yajnic fire of corporate action, create the wind and electric energy usable in your transports for progress. Create the brilliant, vibrant, admirable scholar and scientist of energy. And may these warriors of energy and scientific intelligence dedicated to progress and the truth and goodness of the laws of natural and human dynamics, serving heaven and earth, motherly divinities, bear and bring universal light and nourishment for our intellectual and cultural advancement.

In consequence, for your success and achievement, by virtue of your holy and powerful efforts and your intelligent and enlightened chants and oblations, may the night and day, both great and potent, like intelligent and educated women, carry your yajna across the world and bring you from heaven the wealth of the world for humanity.

Happy with myself, celebrant for you all, and for the achievement of wealth, power and all round prosperity, I honour, adore and serve the leaders who work for food and nourishment for growth. I honour the artist, architect and maker of forms, and love creative and friendly intelligence, trees and herbs, with reverence, gratitude, replenishment and renewal.

May the clouds and mountains be for the expansion of our charities. So may be the Vasus, abodes of life such as earth and oceans, suns and planets, as well as the brave and generous people of strength and intelligence, self-motivated, self-moved, celebrated, self-realised, creative and corporate powers, and may they all augment our honour and reputation in all fields of human welfare.

I admire and adore the lightning fire, child of waters, which pervades the three worlds of the universe and gives showers of life for the fertility of the earth. Like a moving power with locks of light with its force and motion, Agni energises the rays of the sun, moves the clouds and enlivens the forests with greenery.

11. Kathā mahe rudriyāya bravāma kad rāye cikituse bhagāya. Āpa oṣadhīruta no'vantu dyaurvanā girayo vrkṣakeśāḥ.

How shall we speak to the seeker of nature's catalytic powers breaking and making the changing forms of matter and energy, how speak to the earnest seeker of knowledge, of wealth, production and prosperity? May the flowing waters and clouds, herbs, heavens, rays of sunlight and high mountains with locks of forests help and protect us.

May the lord creator, controller and sustainer of energies listen to our voice of prayer, listen and reveal the mystery. May the master of the science of energy listen and enlighten us. May the lord omniscient, pervasive in waters and the skies, ever moving, omnipresent, listen and reveal the knowledge. May the crystal waters and the perennial streams and showers issuing forth from the mighty clouds and mountains speak to us like the clairvoyant ancient seers and seekers.

Listen ye, great ones, and let us know for certain those acts and motions of yours which we speak of and pray for, which, all great and generous ones, bearing cherished gifts of food, energy, health and age, ever growing stronger and expansive, mighty powerful with their catalytic forces, come to the mortal seeker who tries to know and search them out.

I speak of the celestial and terrestrial evolution of things and forces and their actions and attributes for the holy pursuer of creative yajnic action. May the heavenly light and words of knowledge grow with peace, beauty and bliss in action. May the waters of life and energy grow and flow like the spatial oceans enveloping our existence.

At every stage of evolution, my growth with divine praise and prayer is evident, replete with power and grace bearing all natural and divine modes and materials of protection and progress. May mother earth and her nectar sweets of energy with sages and scholars bless us with the rich gifts of her simple, natural and liberal hands.

How shall we honour and serve the generous and renowned Maruts, dynamics of nature and the dynamic leaders and scholars of humanity, with offers of gifts and acts of homage in order to thank and supplicate them in words of reverence? Too generous and too highly renowned are they even for the best and choicest words of ours. May the generous cloud in the sky never forsake us to suffer want and injury. May there always be ample blessings of nature and Divinity for us close at hand.

Thus does mortal man honour and celebrate you, O divinities of nature and humanity, for progeny and for abundance of wealth and cattle. Thus does mortal man win your favour. Give me here in the world well being of the body and sustenance for health, and may mother earth with her generosity keep off debility and decay of my health and the onset of old age.

O Vasus, divinities of nature and humanity, may we receive that holy intelligence of yours, that energising food, by our praise and prayer in honour of mother earth, nature and the cow, and may that mother power, generous, loving and merciful, O divinities, sages and scholars, the lady overflowing with kindness, move for us in response to us for our good, for our honour and prosperity.

And may the majesty of divinities, commanding universal light, comprehending the meaning, purpose and energy of life itself, revealing knowledge and wisdom come to us.

And let the scientist help us and the lord omniscient bless us, with strength and energy from all sources of nature.

Mandala 5/Sukta 42

Vishvedeva Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

प शन्तमा वरुणं दीधिती गीमित्रं भगमदिति नूनमश्याः ।
पृष्ठद्यानिः पञ्चहाता शृणात्वतृतपन्था असुरा मयाभुः ॥ १ ॥

1. Pra śantamā varuṇam dīdhiti gīmitram bhagamaditīm nūnamaśyāḥ. Pṛṣadyonih pañcahotā śṛṇotvatūrtapanthā asuro mayobhuh.

Let my holy voice, the chant of OM, full of peace and bliss, light of my higher energy of udana, rise up and reach Varuna, cherished lord of love and justice, Mitra, lord of light and friendship, Bhaga, lord of honour and excellence, and Aditi, mother Infinity of heaven and earth. May the lord Supreme listen and receive, the lord of Eternal Word and speech coexistent with space and Divinity, ministrant of five pranic energies, indefatigable and irresistible in the ways of his power and action, giver of life and energy, lord of bliss, Bliss itself.

2. Prati me stomam-aditir-jagrbhyāt sūnum na mātā hrdayam suśevam. Brahma priyam devahi-tam yadastyaham mitre varuṇe yanmayobhu.

May Aditi, mother of eternal speech, receive and love my song of praise and prayer as a mother holds her child to the heart, dear, cherished and soothing. Brahma, lord Infinite that is dear, kind and benevolent to the noble people, supreme giver, who inspires prana and udana energies, is our lord adorable.

3. Udīraya kavitaṁ kavīnām-unattainam-abhi madhvā ghṛtena. Sa no vasūni prayatā hitāni candrāṇi devah savitā suvāti.

Sing, celebrate him that is the most imaginative of poets, exalt him with honey sweets of song and homage, and may he, the inspirer creator, Savita, resplendent and generous lord, in response to our homage and effort, give us cherished wealth and honour of our choice for the good of our body, mind and soul.

4. Samindra no manasā nesi gobhiḥ sam sūribhir-harivah sam svasti. Sam brahmaṇā devahitam yadasti sam devānām sumatyā yajñiyānām.

Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, you lead us on with a holy mind, with efficient senses, intelligence and songs of homage, with bright and brave people. Lord of humanity, commanding the motive forces of the dynamics of existence, let there be all good and well being for us. Lead us on with knowledge and wealth of divinity, with whatever is good and beneficial for noble people, and with the wisdom of the brilliant people devoted to yajnic creation and divine service.

May the brilliant and generous, the prosperous and honourable, the creator inspirer, rich and generous, participant sharer, commander of honour and excellence, winner of loud showers, producer of wealth, the powerful intellectual, commander of power and progress, the man of wisdom and distant vision, the immortals and powers of tempestuous advancement, may all these protect and promote us on the path of goodness.

We sing and celebrate the acts and achievements of the lord of men and winds, incomprehensible, victorious, unaging and undecaying. O lord of honour and power, Indra, neither the ancients, nor the moderns, nor the succeeding ones nor anyone else would comprehend your power and potential.

First sing in honour of him close at hand who wields and governs the jewel wealth of existence, Brhaspati, Lord Almighty of the boundless universe, giver of wealth and honour, lord most blissful, omnificent, universally adored, who blesses the celebrant and suppliant, and brings him the wealth and honour prayed for.

Brhaspati, O lord of unbounded wealth of the universe, the people who are free from injury, enjoying wealth and power, brave and fearless, sharing the blessings of your protections, who are generous and honourable and give horses, cows and clothes in charity, all enjoy the good fortune of wealth and power and the grace of divinities.

Render the wealth of those people fruitless and unproductive who eat by themselves inspite of our songs of divine praise in honour of charity. Deprive them of the light of the sun who observe no rules of good conduct, and who, while growing materially in the lord's creation, revile the lord giver and desecrate the food.

10. *Ya oħate rakṣaso devavītāvacakrebhistam maruto

O Maruts, dynamic leaders of the people, take him down straight, not in round about words, who invokes and entertains the wicked in the holy programmes of society, who reviles the noble work of the divine celebrant and who, even though trying hard apparently, demeans his values and desires.

Praise and exalt him who wields the strong bow and sharp arrow in support of life and shelters the creative, corrective and protective forces of the world. Do good work in cooperation with the great and magnanimous people, and honour and serve with homage and holy offerings Rudra, lord of power, justice and punishment, brilliant and generous giver of life and energy.

May those who are generous at heart, noble at work, liberal of hand, bold and bountiful, motherly women, streams of water flowing within bounds of divinity, vastly illuminative, perennially flowing with sweetness, blissful like a moonlit night, ever giving without reserve, pure and immaculate, we pray, bless us.

I offer my latest song of praise arising spontaneously and dedicate my intellect and imagination in honour of Indra, blissful shelter of the world, who, sculptor of the forms of his creation, has provided and made to flow this water for us in the streams of his daughter, the earth.

14. Pra suṣṭutih stanayantam ruvantam-iļaspatim jaritar-nūnamaśyāḥ. Yo abdimān udanimān iyarti pra vidyutā rodasi ukṣamāṇah.

Let this celebrative song, O celebrant, rise and reach the roaring, thundering lord of earth and eternal speech who, replete with blissful waters, rolling like spatial oceans, goes forward sprinkling the earth and illuminating heaven and earth with the showers of light and life.

Let this song of praise reach and excite the power and force of the Maruts, fellow humans, youthful children of Rudra, Lord of law, justice and discriminative wisdom, and let my love and desire inspire them for wealth and honour of the world. O celebrant, celebrate the dynamic forces of humanity, generous and showerful as the clouds.

May this song of celebration ring over the earth, resound across the sky, and vibrate among the trees and herbs for the production of wealth. May the lord supreme, God of the divinities of nature and humanity, be kind to me and listen to my invocation and prayer. May the mother earth be kind and never ill-disposed to us.

17. Urau devā anibādhe syāma.

O divinities, saints and sages, may we ever prosper in the unbounded generosity of nature and of mother earth.

O lord, we pray, may we ever follow and benefit from the latest and blissful guidance and noble policy of the Ashwins, teachers and scholars. Bring us, O divine -twin powers of nature's complementarities, wealth, brave progeny and all the imperishable good fortunes of honour and excellence. Let us prosper with your protection and vision of progress.

Mandala 5/Sukta 43

Vishvedeva Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

आ धनवः पयसा तूण्यथा अमधन्तीरुपं ना यन्तु मध्वा ।

1. Ā dhenavah payasā tūṇryarthā amardhantīrupa no yantu madhvā. Maho rāye brhatīḥ sapta vipro mayobhuvo jaritā johavīti.

Let the Voice of Divinity like mother cows, flowing with milky streams of meaning and metaphor, instantly vibrating unto the mind and soul, incessantly rippling and soothing without violence or difficulty, come and bless us with honey sweets of divine peace and spiritual awareness. Sevenfold are they in sound, music and meaning, expressive, grand and infinite. The celebrant yajaka, joyous and ecstatic, invokes, augments and proclaims the voices for the highest wealth and well being of life.

आ सुष्टुती नमसा वत्यध्य द्यावा वाजाय पृथिवी अमृथ ।

2. Ā suṣṭutī namasā vartayadhyai dyāvā vājāya prthivī amṛdhre. Pitā mātā madhuvacāḥ suhastā bharebhare no yaśasāvaviṣṭām.

We offer songs of adoration with homage and offers of yajnic food and fragrance to win incessant blessings of loving and non-violent heaven and earth for the sake of food and sustenance, knowledge and progressive advancement in life. May the father, mother, heaven and earth, sweet and loving of voice and word, liberal and unstinted of hand, bless us with honour and excellence at every stage of our battle business of life.

3. Adhvaryavaś-cakṛvāṁso madhūni-pra vāyave bharata cāru śukram. Hoteva nah prathamah pāhyasya deva madhvo rarimā te madāya.

O priests of the scientific yajna for peace and unity with love and non-violence, working on the holy powers and mysteries of wind and electric energy, take up pure energised waters, and create and bear the energy for Vayu, spirit and ruler of humanity. O Vayu, brilliant ruler, first of all preserve, protect and promote this honey sweet energy so that we may be happy and enjoy life together for your honour and pleasure.

4. Daśa kṣipo yuñjate bāhū adrīm somasya yā śamitārā suhastā. Madhvo rasam sugabhasṭir-giriṣṭhāṁ caniścadad duduhe śukramamśuh.

Just as ten fingers join the two hands, and the dexterous priests use the stone press to extract the soma juice, and just as the sun with its bright rays, happy and rejoicing, distils the potent pure honey sweet vitalities of energy existing in the clouds and mountains, so do the happy performers of scientific yajna for peace, expert specialists of energy, using their hands and mind and senses, working on the clouds distil the purest rays of energy, the honey sweet essence of nature's sources of wind and waters.

5. Asāvi te jujuṣāñāya somah kratve dakṣāya bṛhate madāya. Harī rathe sudhurā yoge arvāgindra priyā kṛnuhi hūyamānah.

Indra, brilliant ruler, commander of winds and waters, distilled is the soma of energy for your knowledge and enlightenment, for your power and potential, and for delight and grand celebration, love as you do the honour and excellence of prosperity. Invoked and invited to the celebration, harness the fast controlled powers to the chariot, come straight, and accomplish the programmes you wish to complete.

6. Ā no mahīm-aramatim sajōṣā gnām devīm namasā rātahavyām. Madhormadāya bṛhatīm-rtajñāmāgne vaha pathibhirdevayānaiḥ.

Agni, O light of knowledge, scholar scientist, loving and cooperative, lead us on to that great, continuous but unaddicted knowledge of divine value with your humility and yajnic inputs, knowledge which is highly creative and productive for honey sweet delights and celebration of mankind, which is vastly revealing of mother nature's truths and worthy of further pursuit by the progressive paths of divinities and nobilities among humanity.

7. *Añjanti yam prathayanto na viprā vapāvantam

Like a darling child in the lap of father, like the fire of yajna in the vedi, the disciple in pursuit of the light of knowledge and fire of life is seated in school close to the teachers like a seedling growing to fullness, whom sagely scholars, purifying, seasoning and tempering like steel and gold by the heat of fire, strengthen and prepare for a full yajnic life.

Let the good and great, wide and high, refreshing and beneficent voice of ours like a messenger go to invoke and invite the Ashvins, teachers and preachers, complementary powers of nature, positive and negative currents of energy circuit, and may the Ashvins, kind, peaceable and peace giving come to us straight like the centre pin of the axle and nave of a chariot wheel, and share our treasure wealth of knowledge, power and material well-being.

I offer the song of homage and reverence in honour of Pusha, power of nourishment, and Vayu, energy of wind and electricity, both power givers for success and achievement, inspirers of mankind, and both spontaneous and instant givers of wealth and progress.

O Jataveda, light of life, sagely scholar of the knowledge of things in existence, invoked and invited, kindled and raised, you bring and speak of all the energies of winds and electricity of all names and all descriptions for men. O Maruts, winds and energies, in response to the mantric formulae and the celebrant's songs of adoration, come all and bring all modes of protection and advancement along to the sagely scholars' yajnic pursuit of research and development.

May Sarasvati, divine mother of knowledge and language in the cosmic flow, loving and responsive to her children, come to bless our yajna, bearing ghrta and waters of life's energy and inspiration from heaven, the vast skies, clouds and mountains. May she join us like a mother overflowing with love, listen to our words of prayer for peace and pious advancement and give us the vision.

Enshrine the eminent sage and scholar specialised in the round blue skies, great and rising pursuant of space, in your seat of yajnic learning, in the home and in the assembly : the scholar concentrating on the ultimate natural causes, bright and illuminative, golden in performance, the very dawn of light and knowledge, we honour and serve.

May the wielder and sustainer of existence, mighty resplendent and blissful, invoked, enkindled and raised in the Vedi come and bless our Yajna with all means of protection and progress, the Lord illuminating our voices of praise and prayer, vitalising herbs and vegetation, kind and loving, Lord of Nature's three modes of thought (Sattva), energy (Rajas) and matter (Tamas) which are transparent, red and dark green, the Lord generous as showers and giver of health and age.

On the sacred and excellent Vedi on the floor of mother earth, lovers and admirers of life come in pursuit of the joy of living, bearing holy offers for the sacred fire. And just as they cleanse the new born baby and welcome it in new life, so they feed, serve and develop the holy fire with love and offers of food and fragrance like a living divinity on earth.

O immortal divines, bear and bring us wealth, and brave progeny and all the good fortunes of the world.

Indra, Ruler as of ancient times, as before, as always, as of now, with your holy voice you draw upon the highest, heavenly, blissful force and power present upfront and instantly victorious in the battles of life, and you grow and progress in consequence of that same power and force. O Ruler, let us all honour and augment and serve that power.

Ruler of the world, you are the self-fulgent light of heaven, illuminator of spaces and mover of the still clouds of vapours in the skies, the lord whose lights and graces are for the beauty and majesty of life. You are the protector, defender, preserver and promoter. You are not for deceit or violence. (He abides in, with, and above the dynamics of the yajnic evolution of existence: consumer, consumed, consumption, evolution and devolution, the beginning and the end, all): He abides with the food of life. He is truth, reality, eternity. He is the wielder, sustainer and commander of the world in existence. Inviolable is his word, uncharted his way. He is the yajaka, creator and giver. He is the lord and controller of power and potential, challenge and forbearance. He is ever on the move across the skies and spaces. He is the generous cloud, the seedling in the womb of existence, ever young, unaging, antidote of negative destruction, and loving support of all.

O children of the earth, for your good and comfort, immediate as well as distant, are these united, cooperative, well controlled radiations of the sun all round, fostering the truth of nature's law in their own way: For that Master Spirit, the sun sucks up the vapours of water from the ocean and other lower places by well directed, all dominating waves of light, and then makes the cloud release the waters in rain showers to flow down in streams and rivers into the ocean.

(In the same way the administrative forces of the ruler, working together in cooperation within the law, collect the taxes from the various communities of the people and the ruler uses the collection for rain showers of the people's protection, promotion and prosperity without hoarding anything for himself.)

Shining and vibrating by flutter of the leaves of trees, proclaiming the presence of the spirit manifested in life forms living and aging in the world of creation, in the caves of the heart, you shine and radiate in the consciousness, O lord of rectitude and paths of naturalness. Grow on, live on, O lord, in the yajna of creation and let the life forms grow on and advance.

Who are the sagely divines of humanity? As they see the truth of reality, so do they speak of it. They behold it and stand thereby by the holy reflection of it in divine works of creation or in the visions of their own imagination. And they, men of courage, wide and bold in speech and imagination, bear and bring for us great illuminative speech of knowledge and high and mighty undecaying valour, forbearance and spirit of challenge which creates great heroes in the service of truth and rectitude. They are human divines.

7. Vetyagrur-janivān vā ati spṛdhah samaryatā manasā sūryah kaviḥ. Ghramśam rakṣantam pari viśvato gayamasmākam śarma vanavat svāvasuh.

The leader, reborn in knowledge and courage of action, goes forward challenging, thirsting for battle, radiant by mind, visionary of present and future, protecting the light of day, preserving our future wealth of generations, and protecting our hearth and home, self-possessed and self-established as he is.

The ruler and scholar who receives and serves the superior, the holy and advancing voice of the seers and sages by virtue of the knowledge and efforts of this industrious scholar, and you whose name and fame resounds among the people, whichever way the name and fame and knowledge is received, and the man who attains the knowledge of that all by his own effort and karmic discipline and carries the tradition on by himself, self-possessed and self-established, may all these do us good on our way of life.

The fame and advancement of these people resounds over seas and abides over spaces, nor does their yajnic progress suffer where hymns are chanted and wealth grows in holiness. Here the heart's desire of the worshipper is not obstructed where holy intelligence and intentions abide for guidance in action.

With our collective thoughts and intentions and with all our love and delight, we desire to have that ruler for the social order whose high strength and dynamism is respected by the wise and enlightened scholars, who is a strong disciplinarian and organiser, who commands intelligence and eloquence, who is a holy and cooperative man of yajna, sociable as a friend and who can preserve, protect, defend, promote and enlighten the people and the system. Only such a person deserves to be the ruler.

Of these people, he, the ruler, is the Shyena, eagle, harbinger of nectar, the watchful eye, and the marksman for the target, the destination. He is Aditi, the inviolable identity, symbol of nature, character, tradition and the nation. He is Kakshya, orbit of movement as well as the rampart, ever in harness, and he is the joy of life. Of this universal leader, all embracing and giving, all powerful, they jointly and separately desire and ask for advancement, know his generosity, and find their own fulfilment in his presence.

He is an unfailing giver of fulfilment, holy and cooperative in joint action for development, destroyer of hate and enmity, strong of arms, scholar of the Vedas, accessible saviour and helper and friendly for all of you. He receives both friend and foe appropriately and realises both material and spiritual good, shines and illuminates, the leader who serves this social order and this people with effective and acceptable means and policies.

The baby's parent, the yajaka's protector and promoter, the teacher, ruler, guardian of humanity who preserves, sustains and advances whatever wealth and joy is achieved, the treasure hold of all history and tradition and intellectual and scientific progress on the march, bearing the milky food for body, mind and soul like the mother cow and forbearing earth, he goes onwards high proclaiming his knowledge and vision, the divine gift, without a wink of sleep: He is worthy of reverence.

Whoever is awake, the Rks love and bless.
Whoever is alert, the Samans move and elevate.
Whoever is active without a wink of sleep, this soma of life's joy and ecstasy addresses and says: O seeker and yajaka, I am for you, a friend and shelter home.

To Agni, soul of life awake, the light of Rks radiates with love. To Agni, light of life awake, the songs of Samans vibrate with love. To Agni, the fire of life aflame, the streams of nectar flow with love, and to the soul of life, the light of awareness and the fire of action, the ecstasy of life says: I am yours with love, a friend, your very haven and home.

Mandala 5/Sukta 45

Vishvedeva Devata, Sadaprna Atreya Rshi

विदा द्विवा विष्य अदिमुक्थरायत्या उषसा अचिना गुः ।

1. Vidā divo viṣyann-adrim-ukthair-āyat�ā uṣaso arcino guḥ. Apāvṛta vrajinīrūt svargād vi duro mānuṣīrdeva āvah.

Brilliant sages with holy songs of adoration worship the self-refulgent Lord and break the cloud of ignorance. In consequence, the dawn of light follows, dispels the nights of darkness, and then the refulgent sun of divine knowledge opens the doors of human reason and intelligence with knowledge.

वि सूर्या' अमतिं न श्रियं सादावाद गवां माता जानुती

2. Vi sūryo amatim̄ na śriyam̄ sādorvād gavām̄ mātā jānatī gāt. Dhanvarṇaso nadyah̄ khādo arṇāh̄ sthūneva sumitā dṛṁhata dyauh.

The sun takes on the resplendent form of beauty like the grace of divinity, and from the vast heavens, the dawn, mother of light rays, goes forward revealing the beauty of the world. Streams and rivers, charming bright and refreshing, flow rushing on to the sea. The regions of light rise on, expansive like a measured column of the day's sustenance.

(The mantra is a metaphor, in continuation of the previous mantra, of the expansion of the light of knowledge and onward flow of life.)

अस्मा उक्थाय पवतस्य गभा' महीनां जुनुषं पूर्वाय । वि

3. Asmā ukthāya parvatasya garbho mahīnām̄ januṣe pūrvyāya. Vi parvato jihīta sādhata dyaur-āvivāsanto dasayanta bhūma.

In honour of this adorable ancient sun, cause of the birth of planets and the cloud, and for the fertility of the earths, the vapours leave the cloud to rain in showers. Let us too, high shining like the sun, realising the light of knowledge, illuminating all around, giving in charity, eliminating evil, realise ourselves.

4. Sūktebhīrvo vacobhir-devajusṭair-indrā nvagnī avase huvadhyai. Ukthebhīrhi ṣmā kavayah̄ suyajñā āvivāsanto maruto yajanti.

With unambiguous holy words approved by scholars and loved and used by divine brilliancies, we study and experiment with Indra and Agni for the invocation and achievement of electric energy and fire power for protection and progress, just as, with the same holy words, for all time, poetic men of vision and imagination and dynamic scientists engaged in creative and productive joint works, shining and illuminating in the pursuit of truth, work and conduct holy programmes of research for you all.

5. Eto nvadya sudhyo bhavāma pra ducchunā minavāmā varīyah. Are dvesāmisi sanutardadhāmā'-yāma prāñco yajamānamaccha.

Come ye all today, let us engage in works of vision and wisdom as intelligent holy people. Let us throw off all evil and eliminate it. Let us always keep hate and enmity far away. Let us move forward and enthusiastically join the yajamana engaged in creative and productive work for advancement.

Come friends, let us take up works of science and reason by which mother knowledge reveals and, like the dawn, opens the doors of light and power, by which the man of war and tactics wins the helmet and armour, and by which the industrious producer achieves fertile land and ample water.

7. Let the priest of dexterous hand, generous like the cloud, celebrant of divinity and nature's powers, set the yajna in motion, inspiring the new generation on the move to keep the fire burning for ten months at least, and the dynamics of revelation would flow to the yajna, open the secrets of the Word and knowledge and control of mind and senses, and vibrant men of initiative would enact projects of truth and universal good.

8. When on the rise of this glorious dawn the Angiras, vibrant scholars and sages dedicated to yajnic divinity, meet and rejoice with the rays of light, then, the oceanic source of these rays of light being in the highest heaven, it is the radiations of Divinity on the waves of nature's vitality that transmit the revelations of light and knowledge and bless the yajnic seekers.

9. Ā suryo yatu saptāśvah kṣetram yadasyorviyā dirghayāthe. Raghuḥ syenah patayad-andho acchā yuvā kavirdīdayad goṣu gacchan.

Let the sun, commanding seven horses of its spectrum lights, come to the earthly part of its domain like a flying courser, a hawk-like harbinger of nectar, dispelling darkness, and ripening food with its light and heat, and let it shine, an unaging youth, a visionary creator and inspirer, going over lands and planets on the long course of its orbit in space.

So may the light of the Spirit descend into the earthly form of the body of five elements and five senses, mind and intelligence, and illuminate the individual personality of the soul to keep it a youthful visionary and self-inspiring poet, creatively playing around with the mind and senses, dispelling the darkness of ignorance and ripening the existential potential of its nature, across the world of five elements, and ahankara and mahan modes of nature, for its advancement over its eternal course.

When the sun yokes its far ranging rays of spectrum light to its chariot, it rises over the bright and lustrous ocean of spatial waters, and its intelligent and well directed horses carry it over the orbit like the constant waves of the sea carrying a boat, with the result that the overflowing waters stand around listening and raining down in showers. Similarly when the self-luminous soul yokes the five senses, the five pranas and the mind and intelligence to its purpose of action in yoga yajna, it rises over the bright and blazing world of existence, the seven lights of natural powers, perceptive and well directed by the soul in the state of constancy, carry it over the waters around waiting for its orders, and the soul reaches its destination where it joins the Divine.

O divinities of nature and humanity, I pray, I may absorb into my pranic energies and actions that blissful intelligence of your gift by which the rising souls on the move cross the seas over ten months. May we, by this, be protectors and promoters of our sages and our divine nature. May we, by this, cross the seas over sin and evil.

Mandala 5/Sukta 46

Like a trained horse on the new path, the man of knowledge takes on a new programme, voluntarily. I too carry on the new programme which is protective, defensive and progressive. I do not want it abandoned, nor do I have anything reserved or secret about it, and further, only a scholar pioneer and leader advancing on the path of rectitude would take men and leaders forward.

O Ashvins, cooperative powers of truth and rectitude of behaviour, Rudra, powers of justice and punishment, and voices of scholars and sages, Pusha, power of nourishment and vitality, Bhaga, creator of honour and prosperity and Sarasvati, spirit of knowledge, listen to our voice.

I invoke and study, for the benefit of protection and progress, heat, light and electricity, prana and udana energies of vitality, the atmosphere and the sky, the sun and higher regions of light, air and winds, clouds and mountains, waters and other liquids, all pervasive space, vitality of vyana energy, spirit of the universe, universal power and prosperity, creative energy of the universe, and all their positive and beneficial attributes and practical applications.

And may the experts and specialists, and the Ashvins, complementarities of natural evolution, and the maker of forms and sophisticated designs, all with their skill and power and knowledge enlighten and train us in arts and crafts for the achievement of life's wealth and honour.

And may Brhaspati, father and ruler of the wide world, Pusha, giver of nourishment and sustenance, Varuna, highest leader of our choice, Mitra, friendly and loving as breath of life, and Aryama, lord of justice and correctitude grant us peace, joy and progress worthy of a happy home.

of all, come to us with universal strength and protection, and may Aditi, inviolable Mother Nature of unbounded generosity respond to our invocation and prayer and bless us all.

May all these divinities and nobilities of the earth and of the oceans and celestial waters of space, constant in their holy tasks, ever responsive to our prayer give us peace and felicity of home and family.

cool of waters, and the cycle of seasons respond. May mother ruler, mother leader, health care matrons, fertility of women, scholars of earth, heavens and oceans, be kind and responsive to our progress.

Mandala 5/Sukta 47

प्रयुञ्जती दिव एति ब्रुवाणा मृही माता दुहितबाधयन्ती ।

1. Prayuñjatī diva eti bruvāñā mahī mātā duhiturbodhayantī. Āvivāsantī yuvatirmanīṣā pitṛbhya ā sadane johuvānā.

Great and glorious mother arises in all her youthful splendour from the lights of heaven and, invoked, invited and adored on the vedi, she comes with radiations of light and intelligence collected from the nourishing and sustaining divinities of nature and humanity, awakening, enlightening, speaking loud and bold, and preparing the daughter for life in the home with knowledge and wisdom. (The Dawn is mother, the earth is daughter.)

(The mother of the home, and the mother teacher in the school, is great and adorable as a human deity because, having collected her knowledge and wisdom from her parents and teachers, she arises like the dawn of light and prepares the daughter for intelligent living in an enlightened home.)

The radiations of the light of the dawn, as the actions of wise and brilliant parents and teachers, abiding in the centre of immortal eternity and flowing therefrom, move all round fast and ceaseless, vast and endless, on their paths across and over heaven and earth.

The mighty deep and generous ocean of waters, the blazing sustainer bird of space, the sun, enters in the spatial womb of its mother, divine Nature, fertilized by the original and eternal father creator. Placed in the midst of the heavens of light like a multicolour diamond, it traverses on and on, lights up, sustains and marks the expansive ends of the upper and lower strata of the sphere of heaven.

4. *Catvāra īṁ bibhrati kṣemayanto daśa garbhāṁ

The directions of space, receiving the sustaining light and warmth of life, bear it up. Ten directions of space feed the world they hold as a baby to keep it going. The rays of the sun radiate from the highest region of light and fill the threefold world of sattva, rajas and tamas, heaven, firmament and the earth, reaching all round to the borders of it almost instantly.

5. Idam vapur-nivacanam janāsaścaranti yannadyastasthurāpah. Dve yadīm bibhrto māturanye iheha jāte yamyā sabandhū.

Just as rivers hold and celebrate the flowing waters, so do people revere and adore this resplendent sun of wondrous form which two twin sisters, day and night, born of the same mother, hold and nurse the same one brother though born of another mother.

6. Vi tanvate dhiyo asmā apānsi vastrā putrāya mātaro vayanti. Upaprakṣe vṛṣano modamānā divaspathā vadho yantyaccha.

Celebrants compose songs of adoration from their heart and intellect and extend yajnic homage up to this sun by the paths of light and fire just as mothers weave and sew clothes for the child and joyous wives eagerly move to join their generous husbands.

7. Tadastu mitrāvaraṇā tadagne śam yorasma-bhyamidamastu śastam. Aśīmahi gādhamuta pratiṣṭhāṁ namo dive br̥hate sādanāya.

O Mitra and Varuna, lord of love and judgement, sun and the sea, day and night, mother and father, prana and udana energies, O Agni, yajna fire purifier, revered teacher, teacher pioneer and giver of enlightenment, may this cherished song of ours be for our peace and blessedness which is all time free from suffering and pain. May we attain a home and haven of high excellence and unshakable honour and prestige. Salutations to the great and glorious heaven of light, eternal and imperishable!

1. Kadu priyāya dhāmne manāmahe svakṣatrāya svayaśase mahe vayam. Āmenyasya rājaso yadabhra āñ apo vṛṇānā vitanoti māyinī.

When shall we all sing and celebrate in honour of our own domain, our cherished independent identity and social order, our own honour and glory, which, commanding its own power and splendour, pursuing its own policy, extends its resounding actions and waters of peace and freedom among the people, across the lands and over the clouds of immeasurable skies and spaces? When shall we think and reflect upon this?

2. Tā atnata vayunam vīravakṣaṇam samānyā vṛtayā viśvamā rajah. Apo apācīraparā apejate pra pūrvābhistirate devayurjanah.

Those acts and policies of peace and freedom provide incentives to the brave and extend knowledge and positive action programmes over the entire world of humanity, through uniform treatment and equality of law for all. A brilliant nation of vision and noble action doesn't procrastinate over the present, agitating over the past or worrying and waiting for the future, it crosses the bridges in front right away.

3. Ā grāvabhir-ahanyebhir-aktubhir-variṣṭham vajra-mā jighrti māyini. Śatam vā yasya pracarantsve dame samvartayanto vi ca vartayannahā.

Ever and instantly, this nation shines and sharpens its best arms and armaments day and night with the stones (which sharpen the arms and press the soma too) or with the clouds of showers against the evil of want and suffering of ignorance, and otherwise too hundreds of its forces actively working together in their own fields spend their time moving forward in a state of readiness with a challenging spirit.

That character and disposition, that form and policy of its dynamic flow, that admirable force of its arms like the razor's edge, I know, is in keeping with its identity for the purpose of peace, protection and progress, and, like a comfortable home full of plenty, it holds the jewels of wealth and felicity for the people at the beck and call of the inmates.

The nation, the ruler, the fire, the sun, wearing a charming form, shining with forces all round in all four directions, encounters the opposing darkness with the tongue of light and flame. We know not how, with what strength and power, from where this Varuna, best and highest power of justice and wisdom, Bhaga, commanding wealth and felicity, Savita, inspiring all with exhilaration, brings and bestows on us all the cherished gifts of life, how he makes everything possible.

For you all today I love, gratefully desire and pray for favour of the brilliant and generous Savita, inspirer of light and life, Bhaga, treasure source of honour and prosperity and the loving spirit of life and living beings that showers the jewel wealth and felicity on all. O Ashvins, leading complementarities of nature powers and humanity, ruler and people, leaders and followers, men and women, parents and children, teachers and disciples, blessed participants and celebrants of life for all, I love to be friends with you and pray that I may love, cooperate and be with you day in and day out.

Sagely scholar, watch the evolution of life and energy, meditate on the self-refulgent Savita, inspirer of life, with Vedic songs of praise and prayer, and with homage and gratitude speak precisely of the supreme, the most precious felicity pervading and participating in the evolution of life, knowing well the gifts of the lord.

3. Adatrayā dayate vāryāṇi pūṣā bhago aditirvasta usrah. Indro viṣṇurvaruṇo mitro agnirahāni bhadrā janayanta dasmāḥ.

Aditi, eternal and infinite creative power of lord Savita's Nature, Prakrti, wears the mantle of the morning. Pusha, nature's nourishing power, and Bhaga, inexhaustible generosity, produce, promote and give the choicest gifts of food for consumption and creation of energy. Indra, catalytic radiation, Vishnu, all pervasive energy, Varuna, udana energy for evolution, Mitra, pranic energy of life, Agni, heat and light for life, all these creative and generative powers give rise to the days of light and bliss for us.

May lord Savita, creator, with his radiating energy, grant us that treasure of cherished values of hearth and home which I celebrate as organiser and achiever of yajnic production, and which the flowing rivers and swelling seas promote with love and desire in obedience to the lord. O lord, we pray, may we, blest with energy and felicity of existence, be protectors and promoters of the wealth of the world.

Let untold wealth and knowledge flow to those who offer homage and yajnic service to the Vasus, creative abodes of life and sustenance in the world of nature, and to those who raise their voice of adoration in honour of Mitra and Varuna, friendly sun and seas and all embracing space. O Vishvedevas, creative divinities, create for us wealth of exceptional order so that we may abide and enjoy under the protection of heaven and earth.

This peace is for wealth and this peace and prosperity is for holiness of well-being. This warrior of the chariot, peace and prosperity honours and adores food, energy and knowledge. humanity.

The heroes of the earth who rise in honour and glory, the winds and currents of lightning energy in the wide wide skies, or the roaring waters flowing in the river beds and around, or the splendour of the regions of light, these are the Maruts worthy of honour and celebration with homage.

Travellers hitherwards, or travellers by various ways, or travellers over the interior ways, or travellers of open and successive ways, thus and by these names and descriptions they bring expansion to my yajna.

11. *Adhā naro nyohate'dhā niyuta ohate.

Leaders of knowledge and advancement, sometimes they carry the burdens by themselves, sometimes appointed as a team in cooperation with others, and sometimes stationed far away: thus their forms and functions are various, wondrous, beautiful and beatific.

12. *Chandah stubhah kubhanyava utsamā kīriṇo

Poetic celebrities, some of them, thirsting for self-expression, burst out in lyrics and sing and dance in divine ecstasy from the depth of the heart. Some of them like streams profusely flowing for us are protectors and saviours, and some of them shine in the sight of the beholder because shine they must by nature.

13. *Ya ṛṣvā ṛṣṭividyutah kavayah santi vedhasah.

Those who are great and strong, formidable scholars of science, of heat, light and electric energy, poetic visionaries, writers and singers, and sages of the sacred love: for that class of dynamic leaders and path finders, O Rshi, seer, sage and scholar, offer reverence and homage and, with the celebrant's words of praise and appreciation, give them the feel of the joy and holiness of their vocation.

14. *Accha ṛṣe mārutam gaṇam dānā mitram na

Just as a maiden goes to her chosen friend and love, so, O Rshi, sagely seer and scholar, with gifts of homage, go reverentially to the congregation of the Maruts, dynamic scholars, leaders and divinities of the world. O Maruts, brilliant as light, loving, bold and determined, blazing with splendour, celebrated by the wise and visionaries, come, hasten to our yajna and receive our homage.

15. *Nū manvāna eṣāṁ devāñ acchā na vakṣaṇā.
Dānā saceta sūribhir-yāmaśrutebhirañjibhiḥ.*

As the stream flows and meets the sea, so should the man of thought and reverence eagerly meet the Maruts, brilliant and divine natures in humanity, with gifts of homage and associate with the wise and brave, celebrated and gracious scholars, leaders and path makers who are well versed in law and the ethics of conduct.

प य म बन्धवष गां वाचन्त सूरयः पृश्निं वाचन्त मातरम् ।

16. *Pra ye me bandhveṣe gām vocanta sūrayah

I meet, associate, and write with the Maruts, those leading lights wise and brave who speak to me as to a friend and brother in search of human and divine bonding. Mighty powerful are they who speak to me of the Holy Word, of heat and light of the sun, the earth and the cow. They speak of the rainbow skies and spaces, and of Mother Nature, and then they reveal to me the omnipresent omnipotent Father and Rudra, lord of justice and mercy.

17. *Sapta me sapta śākina ekamekā śatā daduh.

Seven and seven are the Maruts, wise and brave, and each one of them gives me a hundred gifts of knowledge, will and strength for action, and love of life and divine worship. What I have heard comprehensively on yama and niyama, ethics of conduct in social and personal life, and on the subject of success regarding earthly life (abhyudaya), and the philosophy of attainment and ultimate destination and arrival (nihshreyas), I specify and refine for practical application and success in the earthly situation and in relation to the ultimate freedom of Moksha in the personal psychic and spiritual situation.

Mandala 5/Sukta 53

Maruts Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

का वदु जान्मषां का वा पुरा सुम्नवास मुरुताम् ।
यद्युयुज किलास्यः ॥१॥

1    *Ko veda jānameṣāṁ ko vā purā sumneṣvāsa

Who knows the origin of these Maruts? Who was present in the peace and pleasure of the Maruts? Whoever concentrates the mind, meditates on their presence, and joins them, and then has the clear and specific language to describe them, knows these stormy powers.

एतानरथेषु तस्थुषः कः शुश्राव कुथा ययुः ।

2. *Aitān ratheṣu tashthaṣah kah śuśrāva kathā yayuh.

Who perceives them riding their chariot on earth and in the skies and who knows whither they move? For which generous man or power do they rise and flow and turn like friends with the showers of their mysterious message and food for life?

3. *Te ma āhurya āyayurupa dyubhir-vibhir-made.
Naro maryā arepasa imān pasyanniti ṣtūhi.*

They speak to me who come to me with lights of revelation, flying like birds in ecstasy: “Noble men among mortals free from sin and folds of ignorance have seen these Maruts.” Say this, appreciate and praise the Maruts.

य अज्जिषु य वाशीषु स्वभानवः स्त्रु रुक्मषु खादिषु ।
श्राया रथषु धन्वसु ॥ ४ ॥

4. Ye añjisu ye vāśīsu svabhānavah srakṣu rukmesu khādiṣu. Śrāyā ratheṣu dhanvasu.

The people who are innately brilliant, who shine in their open works and achievements, in their speech and expression, in garlands of applause in series of action programmes, in their golds and jewels of honour, and who ride pioneering chariots of nations and resound in the twang of their bow: they are the Maruts.

5. *Yuṣmākam smā rathāñ anu mude dadhe maruto

O Maruts, leading lights and unaging pioneers,
I take to your chariots for your pleasure and exhilaration and rise to the clouds of shower and lights of heaven.

आ यं नरः सुदानवा ददाशुष्ट द्विवः काशमचुच्यवुः ।

6. *Ā yam naraḥ sudānavaḥ dadāśuse divaḥ kośam-

The treasure wealth of holy vapours, which the generous leading lights of the science of yajna cause to move from the regions of sunlight for the generous creators and givers of food and energy, shower down to the earth and skies: The skies then form the clouds and let them rain down on the earth and the floods move as directed over the thirsty lands.

(This mantra is on the science of rain and irrigation which can further be explained with reference to Chhandogya Upanishad 5, 4, 1 to 5, 8, 2, and Gita 3, 14-16.)

ततृदानाः सिन्धवः गादसा रजः प सस्त्रुधनवा यथा ।

7. *Tatrdānāḥ sindhavah kṣodasā rajah pra sasru-

Released and freely flowing, soaking and breaking the lands with the flood, the rivers flow over and on, irrigating the lands like mother cows feeding the people. Like horses they go on covering and leaving their track behind, the streams revolve as they go on in their circular course of yajna.

8. *Ā yāta maruto diva āntarikṣādamāduta.

O Maruts, leading lights and stormy forces of nature and humanity, creators and givers, come, come from the lights of heaven, come from the skies, come from near and afar, be on the move, never stay still, do not stagnate.

9. *Mā vo rasānitabhā kubhā krumurmā vah

May the earth and her environment never move without light and water for you. May the flowing river and the rolling sea never stop for you. May the wind and vapour, blowing, flowing and refreshing for human habitations never be still. May everything, every force of the Maruts, on the earth and in the environment be for your comfort and well being. Let nothing hold you back.

10. *Tam vah śardham rathānām tveṣam gaṇam

O people of the earth, the showers of peace, comfort and well being rain down on you in response to your strength, the speed and shine of your war-like chariots, the joint power and performance of your leaders, and the latest powers and policies you work out and follow for your peace and progress.

Let us move together step by step in disciplined order in accord with the united interests and aspirations of each unit of the defence forces, each unit of the economic order and each unit of the social order of these people for you all as a nation with the appraisal and appreciation of these with the best of our understanding and action.

12. *Kasmā adya sujātāya rātahavyāya pra yayuh.

For which cultured, creative and generous personality, for which producing and providing community of yajnic gifts, do the Maruts, dynamic forces of life, move forward today by this chariot with controlled motion and direction?

13. Yena tokāya tanayāya dhānyam bījam vahadhve akṣitam. Asmabhyam tad dhattana yad va īmahe rādho viśvāyu saubhagam.

O Maruts, dynamic and progressive leaders and powers of life, that action and message of advancement by which you create and bear the food and imperishable seed of life and progress for the baby and the child and the rising generation, bear and bring the same gifts and action for us too, the honour and good fortune, universal health and wealth, and the secret and source of that accomplishment we ask of you.

O citizens and leaders of the world, let us get over the malignant scandalisers and crooked evil mongers, having given up inner evils and despicable failures and adversities with noble thoughts and positive actions. Let us have the showers of peace and united action, waters of holiness, light of truth and wisdom, and food and tonics for good health, all with the Maruts together.

15. Sudevaḥ samahāsatī suvīro naro marutah sa martyah. Yam trāyadhve syāma te.

O Maruts, leading lights of life, great and glorious, brilliant is that man, brave and fearless, whom you protect and promote across the seas. Let us too be the same, your own, all for you.

Adore the Maruts, natural saviours and leading lights of humanity, givers of life and food for energy while moving on the holy path of this yajnic celebrant of theirs, rejoicing at the same time like cows running for their favourite grass. Invoke them like ancient eternal friends, and, loving as they are, celebrate them with holy songs of adoration.

Mandala 5/Sukta 54

For the self-refulgent force and power of the Maruts, leading lights of humanity, offer this song of adoration. And for the renowned yajaka who lights and feeds the fire to adore the divinities of nature through yajna on the heights, moves the clouds and brings the showers, offer gifts of human wealth of high value with songs of praise and appreciation. Loving scholars value the gifts of divinity from the lights of heaven.

2. Pra vo marutas-tavisā udanyavo vayovrdho aśvayujah parijsrayah. Sam vidyutā dadhati vāśati tritah svarantyāpo'vanā parijsrayah.

O Maruts of sky and space, your powerful currents of wind laden with vapours, bearers of food, energy and healthful age for living beings, going all round on the wings of electric energy, take on the thunder of lightning roaring as trinity of wind, water and lightning, and the waters shower over the earth everywhere as harbingers of food and health for all.

O leading lights of humanity, know that the Maruts command the mighty electric energy in the skies, light up the thunder, energise the winds and break the clouds. Blazing with splendour, ferocious with force, roaring with thunder, they wear the rumble of spatial boom shaking the mountains and burst in floods of incessant rain.

4. Vyaktūn rudrā vyahāni śikvaso vyantarikṣam vi rajāmsi dhūtayah. Vi yadajrān ajatha nāva īm yathā vi durgāṇi maruto nāha risyatha.

O potent Maruts, mighty blazing and roaring powers of cosmic winds, Rudras, breakers and makers of things, you shake the nights and days in and out, you shake the skies and atmosphere, you move the particles of matter and pass over regions as the ship sails over the sea. You break open the strongholds of nature and yet you never hurt nor destroy.

That lustre and splendour of yours, that extensive grandeur of yours radiates like the light and gravitation of the sun. Incomprehensible is the course of your radiations of energy which penetrates even the dark and densest clouds and mountains which are otherwise impenetrable.

O Maruts, leading lights of nature and humanity, commanders of strength, creativity and intelligence, your power and splendour is apparent as it shines since, like a storm, it shakes the flood and the forest. O friends and comrades, guide our activity relentlessly in motion onward on the straight and right path just as the eye shows the path to the traveller and helps him to move on and makes it easy for him to follow.

O Maruts, divine powers of nature and brilliant leading lights of humanity, the person you protect and guide, mature, refine and temper is never overcome, nor killed, nor decays, fears or falls, nor hurts anyone. Nor do his powers, honours and excellence, defences and protections ever deplete and exhaust. Indeed, the person grows in knowledge as a sage and shines bright in splendour as a leader and ruler.

8. Niyutvanto grāmajito yathā naro 'ryamaṇo na marutah kavandhinah. Pinvantyutsam yadināso asvaran vyundanti prthivīm madhvo andhasā.

Great organisers, winners of multitudes and human habitations like leading lights, makers of men and dispensers of justice on the paths of life, the Maruts are reservoirs of vitality and exhilaration like the clouds of living waters and freshness of breeze. And when the mighty forces set out in motion, whistling, roaring, thundering, they fill the rivers, lakes and oceans over and surfeit the earth with honey sweets of food and energy for the joy of life.

The wide world of abundant ways opens and clears its highways for the Maruts, adventurers who move like winds. The heaven of light extends all her expansive spaces for those who fly. The regions of the skies open up their paths for the winds, and the life giving clouds and mountains open up their depths and caverns for the heroes of initiative and adventure.

O Maruts, leading lights of the love of life and joy of heaven, you bear the burdens of life together for all and lead them all to celestial joy and the truth of Dharma. You feel delighted and celebrate the sunrise, and never do your horses in harness relent, but galloping on at high speed reach the destined end of this existential highway.

O Maruts, warriors of the winds for humanity, on your shoulders are blazing lances, at your feet your assistants, on your chests are shining corselets, on your chariot are flames of the purity of fire, in your hands are flashes of lightning, and on your heads are protective golden helmets. Victory is assured.

O Maruts, leading celebrants of action and Divinity, like a master of his own freedom in the laws of Truth and Divinity, shake the tree of existence by your noble action, bring down the balance sheet of your fruits of karma to Zero and win that rewarding state of ultimate freedom and bliss, void of suffering, beyond comprehension, which is pure ineffable refulgence of Divinity. Winding up their tally of karma, dismantling their fortifications, shining in the light divine, waxing in their search for Truth, when the celebrants raise the chant of Aum, they declare the victory and rest at the end of the road.

O Maruts, leading lights of wisdom and vision for humanity, masters of discriminative knowledge, travelling by radiations of Divinity in the mind, let us, we pray, be masters of the life-giving wealth of light divine given by you. O Maruts, bless us with that wealth of thousandfold value which decays not but shines like a star of heaven for ever.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, you protect and promote the heroic wealth, honour and excellence of the nation with her heroes. You revere, protect and promote the sage who chants the hymns of Samaveda in celebration of humanity and Divinity. You bear and bring the food, energy and the speed of progress for the maintenance of life on the globe, and you hold and maintain the harmonious, dynamic and glorious social order on earth.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity and generous divinities of nature, instant givers of protection and all round support, listen and accept this holy voice of mine: I feel blest with that wealth of yours by which we can promote the life of humanity as in a heaven of bliss on earth, and by which we would live a happy life over a hundred years with strength and success.

Adorable Maruts, devout pioneers and leading lights of yajnic progress in unison with humanity, commanding vast knowledge and power to bear the mighty burdens of life, wielding brilliant weapon in hand with golden corselet on the chest, press forward by coursers of instant speed controlled by sense and judgement. So do their noble chariots on and on.

Let the chariots roll on with the leading lights on way to the land of honour and excellence.

Maruts, leading lights and rulers of the earth and her children, risen together, excellent, anointed, sanctified and covenanted together for the honour, excellence and grace of life, rise and advance the freedom and happiness of life for the people, and thus, with their interests and holy ambitions, shine in truth and rectitude like rays of the sun. Let the chariots roll on with the leading lights to the holy lands of bliss and freedom.

O wondrous workers and generous leaders, the fertilities of nature, sunlight, earths and cows never desert you, nor ever exhaust for you. Agni, ruler of the land, today I call upon the most daring troop of the Maruts, commandos of the nation decorated with golden honours of rainbow brilliancy from amongst the most shining and intelligent defence forces of the country.

Like a youthful woman wedded to a virile husband, the earth, unhurt and rejoicing, comes to us for protection, defence and promotion. O Maruts, youthful warrior defenders of the land, like a shooting star is your force, strong, unchallengeable, and terrible as a mighty bull.

untamable bulls and scatter the enemy forces, and with their advances shake up resounding mountains and break up thundering clouds.

O Rudras, powers of justice, rectitude and dispensation, commanding honour, power and excellence of the world, loving kind and friendly, going by golden chariots of glory with gifts of good fortune, prosperity and well being for all, this love, desire, understanding and prayer of us all is addressed to you: Come like a wave of divine nectar for the thirsty waiting for a drink on the shore.

O Maruts, tempestuous heroes of the world, children of the essence of nature in love with the earth, you are blest with the voice of thunder, light of knowledge, wisdom and understanding of the speed of mind, mighty bows, unfailing arrows and inexhaustible quivers, noble steeds and excellent chariots and the best arms and armaments. Go forward, noble heroes, and do good to all.

At your approach forests shake with fear and the earth vibrates when in a state of passion for water showers you join and charge the clouds of vapour.

The Maruts command the fury and splendour of the winds. Cleansed and anointed by holy water, they replete the showers of love and justice all the year round. They are highly impressive and handsome in body and mind as self-controlled people are. They command the moderate yellow as well as the intense red flames of the yajnic fires of life's dynamics. Untouched by sinful involvements, refined and discriminative in thought and judgement, they are resplendent like the sun and large-hearted like space by virtue of their innate greatness.

Universally generous like the perennial stream of soma and showers of nature's joy, versatile of form and action as light in spectrum colours, holy and vastly charitable, they see the reality in all its variety of true colours as light reveals the real forms without screen effects. Commanding imperishable wealth, power and competence in their own right by birth and genetic merit of previous karma, they wear their beauty and regality of life and conduct in their heart and hands. Loving, brilliant and adorable, the Maruts define, deserve, serve and thus justify the name and description: Immortal.

O Maruts, eminent leaders and pioneers, may all those winds of the firmament come to you to-day in this yajna which bear the clouds and impel the rain showers. O leading scholars and scientists, poetic visionaries and youthful researchers, lighted is this fire, come and take it over for the rain yajna.

O Maruts, leading lights of the nation, holy performers meeting and working together for yajnic development, you create the inspiring ruler who is an architect of the nation. From you arises the administrator of strong hand and will. From you arise the warriors of strong arms, and from you arises the brave man, the hero who commands the army, the cavalry and the flying force for the people.

Like the spokes of a wheel in motion, together, undivided, equal and integrated, whole, generative, the Maruts rise anew like days on and on with their power and forces. Children of mother earth, firmament and radiations of sunlight, strongest and most eminent, with their own perception, understanding, dedication and determination, they analyse, catalyse, integrate and generate new ideas, forces, institutions and traditions, all renewed and revitalised.

By their motive forces and chariots equipped with strong wheels of initiative and advancement, the Maruts proceed with showers of new life as leaders and pioneers of a new age, and as they proceed, the dormant vapours of life agitate with new ferment and join the rays of the sun, the cloud roars with thunder and lightning and the earth receives the showers of new life.

As the Maruts proceed, the earth waxes with desire and fertility. Like the husband man, the Maruts shower their own vitality on earth as the seed of new life. Thus do the Maruts, forces of new life, generative and enlightened, commanding power and judgement, yoke new winds and motive forces to the chariot of life and move the wheels of history forward with the shower of their own sweat of the brow.

O Maruts, leading lights of history, be kind and gracious and rejoice with us. You command the grandeur of life's wealth, honour and excellence. You are the immortal spirit of humanity, observers of Law and Truth, renowned and blest with the Revelation of Truth, poetic visionaries, ever young and modern, masters of universal voice and blest with the spirit of renewal and regeneration.

Adore and exalt those who are close to you, who do good and observe truth and law in their character, conduct and action for you, for your welfare, for the generous, and for the earth, the firmament and the regions of light. They energise the motive forces, radiate their light and lustre upto the regions of space and attain their ends by the seas.

By the power and force of these Maruts, the earth trembles with fear and, like an overloaded boat going over the sea, shakes in agitation under pressure. Seen from far, they are known by their movements and, leading lights as they are, they go forward in the great battle business of life and its organisation.

O virile heroes, who can approach your power and potential? You illuminate the earth as sun beams and even shake it like particles of dust, while you rain down showers of generosity as gifts for the charity and welfare of the people.

O Maruts, leading lights of the world, sanguine and bold, you are ever going forward like horses on the course, uninterrupted. Brotherly and friendly toward all equally, fighting like warriors for all, you are always struggling for a better world. Rising and growing like mortal life forms, you are evolving continuously. And with the torrents of rain you dim the blazing light of the sun in mist.

Nobly born by nature, children of heaven, earth and the firmament, they are mortals, humans all, who, as we wish, come to us and appreciate us all. They grow and rise by their own strength and grandeur.

They soar together like flights of birds with the innate force of their light and lustre over mighty mountain peaks across the middle regions to the bounds of expansive heaven. Commanding the two-way motion of their circuitous energy, they shake the clouds of the sky and break them into showers.

8. Mimātu dyaur-aditir-vītaye nah sam dānucitrā uṣaso yatantām. Ācucyavur-divyam kośameta ṛṣe rudrasya maruto gr̥ṇānāḥ.

May the heaven of light and mother earth bless us and help us rise in light and generosity, peace and joy. May the dawns, wonderful givers, join us and help us to rise in beauty and grace of life. O Rshi, lord of universal vision, may these Maruts, children of the lord of justice and rectitude, sung and adored, singing and rejoicing, shower the treasure of heavenly light and joy on earth.

Mandala 5/Sukta 60

Maruts and / or Agni Maruts Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

इळं अग्निं स्ववसं नमाभिरिह प्रसूता वि चयत्कृतं नः । रथरिव

1. Īle agnim svavasam̄ namobhiriha prasatto vi cayat kṛtam̄ nah. Rathairiva pra bhare vājayadbhiḥ pradakṣinīn-marutām̄ stomam-ṛdhyām.

Collecting the work already done for us in the field, happy and enthusiastic, in perfect faith with relentless dedication and investments, I study and adore Agni, heat, light and electric energy, rich source of protection and progress, in order to extend the knowledge, hoping that, going round the world as if by tempestuous chariots of the winds in right order, I would raise the song of celebration in honour of the scholars and humanity. May the lord of knowledge accept and consecrate our work!

2. Ā ye tasthuḥ pṛṣṭīṣu śrūtāsu sukhēṣu rudrā maruto ratheṣu. Vanā cidugrā jihate ni vo bhīyā pṛthivī cid rejate parvataścit.

Rudras, pranic energies of life and natural catalysis, Maruts, heat, light, electric and wind energies, which abide and energise streams and showers, which work in means of transport and comfort, and which are described in works of revelation and research, are mighty, tempestuous and blazing. O Rudras and Maruts, catalytic, integrative and regenerative energies, under your power and fear of natural law the sun-rays radiate, the forests tremble, the earth moves and shines, the clouds break and the mountains shake.

3. Parvataścinmahi vṛddho bibhāya divaścit sānu rejata svane vah. Yat krīlatha maruta ṛṣṭimanta āpa iva sadhryañco dhavadhvē.

O Maruts, tempestuous energies of divine omnipotence, when you agitate, blow and flow together like streams of water—which is just your play in life—the densest cloud and the great ancient mountain cower in fear and the top bounds of the regions of light vibrate with the waves of your boundless roar.

Like eminent people nobly born in life's affluence who adorn themselves with their innate graces and golden attainments of culture and education, the Maruts, leading lights of humanity, commanding honour and excellence, riding their chariots, do great actions of truth and rectitude in their life and conduct for the beauty of human culture and grace of living as reflections of their inner self.

None highest, none lowest, all equal as brothers together, the Maruts, leading lights of life and humanity, work and grow and advance for the honour and prosperity of life and living. Their father and creator, Rudra, lord omnipotent of justice and dispensation, ever young, giver of sustenance, and mother earth and the firmament, ever abundant and generous for the Maruts through the bright days, look after them and inspire them.

O Maruts, creators of prosperity, honour and excellence, and Rudras, leading lights of justice and rectitude, and Agni, leading light of knowledge, whether you abide in the highest, or middle or the lowest regions of life and action, or in the light of heaven, establish us in right knowledge and action of the transparent order, and know of our action and homage which we offer to Divinity in our life.

O Agni, leading light, and Maruts, dynamic leaders and pioneers, blest with knowledge and wealth of the world, you abide on top of the regions of light and love by your own will and desire and bring down showers of light and wisdom. O leaders and pioneers, such as you are, movers and shakers of the negatives, and as you rejoice on the vedi with the yajakas, bring down the gift of life's wealth and beauty from over the levels of ordinary mortals for the yajamana and the creative soma yajaka.

O leading light of the world, Agni, Vaishvanara, power and passion of life, friend and associate of higher light and wisdom by virtue of your character and conduct, come rejoicing to the vedi, share and enjoy the sweets of soma, life's joy, wealth, honour and excellence in the company of the Maruts, dynamic people on the march who are pure and gracious, praiseworthy, pride of the republic, purifying, inspiring, strengthening and beautifying the world, people who love life and add to the grace of life by living well and gracefully.

15. *Yūyam martari vipanyavah pranetāra itthā-dhiyā.

O leading lights, admirable heroes, with intelligence and understanding, thus, you are inspirers, guides and saviours of mortals. And you listen when they call on you in peace or distress for help and assistance.

O divine spirit of night and vibrations of peace, listen and, like a charioteer, for me, carry this song and words of prayer far to the regenerative lord of life.

उत मृ वाचतादिति सुतसामृ रथवीता।

18. *Uta me vocatāditi sutasome rathavītau.

And then say this for me: The yajna is complete, soma is distilled, the chariot arrived in peace, and my prayer and desire never goes astray.

19. *Eṣa kṣeti rathavītir-maghavā gomatiṇanu.

This man of yajnic action, honour and excellence travelling by chariot straight like rays of the sun across the clouds lives in the world and reaches his destination without difficulty.

Mandala 5/Sukta 62

Mitra - Varuna Devata, Shrutiavid Atreya Rshi

ऋतनं ऋतमपिहितं धुवं वां सूर्यस्य यत्र विमुचन्त्यश्वान् ।

1. Rtena rtamapihitam dhruvam vām sūryasya yatra vimucantyaśvān. Daśa śatā saha tasthus-tadekam devānām śreṣṭham vapuṣāmapaśyam.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of the universe, I know the thousand radiations, and I have seen that one fixed centre of your reality, Rtam, Eternal Truth, covered by Rtam, cosmic manifestations of its mutability and the laws of mutability, where the radiations converge and wherefrom they are released around. And that eternal centre is the essential, ultimate and highest form of all existential forms of divinity, the One and yet many at the same time.

2. Tat su vām mitrāvarunā mahitvamīrmā tasthu-ṣīrahahir-duduhre. Viśvāḥ pinvathah svasaras-ya dhenā anu vāmekah pavirā vavarta.

O Mitra and Varuna, sun and the surrounding waters of life, that living grandeur of yours, the One constant impeller of life, the unmoved mover, Spirit of existence at the centre, vests in the immovable forms of life, herbs and trees, by days and nights. Thus you nourish all the streams of life while one of you, the sun, goes round and round in orbit by the law of the One at the centre.

3. Adhārayatam prthivīmuta dyām mitrarājānā varuṇā mahobhīh. Vardhayatamoṣadhīh pinvatam gā ava vṛṣṭim srjatam jīradanū.

Mitra and Varuna, sun and space, light and law, heat and water, resplendent rulers of the world, generous creators and givers, together with your powers and actions, you hold the earth and heaven, feed and promote the greenery of nature, sustain the planets, and create and shower the rains.

4. Ā vāmaśvāsaḥ suyujō vahantu yataraśmaya upa yantvarvāk. Ghṛtasya nirṇiganu vartate vāmupa sindhavaḥ pradivi kṣaranti.

Mitra and Varuna, rulers and scientists of the world, may your motive forces of transport well used and well steered like horses by reins and light by rays bear you and bring you hither. Purified and reinforced waters and liquid fuels are under your command, and let streams of water flow when the fire is ignited.

5. Anu śrutāmamatim vardhadurvīm barhiriva yajuṣā rakṣamāṇā. Namasvantā dhṛtadaksādhi garte mitrāsāthe varuṇelāsvantah.

Mitra and Varuna, leading lights and dynamic forces of the world, in keeping with Vedic tradition and your own honour and fame, enhancing your personality and character, preserving and promoting the wide earth and environment, like protecting and augmenting the light and fire of yajna with mantric chants of application and acts of self-sacrifice, with wealth of food and energy for input, and commanding strength and expertise, you sit at the high steer of the nation and join centres of production and progress across the earth.

6. Akravihastā sukṛte paraspā yam trāsāthe varunelāsvantah. Rājānā kṣatram-ahrṇīyamānā sahasrasthūṇām bibhṛthah saha dvau.

Mitra and Varuna, leading lights of vision and judgement, ruling and resplendent powers of humanity, kind and loving nobilities of non-violent hands, holy of action, helpful for others, seated at the centres of yajnic activity over the earth's regions, ruling and protecting the social order without hurting and damaging it, both of you bear and hold up the order of a thousand pillars together and protect it against fear and violence of terror.

7. Hirṇyanirṇigayo asya sthūṇā vi bhrājate divyaśvājanīva. Bhadre kṣetre nimitā tilvile vā sanema madhvo adhigartyasya.

This social order is distinctive, discriminative between gold and merely glittering. It rests on pillars of gold, and it shines like lightning in the skies. Its policy is framed and defined in the house of holiness or, let us say, on the fields of fertility. Let us hope and pray we join and share the honey sweets created by the leading lights and rulers of judgement at the helm of the nation and by the people in the home by the fire-side.

8. Hiranyarūpamuṣaso vyuṣṭāvayah sthūṇamuditā sūryasya. Ā rohatho varuṇa mitra gartamataścakṣāthe aditīm ditim ca.

O Mitra and Varuna, rulers and leaders of the earth, commanding vision and judgement, at the break of dawn and rise of the sun you ride your chariot of golden pillars and take your seat on the helm and thence watch the realm for what is permanent of value and preservable and what is merely transient and destructible.

O Mitra and Varuna, ruler and leading lights of strength and judgement, generous as breath of life, unchallengeable protectors of the world, come and bless us with that greatest, highest and imperishable home of protection in which, sharing the honey sweets of life with all, we may live to achieve our ambition for victory in the struggle of existence.

1. Rtasya gopāvadhi tiṣṭhatho ratham satyadharmaṇā parame vyomani. Yamatra mitrāvarunāvatho yuvam tasmai vṛṣṭir-madhumat pīniate divah.

Mitra and Varuna, lord of light and lord of justice and rectitude, ruler and judge, guardians of truth and law, observers of truth and law and eternal Dharma, you abide in the highest regions of existence in the presence of Divinity and ride over the chariot of life and the state while you occupy the highest seats of the social order. In this state, whoever you protect is blest, rains of honey sweets shower on him from heaven above.

Mitra, lord of love and friendship, Varuna, lord of judgement and discrimination, rulers and leading lights of this world, you shine in splendour and reveal the light of Divinity in the yajnic business of life on the earth. Just as thunder and lightning light and shake the earth and sky, so do you rule the earth. We pray to you for the shower of joy, success and the nectar sweets of immortal values in this mortal state of life.

Mitra and Varuna, ruler and leading lights like sun and shower, shining in majesty, blazing with splendour, brave and generous, guardians of heaven and light of the earth, watchful observers of the world, wielding wondrous clouds of rain and power, you stay close by us and send down showers of rain and roar of thunder by the awful force of light and winds of nature's breath of life.

Mitra and Varuna, lord of light and lord of bliss, ruler and leading lights of the social order, your power and generosity is based in the light of Divinity and issues from there. The sun, an agent and manifestation of the same, shines with its light as weapon of enlightenment and purification. You cover the sun with an ocean of vapour and energy of cosmic electricity in the regions of light, then the cloud is formed and showers of honey drops fall as rain.

5. Ratham yuñjate marutah śubhe sukham śūro na mitrāvaruṇā gaviṣṭiṣu. Rajā̄msi citrā vi caranti tanyavo divah samrājā payasā na uksatam.

O Mitra and Varuna, generous ruler and enlightened leaders, the Maruts, dynamic scientists and engineers, brave as warriors and tempestuous as winds, design and structure a faultless chariot and use it for the comfort and welfare of mankind. They rise in the company of sunrays to the wonderful regions of the skies, light and lightning in yajnic programmes for the good of all. O brilliant leaders, give us showers of water, milk, generative energy and creative vision.

Just as the cloud deeply filled with vapour and highly generous rumbles with its voice of thunder and showers rains of water, fertilising, exciting and pure, similarly, O scholars, teachers and preachers, loving as Mitra, friend, and discriminative as Varuna, the judge, speak to us that language of knowledge and wisdom which is comforting, refreshing, regenerative and life giving, wonderfully engaging and illuminating, full of wonder and variety and light of life. Let the dynamic people, vibrant as winds live in plenty like the cloud, and rise to the light of heaven with knowledge and power. Powerful as Indra, brilliant as Sun, and generous as Prajapati, give us the showers of knowledge and speech, holy, bright and blazing, free of sin and evil.

Do not procrastinate, do not protract your sacred act, accomplish the act and rise. Usha Devata, Satyashrava Atreya Rshi

1. Dyutad-yāmānam bṛhatīm-ṛtena ṛtāvarīm-aruṇapsūm vibhātīm. Devīm-uṣasam svar-āvahan-tīm prati vīprāso matibhir-jarante.

Saints and sages with holy mind and hymns of adoration honour and celebrate the divine dawn, crimson hued, shining brilliant, grand and sublime, illuminating hours of time and regions of space, observing universal law of eternity by simple natural conduct, and bringing the morning light and bliss of the sun.

एषा जनं दशता ब्राधयन्ती सुगान्पथः कृणवृती यात्यग ।

2. Eṣā janam darśatā bodhayantī sugān pathah kṛṇyatī yātyagre. Bṛhadrathā bṛhatī viśvaminvosā jyotir-yacchatyagre ahnām.

This glorious dawn, vast and great, goes forward riding her mighty chariot, arousing humanity from sleep, lighting up easy paths for movement, all illuminative, giving light in advance of the day.

3. Eṣā gobhir-aruṇebhir-yujānā-sredhantī rayima-prāyu cakre. Patho radantī suvitāya devī pūruṣṭatā viśvavārā vi bhāti.

Harnessing the crimson rays of the sun to her chariot, she goes unerringly, assiduously, creating unfailing wealth of light and rejuvenation. Marking paths of movement for the good of the people, the divine dawn shines, loved and adored by the people as the source of universal good.

एषा व्यनी भवति द्विबहा आविष्कृण्वाना तुन्वं पुरस्तात् ।

4. Esā vyenī bhavati dvibarhā āviṣkrṇvānā tanvam purastāt. Rtasya panthām-anveti sādhu prajānatīva na diśo mināti.

Revealing her body of light from the east, this lady of light radiates fast on both sides right and left over day and night. It follows the path of eternal law and, knowing well everything in nature, it neither violates nor goes astray over the quarters of space.

एषा शुभा न तुन्वा विदानाध्वव स्नाती दृशय ना अस्थात् ।

5. Esā śubhrā na tanvo vidānordhvēva snātī drśaye no asthāt. Apa dveṣo bādhamañā tamāṁsyuṣā divo duhitā jyotiṣāgāt.

The sacred dawn, revealing her radiant majesty like the lady of light for us to see and admire, this daughter of the sun stands above pure and sanctified as if doing her morning ablutions and, dispelling hate and darkness, warding off negativities, she walks with her train of splendour.

एषा पतीची दुहिता दिवा नृन्याष्व भद्रा नि रिणीत् अप्सः ।

6. Esā pratīcī duhitā divo nṛn yoṣeva bhadrā ni riṇīte apsaḥ. Vyūrṇvatī dāsuṣe vāryāṇi punar-jyotir-yuvatih pūrvathākah.

Yonder stands this daughter of heaven like a maiden, holy and inspiring to the best of men, and then moves to the west, revealing the day's phases of her splendour and opening up new possibilities of cherished achievements for the generous man of yajnic action. Ever bright and youthful, she thus moves the daily rounds of light anew as ever before since times immemorial.

Note: Swami Dayananda gives an extended interpretation of the Dawn by implication: He interprets Usha as the newly married woman rising like the dawn over the world of her new home, bringing new light and new possibilities of life's achievements. The wedding of the couple is a new morning for the family, life moves on, new phases of the day move on westward, new generations follow, life goes on and on like the daily round of night and day. The sun remains the same, days and nights are new. Life remains the same, the phases are new. The bride is holy, sacred, inspiring, worthy of love, respect and reverence.

Parjanya Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

अच्छा वद तवसं गीभिराभिः स्तुहि पञ्चन्यं नमसा विवास ।

1. Acchā vada tavasam gīrbhirābhīḥ stuhi parjanyam namasā vivāsa. Kanikradad vṛṣabho jīradānū reto dadhātyoṣadhiṣu garbham.

Hail the mighty cloud well with these holy words of song, serve, celebrate and energise it with homage in yajna for peace and a happy home. Roaring and thundering with passion, the virile cloud, giver of life and freshness, impregnates the herbs with the seed of generation.

वि वृ गान हन्त्युत हन्ति र ासा विश्वं बिभाय भुवनं bhuvanam mahāvadhāt. Utānāgā iṣate vṛṣṇyā-

The cloud shakes the trees, destroys the demons whom the whole world fears, and when it roars and releases the water of rain pregnant with life, it kills the evil doers with the terrible bolt and saves the sinless and the generous forces of life.

रथीव कश्याश्वौ अभि प ाविदूतान्कृणुत वृष्णाऽऽ अहं ।

Indeed like a charioteer urging on the horses by the whip, the cloud condenses and intensifies the rain carrier showers down to the earth, and, for that, when it strikes the ocean of vapours in the sky with thunder to turn it into rain, the space resounds from far like the roar of a lion.

4. Pra vātā vānti patayanti vidyuta udoṣadhīrjihate pinvate svah. Irā viśvasmai bhuvanāya jāyate yat parjanyah pr̄thivīm retasāvati.

Fast and fresh blow the winds, lightnings flash, herbs spring up, the sky swells and overflows, food grows, spirits arise and songs resound over the world when the cloud fertilises the earth with the showers of life.

O cloud, rain shower of life and fertility, in consequence of your commitment to the laws of sun and shower, the earth submits and surrenders, the animal stirs with passion and fire, the herbs burst forth in all forms of life. O cloud, such as you are, give us a great home of peace, joy and excellence.

6. Divo no vṛṣṭim maruto rarīdhvam pra pinvata vṛṣṇo aśvasya dhārāḥ. Arvānetena stanayitnu-nehyapo niṣiñcannasurah pitā nah.

May the Maruts, windy currents of energy, bring us rain from the regions of the sun. May the mighty cloud showers of fertility bring us growth. O cloud, harbinger of vitality come down here with showers of rain flooding the earth and giving us breath of life and sustenance like a father.

7. Abhi kranda stanaya garbhamā dhā udanvatā pari dīyā rathena. Dṛtim su karṣa viśitam nyañcam samā bhavantūdvato nipādāḥ.

Thunder and roar, O cloud, bring the vitalities of life and fertilise the earth for generation. Go far and wide by chariot run on water, draw the reservoir of waters released unto yourself, and conduct them downward so that the upward vapours may be brought down in showers.

The sun holds the mighty reservoir of vapours up on high, the cloud pours it down in showers. Let the lakes and rivers flow with waters released to freedom. O cloud, fill the earth and sky with water so that there may be ample food and water for the cows.

9. Yat parjanya kanikradat stanayan hamsi duṣkr-tah. Praṭīdaṁ viśvam modate yat kim ca pr̥thi-vyāmadhi.

When the cloud roars and thunders and destroys all the negativities which do evil, then in response to the cleansing and vitalising rain this entire humanity and all else that is on earth rejoices in celebration.

10. Avarśīr-varṣam-udu śū grbhāyā'kardhanvānya-tyetavā u. Ajījana oṣadhir-bhojanāya kamuta prajābhyo'vido maniṣām.

Pour down the showers, O cloud, take over the earth for generation, fertilise the thirsting lands for growth, produce herbs and plants and trees for food of the people, and win the thanks of a grateful humanity.

Truly, O terrestrial mother, revered earth, you bear the thunder breaker of the clouds, bear the burden of mountain ranges, hold on the flood of rivers and contain the rolling oceans. O mighty one on the onward move, you are the one who thus with your great power and force rule and sustain the land and her people.

Offer homage and reverence of the highest and deepest order full of love to Varuna, the one sovereign ruler and lord of love and judgement over all, who hammered and shaped the earth into form and, like the host of a yajna of peace and non-violence, overspread the earth with the atmosphere as a protective and promotive cover as a shield for the sun, as protection against heat for the sake of generative power and fertility. His divine voice resounds across the universe.

3. Nicīnavāram varuṇah kabandham pra sasarja rodasī antarikṣam. Tena viśvasya bhuvanasya rājā yavam na vṛṣṭirvyunatti bhūma.

Varuna brings into existence heaven, earth and the middle region of the sky, and he forms the cloud for shower on the earth down below. By that the sovereign ruler of the whole universe, the supreme, brings about the rain which fertilises the earth as it nourishes the grain.

उनत्ति भूमिं पृथिवीमुत द्यां यदा दुग्धं वरुणा वष्ट्यादित ।

4. Unatti bhūmim pṛthivīmuta dyām yadā dugdham varuṇo vaṣṭyādit. Samabhrena vasata parvatāsastaviṣṭyantah śrathayanta vīrāḥ.

Varuna fills the earth and sky and the regions of the sun with vapour when he desires to create the milk of life, thereafter the clouds are laden with vapour, and then forceful currents of wind energy strike the clouds from within and release the showers of rain.

इमामू ष्वासुरस्य श्रुतस्य महीं मायां वरुणस्य प वाचम ।

5. Imāmū ṣvāsurasya śrutasya mahīṁ māyāṁ varuṇasya pra vocam. Māneneva tashivāñ antri-kṣe vi yo mame pṛthivīṁ sūryeṇa.

This marvellous omnipotence of the renowned life giver Varuna, I celebrate in words, who pervades the space and, abiding in the middle regions of the universe, marks out the earth as if by measure, purpose and design, and creates it from the sun.

इमामू नु कवितमस्य मायां महीं द्ववस्य नकिरा दधष । nakirā dadharśa. Ekam yadudnā na prṇantyenīrāsiñcanīr-avanayah samudram.*

This great power of the most creative lord, who can challenge and violate? None, just as all the streams and rivers flooding the lands and rushing on do not fill the ocean with water.

अयम्यं वरुण मित्र्यं वा सखायं वा सदुमिद भातरं वा । sadamid bhrātarām vā . Veśam vā nityam varuṇ-

If we happen to commit a sin of omission or commission or transgression toward a man of judgement or friend or companion or a close ally or inmate of the house or brother, or constant or near or distant relation, then, O Varuna, loosen the snare of sin and help us be free.

कितवासा यदिरिपुन दीवि यद्वा घा सत्यमुत या विद्मा ।

8. *Kitavāso yad riripurna dīvi yad vā ghā satyamuta

Like gamblers in the game, if someone attribute sin or deception to us, which may be true or may not be true, or which we might not even know, all that, O lord of light and judgement, loosen so that we may be free and be dear to you.

Mandala 5/Sukta 86

Indra - Agni Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

इन्दोग्नी यमवथ उभा वाजषु मत्यम् ।
हृ हा चित्स प भदति द्युम्ना वाणीरिव त्रितः ॥ १ ॥

1. *Indrāgnī yamavatha ubhā vājeṣu martyam.
Dṛlhā cit sa pra bhedati dyumnā vāñiriva tritah.*

Indra and Agni, divine power and knowledge, celestial and terrestrial energy of electricity and fire, both ruler and enlightened leaders, whosoever the mortal you protect, guide and promote, he breaks through massive obstructions in the battle business of life, and wins his way to wealth, honour and splendour, just like the sagely scholar of threefold freedom of body, mind and soul who penetrates through three layers of language, vaikhari, madhyama and pashyanti, i.e., word, thought and deep memory, and reaches the vision of the para, the supreme Word and silence of Divinity.

या पृत्नासु दुष्टरा या वाजषु श्रवाच्या ।

2. *Yā prtanāsu duṣtarā yā vājeṣu śravāyyā.
Yā pañca carṣaṇīrabhīndrāgnī tā havāmahe.*

We adore and solicit Indra and Agni which, among the forces of life, are indomitable, in the battles for power and prosperity, admirable, and among the five orders of society and among the five pranic energies are of prime importance.

तयारिदम्बच्छवस्तिग्मा दिद्युन्मघानाः ।
पति दुणा गभस्त्यागवां वृत्रघ्न एषत ॥ ३ ॥

3. Taylorid-amavac-chavas-tigmā didyun-maghon-oh. Prati drunā gabhastyor-gavāṁ vrtraghnā eṣate.

The sharp, impetuous and blazing force in the hands of these two mighty powers moves by the speed of sunbeams in destroying the cloud of darkness and strikes where it must.

ता वामषे रथानामिन्दृग्गी हवामह ।
पतीं तुरस्य राधसा विद्वांसा गिवाणस्तमा ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Tā vāmeṣe rathānām-indrāgnī havāmahe.
Patī turasya rādhaso vidvānsā girvañastamā.*

Indra and Agni, most adorable scholars of the science of terrestrial and celestial energy, heat, light and electricity, and masters of fast automotion and material prosperity, we invoke you both for the speed and movement of chariots for success.

ता वृधन्तावनु द्यून्मताय द्रवावदभा ।
अहन्ता चित्पुरा द्रुधं शब्दं द्रवाववत् ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Tā vṛdhantāvanu dyūn-martāya devāvadabhā.
Arhantā citpuro dadheñ'seva devāvarvate.*

Exalted, thriving day by day for the sake of mortal humanity, brilliant, indomitable, adorable and generous Indra and Agni, ruling powers and enlightened scholars, we honour you at the head of our creative and developmental yajna like the soma of success and celebration in matters of science and progress.

एवन्दाग्निभ्यामहावि हृव्यं शूष्यं घृतं न पूतमदिभिः ।
ता सूरिषु श्रवो बृहदयिं गृणत्सु दिधृतमिषं गृणत्सु

6. Evendrāgnibhyām-ahāvi havyam śusyam ghṛtam na pūtam-adribhih. Tā sūriṣu śravo bṛhadrayim gr̄natsu didhṛtamisam gr̄natsu didhṛtam.

Thus homage of adoration is offered to Indra and Agni, scholars of earthly and spatial energy. From energies, by scholars is received strength, energy and power, materials for yajnic investment and development, ghrta, delicacies, like water showers sanctified by the clouds. May they, we pray, bring and bestow upon the scholars and celebrants high renown and abundant wealth, may they bring and bestow upon the admirers food and energy for a happy life.

Mandala 5/Sukta 87

Maruts Devata, Evayamarut Atreya Rshi

प वा॑ म॒ह॒ म॒तया॑ यन्तु॒ वि॒ष्णवे॑ म॒रुत्वते॑ गि॒रिजा॑ ए॒व्याम॒रुत ।

1. Pra vo mahe matayo yantu viṣṇave marutvate girijā evayāmarut. Pra śardhāya prayajyave sukhādaye tavase bhandadistaye dhunivratāya śavase.

O vibrant man of vision, all ye men and women, let all your songs and flights of thought and vision born of the voice of the heart reach Vishnu, all pervasive lord, commander of the winds and warriors, indomitable, highly majestic, adorable and cooperative, blissfully appreciative, relentlessly active and absolute in justice and power.

प य जा॒ता॑ म॒हि॒ना॑ य च॒नु॑ स्व्यं॒ प वि॒द्वना॑ बुवते॑ ए॒व्याम॒रुत ।

2. Pra ye jātā mahinā ye ca nu svayam̄ pra vidmanā bruvata evayāmarut. Kratvā tad vo maruto nādhṛṣe śavo dānā mahnā tadeśāmadhṛṣṭāso nādrayah.

Evayamarut, O vibrant visionary and celebrant of the Maruts, these warriors and pioneers of humanity are self-made, risen by themselves who proclaim themselves through their knowledge and self-awareness. O Maruts, stormy leaders, that power and force of yours is unchallengeable by virtue of your noble acts, grandeur and generosity. O men, their force is indomitable, they are inviolable, unshakable like mountains.

प य दिवा बृहुतः शृण्वर गिरा सुशुक्वानः सुभ्व subhva evayāmarut. Na yeśamirī sadhaṣtha iṣṭa dhunīnām.*

Evayamarut, O celebrant of the Maruts, they hear the voice of Divinity from the light of heaven, they are heard by their voice from the heights of heaven. Pure and brilliant, they live in holiness and felicity. No tyrant, impeller or compeller, can bend them in their right and abode. Self-refulgent like the flames of fire, they radiate, they make the winds blow and set the rivers aflow.

स चकम महुता निरुरुक्मः समानस्मात्सदस एव्यामरुत ।

He, Evayamarut, Vishnu, lord of infinite action and commander of the Maruts, universal energies, transcends by infinite possibility the great constant, central and universal seat of his presence, that is, this universe. When evayamarut, the man of vision, master of his senses and faculties, connects with the lord by heart and soul by the guidance of dynamic teachers and preachers, unenvious and brilliant, he rises from his own state of existence and joins the lord omnipotent of infinite felicity.

स्व_ना न वा मवानजयद् वृष्टि त्वष्टा युधिस्तविष्ट एव_

Like the rumble of the Big Bang of creation, may the lord of the Maruts, Vishnu, shake you, O men and women of the world, shine you and inspire you, the lord omnipresent, generous, self-refulgent, omnipotent, everfelt in the heart, by virtue of whom the Maruts, natural energies and pioneers of humanity shining by themselves, unshaken yet dynamic like rays of the sun, golden gloried, self-armed and nobly ambitious, stand the challenges of existence and achieve their end and aim.

Unbounded is your greatness, O heroes of ancient might. May your brilliant power protect and promote evayamarut, vibrant sage of vision and knowledge. In the heat of battle when missiles are shot, stay firm in the open view unshaken. Such as you are, O Maruts, blazing as flames of fire, protect us against the maligners and the revilers.

Heroes of the winds, scholars of the middle order, dispensers of justice and punishment, performers of holy creative actions, commanding power and glory like flames of fire may protect and promote us and the sagely scholar of vision and dynamic performance. Wide and lofty grows the earthly abode of humanity by virtue of those whose grandeur grows high and onslaughts grow terrible in the battles against the evil and wickedness of unimaginable order.

jariturevayāmarut. Viṣṇormahāḥ samanyavo

Maruts, heroes of the speed of winds, free from hate and jealousy, with zeal and ardour for righteous action, come to our earthly abode and lead us on the path of goodness and progress. O lord of the winds, Vishnu, listen to the song and prayer of the celebrant. O leaders and pioneers, come like warriors of the chariot and join the power and grandeur of Vishnu, lord of the wide world and space, accomplish acts of universal generosity and throw off hate, jealousy and animosity from the earth.

O Maruts, adorable heroes of the world, come and join our yajna of holy living with grace and earnestness. Listen to the prayer of the celebrant of the winds in need of protection and advancement. Most eminent and most enlightened among us, be generous givers of knowledge, wisdom and enlightenment of Divine order like showers of the cloud from the sky so that no maligner or reviler can resist and challenge you or anyone else.

8. *Kratvā hi drone ajyase'gne vājī na kṛtvyaḥ.
Parijmeva svadhā gayo'tyo na hvāryah śiśuh.*

Agni, holy light and fire, you manifest by attrition in the wood, by yajna in the home, active, sportive and restive like a courser, moving everywhere like wind, soothing and satisfying as food, intimate as self will, comfortable as home, vibrant as a wave of energy and pure and innocent as a baby.

9. *Tvam tyā cidacyutā'gne paśurna yavase.
Dhāmā ha yat te ajara vanā vrścanti śikvasah.*

Agni, eternal light and fire of existence, for all those solid objects of existence, apparently imperishable regions of the universe, you are as the bull is for the grass since, O lord of eternity, your mighty flames of annihilation consume them as the bull consumes the grass.

Angira, vital fire of life pervading every limb of the body, breath of life vibrating in every part of the universe, eternal highpriest of cosmic yajna, enter, pervade and bless the home of the devotees conducting the yajna of love and non-violence. O lord protector and ruler of the people, make them prosperous, accept and enjoy their holy offering.

O most adorable friend, venerable and resplendent light of the world, speak well to the noble and brilliant holy men of the eternal Word of universal knowledge and wisdom of heaven and earth. Bear and bring prosperity and well being on the blessed earth in happy homes to the loving and dedicated people. We pray help us cross over all sins and evil, hate and jealousy. Let us cross over all negativities and undesirables, cross over all of them, cross over to the life divine by your protection and grace.

Mandala 6/Sukta 3

Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

अग्नि स बृद्धतपा ऋष्टजा उरु ज्यातिनशत दवयुष्टे । यं त्वं

1. Agne sa kṣeṣadṛtapaḥ rtejā uru jyotirnaśate devayuṣte. Yam tvam mitreṇa varuṇaḥ sajōṣāḥ deva pāsi tyajasā martamañhah.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, guardian of Truth and Law, manifesting in truth and law and the fire and fragrance of yajna, that mortal man lives in peace who protects the truth and abides in truth, and he receives the gift of your infinite light and grace who loves Divinity and noble humanity, and whom you, O lord of love and justice, loving, kind and generous father, with loving care and merciful justice, you protect and save by abandonment of sin and evil.

इज यज्ञभिः शशम शमीभित्र॑धद्वारायाग्रयं ददाश ।

2. Īje yajñebhīḥ śaśame śamībhīr-ṛdhadvārāyāg-naye dadāśa. Evā cana tam yaśasāmajuṣṭir-nān̄ho martam naśate na pradrptih.

If the mortal does good to others with humility and yajna, lives in peace with auspicious acts of holiness, and does service to Agni, giver of success and prosperity, with acts of charity and self surrender, then, for sure, neither want of honour and glory, nor sin and evil, nor pride and arrogance can ever touch him.

3. Sūro na yasya dṛśatir-arepā bhīmā yadeti śucatasta ā dhīḥ. Heṣasvataḥ śurudho nāyamaktoḥ kutrā cid raṇvo vasatir-vanejāḥ.

The holy sight of Agni, leading light of humanity, like the sun, and the message of thought and wisdom of the brilliant light that radiates, is pure and immaculate, and yet it is awesome and comes as terrible to the vitiated. Indeed wherever the source and abode of this blazing destroyer of the night of darkness and of his prophetic voice be, as that of light in sunrays and of fire in the wood, it is delightful and elevating.

4. Tigmam̄ cidema mahi varpo asya bhasadaśvo na yamasāna āsā. Vijehamānah paraśurna jihvām̄ dravirna drāvayati dāru dhakṣat.

Sharp is his path like the razor's edge we may like to follow, great his form and appearance shining brilliant, open his mouth self-controlled as the horse's, sharp his tongue as an axe, and he melts rigidities like a smelter and burns wooden prejudices like fire.

स इदस्त्व॒ पति॒ धादसि॒ष्यजिष्ठीत॒ तजा॒ यसा॒ न धाराम॑ ।

5. Sa idasteva prati dhādasiṣyāñchiśita tejo' yaso na dhārām. Citradhrajatiraratiyō aktorverna druṣadvā raghupatmajam̄hāh.

Free from dead wood, he shoots his target like an archer freely. He sharpens his blaze like the edge of an axe. Swift and wonderful in speed, relentless in work, he discards rest and slow speed of movement like a bird of flight flying off from the branch of the tree of his night's rest.

6. Sa īṁ rebho na prati vasta usrāḥ śociṣā rārapīti mitramahāḥ. Naktam ya īmaruṣo yo divā nṛn-amartyo aruṣo yo divā nṛn.

He, leading light of the world, wears the light of the morning sun and, in return, like crackling fire, proclaims himself with the light and blaze of the new day, being the greatest friend of humanity. Red as flames, bright as sunlight, he lights up the night of darkness and arouses humanity into the day of light, awareness and activity, being the harbinger of the immortal light of Divinity. Yes, bright and blazing, he rouses people into the light of day.

7. Divo na yasya vidhato navīnod vṛṣā rukṣa oṣadhīṣu nūnot. Ghṛṇā na yo dhrajasa patmanā yannā rodasi vasunā daṁ supatnī.

Whose presence as of the light and grace of heaven, and order, the generous cloud worships and proclaims, whose light and vitality is manifested in herbs and trees, and who, by his flight and velocity and omnipresence, vests the spaces of motherly heaven, earth and sky with the wealth of living sustenance as with his light and grace.

Who flashes like lightning, shines with his self-refulgence and potent presence, and constantly illuminates by his manifestation by the beneficiary stars, planets and plants, by his associates and assistants, and by his celebrants and worshippers of his virtues, and who, blazing and impetuous, like the divine intelligence and maker, fashions the forms and force of the winds and the stormy powers of humanity : that is Agni, life of existence and leading light of the world.

Mandala 6/Sukta 4

Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

यथो ह्यातुमनुषा द्रवताता यज्ञभिः सूना सहसा यजासि ।

1. Yathā hotarmanuṣo devatātā yajñebhiḥ sūno sahaso yajāsi. Evā no adya samanā samānānuśannagna uśato yakṣi devān.

Agni, leading light of life, ruler of the world, child of strength, source of strength and courage, yajaka and generous giver, as you do selfless yajnic service to life and Divinity like any human, so you today in our battle of life, out of love for loving and dedicated people, pray invoke the divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity to join us.

स न' विभावा च अणिन वस्त रुग्निवन्दारु वद्यश्चन' धात ।

2. Sa no vibhāvā cakṣaṇirna vastoragnivandāru vedyāścano dhāt. Viśvāyuro amṛto martyeṣuṣarbhud bhūdatiḥirjātavedāḥ.

May that lord, Agni, resplendent as the sun, light of the day, adorable, worth knowing and realising, bear and bring us food for life and energy for action, that lord who is life of life, immortal among mortals, manifests like a cherished guest at dawn and knows all that is born in existence by omnipresence.

3. Dyāvo na yasya panayantyabhvam bhāsāmsi vaste sūryo na śukraḥ. Vi ya inotyajarah pāva-ko'snasya cicchiśnathat pūrvyāṇi.

Like the lights of heaven, sages celebrate the lord's glory. Pure and immaculate, like the sun, he wears the lights and colours of existence. Purifying like fire, he pervades the forms of the world of existence, and at the ultimate end withdraws all that existed before, and remains, ageless and eternal, the sole and absolute presence.

4. *Vadmā hi sūno asyadmasadvā cakre agnirjanu-

O inspirer of life, Agni, self-manifestive loud and bold, you are all pervasive in everything that is food for life since by nature and operation you generate both food and energy. O creator and giver of energy, bear and bring us food and energy, be victorious like a ruler and abide in peace and non-violence as an inspiration.

नितिक्ति या वारुणम् अमत्ति वायुन राष्ट्रयत्यत्कून । तुयाम्

5. Nitikti yo vāraṇamannamatti vāyurna rāṣṭrya-tyetyaktūn. Turyāma yasta ādiśām-arātīr-atyo na hrutah patataḥ parihrut.

Agni sharpens his instant weapon of radiance against darkness, consumes the consumables for energy, rules over existence like breath of life, surpasses even the rays of light. O lord of radiation pervading all round by waves of omnipotence, destroyer like a superlative missile of those crooked ones who fall in its way, may we too likewise overcome those who negate your gifts of life.

आ सूर्या न भानुमद्धिरुकरग्न तुतन्थ रादसी वि भासा ।

6. Ā sūryo na bhānum-adbhīr-arkair-agne tatantha rodasī vi bhāsā. Citro nayat pari tamāṁsyaktaḥ śociṣā patmann-ausijo na dīyan.

Agni, light of life, as the sun with thunderous rays of light, so you pervade heaven and earth with splendour and majesty. Marvellous and sublime, with light radiating all round, brilliant as sublimity incarnate, you rule dispelling all kinds of darkness.

त्वां हि मन्दतममकशाकवृमह महि नः श्राव्यग्न ।

7. Tvāṁ hi mandratamam-arkaśokair-vavṛmahe mahi nah śroṣyagne. Indram na tvā śavasā devatā vāyum pṛṣṇanti rādhasā nṛtamāḥ.

Agni, lord most charming and blissful, with brilliant songs of adoration we celebrate you. Listen to our song of sublimity. Like Indra, lord of omnipotence, like Vayu, breath of life, the best of leading lights of humanity adore you with all their might and sense of fulfilment.

नू न' अग्रं वृक्भिः स्वस्ति वर्षि रायः पथिभिः पर्यहः ।

8. Nū no agne'vrkebhīḥ svasti veṣi rāyah pathibhīḥ parṣyañhāḥ. Tā sūribhyo grṇate rāsi sumnamadema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Agni, lord of light, wealth and bliss, with honest and loving people lead us to wealth and honour, peace and well being by paths of holiness, cleanse us of sin, blow off evil from us. That peace and joy you bestow upon brilliant and brave celebrants and upon the supplicant, bestow upon us too, we pray, so that we, blest with brave children, may rejoice for a full life of hundred years.

Mandala 6/Sukta 5

1. Huve vah sūnum sahaso yuvānam-adroghavācam matibhir-yaviṣṭham. Ya invati draviṇāni pracetā viśvavārāṇi puruvārō adhruk.

For you all, I invoke and invite Agni, giver of strength and forbearance, young, sweet and loving of speech free from malice, most youthful, wise and all aware, cherished friend of all without jealousy, who creates, inspires, invigorates and brings us gifts of universal value and drives away the evils.

2. Tve vasūni purvaṇīka hotardoṣā vastorerire yajñiyāsaḥ. Kṣāmeva viśvā bhuvanāni yasmin tsāṁ saubhagāni dadhire pāvake.

In you, lord of eternal flames of power and generation, cosmic yajaka and generous giver, holy performers of yajnic acts repose their confidence, and to you, day and night, they attribute all the gifts of life. By virtue of you, cleanser and purifier, all regions of the universe like earth bear cherished gifts of nature for humanity.

3. Tvam vikṣu pradivah sīda āsu kratvā rathīrabhavo vāryāṇām. Ata inoṣi vidhate cikitvo vyānuṣag-jātavedo vasūni.

Come you, leading light wrapped in the light of divinity, sit and abide among these people with your knowledge and yajnic action. Be like a chariot harbinger of choice gifts of life. You are wise and you command universal awareness. You know all that is born in existence and, integrated with life and society, you inspire and promote the wealths of the world for the dedicated celebrant.

4. Yo nah sanutyo abhidāsadagne yo antaro mitramaho vanuṣyāt. Tam-ajarebhīr-vṛṣabhis-tava svaistapā tapisṭha tapasā tapasvān.

Agni, O dearest and greatest friend, tempered in the crucibles of austere discipline to the highest degree of intensity, whatever the force or power internal or external, close around or far off which might weaken, attack, injure or destroy us, pray burn up and eliminate by your own essential, unaging, generous and most youthful power of discipline and fire.

5. Yaste yajñena samidhā ya ukthair-arkebhiḥ sūno sahaso dadāśat. Sa martyeṣvamṛta pracetā rāyā dyumnenā śravasā vi bhāti.

Agni, O source giver of strength and inspiration, whoever serves you with yajnic acts of self-sacrifice and offers you homage, worship and songs of celebration with sacred fuel to keep the fire burning, rises in knowledge and life's awareness, advances in wealth, honour and fame, and shines out with immortal excellence among mortals.

6. Sa tat kṛdhīśitastūyamagne sprdho bādhasva sahasā sahasvān. Yacchasyase dyubhirakto vacobhis-tajjuṣasva jariturghoṣi manma.

Agni, lord of forbearance and challenging might, loved, inspired and impelled, do that fast with your power and force, resist and repel the envious contenders, for which you are admired by the celebrants. Do that, O lord wearing the aura of light and fire, and accept the devoted suppliant's thanks and homage expressed from the depth of mind and soul.

Agni, leading light of the world, ruler and pioneer of humanity, by virtue of your protection and spirit of advancement, let us realise that will and desire we pray for. O lord creator and giver of wealth, let us achieve that wealth and honour blest with the brave we cherish. O lord imperishable, let us win, while we press forward, that energy, sustenance and progress, let us be blest with that honour and excellence which is immortal.

Mandala 6/Sukta 6

1. Pra navyasā sahasah sūnumacchā yajñena gātumava icchamānah. Vṛścadvanam kṛṣṇayām ruśantam vītī hotāram divyam jigāti.

Whoever desires and plans for advancement into new ways of progress, defence and protection, tries and experiments with newest forms of yajna, socio-scientific developments in pursuit of Agni, heat, light and electric energy, source and generator of power, breaker of the clouds, illuminator of pathways into darkness and the unknown, bright catalytic agent, giver of peace and prosperity for well being and divine agent of cosmic evolution.

2. Sa śvitānastanyatū rocanasthā ajarebhira-nānadadbhir-yaviṣṭhah. Yah pāvakah puruta-mah purūṇi pṛthūnyagnir-anuyāti bharvan.

That energy, Agni, which is brilliant, expansive and roaring, constant in light without a flicker, abiding in imperishable thunder and lightning, is the fire purifier which lies dormant in many forms in solids, and it is versatile and explosive.

3. Vi te viṣvag-vātajūtāso agne bhāmāsaḥ śuce śucayaścaranti. Tuvimrakṣāso divyā navagvā vanā vananti dhṛṣatā rujantah.

Agni, cosmic energy, those universal waves of your power impelled by nature's currents radiate all round, pure and purifying, embracing everything, celestial, ever moving anew, beautiful, forceful, making, breaking and remaking everything that comes their way.

Life and light of the world, those vitalising pure and radiant waves of your energy flowing down like horses freed from their bound, fertilise and impregnate the earth, and then their circulation across the sky, taking over the mountain tops shines all over the earth.

Further, the tongue of flame, the flash of lightning, like the thunderbolt of mighty Indra, warrior of the flash and thunder's roar, shakes and shines with the blaze, striking and shattering things like a warrior's blow, and thus the terrible onslaught of irresistible Agni destroys the forests.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, with your light spread over all places and activities of the earth, and shine by the great and glorious radiation of your power. With your force and power, resist and repel all fears and envious contenders and, saving and protecting those who ought to be served and protected, break down the enmities and negativities.

7. Sa citra citram citayantamasme citrakṣatra citratamam vayodhām. Candram rayim puruvīram bṛhantam candra candrābhīr-grṇate yuvasva.

Agni, marvellous leading light of the world, ruler of the wonderful human order of brilliance, inspirer of love, benevolence and bliss, join and mix various wonderful elements with beautiful and soothing elements and then create for us enlightening, most surprising, invigorating, blissful, life giving, self-expansive wealth inspiring for all the youth and for the dedicated celebrant.

1. Mūrdhānam divo aratīm prthivyā vaiśvānara-mrata ā jātamagnim. Kavīm samrājam-atithim janānām-āsannā pātram janayanta devāḥ.

The divinities of nature and humanity light the sacred fire: supreme light of heaven, vital fire of life of the earth, Vaishvanara, leader and energiser of the world, born of cosmic law and the fire of cosmic yajna. It is the visionary, even the revolutionary, poet, ruler of the world, sacred as a chance visitor, voice of the people, sustainer of life and its order.

O leading light of the world, Agni, by you arises the dedicated scholar, energy, sustenance and progress, and the warriors who brave the challenges and win. O Vaishvanara, fire of earthly existence, brilliant leader and ruler, lead us to wealths of the world worthy of being fought for and won.

O Vaishvanara Agni, light and vitality of the world, all brilliant scholars and divines of humanity love you as a baby and celebrate you all round like the rising sun at dawn, or like a young scholar emerging from the home of his parents and teachers like the sun from heaven over the earth. By virtue of your holy acts, the mortals achieve the immortality of holiness and excellence.

5. Vaiśvānara tava tāni vratāni mahānyagne nakirā dadharṣa. Yajjāyamānah pitrorupasthe 'vindah ketum vayunesvahnām.

Vaishvanara, leading light and fire of life, Agni, the great ordinances of yours none can challenge, those which you, arising in the lap of your parents from heaven over the earth take on as your essential character and identity in the light of days in relation to the laws of existence from the earth to the Supreme Spirit and Lord of the universe.

On him, as base which is also the summit of existence, rest all the worlds of the universe which manifest like hair on the head, grow like seven branches from the one root, or flow like seven streams from the centre source.

4. Vi yo rajāṁsyamimīta sukratur-vaiśvānaro vi divo rocanā kaviḥ. Pari yo viśvā bhuvanāni paprathe'dabdhō gopā amṛtasya rakṣitā.

Vaishvanara, merciful lord of the world and humanity, cosmic yajaka and visionary creator, who conceives, creates and ordains all regions of the universe, who illuminates the radiance of heaven, who pervades, expands and transcends all the worlds of existence, is the sole lord supreme, unchallenged ruler, sustainer and protector of the mortal world and the state of immortality.

Mandala 6/Sukta 8

Vaishvanara Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

पृ ास्य वृष्णा' अरुषस्य नू सहः प नु व'चं विदथा

Spontaneously I sing and celebrate the knowledge and omnipotence of Jataveda, omniscient lord creator, omnipresent, generous, resplendent and merciful. The holy thoughts and words of the song flow ever fresh, pure, soothing and sanctifying like the streams of soma in honour of the universal lord and leading light of the world.

2. *Sa jāyamānah parame vyomani vratānyagnir-

He, Agni, ordainer of the laws of existence, manifesting in the highest heavens like the sun, protects and sustains the laws of life, being ordainer and observer of the laws of existence. Vaishvanara, immanent in the heart of humanity, holy protector of yajnic actions, pervades the firmament and, with his grand potential, gives the magic touch of resplendence to the heaven of joy.

3. Vyastabhnād rodasī mitro adbhuto'ntarvāvada-kṛṇojyotiṣā tamah. Vi carmaṇīva dhiṣane avartayad vaiśvānaro viśvamadhatta vṛṣnyam.

Vaishvanara, leading light and life of existence, universal friend and light giver, marvellous and all immanent unmoved mover, holds the heaven and earth in balance, covers, i.e., dispels darkness with light, revolves heaven and earth, day and night, wearing both like changing and alternate forms and thus sustains the entire living, organic generous universe.

4. Apāmupasthe mahiṣā agṛbhñata viśo rājānamupa tasthur-rgmiyam. Ā dūto agnimabharad vivasvato vaiśvānaram mātariśvā parāvataḥ.

In the midst of spatial oceans of particles in the firmament, great scholars and scientists perceive, receive and develop Agni celebrated in the Rks and closely abide by it in study like people abiding by the ruler for their benefit. Vayu, currents of cosmic energy abiding in space, acts as carrier and bears Vaishvanara, universal energy of heat and light from the far off sun for the benefit of the world.

5. Yugeyuge vidathyam gr̄ṇadbhyo'gne rayim yaśasam dhehi navyasīm. Pavyeva rājanna-ghaśam̄samajara nīcā ni vr̄ṣca vaninam̄ na tejasā.

Agni, leading light of the world, from year to year, age by age, bear and bring for the dedicated celebrants latest and newest wealth and honour for advancement in knowledge and action. O brilliant ruler, unaging and imperishable, strike down the agent of sin and crime as you strike down a tree or a cloud by thunder and lightning.

6. Asmākamagne maghavatsu dhārayā'nāmi kṣatramajaram suvīryam. Vayam jayema śatinam sahasriṇam vaiśvānara vājamagne tavotibhiḥ.

Agni, leading light of the world, Vaishvanara, kindly ruler of the hearts of humanity, among our people who are blest with wealth, honour and power by virtue of your gifts of protection and advancement, establish a noble, courteous, inalienable and unaging social order of freedom worthy of the brave. We pray we may win a hundredfold and a thousandfold victories of food and sustenance, energy and progress under your protection and promotion.

Agni, refulgent leader, Vaishvanara, gracious ruling presence of the world, loving and adorable guardian present in the three worlds of earth, heaven and the firmament, presiding power of the three councils of governance, legislation and education, with your loving, non-violent and irresistible forces of defence and protection for advancement, pray protect and promote our saints and sages, scholars and the brave heroes and leaders. And protect us all, sustain and advance the courage and morale of all the celebrants and generous givers and yajakas. Save us all, O lord adorable, lead us all across the seas of darkness to the cherished goal.

Mandala 6/Sukta 9

Vaishvanara Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

1. Ahaśca kṛṣṇamahararjunam ca vi vartete rajasī jjyotiṣāgnistamānsi.

The dark half of the earth's daily round, the night, and the bright half, the day, revolve alternately in the terrestrial atmosphere alongwith their cognizable characteristics. Vaishvanara Agni, the sun, darling of the world, as it rises, overcomes and dispels the darkness with light like a ruler eliminating the dark and evil forces of society.

नाहंतन्तु न वि जानाम्यातुं न यं वयन्ति समर तमानाः ।

2. Nāham tantum na vi jānāmyotum na yam vayanti samare'tamānāḥ. Kasya svit putra iha vaktvāni paro vadātyavareṇa pitrā.

I know not the warp nor the woof of the web of life. Nor do I know the design of the web which the weavers weave together in their constant concourse of nights and days. Whose son here or far off, pure and purifying, could say what ought to be said by virtue of the father, or teacher or the supreme teacher at the closest? Who knows?

3. Sa it tantum sa vi jānātyotum sa vaktvānyṛtuthā vadāti. Ya īm ciketadamṛtasya gopā avaścaran paro anyena paśyan.

He surely knows the warp, he knows the woof, he speaks of what ought to be spoken according to the season and the circumstances, he who knows the flow of the stream of life and time, who is the master and keeper of the eternals, and eternal knowledge, who knows and moves up and down, far and near, seeing the reality by the eye of the other, the supreme lord of eternal light.

4. Ayam hotā prathamah paśyat emam idam jyotiramṛtam martyeṣu. Ayam sa jajñe dhruva ā niṣatto'martyastanvā vardhamānah.

This supreme lord is the prime yajaka, giver and receiver. See and know this immortal light among the mortals. And this is that other, the individual soul, unshaken, immovable, firmly seated in the personality, immortal, growing in knowledge and vision and the body in which it is born.

धुं ज्यातिनिहितं दृशयु कं मना जविष्ठं पुतयत्स्वन्तः । विश्व

5. Dhruvam jyotirnihitam dṛśaye kam mano javiṣṭham patayatsvantah. Viśve devāḥ sama-nasah saketā ekam kratumabhi vi yanti sādhu.

In order that the individual soul may see the one immovable blissful divine light enshrined in the cave of the heart, there is the mind, fastest of psychic faculties in the personality of all those who direct themselves to the one centre. All the organs of perception, in fact all the illuminative elements of nature, all of equal competence, united together and in unison with the mind efficiently move toward the individual soul.

6. Vi me karnā patayato vi cakṣurvidam jyotirhṛdaya āhitam yat. Vi me maṇścarati dūra ādhīḥ kim svid vakṣyāmi kimu nū maniṣye.

My ears, as I feel impelled to have a vision of the inner light of divinity, my eyes, the light of the spirit enshrined in the heart, my mind which connects with far off things, all move to help me see the light of divinity within me. What at all shall I say more? What shall I think more?

विश्वे द्वा अनमस्यन्भियानास्त्वामग्नं तमसि तस्थिवांसम् ।

7. Viśve devā anamasyan bhiyānāstvāmagine tamasi tастhivāṁsam. Vaiśvānaro'vatūtaye no'martyo'-vatūtaye nah.

Agni, light of life, life of the universe abiding at the centre of darkness and mystery of existence, all divinities of nature and humanity with all their sense and power bow to you in awe. We pray may Vaishvanara, immortal light of the soul and the universe, protect us for safety, security and well being, protect us for peace and progress.

Mandala 6/Sukta 10

Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

1. Puro vo mandram divyam suvrktim prayati yajñe agnim-adhvare dadhidhvam. Pura ukthebhiiḥ sa hi no vibhāvā svadhvarā karati jātavedāḥ.

In your well-planned and projected programmes of yajnic development free from violence, first and foremost, with right formulae and right process, place in the fore front Agni, holy fire and leading light, charming presence, brilliant and pure power leading to the right goal by the right path. That power and presence alone, kind and loving, immanent in all that exists, leads holy acts of love and kindness to sure success.

2. Tamu dyumah purvaṇīka hotaragne agnibhir-manuṣa idhānah. Stomāṁ yamasmai mamateva śūṣam gṛtāṁ na śuci matayah pavante.

Agni, sagely yajaka brilliant in knowledge and fiery in will and action who inspire people with passion and enthusiasm, pray listen to the song of celebration, powerful as love and pure as ghrta, which wise and thoughtful people sing and sanctify in honour of this holy fire.

पीपाय स श्रवसा मत्यषु या अग्रय दुदाश विप उक्थः ।

3. Pīpāya sa śravasā martyeṣu yo agnaye dadāśa vipra ukthaiḥ. Citrābhī-tamūtibhiṣcitraśocir-vrajasya sātā gomato dadhāti.

That sagely scholar thrives among mortals with honour and excellence who serves and advances the holy fire with songs of praise and holy materials. And Agni too, commanding marvellous light and flames, blesses him with wonderful forms of protection and advances him on the paths of progress with plenty of wealth, land, cows and gifts of knowledge and enlightenment.

As Agni rises and manifests itself like the sun, it is seen from afar and, going over areas of darkness by the paths it makes for itself, it fills the wide spaces of heaven and earth with its light. The light and fire, pure and purifying, thus overcomes the deep darkness of the night with splendour and reveals its glory and the reality of things.

Agni, leading light of life, for all time with wonderful vigour, power and forces of action in perfect safety and protection, bear and bring abundant wealth and excellence for us and for those leaders of magnificence who stand out before other people by means and materials, honour and fame, courage and fortitude.

6. Imam yajñam cano dhā agna uśan yam ta āśāno juhute haviṣmān. Bharadvājeṣu dadhiṣe suvṛktim-avīrvājasya gadhyasya sātāu.

Agni, leading light of life, loving and anxious for the success of this yajnic programme of development and service, bring holy food, energy and sustenance. You always bless the men of munificence, power and success with glory and excellence. Protect us in the battles for science and energy and the wealth and values of our choice.

वि द्वषांसीनुहि वृथयन्तं मदम् शतहिमाः सुवीराः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Vi dveśāṁśīnuhi vārdhayelāṁ madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Agni, leading light of life, drive away hate, jealousy and the enemies. Promote food and energy, protect and replenish the earth and her resources, advance knowledge and holy speech. Bless us that we may be happy and live a hundred years with heroic progeny.

Mandala 6/Sukta 11

1. Yajasva hotariṣito yajīyānagne bādho marutāṁ na prayukti. Ā no mitrāvaruṇā nāsatyā dyāvā hotrāya pṛthivī vavṛtyāḥ.

Keep the fire of yajna burning, O yajaka, loved, inspired and invoked, leading light of life most reverential, bulwark of defence and protection like the force and freshness of winds for the unity and engagement of the people in common causes of creation and development. Bring up for us Mitra and Varuna, powers of love and friendship, judgement and protection, the Ashvins ever true, heaven and earth, keep them on ever active together for the advancement of our yajnic endeavours.

Agni, you are our leading light of yajna, charming and blissful, free from jealousy among mortals, radiant and generous creator giver in our yajnic endeavours, harbinger of wealth by the purifying flames of fire with havis offered with the holy ladle of ghrta and catalysed to fragrance. O lord of us all, develop your own self of radiant fire and develop the social structure of order.

Blessed is the mind and intelligence in pursuit of life's wealth and grace which concentrates on you, Agni, for the celebrant soul to realise the manifestations of Divinity when the devotee, most vibrant sage among the Angirasas, wise saints and scholars, sings as a poet in ecstasy for the cherished attainment.

4. Adidyutat svapāko vibhāvā'gne yajasva rodasi uruci. Āyum na yam namasā rātahavyā añjanti suprayasam pañca janāḥ.

O Brilliant, self-refulgent, glorious power of noble action, Agni, leading light of the world, rise over the wide earth and heaven. All the five classes of people bearing sacred offerings honour and celebrate you with submission and homage as abundant giver of life's blessings, indeed as the very spirit of life. O man, rise and join the Spirit omnipresent.

5. Vṛñje ha yannamasā barhiragnāvayāmi srugghr-tavatī suvrktih. Amyakṣi sadma sadane pr̄thivyā aśrāyi yajñah surye na cakṣuh.

Surely when the grass is gathered with reverence, the ladle overflowing with ghrta is raised over the fire with sacred hymns, the vedi is firmly settled on the ground, then the yajna is accomplished on the earth as the eye is established in the sun (from birth to death with the last rites).

Agni, leading light of life, shining in infinite manifestations, cosmic yajaka and giver of fragrance, blazing with divine flames of fire, omnipotent generator of strength, bestow on us wealths of existence so that, blest with the light of Divinity, we may complete our life's journey and avoid the paths of sin.

Mandala 6/Sukta 12

1. Madhye hotā duroṇe barhiṣo rālagnistodasya rodasī yajadhyai. Ayam sa sūnuḥ sahasa ṛtāvā dūrāt sūryo na śociṣā tatāna.

Agni, ruling light of the world, cosmic yajaka in the midst of the yajnic house of space, radiates as light of the sun to join the heaven and earth together. So does this yajaka, child of courage and forbearance, observing the laws of truth and yajna in the midst of the house of yajna, shine from afar like the sun and extends over earth and heaven (with the fragrance of fire).

Agni, adorable self-refulgent ruling power of life and yajna, let the light of the sun join your radiance as in yajna for universal good so that the light pervasive in heaven, firmament and earth like a dynamic saving power of vitality may create and develop means and materials for wealth and prosperity, honour and excellence for humanity.

3. Tejiṣṭhā yasyāratirvanerāt todo adhvan na vṛdhasāno adyaut. Adrogho na dravitā cetati tma-nnamartyo'vartra oṣadhiṣu.

Agni, whose brilliant pervasiveness blazing in the rays of the sun and shining over the forests radiates advancing on its path like the sun in orbit, manifests by its self-refulgence in herbs and trees as a power free from hate and jealousy, a presence indispensable and inevitable, dynamic and imperishable.

4. Sāsmākebhiretarī na śūṣairagnih ṣṭave dama ā jātavedāh. Drvanno vanvan kratvā nārvosrah piteva jārayāyi yajñaiḥ.

That refulgent ruling power of the world, Agni, knows and resides with all that exists and it is honoured and celebrated in our welcome homes by us with all our strength and enthusiasm. Manifest even in the simplest forms and in wood and forests, loving, noble by intelligence and holy action, Agni is honoured with homage and yajnas as father, celebrated like a tempestuous power and loved like the light of dawn.

And then people admire and celebrate its light and splendour which it releases, refines and intensifies into forms as it goes along on way by the earth, which power whoever knows, always and instantly radiating, flowing, pervading, flying, moving and shaking like flood and storm, the man becomes brilliant with knowledge and shines with the power of superior arms and armaments.

Agni, ruling light of the world, instant dynamic and omnipresent power burning with all kinds of light and fire, protect us from reproach, create and bring us wealth, honour and excellence, ward off and destroy hate, enmity and evil, and let us all enjoy and celebrate a full hundred years of life in the company of brave children and heroic warriors of the earth.

Agni, ruling light of life, lord of good fortune, honour and excellence of the world, from you arise and grow all riches, honours and graces of life like branches of the tree growing and extending from the same one root. Sure and beneficent wealth, strength and spirit to break the demon of darkness, thunder for the cloud and rain from the skies, glorious showers of the waters of life and the adorable flow of holy action, all these too arise and expand from you alone.

his focus and favour for action, he abounds in cherished gifts of life and commands the wealth and power of the world with all treasure sources of prosperity.

Dūtaśca havyavāhanah.*

May that Agni, cosmic highpriest of nature's yajna, receiver of oblations and giver of the fruits of corporate action, visionary power of creative holiness, harbinger and disseminator of fragrance like a messenger, creator and distributor of the finest things of life, join us and be seated with us on the vedi for all ages of human history.

Agni, leading light of purity and justice, whatever the malignant force of negation, whatever the mortal power that strikes to eliminate us, give us the strength and protect us against that evil, to survive and move on.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, bright, pure and purifying, invoked, invited and lighted in the seat of yajna, keen on wealth, honour and excellence with self-approbation and public exaltation, should destroy the evils and endeavour to raise the power and prosperity of the human nation.

35. Garbhe mātuh pituṣpitā vididyutāno akṣare. Sīdannṛtasya yonimā.

Agni, life of life and light of the universe, present in the interior of mother earth, sustainer of the sun, father of earth and her children, shining in his own eternal self, in the individual soul and in the world of imperishable Prakrti, the spirit of the universe, pervades and inspires the ruling laws of eternal truth and the world of existence.

Agni, lord of bliss and eternal protection, just as a person runs to the shade for relief from the blazing sun, so may we, shining as pure gold, rise and come to your presence, the blissful shade of divinity, our ultimate haven and home.

य उग्र॑ व शायहा तिग्मशृङ्गा न वंसगः ।

39. *Ya ugra iva śaryahā tigmaśrīngo na vaṁsagah.

Agni, lord protector of life, destroyer of killer arrows like a fierce warrior, burning off negativities like the fierce rays of the sun, you destroy the strongholds of the enemies of life.

Like the darling new born baby held in the hand, like a beautiful bracelet worn on the wrist, the yajakas place the fire in the vedi, light and raise it, since it is the blessed source giver of wealth and joy for the people.

प दुवं दुववीतये भरता वसुवित्तमम् ।

Place, light and raise the brilliant and generous fire in your home for favour of the bounties of nature and humanity since it is the immense source giver of wealth, honour and excellence. Let the holy fire be instituted and maintained so that you abide in peace and joy.

आ जातं जातवेदसि प्रियं शिशीतातिथिम् ।

42. *Ā jātam̄ jātavedasi priyam̄ śāśitātithim.
Syona ā grhapatim.*

Sharpen and constantly intensify the light of universal Agni, spirit of life, manifested in the all immanent fire of yajna, like a dear guest worthy of reverence in the delightful home, the spirit which is protector, promoter and really the head of family.

अग्नं युक्ष्वा वा हि य तवा श्वासा दव साधवः ।

Agni, leading light of knowledge, generous pioneer, come fast in all your glory, bring us the dearest powers for sustenance and advancement for the sake of peace and well-being, and bring the noble brilliancies along to celebrate success with the delight of soma.

45. *Udagne bhārata dyumad-ajasrena davidyutat.

Agni, unaging sustainer of life, shining with the light of excellence and blazing with glory, rise up with flames of fire and shine on with inexhaustible splendour, and help the shining people too to rise in the light of knowledge and excellence of life.

वीती या दुवं मता' दुवस्यद्गिर्मीक्षीताध्वर हृविष्मान ।

46. Vītī yo devam marto duvasyedagnimūlitādhvare haviṣmān. Hotāram satyayajam̄ rodasyoruttānahasto vivāset.

The mortal, who, bearing holy materials of yajna with love and reverence, serves and worships Agni, generous and brilliant yajaka of the universe abiding and operative in the unity of cosmic law and universal truth, and who prays to the lord with folded hands raised in surrender and supplication, would shine over earth and heaven with divine favour and joy.

आ तं अग्ने ऋचा हृविहृदा तुष्टं भरामसि ।

47. *Ā te agna rcā havir-hṛdā taṣṭam̄ bharāmasi.
Te te bhavantūkṣaṇa ṛṣabhbhāso vaśā uta.*

Agni, O lord of light, omniscience and omnipotence, thus do we bear and offer the homage of surrender and self-sacrifice to you, prepared with love of the heart and sanctified with holy chant of Rgveda, and we pray may all our people be for you, virile and generous, inspired with love and brilliance of excellence.

Thus do brilliant sages light the holy fire and worship Agni, leading light and pioneer, lord of action, foremost leader, highest breaker of the densest clouds and harbinger of the showers of generosity, who bears and brings for us the wealth and honours of the world and who, with his omnipotence, destroys the wicked hostilities of humanity.

Mandala 6/Sukta 17

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

पिबा साममभि यमुग्र तद् ऊर्वं गव्यं महि गृणान इन्द । वि
या धृष्णा वधिषा वजहस्त विश्वा वृत्रममित्रिया

1. Pibā somamabhi yamugra tarda ūrvam gavyam mahi gṛṇāna indra. Vi yo dhṛṣṇo vadhiṣo vajrahasta viśvā vṛtram-amitriyā śavobhīḥ.

Indra, mighty invincible lord of the force of cosmic energy, wielder of the thunderbolt in hand, drink and celebrate with soma while you are sung and celebrated since you break the cloud of showers as the sun, release the vast and great wealth of cows, milk and ghrta, and with your powers and action destroy all unfriendly and antilife forces of the world.

स इ पाहि य ऋजीषी तरुत्रा यः शिप्वान्वृषभा या

2. Sa īm pāhi ya ṛjīṣī tarutro yaḥ śipravān vṛṣabho sa indra citrān abhi trndhi vājān.

The one that is simple and natural in conduct, saviour across the seas, splendid and self-protected, mightiest among people, breaker of clouds and hostile strongholds, wielder of the thunderbolt and strongest winner, such is Indra, and such, O lord, defend, protect and promote what is won, release the wonderful energies and overcome the on-slaughts of hostile forces.

एवा पाहि प्रत्नथा मन्दतु त्वा श्रुधि बह्यं वावृधस्वात् गीभिः ।

3. Evā pāhi pratnathā mandatu tvā śrudhi brahma vāvṛdhhasvota gīrbhīḥ. Āviḥ sūryam kṛnuhi pīpihīṣo jahi śatruñrabhi gā indra trndhi.

Thus protect and promote life and humanity as ever before, and let the adventure give you the pride of pleasure. Listen to the Veda, protect the Word of knowledge, and be exalted by our songs of celebration. Uncover the light of the sun, enjoy food and drink, destroy the hostilities, release the speech of humanity to freedom, and unshackle the lands from bondage into liberty.

4. Te tvā madā bṛhadindra svadhāva ime pītā ukṣayanta dyumantam. Mahāmanūnam tavasam vibhūtim-matsurāso jarhṛṣanta prasāham.

Indra, self-refulgent lord of your own essential power and grandeur, exalted ruler, may these drinks of soma thus enjoyed shower you with the joy and ecstasy of victory. So do the people moved with the excitement of self-confidence and divine exaltation celebrate you, great, perfect, potent, magnificent, and victorious yet forbearing lord of power as you are.

dr̥lhāni dardrat. Mahāmadriṁ pari gā indra

Indra, lord ruler of the world, by the powers and forces with which you place the sun in orbit and rouse the dawn on course, and vest them both in light and splendour, and with which you break the strongest mountain asunder, by the same power and force, O lord of love and bliss, from your own assembly seat, inspire and strengthen the great inexhaustible human energy, generous as cloud of showers, across the earth to rise and shine.

With your wisdom, holy deeds and divine power, you develop ripeness in the unripe and maturity in the immature minds and open the strong doors and fill them with light for the bright people. Thus does the lord of life and breath energy of freedom liberate the lands and their speech from the violence of tyrants.

Indra, almighty lord of glorious action and potential, you create, pervade and sustain the wide earth and heaven and you sustain, support and order the compact earth, heaven and the expansive universe, and you sustain the compact earth, firmament and the solar sphere, ancient, great and generous mothers of the children of divinity and themselves the children of mother Prakrti and the divine law of nature.

Indra, lord almighty of bliss and enlightenment, all the noble powers of nature and humanity hold on to you, lord absolute and omnipotent, for success in their life's endeavours. And when anyone bereft of light engages in contest against the enlightened, then the enlightened people maintain their faith in the heavenly power and win the battle for light and bliss here itself.

9. Adha dyauścit te apa sā nu vajrād dvitānamad bhiyasā svasya manyoh. Ahim yadindro abhyohasānam ni cid viśvāyuh śayathe jaghāna.

And then even the light of heaven doubly bows to you, first in awe of the thunderbolt and then also in awe of your majesty of divine passion, when Indra, cosmic energy, strikes the approaching dark cloud and lays it down in showers and sends it to sleep.

अथ त्वष्टा त महउग वजं सुहस्रभृष्टिं ववृतच्छताश्रिम ।

10. Adha tvaṣṭā te maha ugra vajram sahasra-bhr̄ṣṭim vavṛtacchatāśrim. Nikāmamarama-ṇasam yena navantam-ahim sam piṇagṛjīṣin.

O lord of blazing glory, simple, natural and forceful, Tvashta, the cosmic maker of forms, shaped in nature the mighty hundred-angled thousand pointed thunderbolt of your cherished design for relentless strikes by which you break the roaring cloud of darkness for showers of rain in the cycle of seasons.

Indra, O potent spirit of the cosmos, let all vibrant creative and constructive forces of nature and humanity join in unison and exalt you, ruler of the world, ripening and maturing a hundred mighty gifts of vitality in your service. May Vishnu, omnipresent sustaining power of universal nourishment, ever active on the move, fill the three oceans of earth, heaven and the middle regions with life giving nectar of bliss and excitement for this Indra to break down the cloud of darkness, evil and want.

12. Ā kṣodo mahi vṛtam nadīnām pariṣṭhitamasrja ūrmimapām. Tāsāmanu pravata indra panthām prārdayo nīcīrapasah samudram.

Indra, ruling power of the world, creates the great flood of the rivers collected and controlled all round and releases the waves of the waters to flow. Accordingly he prepares the paths of water movement downward and lets the waters join the sea (thereby completing the natural cycle of water energy across the three oceans).

एवा ता विश्वा चक्रवांसमिन्दं महामुग्रमजुर्य सहृदाम ।

3. Evā tā viśvā cakrvāṁsam-indram mahāmugram-ajuryam sahodām. Suvīram tvā svāyudham suvajramā brahma navyam-avase vavrtyāt.

Thus may our new homage of praise, prayer and yajnic service reach Indra, omnipotent lord of the universe, absolute doer of all actions, mighty, resplendent, unaging and imperishable, giver of strength and forbearance, commander of heroes, all armed and wielder of the thunderbolt of nature's cyclic energy, and may our prayer move the lord for our protection and progress.

May Indra, lord ruler of the universe, accept us, vibrant seekers of light, for the gift of speed and progress toward victory, honour and excellence, food and energy, and all round wealth of life. May Indra bless the brave leaders of humanity, and may the lord establish us all in the light of divinity and guide us on the path of total worldly fulfilment and freedom of ultimate salvation.

अया वाजं द्रवहितं सनम् मदम् शतहिमाः सुवीराः ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Ayā vājam devahitam sanema madema śatahimāḥ

Thus do we offer ardent praise and seek to share divine favour and inspiration fit for dedicated humanity and pray we may live happy a full hundred years blest with noble and heroic generations of progeny.

Mandala 6/Sukta 18

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

Adore him who tames and controls brute force, loves and shares life with all, unshaken and all admired, that is Indra, potent ruler of the world, intrepidable, blazing resplendent, challenging yet forbearing, most generous and creative of people. With these words of celebration, exalt him, and you too would rise.

Indra is a hero, strong and realistic, a warrior, socially committed, all loving and friendly, eloquent, simple, natural and honest, dynamic, stormy in movement, and a unique embodiment of courage and tolerance among the best of thinking humanity.

त्वं हु नु त्यददमाया दस्यूरकः कृष्टीरवनारायाय । अस्ति

3. Tvam̄ ha nu tyadadamāyo dasyūnrekaḥ krṣṭīra-vanorāryāya. Asti svinnu vīryam̄ tat ta indra na svidasti tadṛtuthā vi vocaḥ.

Indra, you for sure are the one who fight out and control the wicked and violent elements and bring the world communities together for a united world of progressive and cultured humanity. That indeed is your strength, real heroism, is it not? Pray speak of that courage, competence and vision according to the needs of time and season.

4. Sadiddhi te tuvijātasya manye sahaḥ sahiṣṭha turatasturasya. Ugramugrasya tavasastavīyo'radhrasya radhraturo babhūva.

Real and true indeed is the courage and tolerance of the world hero, yours all, I believe, O boldest and most forbearing warrior, which defines the light, power and victory of the ruler who is the instant victor over the victorious, blazing over the violent, stronger than the strongest and most powerful non-violent destroyer of the destructive.

5. Tannah pratnām sakhyamastu yuṣme itthā vadadbhir-valamaṅgirobhīḥ. Hannacyutacyud dasmeṣayantamṛṇoḥ puro vi duro asya viśvāḥ.

That age-old friendship of ours with you may, we pray, be firmly established in you and remain thus with the vibrant celebrants too who speak this same way in praise of you, and just as the sun breaks the cloud and opens the flood gates of rain showers, so may you, O lord imperishable and generous, shaker of the otherwise unshaken, destroy the darkness of evil, inspire and advance the dynamic leaders, and open all the gates of the human cities on the world highways.

That is the lord worthy of homage with all our intelligence and holy actions, resplendent maker of leaders and achievers in the great human struggle against evil and deprivation. That wielder of adamantine power is to be exalted and glorified in the battles of humanity for the advancement and progress of our children and grand children for future generations.

Indra, lord of life, creator giver of strength, commander of power and forbearance, give us that wealth and life's value and that master ruling power vast as skies and bright as sun which, by its intrinsic strength of character can stand by people in the face of hostile forces in our struggle for progress, fight a thousand battles with success, give us lands of fertility and smiling greenery, and overcome the darkness of ignorance, poverty and injustice.

Indra, ruler of the world, observer of the original law and keeper of the honest simplicity of natural conduct, when in union with omnipresent Vishnu, omnipotent cosmic energy, you break the cloud of serpentine motion holding showers of the waters of life in hiding, then, together with the showers, universal life breath of vital energies is received, like light of the sun from heaven, by the brilliancies of humanity and of nature such as earth to bless you and your people.

Indra, resplendent and illustrious leader, is mightiest of the mighty. Breaking the clouds for shower, having created abundance of food, energy and literature of vision and wisdom, and having raised a team of veteran assistants, he becomes the real ruler of humanity, commander of honey sweets of peace and joy and saviour of all cities of the common wealth against the assailant and destroyer.

Here in the world of business and administration in the advancement of life and light for the men of vision and wisdom protected from all ten directions, misers, thieves and robbers all run off by a hundred onslaughts of the ruler's admirers. Indra, O lord ruler of light and life, can any one exhaust, surpass or defeat the power, knowledge and abundance of the mighty and generous ruling order? None.

When on the fall of the mighty thunderbolt of justice and punishment the demon of darkness and denial is fallen and the sustaining force of all hate, jealousy and enmity is withdrawn, then the mighty Indra, further, opens and extends the field for the positive leaders and pioneers of vision, creativity and power for the nation on the march in the higher battle of light and culture.

Indra, glorious ruler, enemies unknown, takes on and wins over the rivals and contenders and, wielding the cloud-breaking thunderbolt in hand and settled in his dominion seat of power, he aims like an archer and rides his chariot driven by word-controlled horse powers which drive the mighty ruler over the expanse of his dominion.

Indra, lord of knowledge and power, brave leader and ruler of the world, the seekers of truth young and old, ancient and modern all, trying to know you by question and answer in faith, go by the Word which is eternal and highest. O lord giver of divine vision, sustainer of the life and wealth of existence, the more we know, the greater we find you and worship you as lord supreme.

Against you stands the force of evil powers, O potent lord of courage and valour, face that firmly and, with your age old ally and friendly thunderbolt of justice and punishment, crush those forces and wipe them out before they rise to dangerous proportions.

Indra, potent lord of courage and valour, sustainer of the artist, scientist and their creations, listen to the prayer of the latest seeker of the wealth and wisdom of existence. O lord responsive to our call in cherished plans and programmes, you are and have been the constant friend and guardian of our forefathers in their search divine for light and fulfilment.

O lord of knowledge, creator and giver of strength, listen to my words of prayer and come to me with all universal forms of wealth and those adorable powers worthy of being cherished who have the tongue of fire, serve the truth of divine law and who raise humanity high like the cloud for charity toward the weak and exhausted.

May he, Indra, the lord all-knowing, know us and enlighten us, the leader who goes forward as pioneer over paths both easy and difficult, carving new channels of progress over annals of history, and may he bring us those modes of energy, power and transport which are wide and versatile beyond wear and tear, indefatigable, inexhaustible.

Mandala 6/Sukta 22

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

The one sole lord of humanity worthy of yajnic homage is Indra, whom I adore with these words of praise. He it is, lord generous, giver of showers of strength and bliss, eternal, imperishable, omnificent, omnipotent and forbearing who protects and sustains life as supreme father and guardian.

2. Tamu nah pūrve pitaro navagvāḥ sapta viprāso abhi vājayantah. Nakṣuddābhām taturim parvatesṭhāmadroghavācam matibhiḥ śaviṣṭham.

Him our ancient forefathers and the seven sages, like our five senses, mind and intellect, alongwith their fellow men, have celebrated and glorified, the lord that is tamer and controller of opposition, saviour from suffering, pervasive in clouds and over mountains, sweet of tongue and strongest in force and power.

3. *Tamīmaha indramasya rāyah puruvīrasya

We pray to Indra for his gifts of wealth, happy progeny, man power and generous abundance which he, lord of unlimited potential, ageless and blissful, commanding men and transport, would, we hope, bring us for his joy and ours.

Indra, speak to us how the ancient celebrants of yours were blest with the gift of peace and joy. Say what is your share and contribution therein, what joy and ecstasy of being, O lord irresistible, forceful, universally invoked, commanding immense riches, destroyer of evil and the wicked.

If the voice and words of a person are vibrant with devotion and eloquent with enquiry in right earnest about Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, wielder of the thunderbolt in hand, riding the chariot of life, strong with iron grasp, bold in action, giver of tempestuous strength and commander of cosmic force, then such a person wins the lord's favour of dominion over land for food, energy and the happiness of his heart's desire.

May Indra, lord of infinite knowledge and power, bless us and you all with the best and latest vision and intelligence in order that we may adore and glorify the omnipotent eternal lord as ever, and may the lord saviour of the celestial chariot bring the universal strength of action, otherwise unattainable, and take us across all impassable impediments.

Let them feel the heat and light of the blaze from all sides, heat up even the green earth and cool waters for them and thus let them be cleansed through suffering and penitence.

Indra, lord of adamantine will and power, ruler of the world, bring in that wide ranging and inviolable peace and well being in a state of constant vigilance and dynamism to win over enmity and opposition by which darkness and ignorance can be replaced by light and knowledge and the lower and average orders of society can be raised to higher state of enlightenment and action.

Come straight here to us with these without delay.

Indra, lord of honour, wealth and excellence of the world, when the soma is distilled, songs of prayer and adoration are sung and the music of Vedic hymns swells in the air, and when you move and come, one with us, loving and ecstatic, drawn by your own fiery motive powers of saving grace and holding the thunderbolt in hand, you are great and glorious.

Or when, O mighty lord Indra, free from fear, you protect the creator of the soma of life's joy in the battle of the brave for the elimination of darkness and want and for advancement of light and showers of love and cherished prosperity, or when you scare away even the mighty fearsome warriors against life, you shine in divine glory. O lord Indra, we pray, subdue the forces of violence, fear and destruction.

the joy of life created with cooperative effort under divine guidance. May the lord of splendour be the leader to guide the celebrant to the desired goal in protection and security of justice. May the lord be the creator of a world of beauty for the brave who endeavour to contribute to the health and joy of life. May the lord bless the divine poet and celebrant with wealth and prosperity in life.

Listen ye all celebrants and yajakas, Indra, ruler of the world, is he who reaches all programmes of positive and creative development by the fastest transport with dynamic experts of theory and practice both, who wields thunderous power and weapons, protects, promotes and shares the soma, invigorating joys of life, gives cows, fertile lands and brilliant words of wisdom and guiding policy, creates bravest of the brave leaders, and listens and appreciates the songs and celebrations of the admirers among the people.

Whatever Indra, lord ruler of light and love, wishes, we do for him since he creates for us the holy acts and does all other divine acts of sustenance. When the soma is distilled and the songs of praise arise, we celebrate and exalt him so that knowledge, food, energy and moral rectitude may arise and grow the way it should.

Indra, lord ruler, the more noble acts of growth and development you do, the more with our intelligentsia and our people we do our acts of duty for you. O lord lover of honour and excellence, when the work is done, the soma is distilled and the time is come for celebration, we do praise worthy acts with yajnas and sing most delightful songs of joy in your honour.

Indra, lord of majesty, know and enlighten us, happily taste the delicious pudding and drink the exhilarating soma seasoned with cow's milk so soothing to the mind and senses. Come, be seated on the yajamana's vedi, and create a wider and higher world of beauty for your devotees.

Indra, resplendent lord, enjoy and rejoice in response to these yajnic acts of our homage as they may please you, and may these our addresses of invocation reach you, lord universally loved, and may this song of adoration and enlightened awareness appeal to you for our protection and advancement.

O friends, in all your acts of divine service, admire and adore Indra, lord giver of light and food, with yajnic offers of water and endeavours of creative joy dedicated to him so that the great and magnanimous lord would be gracious in the sustenance and protection of you and us all, since he never forsakes the earnest creator of soma.

Thus is Indra admired and adored among saints and scholars in the world of honour and excellence when the soma is distilled and ready for celebration so that he, lord of honour, power and knowledge, may settle and abide by men of power and prosperity and be the giver of universal wealth of value to the devoted celebrant.

Mandala 6/Sukta 24

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

Indra, resplendent ruler, is generous as a cloud of showers in the holy programmes of peace and progress of the social order, joy incarnate, delightful as a poem, sacred as a hymn, loved as a friend, lover and protector of the people's happiness and achievement, simple, honest and natural in conduct, admired, revered and consecrated for the people and celebrated by the holiest of their voices, lord of honour, power and glory wrapped in heavenly light, inviolable, ever protective, a very haven of peace and security.

Pressing fast forward against the enemies, brave, leader of leaders, wide awake and all aware, attentive to the call of the supplicant, all round protector of the people, haven and home and real asset of the nation, admired by the people, patron of artists and expert professionals, swift and powerful, adored in yajnic programmes, Indra, the ruler, gives speed and sustenance to the nation's progress.

3. Akṣo na cakryoh̄ śūra bṛhan pra te mahnā ririce rodasyoh̄. Vṛkṣasya nu te puruhūta vayā vyūtayo ruruhūrindra pūrvīḥ.

Like the axis of two moving bodies such as two wheels or stars and planets or sun and earth, O mighty lord of majesty, Indra, universally invoked and adored, the eternal processes of your creation, protection and promotion of the expansive universe grow and extend like the branches of a tree by virtue of your infinite power and excell the light of the sun and generosity of the earth.

4. Śacīvataste puruśāka śākā gavāmiva srutayah samcaranīḥ. Vatsānāṁ na tantayasta indra dāmanvanto adāmānah sudāman.

Indra, resplendent lord ruler of the world, destroyer of suffering, manifold are your deeds, unbounded your intelligence, and countless your people. The abundant streams of your generous acts are expansive, associative and convergent like waves of light rays and paths of cows and orbits of stars, and, like tethers of the calves and axes of planets, they are controllers and yet givers of freedom, O generous lord of law and liberty.

Indra, our friend here, great and just, life giver and sustainer, master and over all controller of controllers does one act today, another tomorrow, creative and destructive, integrating and disintegrating, making and unmaking, and goes on doing thus again and again in a positive cyclic order.

Indra, lord of beneficence sung and celebrated in hymns of holiness, just as warriors rush to battle for victory, so do joyous devotees and celebrants eager for karmic action and life's victory hasten to you with homage and yajnas performed with these hymns of praise and songs of adoration, and then, just as rain showers pour from the heights of clouds and streams flow down from the top of mountains, so do fruits of piety and gifts of divine grace shower down and flow, from you.

Winters and years wither him not, nor months weaken him, nor the sun and days wear out Indra celebrated by hymns of divine praise and songs of adoration. May the existential manifestation of the lord supreme, eternal Indra grow on and on in majesty. May the body and mind of this eternal jiva, individual soul, grow by the chant of sacred songs and hymns of divine praise.

He bows not to the strong and forceful, nor bends before the resolute, nor does he praise or flatter the bold nor anyone allied to the wicked. Mighty mountains are, for Indra, plain as fields, and for him the ocean in the depth becomes firm ground and a fordable flow.

Mighty lord, purifier and sanctifier of things in the world of creation, with deep love, profound purpose and grace unbound, give us abundance of food and energy and wide ranging knowledge and success. Stay with us constant with your protection high over us, at dawn and at dusk, night and day without hurt or let up.

Indra, ruling lord of the realm, be with us, our leadership and our policy, and justice for protection and progress. Save the system here and afar, at home and abroad, from fear and violence so that, blest with the brave, we may live and rejoice for a full hundred years.

Indra, mighty ruler and commander of the common wealth, whether it is your own people or other distant ones or sabotagers who join upfront against you to injure the system, you destroy their forces of sabotage, eliminate their growing potential and throw them out.

When the brave engage the brave in battle with brilliance of physical force of body, or when people argue, dispute and shout over rights and inheritance in relation to children and grand children, or about fertile lands and cows or waters, then, too, judge and resolve the dispute.

Neither the brave nor impetuous nor violent nor warrior, however great and proud, can stand and fight against you. Indra, lord almighty, none is your equal, none adversary, you are supreme over all those that are born and existent.

If two partners in the matter of integration or division or separation of finances or management of a large corporate organisation of men dispute, then he gets control of the money or the assets whom judges of piety and penetrative intelligence call upon to manage, and above all Indra, the ruler, is the ultimate master.

7. Adha smā te carṣāṇayo yadejānindra trātota bhavā varūtā. Asmākāśo ye nṛtamāśo arya indra sūrayo dadhire puro nah.

And also, O lord ruler and master, giver of honour and excellence, destroyer of evil and wickedness, Indra, be the saviour and protector of all your people specially of those who are stricken with fear. Be the defender and promoter of those people of ours who are the highest leading lights and bravest heroes who hold the forts and maintain the cities for us.

8. Anu re dāyi maha indriyāya satrā te viśvamanu vṛtrahatye. Anu kṣatramanu saho yajatrendra devebhiranu te nṛṣahye.

Consequently, O lord most adorable, supreme ruler, protector of life and destroyer of negation, appropriate to your greatness and majesty, in keeping with the honour and dignity of the world social order, and in view of the courage and fortitude required to face the challenges to humanity, the whole world is given unto you and entrusted, in truth, by the leading lights and brilliant visionaries of nations in the battle of light against darkness, of goodness against evil, and of prosperity against want and squalor.

9. Evā nah sprdhah samajā samatsvindra rārandhi mithatīradevīḥ. Vidyāma vastoravasā grṇanto bharadvājā uta ta indra nūnam.

Thus, O lord Indra, giver of honour and victory, we pray, inspire us to advance in our ambition to win over our rivals in the battles of life. O lord destroyer, subdue the warring forces of darkness and selfishness. Let us all, celebrants and men of knowledge and action, singing and celebrating your honour day and night, know you for sure and win the victories by virtue of your guidance and protection.

Indra, lord ruler and giver of honour and excellence, listen to us: overwhelming and exuberant we call upon you in the great battle of sustenance and advancement. When the people march on in the battle of the brave, then on the decisive day give us the blazing passion of your force and protection to victory.

2. Tvāṁ vājī havate vājineyo maho vājasya gadhyasya sātau. Tvāṁ vṛtreshvindra satpatiṁ tarutram tvāṁ caste muṣṭihā goṣu yudhyan.

The war-like scion of a heroic family of learned leaders and scholars, seeker of a great new success just at hand in the field of food, energy, knowledge and progress, invokes you, Indra, potent lord victor, you saviour of devotees and defender of truth, and, fighting hand to hand, looks up to you at the decisive moment of victory for the acquisition of new wealths of light and development of lands, cows and branches of energy.

You enthuse and inspire the creative visionary in the work on solar energy, thunder and lightning. You break open the secrets of concentrated energy for the man of power and generosity. Thus you shake and subdue the head of invulnerable pride and intransigence and do praise-worthy service to the leader who honours and keeps open house for visiting scholars.

4. Tvam ratham pra bharo yodhamṛṣvamāvo yudhyantam vṛṣabham daśadyum. Tvam tugram vetasave sacāhan tvam tujim gṛṇantamindra tutoh.

Indra, ruler and commander, you create and maintain an invulnerable war chariot and protect the strong fighting force shining in ten directions for days on end. In full dedication to the honour and brilliance of the social order, destroy violence and terror and advance the strong, promotive and allied powers that do honour to the nation.

Indra, mighty destroyer of evil and preserver of the good, it is praise worthy that with your great force you destroy a hundred thousand evils, O brave lord, and, with wondrous saving powers, release from the cloud pent up showers, so soothing and refreshing, and thus relieve and protect humanity dedicated as a liberal servant of divinity.

Indra, ruling lord destroyer and preserver, rejoicing with faithful homage and joyous celebrations of dedicated followers, you send the oppressive ogre to sleep in order to save the oppressed and, favouring the man of right conduct in keeping with your holiness, you give him the right direction and ward off a sixty thousand obstacles from his path.

Indra, bravest lord of the house of the brave, I pray, may I too, along with the learned and the wise and great, attain that high order of vigour and splendour, peace and well being, with the grace of your presence bestowed by you, lord of three worlds, which the brave and learned people value, admire and pray for.

Indra, greatest lord of grace and glory, may we, in this yajnic programme of power and prosperity of the human nation, be your dearest friends and supportive participants, and may the rising generosity and gracious glory of the world order rise highest in our battle against darkness of ignorance, injustice and poverty for the achievement of all round prosperity and well being.

1. Kimasya made kimvasya pītāvindrah kimasya sakhye cakāra. Rañā vā ye niṣadi kim te asya purā vividre kimu nūtanāsaḥ.

What does Indra, destroyer of suffering, do in the ecstasy of this soma, for the beauty and glory of this order? What in the exuberance of the drink, in the joyous experience of its management and satisfaction therefrom? What in the friendly identity with it and its people? And what do they know and discern, the veterans and the youngest of the new generation, who joyously celebrate in the company of this Indra in the House? What do they gain?

2. Sadasya made sadvasya pītāvindrah sadasya sakhye cakāra. Rañā vā ye niṣadi sat te asya purā vividre sadu nūtanāsaḥ.

Noble deeds of the truth of its reality does Indra perform in the rapture of its dignity, noble and true indeed when he drinks of the soma of that experience, nothing but the truth and dignity of action and policy in friendly identity with this social order. And they who joyously sit in his company in the House identified with the glory of this order, veterans as well as new ones, they too know and realise the truth and the reality, nothing but the truth, whole and undiluted.

3. Nahi nu te mahimanaḥ samasya na maghavan maghavattvasya vidma. Na rādhaso rādhaso nūtanasyendra nakirdadṛśa indriyam te.

Indra, lord of wealth, power and majesty, we know not anyone equal to you in greatness and glory, nothing like your regality and munificence, nothing so perfect as your perfection which reveals ever new possibilities. None comprehends your omniscience and your omnipotence.

4. Etat tyat ta indriyamaceti yenāvadhīrvara-śikhasya śeṣaḥ. Vajrasya yat te nihatasya śuṣmāt svanāccidindra paramo dadāra.

Indra, lord of power and perfection, this omnipotence of yours is apprehended when with it you strike and destroy the greatest and highest adversary to the very end, which too is just the tip of the might of omnipotence, and when, by the force of the mere roar and rumble of the thunderbolt hurled, the proudest enemy is shattered.

Just as Indra, the sun, breaks the cloud on high to the last drop of rain, so should Indra, eminent teacher as well as the ruler, in the act of giving instruction to the dedicated learners all round vigilant in a sustained manner, while giving them pioneering enlightenment in their love of scholars and scholarship, dispel their basic fear, ignorance and negative tendencies and thus eliminate the possibilities of later resurgence of evil with the healthy fear of unknown and unexpected consequences.

Indra, mighty lord ruler universally invoked and honoured, let thirty hundred renowned warriors in armour in a well provided army in top gear breaking through the enemy lines, shattering the defences, achieve their decisive goal.

7. Yasya gāvāvaruśā sūyavasyū antarū ṣu carato rerihāṇā. Sa srñjayāya turvaśam parādād vṛcīvato daivavātāya śikṣan.

The ruler whose power and law, internal policy and external defence, both like two healthy, ruddy and loving cows, well provided and happily self-satisfied, operate in the dominion, he, training the efficient force in radiative communication and productive science, would throw off the destructive elements of the state.

Agni, resplendent ruler, commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, dynamic leader ever on the move for progress and victory, revered and celebrated all round, gives me both chariot warriors for defence of the nation and happy families and a team of twenty creative ministers to bear the burdens of the nation, which gift from any of global rulers is invulnerable indeed.

Mandala 6/Sukta 28

Gavah or Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

आ गाव' अग्म तुत भद्रमकन्त्सीदन्तु गाष्ठरणयन्त्वस्म ।

1. Ā gāvo agmannuta bhadram-akrantsīdantu goṣṭhe raṇayantvasme. Prajāvatīḥ pururūpā iha syurindrāya pūrvīruṣaso duhānāḥ.

Let the cows come as rays of the sun, sit and rest in the stalls, be happy and bring us happiness and good fortune. May they be fertile with many calves, of many colours and breeds, abundant, yielding plenty of milk for the health and prosperity of the nation, and thereby let them be harbingers of light like the morning dawns.

2. Indro yajvane prñate ca śikṣatyuped dadāti na svam muṣāyati. Bhūyobhūyo rayimidasya vardhayannabhinne khilye ni dadhāti devayum.

Indra, the ruler, gives protection and maintenance grants to the man dedicated to yajna. He engages him in creative and educational work and thus gives him fulfilment and purpose in life. This way too he does not deplete his own knowledge and culture but maintains it. Constantly and continuously he adds to the wealth of the nation and, in every region of the land, he looks after and maintains the devotees of learning, society and divinity without taking away anything from them materially.

3. Na tā naśanti na dabhāti taskaro nāsāmāmitro vyathirā dadharṣati. Devāñśca yābhiryajate dadāti ca jyogit tābhiḥ sacate gopatiḥ saha.

Knowledge, fruits of yajna, generosity, patronage of learning and culture, these rays of light do not perish nor deplete nor fade away. The thief steals them not, no enemy can afflict them, nor can anyone injure or insult them. The lord of these cows, lights and radiations, with which he serves the divinities, learned and the wise, gives, creates and adds to life's beauty, also, he constantly and continuously lives, lasts and rises with them.

4. Na tā arvā reṇukakāṭo aśnute na saṃskṛtatra-mupa yanti tā abhi. Urugāyamabhayam tasya tā anu gāvo martasya vi caranti yajvanah.

Neither a vociferous brute raising clouds of dust like a war horse attains to these rays of light and culture, nor do these radiations penetrate the thick head of a violent man insulated against enlightenment. Like cows, the rays of refinement roam freely round the open pastures of the generous man of yajna and social service, a boundless world of freedom and fearlessness.

5. Gāvo bhago gāva indro me acchān gāvah somasya prathamasya bhakṣah. Imā yā gāvah sa janāsa indra icchāmīddhṛdā manasā cidindram.

May Bhaga, lord of wealth and good fortune, give me cows. May Indra, lord of power and majesty, give me good cows. May Bhaksha, adorable lord of primal food, energy and ecstasy of life, give me good cows for milk. O people, O lord of power and glory, Indra, I love and love to have all that is cows, i.e., mothers of food and energy, sources of sweetness, light and culture, masters of knowledge and wisdom, honour and excellence. I love that all with my heart and mind, the beauty, the glory, the ecstasy!

6. Yūyam gāvo medayathā kṛśam cidaśrīram cit kṛṇuthā supratikam. Bhadram grham kṛṇutha bhadravāco brhad vo vaya ucyate sabhāsu.

You develop the cows of life, mother spirits of body, mind and soul. Give health and vigour to the weak and emaciated, turn the ugly and unpleasant to beautiful, graceful and illustrious. Make the home overflow with peace, prosperity and the bliss of good fortune. You command noble speech in the assemblies of the wise and powerful leaders so that your life and work is praised and appreciated wide and high in the world.

7. Prajāvatīḥ sūyavasam riśantīḥ śuddhā apah suprapāne pibantīḥ. Mā vaḥ stena īśata māghaśamsah pari vo hetī rudrasya vṛjyāḥ.

O fertile and abundant cows blest with calves, feeding on fine green grass and drinking pure water from transparent pools, may no thief ever overpower you, may no strike of the cruel and sinful butcher ever slaughter you.

(Swami Dayanand applies this mantra to the duties of the ruler: The ruler should look after the cattle wealth of the country. The government must protect and promote the cows. Not only that. Even the people and their education culture and efficiency are, like the holy cow, to be protected against violence and promoted with good food and water and all means of prevention of social crime and violence.)

8. *Upedamupaparcanamāsu goṣūpa prcyatām.

In this social order and in the policy, let there be a union and identity of the ruler with the people, their lands and their languages. Indra, noble and illustrious ruler, all giver, let the people share, join and support you in your creative acts of courage and development.

1. Indram vo narah sakhyāya sepurmaho yantah sumataye cakānāḥ. Maho hi dātā vajrahasto asti mahāmu ranvamavase yajadhvam.

O citizens of the land, leading lights of humanity in love with knowledge, wisdom and guidance, to win your friendship and to rise to the heights of life for your sake, honour and serve Indra, supreme ruler, lord of knowledge and power. Great is he, all giver, and wields the sceptre of light, power and justice. Join the great lord of love and joy and honour him with homage and yajnic service for protection and progress.

2. Ā yasmin haste naryā mimikṣurā rathe hiranyaye ratheṣṭhāḥ. Ā rāśmayo gabhastyoh sthūrayo rādhvannaśvāso vṛṣaṇo yujānāḥ.

Indra in whose hands are all the gifts of life for mankind rides the golden chariot of the cosmos, holding reins of the world in his mighty hands, controlling the potent forces of nature like horses on the course of time and destiny.

Gracious are your feet firmly fixed in liberality and compassion. The devotees offer their homage of soma there for glory. You are all conquering, wielder of the thunderbolt, mighty generous by your own essential power and munificence, and, wearing a fragrant, glorious and heavenly robe, blissful sight for all to see, O director of the cosmic dance, you are the all moving, all inspiring, omniscient presence and power.

4. Sa soma āmiślatamah suto bhūd yasmin paktih pacyate santi dhānāḥ. Indram naraḥ stuvanto brahmakārā ukthā śamsanto devavātatamāḥ.

That is the blessed dominion of Indra, ideal world order raised to systemic purity and integrated to organismic unity wherein soma is distilled and seasoned in plenty, ample food is prepared for all, food grains are grown in abundance, and leading lights of the people, divinely occupied, sing songs of appreciation in praise of Indra and rise to the heights of excellence bordering on divinity.

5. Na te antah śavaso dhāyyasya vi tu bābadhe rodasī mahitvā. Ā tā sūriḥ pṛṇati tūtujāno yūthevāpsu samījamāna ūtī.

No one can reach the end of your power, the force that binds up heaven and earth as a handful of dust in space. Still the man of courage and vision without fear, moving at supersonic speed under the cover of your protection, does attain that pleasure of fulfilment which a host of thirsty travellers finds at a shady fount of holy waters.

Thus may the lord sublime, omnipotent Indra, ever active in golden glory, listen to the prayers of universal humanity in all direct and indirect modes of divine protection and grace. Thus does the lord, self-manifest in boundless power and glory, create and preserve the abundant wealth of good and destroy darkness, enmity and negation of evil.

Again and again the one ageless Indra grows in manifestation to express his power and creates, preserves and gives all wealths of the world. The sun from the regions of light covers half of the earth and relieves the other half. In turn, the earth and the sky both receive only half of the light and heat, and the sun exceeds and excels both.

Day by day, every morning, the sun rises glorious and, holy participant in the cosmic yajna of Indra, it generates and sustains many abodes of life along with the wide earth.

3. Adyā cinnū cit tadapo nadīnāṁ yadābhyo arado gātumindra. Ni parvatā admasado na sedus-tvayā dṛlhāni sukrato rajāṁsi.

Indra, resplendent lord, now as ever you draw up the waters of the rivers by evaporation, shower them and let them flow in river beds to the sea. You attract the earth by gravitation and let it move in orbit. You fix the mountains in place and float the clouds in windy courses, everything in place like guests in a dinner party. Indeed, O lord of holy action in cosmic yajna, by you are all regions of the universe set in place, firm and secure.

4. Satyamit tanna tvāvāñ anyo astīndra devo na martyo jyāyān. Ahannahim pariśayānamarño 'vāsrjo apo acchā samudram.

Indra, refulgent lord eternal, true it is there is no one else divine or human as great as you who break the dark and dormant cloud, release the showers of rain and let the whirling streams flow and join the rolling ocean. Similarly, O lord omnipotent, you break the dark silence of sleeping nature from the state of inertness and set the processes of creative evolution aflow and let them ultimately recede into the fathomless ocean of silence again.

5. Tvamapo vi duro viṣūcīrindra dṛlhamarujaḥ parvatasya. Rājābhavo jagataścarṣaṇīnāṁ sākam sūryam janayan dyāmuśāsam.

Indra, you break open the impenetrable doors of the cloud and release the rain showers. You break the adamantine mountains and let the waters flow in river courses. You break the bottomless inertness of life energy and let it flow in evolutionary channels of human action and courses of history. Creating the children of the moving world along with the sun and dawn of the day and the regions of heaven and earth, you reign supreme as light of the world, resplendent creator and ultimate dispenser.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, in you vests the governance and control of the entire wealth and assets of the nation, pray be the sole possessor and custodian of national wealth, O lord of honour and excellence. In your hands alone lies the direction of the nation, producers, workers and defence forces all. The wisest people of the land speaking different languages in different styles, in their words and actions describe and celebrate the brilliance of the rule and governance of Indra to their children and grand children.

Indra, sole lord of law and power, by the fear and pressure of your presence, all the unshakables on earth and in the skies stir and move along their functional course. Heaven and earth, clouds and mountains, deep forests, indeed the entire fixed and functionary world of existence fears the unmoved motion of your pervasive presence and dare not relent in their function.

3. Tvam kutsenābhi śuṣṇamindrā'śuṣam yudhya kuyavam gaviṣṭau. Daśa prapitve adha sūryasya muṣāyaścakramavive rapāṁsi.

Indra, lord ruler and giver of light, having fought out the voracious drought and bad harvest with the thunderbolt of natural energy, keen for success in the development of lands and cows and the project of solar energy, you deplete ten injurious impediments and ride the chariot of the dominion like the sun in orbit.

Break open the hundreds of hidden strongholds and treasures of the wealth and power of the dark clouds and hoards collected by the thief, and there, O lord of light and power of knowledge and wisdom, with knowledge and expertise, provide the means and materials of prosperity and well being for the advancement of the generous scientist, creative artist, pharmacist, technologist and celebrant of divinity.

5. Sa satyasatvan mahate raṇāya rathamā tiṣṭha tuvinṛmna bhīmam. Yāhi prapathinnavasopa madrik pra ca śruta śrāvaya carṣaṇibhyah.

O lord commander of the power of truth and reality, master of manifold wealth and splendour, ready for the arduous battle of life, ride the awesome chariot, go forward, traveller of the path of rectitude, come to us too with the wisdom of revealed omniscience with all your modes of defence and protection and proclaim the truth for the people.

Mandala 6/Sukta 32

1. Apūrvyā purutamānyasmai mahe vīrāya tavase turāya. Virapśine vajriṇe śantamāni vacām-syāsā sthavirāya takṣam.

Let me compose an original and comprehensive song of praise in my own, words in a state of peace overflowing with reverence in honour of this great hero, Indra, mighty performer of action, admirable wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment, unshakable embodiment of tranquillity.

By the light of the sun, he illuminates the heaven and earth, protectors and inspirers of poets like father and mother. Breaking the cloud of showers, shaking the mountains of impediments and inhibitions of mind, sung and celebrated in songs of praise and jubilation, pleased, inspiring and illuminant in response to the homage of reverence, he opens the flood gates of light and song in words, breaking off all impediments to the original vision and imagination of the poet.

He is the ruler, himself a visionary, friend of friends, relentless hero of abundant action, breaker of the strongholds of darkness, and with the company and support of assisting partners, celebrants and poetic creators sitting in meditative posture, he breaks the adamantine rigidities of dead wood and wins the battles for the development of lands and cows and the advancement of knowledge, arts and enlightenment.

Indra, mighty brave and generous ruler, sung and celebrated in song, come well to the celebrant for the well being of the people and bless them with high spirits and ambition for victory and latest great powers and forces manned by many heroic leaders and warriors of the rising generation.

Indra, mighty ruler, instant victor, come happy and jubilant with vibrant new forces of creation, with dynamic pioneers advancing like winds who may, thus, creating, preserving, reconstructing, discovering new goals day by day, move on, realise anew indestructible eternal values and never look back.

Mandala 6/Sukta 33

Indra Devata, Shunahotra Bharadvaja Rshi

1. Ya ojiṣṭha indra tam su no dā mado vṛṣant-svabhiṣṭir-dāsvān. Sauvaśvyam yo vanavat svaśvo vṛtrā samatsu sāsahadamitrān.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, ruler most illustrious, generous, victorious and beneficent, inspired with ardent passion, give us that stormy force of dynamic action for achievement which, equipped with instant and unfailing capability, may fight out the unfriendly powers of darkness in the contests of life and win the wealths of high value in the world for our cherished goal.

2. *Tvāṁ hīndrāvase vivāco havante carṣanayah

You alone, O lord ruler, Indra, the people of diverse speech adore and invoke in diverse words in battles of the brave for protection and success. You alone, with the wise and vibrant, subdue the uncreative and greedy, and you alone give peace and rest to the celebrants. Indeed, under your protection only, does the cavalier and the warrior win the light of knowledge and victory in action.

Indra, brave ruler, leading light of the leaders, with focussed, objective and decisive judgement, distinguish between both opponents and supporters, the vile and the noble, split open both clearly to full exposure, and, with decisive blows of unfailing tactic, fight out the negatives in the contests of the dominion just like a forester felling the dead wood with sharpened axe.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, life of life and giver of showers of bliss, be our friend and protector with all your modes of defence and protection for our advancement without reserve or restriction. Fighting our battles of life, O brave and generous hero, defender of good against evil, we invoke and call upon you to come and help us with love and grace.

5. Nūnam na indrāparāya ca syā bhavā mṛīka uta no abhiṣṭau. Itthā gṛṇanto mahinasya śarman divi syāma pārye goṣatamāḥ.

Indra, lord of life, for sure be our friend and protector, and saviour of others too, for now and for ever, and for the attainment of our cherished goal be kind and gracious. Singing, celebrating and glorifying the splendour of the great lord, we pray, may we abide in the high heaven of divine felicity and, blest with the sacred Word of Divinity, swim across the seas of suffering to freedom.

Mandala 6/Sukta 34

Indra, lord giver of thought, speech and knowledge, all universal thoughts and diverse forms and words of the eternal Word, all languages past, present and future, proceed from you, return unto you and abide in you. For sure, all ancient hymns and recitations, all interpretive adorations of the seers divining into the visions and meanings of the mantras vie with each other to reach and concentrate on the glory of Indra.

Indra who is invoked by many, admired by many, sole lord adored by many, is sought after by the wise through creative and reflective yajnic endeavours for the pursuit of great vision and power with concentrated mind in meditation. May he be like a chariot for us across the world of life and consequently give us ultimate freedom and joy.

No thoughts can violate Indra, the ruler, nor hurt him, nor can words comprehend him. In fact, the thoughts and words of devotees exalt and glorify him. And when celebrants offer a hundred and thousand adorations to this lord of exaltation, he is pleased and then peace and bliss of well being descends on the devotee.

Just as soma, nectar juice of nature, mixes with the moon and the moon mixes fully with the sun once in the month on full moon night, so in this heavenly relation of life and action between Indra, the ruler, and the devotee, I join with Indra, and just as showers of rain in the desert exhilarate the people so may the sessions of yajna advance the devotees and thereby may they exalt and glorify the lord.

5. Asmā etanmahyāṅgūṣmasmā indrāya stotram matibhiravāci. Asad yathā mahati vṛtratūrya indro viśvāyuravitā vṛdhaśca.

For this Indra, this ruler, this giver of the light of life, is this exalted song of praise and adoration sung and offered by faithful and intelligent devotees so that for the victory of light over darkness and ignorance in this battle of life Indra, lord of all life and the world, may be our protector and guardian for advancement.

When would your chariots come to rest in the garage? When do you give away a thousand prizes of support and sustenance at the victory celebration? When do you reward the celebrant with wealth for his song? And when do you make our acts of thought and will fructify with the wealth of success and victory?

Indra, most potent ruler of the world, when would you bring that wealth of knowledge and holiness of universal form and character which we too desire for the celebrant? Commanding highest virtue, when would you join and inspire our thought and will to rise for the grand leap forward? When would you lead us to win the cherished honour, splendour and glory of the earth worthy of you?

Indra, ruler of the world, give us the honour and excellence of a free world order, liquid wealth of gold in circulation, progressive advancement and renown in abundance for a planned programme, and drink the soma of attainable success worthy of a nation of knowledge, virtue and love of divinity, and thus help us create and structure an earthly order of fruitful prosperity for the dynamic bearers of science and action, a lovely world of beauty and splendour indeed.

Indra, valiant ruler, lord of knowledge and power, destroyer of darkness, hate and enmity, let the paths of love and progress you approve and proclaim and the doors of new knowledge you open never be otherwise, keep them wide open onwards. O vibrant lover of knowledge and advancement, never forsake the faithful scholars of divine nature's fertility, vitality and virility, never desert the visionaries of the divine Word of Veda, serve and advance them with means and materials for relentless pursuit of knowledge and life's sanctity.

1. Apādita udu naścitratamo mahīm bharṣad dyumātīm-indrahūtim. Panyasīm dhītim daivyasya yāmañjanasya rātim vanate sudānuḥ.

May Indra, lord immaculate, wondrous power and glorious ruler, perfect, self-existent and self-sustained, be here direct and accept and exalt our sincere, abundant and brilliant voice of adoration in honour of divinity. The lord is a generous and munificent giver, loves the celebrative voice of the heart and cherishes the homage of noble godly people on way to divinity.

The ears of this lord Indra receive the voice of the speaker even from far off wherever he be, and from that voice, speaking in response, he raises it to the roar of thunder. May this voice of mine in honour of divinity, reaching and celebrating the lord of glory, come back to me, complete the circuit and bless me as voice divine.

For you all with the best and highest of mind and faith I proclaim and celebrate the ancient and unaging Indra, cosmic energy of the Divine with yajnic gifts of homage. The eternal consciousness of omniscience and the voice of the Vedas all resound in this cosmic medium and the mighty yajna of creation and evolution too renews, evolves and expands under this same Indra, divine energy.

Let yajna, corporate programmes of research and development, advance Indra, power and application of the electric energy of nature. Let soma, positive creations and the scholar dedicated to peace and universal happiness extend the possibilities of power. Let the divine words of the Veda and the achievement of food and energy of universal value exalt Indra, lord of divine energy. And let the dawns, days and nights, hours, months, seasons, earth and heaven, all glorify Indra, lord of the universe. Let our thought and chants of holy word glorify him.

1. Mandrasya kaverdīvyasya vahnervipram-anmano vacanasya madhvah. Apā nastasya sacanasya deveśo yuvasva grñate goagrāḥ.

Taste the honey sweet of the Word of this happy and blissful divine poet, celebrant of light, inspirer of passion and vision of wisdom, and friend of Divinity. O resplendent lord of generosity, protect and promote the brilliant and revealing Word of the poet, bless the servant of divinity with energy and sustenance and reveal the words of divinity for the celebrant.

2. Ayamuśānah paryadrimusrā rtadhītibhir-rtayugujānah. Rujadarugnām vi valasya sānum pañīrvacobhirabhi yodhadindraḥ.

This poet, like the sun, loving, inspiring and impassioned, in unison with the truth and law of existence, with waves of energy bearing rays of light and showers of rain, breaks the clouds of darkness, lights up impenetrable tops of mighty mountains, opens up treasures of wealth, and blesses the untainted and the celebrants. Thus does Indra fight and shine.

Thus does this sun, this cosmic drop of divine soma, light up the unlighted: the nights, the mornings, days and seasons of the year. Thus does Indra create the light of immaculate dawns which bear up the light as banner of the days.

This Indra, the sun, itself resplendent, lights up the lightless such as earth and moon, and it lights up the ancient dawns, by the operation of cosmic law. It goes on in orbit by the centre pin of cosmic gravitation with other heavenly bodies such as planets and satellites, drawn by the motive forces of cosmic law and giving light and comfort primarily to the people of the earth.

Let Indra, the ruler, drink the soma distilled from exhilarating herbs and protect the spirit and honour of the nation arisen from the noble rule of the order. Let him, happy and inspired, destroy the demon of evil and darkness with the thunderbolt of justice and power. Let him go and attend the yajna of the order well even from afar, provide happy and peaceful settlement for all the people, protect and promote intellectual work and programmes of corporate action, and sustain and advance the experts in art, science and technology.

This is that life-giving cup of Indra's nectar drink, his favourite, from which he drinks the dear delicious elixir of life so that he feels happy at heart and inspires the divine force of cosmic energy to ward off hate and enmity from us and cast away all sin and evil, and thereby save and strengthen the immortal soul.

This way Indra, O valiant hero, happy at heart and joyous, commanding wealth, power and excellence of the world, give up all enemies whether among the related or unrelated people, all unfriendly and menacing forces, all oppositions up front, and all those who order you about like bullies, ward them off, throw them out far away, destroy them all. Keep the soul untainted and free.

In these battles of life, among these forces of positive action, O lord of wealth, power and majesty, Indra, destroyer of negativities and enmities, make the way clear for us for the achievement of life's great honour and excellence. Indra, lord of glory and victory, bless us with bravery and spirit of heroism, high intelligence, and power and prosperity of success in our struggle and attainment of the waters of life, noble actions and brave children and grand children.

Indra, O leading light and spirit of the nation of humanity, may the pioneers, brave and heroic, united with you in thought and action, blazing as sunrays and falling as showers, instant in initiative and perfect in aim, riding mighty chariots, concentrating on our defence and protection, generous and magnanimous, wielding thunder and lightning, willing warriors all, conduct and bring you here for our strength and joy of life's victory.

Indra, lord of power and glory, delightful showers of soma, exuberant and exhilarating like dancing waves of the sea, come and fill your cup of nectar and sprinkle your altar of yajna with ghrta. Thus do the leading lights of nature and humanity bear and bring the soma of life's light and joy distilled by brave and generous leaders of the yajnic order for the mighty and magnanimous lord ruler of the world.

You are the showerer of the light of heaven. You are the inspirer of the life of earth. You are the showerer of the waters of rivers and the seas. You are the life breath of things moving and non-moving all together. This is the homage, honey drink, bright, delicious, the very nectar of life for the lord ruler.

22. Ayam devah sahasā jāyamāna indreṇa yujā paṇimastabhāyat. Ayam svasya piturāyudhānīndur-amuṣṇād-aśivasya māyāḥ.

This brilliant and divine soma rising and manifesting with exhilaration and ardent passion, friend of Indra and one with his glory, stabilises the admirable rule and order of the world and strengthens the supporters of it. This soma, bright and blissful as the moon, keeps the arms and armaments and the justice and administration of its creator and ruler in order, and it frustrates the plans and wiles of the unruly and the unholy.

23. Ayamakṛṇoduṣasah supatnīrayam sūrye adadhājjyotirantah. Ayam tridhātu divi rocanesu tritesu vindadamṛtam nigūlham.

This ardent passion of Indra, lord omnipotent creator, makes the dawns bright and blissful inspirers of love and devotion, vests the sun with light within, creates the universe of three natural principles of mind, energy and matter, and infuses the immortal spirit, as mysterious and immanent spirit, in the three bright worlds of heaven, earth and the firmament, and helps us to discover the immortal bliss with ardent passion of holiness.

24. Ayam dyāvāprthivī vi ṣkabhāyadayam rathamayunak saptaraśmim. Ayam goṣu śacyā pakvamantaḥ somo dādhāra daśayantramutsam.

This passion and omnipotence of Indra wields and stabilises the heaven and earth in orbit. It ordains the seven-rayed chariot of the sun in the system. With its power and action it places mature living energy in the fertility of earths, milk in cows and warmth in the rays of sunlight, and thus it holds and sustains soma, life energy of existence, in the universe, thereby making it a living system of tenfold nature, i.e., five elements and five pranic energies.

of human contest and competition so that we may face, fight out and eliminate anger, enmity and malice.

इन्द्रं त्रिधातुं शरणं त्रिवरूथं स्वस्तिमत । छुदियच्छ

9. Indra tridhātu śaraṇam trivarūtham svastimat. Chardir-yaccha maghavadbhyaśca mahyam ca yāvayā didyumebhyah.

Indra, lord ruler of the wealth of nations, for the men of wealth, power, honour and generosity of heart, and for me too, give a home made of three metals and materials, comfortable in three seasons of summer, winter and rains, a place of rest, peace and security for complete well being. Give the light for them, keep off the blaze from them.

10. Ye gavyatā manasā śatrum-ādabhur-abhipraghnanti dhṛṣṇuyā. Adha smā no maghavan-nindra girvanastanūpā antamo bhava.

Indra, lord of peace and power, exalted by words of adoration, give us warriors who, with their love of cows, lands and speech and with the force of their mind and strength of arm and courage, press down the enemies and destroy their arms and armies, and then, also, O lord protector of our person and body politic, be with us at the closest, deep within.

11. *Adha smā no vṛdhe bhavendra nāyamavā yudhi.
Yadantarikṣe patayanti parṇino didyavas-tigmamūr-dhānah.*

Indra, chief of defence forces, give us those flying birds of defence and protection which blaze through skies and spaces carrying deep penetrative war heads in front, and then, also, be with us for our leadership, defend and protect us in the battles for our advancement.

यत्र शूरासस्तुन्व' वितन्वत पिया शम' पितृणाम । अधे स्मा

12. Yatra śurāsastanvo vitanvate priyā śarma pitṛ-nām. Adha smā yaccha tanve tane ca chardiraci-ttām yāvaya dvesah.

Give us the sweet home where the brave extend the honour and achievement of their forefathers, and then, for further extension of the honour, achievement and tradition of the nation, give us peace and security free from mental worry and keep off all jealousy, malice and hostility.

13. *Yadindra sarge arvatascodayāse mahādhane.

And when, in the effort for creation and in the struggle for extension of honour and achievement of new wealth, you inspire the stormy pioneers and ambitious warriors thirsting for fame, and urge them on to fly like eagles on unequal paths and winding ways of progress and possibility, then also, O lord, be with us all through.

14. Sindhūñriva pravaṇā āśuyā yato yadi klośamanuṣvaṇi. Ā ye vayo na varvṛtyat�āmiṣi gṛbhītā bāhvorgavi.

The pioneers and warriors of new projects on earth fly on and move like rivers rushing down to the sea. They move by superfast carriers whose controls are held fast in hands, and instantly act in response to the sound signal and pounce upon the target like birds on food at sight, intensively.

Mandala 6/Sukta 47

Soma, Indra, Dana, Ratha, Dundubhi Devataḥ, Garga Bharadvaja Rshi

स्वादुक्षिक्लायं मधुमाँ उतायं तीवः किलायं रसवाँ उतायम् ।
उता न्वस्य पपिवांसुमिन्दुं न कश्चन सहत आहुवषु ॥ १ ॥

1. Svāduṣkilāyam madhumān utāyam tīvrah kilāyam rasavān utāyam. Uto nvasya papi-vāṁsamindram na kaścana sahata āhavesu.

Soma: of course it is delicious, honey sweet, and it is sharp and strong and intense, and also it has wonderful flavour. And when Indra, the mighty one, has happily drunk of this soma, this nectar of life, none can withstand him in battles.

अयं स्वादुरिह मदिष्ठ आस यस्यन्दा वृत्रहत्य ममाद् । पुरुष्णि

2. Ayam svāduriha madiṣṭha āsa yasyendro vṛtrahatye mamāda. Purūṇi yaścyautnā śambarasya vi navatim nava ca dehyo han.

It is delicious, most exhilarating here in the business of life. Indra, mighty ruler, having drunk of it, exults in the battle against want and wickedness for the achievement of prosperity and, waxing in strength and passion, destroys the multitudinous forces of evil and breaks ninety and nine strongholds of darkness like the sun breaking clouds for rain.

अयं म पीत उदियति वाचमयं मनीषामुशतीमजीगः ।
अयं षष्ठ्वीरमिमीतु धीरा न याभ्या भुवनं कच्चनार ॥ ३ ॥

3. Ayam me pīta udiyarti vācamayam manīṣām-uśatīmajīgah. Ayam ṣalurvīramimīta dhīro na yābhyo bhuvanam kaccanāre.

This ecstasy of soma stimulates and refines my speech, it energises and sublimates my mind and awareness to love and passion for divinity. Man in the state of mental stability and spiritual constancy realises the six dimensional universe of existence beyond which there is no world of matter or mind higher or lower.

अयं स या वरिमाणं पृथिव्या वृष्माणं दिवा अकृणाद्यं

4. Ayam sa yo varimāṇam pṛthivyā varṣmāṇam divo akṛṇodayam sah. Ayam pīyūṣam tisṛṣu pravatsu somo dādhārōrvantarikṣam.

This soma is that cosmic energy which causes the showers of vitality from the sun and creates the fertility of the earth. It bears the nectar sweets of three rolling oceans of heaven, earth and the middle region and sustains the vast skies.

अयं विदच्चित्रदृशीकमणः शुकसद्यनामुषसामनीक । अयं muṣasāmanīke. Ayam mahān mahatā skambha-nenod dyāmastabhnād vṛṣabho marutvān.*

This generous and exuberant energy of the universe commanding the force of the currents of nature's inherent power vests the beatific ocean of the glorious sunrays of immaculate beauty of the mornings. It is great and, by its mighty gravitational force, sustains the solar region in position above.

धृषत्पिब कलश साममिन्द वृत्रहा शूर समर वसूनाम । माध्य-

6. Dhṛṣat piba kalaśe somamindra vṛtrahā śūra samare vasūnām. Mādhyamidine savana ā vṛṣasva ryisthāno rayimasmāsu dhehi.

Bold and resolute Indra, ruler, destroyer of darkness and poverty, drink the soma from the vessel for the battle of life's wealth. Come to the mid-day session of yajna and bring the showers. As you yourself are the treasurehold of wealth, bless us with the wealth of life.

इन्द्रं प णः पुराषुतवं पश्यं प न' नय पतुरं वस्या अच्छं।

7. *Indra pra ṇah pura-eteva paśya pra no naya prataram vasyo accha. Bhavā supāro atipārayo

Indra, leader and commander of world power, look at us and watch like a leader moving fast forward. Lead us to wealth of the world across the oceans. Be the unswerving pilot of the nation, take us to the shores beyond and lead us on by the policy and practice of nobility and gracious living.

8. Urum no lokamanu neśi vidvānt-svarvaj-jyo-tir-abhayam svasti. Rṣvā ta indra sthavirasya bāhū upa stheyāma śaraṇā bṛhantā.

Indra, sagely scholar and just ruler of the world, lead us to the higher regions of life, fearless, full of heavenly light, a haven of bliss and well being. O lord of constancy, we pray, may we abide in the shelter and security of the umbrella of your mighty protective hands.

वरिष्ठं न इन्द्रं वन्धुरं धा वहिष्ठयाः शताव ईश्वर्यारा ।

Indra, ruler and guardian of the people, master and controller of the wealth and power of the world, let us ride and abide in the best chariot of our choice in your well managed system of governance run by the strongest and most efficient leaders and forces. O lord of a hundred powers and actions, bring us the best and most abundant food and sustenance, energy and power. Let no one as master tread over our wealth, power, and basic rights of life and freedom.

इन्द्र मृळ मह्यं जीवातुमिच्छ चादय धियमयसा न धाराम ।

10. Indra mṛla mahyam jīvātumiccha codaya dhiyamayaso na dhārām. Yat kim cāham tvāyuridam vadāmi tajjuṣasva kṛdhi mā devavantam.

Indra, ruler sustainer of all, be kind and gracious to me, please to wish me the good life, sharpen and inspire my mind and intellect like the razor's edge. And whatever I wish out of love and devotion, to you I say this: Please to accept and grant, and raise me up to the love and favour of divinity.

त्रातारुमिन्दमवितारुमिन्दुं हवहव सुहवं शूरुमिन्दम । ह्वयामि

11. *Trātāram-indram-avitāramindram havehave

In every battle of life one after another, I invoke Indra, lord giver of wealth, honour and power, saviour Indra, protector Indra, brave Indra invoked with love and devotion, pure and powerful, universally invoked and adored. May Indra bring us the good life and all round well being.

इन्दः सुत्रामा स्ववाँ अवभिः सुमृलीका भवतु विश्ववदाः ।

12. Indrah sutrāmā svavāñ avobhiḥ sumṛlīko bhavatu viśvavedāḥ. Bādhataṁ dveso abhayam kṛnotu suvīryasya patayah syāma.

Indra, lord omniscient, mighty protector and sole lord of his own essential powers may, we pray, be kind and gracious with his modes of protection and advancement, ward off hate and enmity and grant us freedom from fear so that we may be masters and promoters of the noble strength and honour of life.

13. Tasya vayam sumatau yajñiyasyā'pi bhadre saumanase syāma. Sa sutrāmā svavāñ indro asme ārāccid dvesah sanutaryuyotu.

May we enjoy the favour, kindness and love of that lord adorable, all protective Indra, sole master of his own essential powers and forces, who may always ward off from us all hate and enmity far or near.

14. Ava tve indra pravato normirgiro brahmāṇi niyuto dhavante. Urū na rādhah savanā puruṇyapo gā vajrin yuvase samindūn.

Indra, O ruler of the world, like streams of flood rushing down to the sea, all voices of prayer and adoration, offers of homage and chants of the holy Word dedicated to your service rise, reach and concentrate in you. O wielder of the thunderbolt of power and justice, you hold, integrate, treasure and distribute immense wealth of means and materials of success, yajnic sessions and inspirations, wide ranging waters and social programmes of action, lands, cows and lights of knowledge, and all things of beauty and joy leading to mental and spiritual bliss of peace.

15. Ka īm stavat kah pṛṇāt ko yajāte yadugramin-ma-ghavā viśvahāvet. Pādāviva praharannanyam kṛṇoti pūrvamaparam śacībhiḥ.

Who can praise and fully celebrate him? Who can finally serve and join him?

Whoever is passionately dedicated and whom the lord of glory may favour, govern, and protect day and night, the lord who, like a man on the walk alternating his feet in motion moving the hind one forward and leaving the forward one then behind, dispenses people up and down according to their actions and the law of karma.

16. Śrṅve vīra ugramugram damāyann-anyam-anyam-atinenīyamānah. Edhamānadvilubhāyasya rājā cośkūyate viśa indro manusyān.

I hear that Indra, potent lord, controller of all proud and passionate ones, leading all up and down by their performance, favouring the good and punishing the rising proud and arrogant, rules all communities of humanity, good and evil, and calls them up for justice and dispensation.

परा पूवं धां सुख्या वृणक्ति विततुराणा अपरभिरति ।

17. Parā pūrveśām sakhyā vṛṇakti vitarturāno apare-bhireti. Anānubhūtiravadhūnvānah pūrvīrindrah śaradastartarīti.

With love and understanding, Indra, lord ruler, gives up the dead wood of the old and goes forward taking on other new forms of life and society like waves of the sea pressing on fast forward. Shaking off the callous who refuse to learn by experience he goes on like the sun crossing over the years of time gone by and living and shaping new eras of time.

रूपंरूपं पतिरूपा बभूव तदस्य रूपं पतिच णाय । इन्द्रं

18. Rūpamrūpam pratirūpo babhūva tadasya rūpam praticakṣanāya. Indro māyābhīḥ pururūpa īyate yuktā hyasya harayah śatā daśa.

Indra, the supreme soul, pervades all forms of existence to reveal that pervasive form of presence according to each form. The individual soul, the jiva, takes on one form of life after another to reveal that existential form of its real self. The ruler takes over each form of the institutions of his governance to reveal his power and presence through that institution. Indra thus, of many many forms of manifestation goes on by manifold powers and potentials, assisted by thousands of its motive forces like the master of a chariot drawn by horses.

युजाना हरिता रथं भूरि त्वष्टह राजति । का विश्वाहा द्विष्टतः

19. Yujāno haritā rathe bhūri tvasteha rājati. Ko viśvāhā dvिषataḥ pakṣa āsata utāsīneṣu sūriṣu.

With its powers and potentials yoked to its chariot-like body form, Tvashta, the soul, shines gloriously in its existential form here. It takes the best form of its love and choice by karma, for who would choose to be with the malicious fools day and night when the wise and visionaries are sitting close by?

O noble people, brilliant pioneers, let us take over the vast virgin land which is a field good enough for warriors of action to develop and cultivate. O Brhaspati, lord of knowledge, protector and promoter of great things, Indra, destroyer of suffering, master of diagnostics and correctives, let us make the pathway for the development of cattlewealth and advancement of knowledge and education in the service of the present generation of the celebrants of divinity and nobilities of humanity.

21. Divedive sadṛśiranyamardham kṛṣṇā asedhadapa sadmano jāḥ. Ahan dāsā vrṣabho vasnayantodavraje varcinam śambaram ca.

Day by day the sun dispels the equal cover of darkness arisen at night from its abode to the other half of the globe. The mighty solar power of showers breaks the dark vapours concealed in the cloud, strikes the blazing lightning and opens the flood gates of rain to flow into streams on land.

(So does the ruler dispel the darkness of ignorance, injustice and poverty and open the flood-gates of light and knowledge with justice and prosperity.)

22. Prastoka innu rádhasasta indra daśa kośayīrdaśa vājino'dāt. Divodāsādatithigvasya rādhah śāmbaram vasu pratyagrabhīṣma.

Indra, lord ruler, the celebrant of your means and materials of success and accomplishment has given ten treasure gifts of land and ten modes of fast transport.

We accept and reciprocate the gifts of the lord's showers of generosity and hospitality from the celebrant giver of the treasures of means and materials of success, water showers and the gifts of land, home and wealth for sustenance.

Let me receive and enjoy in common ten transports, ten treasures of wealth, ten garments, ten kinds of food and ten pieces of gold from the brilliant and generous giver.

(Swami Dayanand suggests in his commentary that the ratio at the maximum between the lowest and highest paid working partner in the social order should be one to ten.)

25. Mahi rādho viśvajanyam dadhānān bharadvājāntsārñjayo abhyayaṣṭa.

Let the ruler, descendant of the creators of all lawful forms of wealth, support and maintain the scholars and scientists who create, provide and manage the great wealth and power of universal value.

26. Vanaspatे vīdvaṅgo hi bhūyā asmatsakhā praraṇah suvīraḥ. Gobhiḥ sannaddho asi vīlayasvā”-sthātā te jayatu jetvāni.

O vanaspati, ruler, protector and promoter of forests and light of the sun for energy, be strong of your systemic body of governance and strong in the constituent parts of the system. Manned with noble young supporters, be our friend, pilot and saviour across the seas. You are self-controlled in mind and senses, strongly endowed with refined speech and manners, strengthen us who are committed to you, and let your forces win the battles with high morale.

27. Divasprthivyāḥ paryoja udbhṛtam vanaspatibhyāḥ paryābhṛtam sahāḥ. Apāmājmānaṁ pari gobhirāvratm-indrasya vajram haviṣā ratham yaja.

Enlightened ruler and scholar, the energy collected and raised from the sun and earth, the energy, vitality and patience received and learnt from the trees and forests, the liquid power of the waters rising and reinforced with rays of the sun, and the forceful current of electric energy, with all these energies together harnessed, create and serve the chariot, the fast progressive social order worthy of your governance.

28. Indrasya vajro marutāmanīkam mitrasya garbho varunasya nābhīḥ. Semāṁ no havyadātīm juṣāṇo deva ratha prati havyā grbhāya.

Enlightened ruler, lord of grace and pilot of the nation, loving and kind to participants in yajnic governance, you are the thunder and lightning of the cloud break of showers, you are the power and splendour of the people, you are offspring of the light of sun and love of divinity, you are the centre spring of justice and discrimination. Lord ruler, accept this offer of homage as our share of Raja-dharma in the service of the system.

O victorious lord ruler of the world, let the roar of the victory drum fill heaven and earth with a fresh lease of joy and new life. Lord of the whole nation, let the wide world moving and non-moving know of you and your glory. Blow over the world, equipped with armaments of thunder and vision of the wise, ward off the dangers and throw out the enemies far away.

Indra, lord ruler, throw out the enemy forces. Rally our forces back in form and array, ever ready. Let the battle drum boom, with the flag flying. Our warriors on the wing in armour and our leaders in the forefront advance and fight out the challenges. Let our heroes of the chariot come out with flying colours.

In every yajnic programme of your creative and constructive work, in every word of our voice, join and let us honour, appraise and develop agni, imperishable energy pervasive in all things of existence and adore Agni, omniscient and omnipresent lord giver of knowledge and enlightenment.

and actions of men, clouds and mountains, and the forests and sun rays feed and promote to the full, and which arises and kindles when it is produced by the force of attrition and churning by men on the surface of the earth.

8. Ā no devaḥ savītā trāyamāṇo hiranyapāṇir-yajato jagamyāt. Yo datravāñ uṣaso na pratīkam vyūrnute dāśuṣe vāryāṇi.

May the divine and resplendent Savita, creator, preserver and generator of golden handed charity, loving and adorable, come and bless us, he who, all giving, opens up treasures of wealth for the generous giver like the first lights of the dawn.

9. Uta tvam̄ sūno sahaso no adyā devāñ asminna-dhvare vavṛtyāḥ. Syāmaḥam te sadamid rātau tava syāmagne'vasā suvīraḥ.

O light and fire of life, Agni, off-spring of divine strength and vitality, in this yajnic programme of love and non-violent creation of an enlightened society, let the divine values and virtues of nature and humanity turn and come our way and flow on. O lord of brilliance, let me stay established for all time in the bliss of your generosity and, under your protection and guidance, let me command the heights of heroism with the brave.

And may the Ashwins, those two complementary currents of nature's energy, the teacher and the preacher, leading lights of the world, vibrant benefactors dear as breath of life, both committed to truth and eternal law, come in response to my invitation with gifts of intelligence and competence for holy action, protect me as Atri, the man free from physical, mental and spiritual ailments, save me from deep darkness and release me from sin and evil all round prevailing.

O divine powers of nature and humanity, learned and wise teachers and scholars, be you all givers of rich gifts of wealth, light, speed and success, human resources and food for sustenance. And may all the divinities celestial, terrestrial, spatial and aqueous bless us with peace and felicity.

May Rudra, lord of justice and punishment, Sarasvati, mother of knowledge and speech, Vishnu, omnipresent spirit of the universe, Vayu, the winds, Rbhuksha, expert artist, universal energy, divine favour, law giver, clouds and winds, all virile and friendly, bring us food and energy and give us peace and felicity.

And that resplendent Savita, the sun, Bhaga, pranic energy, Apam-napat, unfailing electric energy born of waters, Tvashta, maker of forms with brilliant generative powers, the heaven with all its lights, the earth with the seas, may all these together, friendly and supportive, generously giving and fulfilling, protect and promote us in life.

And the deep cloud in the firmament, the unborn Spirit of the universe, the sole divine support of existence, the earth, the sea, all the divine forces of the universe which prove and maintain the eternal law invoked and adored, and Veda mantras taught by seers, may all these listen to our prayers and protect us.

Thus do we bearers of science and power and our descendants and disciples offer homage with thoughts, words and actions of devotion and pray that the Vishvedevas, universal creators and unifiers of nature and humanity, and their potentials, invoked and admired, free and fearless, may continue to be providers of peace and shelter for all for ever.

Mandala 6/Sukta 51

Vishvedevah Devataḥ, Rjishva Bharadvaja Rshi

उदु त्यच्च उमहि मित्रयाऽँ एति पियं वरुणयारदब्धम् ।
ऋतस्य शुचिं दशतमनीकं रुक्मा न दिव उदिता व्यद्यात ॥ १ ॥

1. Udu tvaccakṣurmahi mitratorāň eti priyam varunayoradabdhām. Rtasya śuci darśatama-nīkam rukmo na diva uditā vyadyaut.

Lo! the sun, that glorious eye of the universe, darling of the day and night, rises up undaunted, and like the pure, resplendent, golden face of heaven unveiled shines from the regions of eternal light.

(The sunrise is a metaphor which may be applied to the rise of any great light - giving power, say a great leader, giver of enlightenment, a teacher, a reformer, or a great movement.)

वदु यस्त्रीणि विदथोन्यषां द्रवानां जन्म सनुतरा च विपः ।

2. Veda yastrīṇi vidathānyeṣāṁ devānāṁ janma sanutarā ca viprah. Ṛju marteṣu vṛjinā ca paśya-nnabhi caste sūro arya evān.

The lord of light who is all wise, too, knows, reaches and pervades three orders of the world, i.e., the earth, the middle regions of the skies, and the highest regions of the light of heaven; three fields of life, i.e., jnana or knowledge, karma or action, and upasana or prayer and meditation; and three departments of the social order, i.e., teaching and research, governance and administration, and dharma or values of life, law and justice. He also knows the birth and life of these Vishvedevas, i.e., the divinities of nature and humanity. And watching the simple and straight paths and performances as well as the tortuous and crooked movements of the mortals, the potent master reveals where they reach in consequence.

3. Stuṣa u vo maha ṛtasya gopānaditīm mitram varuṇām sujātān. Aryamaṇām bhagamada-bdhadhitīnacchā voce sadhanyah pāvakān.

Happy and blest, I admire and celebrate in words of song all of you, Vishvedevas, great observers and protectors of the eternal law of Truth and righteousness: Aditi, indestructible mother nature, Mitra, sun and brilliant friend, Varuna, ocean and venerable judge, Aryaman, universal guide and discriminative path maker, Bhaga, lord of honour and excellence, universally known, dauntless, intelligent and wise purifying powers all.

4. Riśādasah satpatīñradabdhān maho rājñah suvasanasya dātṛn. Yūnah suksatrān kṣayato divo nṛnādityān yāmyaditim duvoyu.

I reach, admire and celebrate Aditi, mother spirit of nature, and the offsprings of Aditi, destroyers of evil and protectors of the good and true, irresistible great rulers, givers of peaceful homes, ever young and unaging, makers of great social orders, well established leaders of light and all resplendent suns. I approach them with prayers for blessings, they love the supplicants.

5. Dyauspitah prthivi mātaradhrugagne bhrātar-vasavo mṛlatā naḥ. Viśva ādityā adite sajoṣā asmabyam śarma bahulam vi yanta.

O resplendent sun, O father, O earth, O mother, compassionate, free from hate and anger, O fire, O brother, givers of shelter and protection, give us peace and felicity. O children of mother Infinity, O Mother Nature, all ever our own, loving friends, pray bring us a homely settlement of joy and all round prosperity.

6. Mā no vṛkāya vṛkye samasmā aghāyate rīradhatā yajatrāḥ. Yūyam hi śṭhā rathyo nastanūnāṁ yūyam dakṣasya vacaso babhūva.

Adorable friends and unifiers, divinities of nature and humanity, throw us not to the wolf and the thief nor to the rule of the sinner, nor relegate us to seizure, deprivation and exploitation. Pray stay you constant as our guide in matters of body, health and action and in the working of our social institutions, and be the carrier medium of the word and voice of the eminent expert.

7. Mā va eno anyakṛtam bhujema mā tat karma vasavo yaccayadhve. Viśvasya hi kṣayatha viśvadevāḥ svayam ripustanvam rīriṣīṣṭa.

O Vasus, givers of peace and settlement, dispensers of the laws of nature and humanity, let us not suffer your dispensation's punishment for the sin and crime committed by others, nor let us do that act which you hate and prohibit. You are the rulers of the world and dispensers of justice and punishment, O divinities of nature and humanity. Let the hater and the evil doer be the instrument of his own self-infliction.

8. Nama idugram nama ā vivāse namo dādhāra prthivīmuta dyām. Namo devebhyo nama īśa eṣāṁ kṛtam cideno namasā vivāse.

Namas, the thunder of omnipotence and universal law, is mighty. Reverence on the human plane too has power. I respect law and reverence. Law and reverence sustain the earth and the sun. I offer reverence to the nobilities and the divinities. The power of the Divine and reverence for life rule the actions, good as well as evil, of all these people. I accept the power and value reverence with humility and submission to the divine dispensation.

9. Rtasya vo rathyah pūtadakṣānṛtasya pastyasado adabdhān. Tāñ ā namobhirurucakṣaso nṛn viśvānva ā name maho yajatrāḥ.

O great divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity, I, moving forward by the chariot of law and reverence, bow with homage and surrender to you all, powers strengthened and sanctified by the law of eternal truth, invincible presences in human homes, who are vastly watchful guardians of all the people and their actions in the world.

10. Te hi śreṣṭhavarcasasta u nastiro viśvāni duritā nayanti. Sukṣatrāso varuṇo mitro agnir-ṛtadhītayo vakmarājasatyāḥ.

They alone are Vishvadevas, men of highest excellence, they alone lead us over and across all evil and suffering of life, and they alone are the right rulers and managers of the social order, who are men of wisdom, right judgment and discrimination as Varuna, universal ruler, unifying sustainers and saviour friends as Mitra, the sun, and pure and purifying agents of action as Agni, the fire, who are committed in thought, word and action to universal truth and eternal values of life, and who have the courage of the conviction to speak the truth in matters of governance and administration in the political order of the world state.

May those divine powers of nature and humanity, cosmic energy, the firmament, the earth, the sustainer, glorious God, mother nature, all people dear as five pranic energies, all happy home dwellers nobly protected and well guided, be our saviours and protectors.

O divine powers, the bearer of knowledge who invokes the divinities and serves the nobilities in yajnic programmes is blest with divine peace and settlement and enjoys wisdom and divine guidance. The yajamana in pursuit of wealth and excellence, sitting with inspiring and adorable yajakas, obtains the vision of rising divinities in his life.

Agni, O divine leader, cast away that crooked thief, that strenuous enemy, far from the path of the aspirant. O protector and promoter of the good and the true, make it easy for him to follow the course simple and straight.

14. Grāvāṇah soma no hi kam sakhitvanāya vāvaśuh. Jahī nyatriṇam paṇim vṛko hi ṣah.

O Soma, giver of peace and inspiration, our holy ones generous as clouds and strong as granite love peace for divine favour and friendship. Throw away the ogre of crooked behaviour, he is a wolf only.

15. Yūyam hi ṣṭhā sūdānava indrajyeṣṭhā abhidyavah. Kartā no adhvannā sugarṇ gopā amā.

O Vishvedevas, bounties of nature divine and leading lights of humanity, stay you all generous as ever, shining as the sun on high above all. Make our march of progress simple and manageable, and protect our hearth and home.

And also, let us move on by the path which is faultless, auspicious, sinless and inviolable, which leads to noble attainments with peace, and by which holy brave people remove all hate, jealousy and enmity and realize all wealth and self fulfillment.

I believe the enthusiastic performer of yajna would not be forsaken by heaven or earth, nor would he be deprived of the rewards of his yajna or of all these noble actions. I pray may the showers of generous clouds bless him. (Let none neglect yajna.)

O maruts, vibrant heroes, whoever hates us, or despises our wealth and piety, or deprecates our acts and holy programmes in progress, must have his tortuous paths exposed by the blazing light of truth. Let the loving and brilliant wise men subject the hater of nobility and eternal values to disapproval until he feels sorry.

O leader, dear as breath of life, don't you see our detractors and maligners? Pray strike the blazing thunderbolt upon the hater of nobility and universal values of spirituality.

streams and showers of culture and refinement, come and bless. Let Agni, adorable leader of light and fire of action, responsive to our invocation, blissful like a father and guardian, come with herbs and comforts for health, honour and advancement.

One of these, the fire divine, generates and inspires our speech, and the other, the vapours, generate the cloud which fertilises earth and produces food. May the two bring us food, energy and noble progeny.

Pusha, generous lord of light and grace, motivate the non-giver to give in charity and soften the heart of even the mean and miserly.

7. *Ā rikha kikirā kr̥nu pañinām hr̥dayā kave.

Pusha, lord of light and grace, giver of food and growth for life, you command that analytical intellect which discriminates between truth and untruth and inspires the mind to have the vision of divinity. With that inspiring intelligence, imprint the settled mind with holiness and let it expand with ideas.

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

1. *Sām pūṣan viduṣā naya yo añjasānuśāsati.

Pusha, giver of food and nourishment for body and mind, take us forward truly with that scholar who

3. *Pūṣṇāścakram na risyati na koṣo'va padyate.

The wheel of Pusha, lord of life and provider of growth and sustenance, never slackens, nor does it violate anything. His treasury never depletes, and his knowledge and arms of defence never hurt anything positive.

honour of him. Indeed, the first and original inventor and maker of basic things wins rewards of wealth for the invention.

Let none be frustrated. Let none frustrate anyone. Let none throw anyone into the pit of darkness and nothingness. O lord of nourishment and growth, come, bless us with everything whole and unhurt, with inviolable acts and unchallengeable policies.

May Pusha grant us the perfect umbrella of his right hand all over and help us recover the losses and accelerate our gains.

Mandala 6/Sukta 55

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

एहि वां विमुचा नपादाघृण् सं सचावह।

1. *Ehi vām vimuco napādāghṛṇe sam̄ sacāvahai.
Rathīr-rtasya no bhava.*

Come resplendent spirit of freedom indestructible, be our guide and saviour as master and pilot of the chariot on the path of eternity and divine truth and we shall be ever together.

रथीतमं कपुदिनुमीशानुं राधसा मुहः ।

2. *Rathītamam kapardinam-īśānam rādhaso mahah.
Rāyah sakhāyam-īmahe.*

We adore the highest chariot hero of flying hair, our friend and saviour, great ruler and ordainer of the wealth of existence and pray to him for wealth and power for advancement in life.

राया धारास्याघृण् वस' राशिरजाश्व ।
धीवताधीवतः सखा ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Rāyo dhārāsyāghṛṇe vaso rāśirajāśva.
Dhīvatodhīvataḥ sakhā.*

O resplendent lord unborn and eternal, riding the waves of light, you are the treasure house of wealth and happy settlement, and you are a ceaseless flow of honour and excellence, a happy friend for every person blest with intelligence and wisdom.

पूषणं न्व॑जाश्वमुप स्ताषाम वा॒जिनम् ।

4. *Puṣanam nvajāśvamupa stoṣāma vājinam.
Svasuryo jāra ucyate.*

We honour and adore the sun, Pusha, giver of vitality and potency, rider of the eternal chariot flying like a courser in space which steals away the dawn, its own creation, they say.

मा॒तुदि॑धिषुम॒बवं स्वसु॒जारः शृ॒णातु नः ।

5. *Mātura-didhiṣum-abravam svasurjārah śṛṇotu

I speak of the sun, sustainer of the earth mother, lover of its own creation, the dawn, brother of electric energy of the cosmos, and my friend and companion for life. May the sun be close to us and respond to our prayer.

आजासः पूषणं रथं निशृ॒म्भास्त जा॒श्रियम् ।

6. *Ājāsaḥ puṣanam rathe niśrmbhāste janaśriyam.
Devam vahantu bibhrataḥ.*

May the radiations of the sun, waves of light energy firmly yoked in its chariot bearing life and lustre for humanity, bring the divine light and life into this world.

Mandala 6/Sukta 56

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

य एनमा॒दिद॒शति करु॒म्भादिति पूषणम् ।
न तन दु॒व आ॒दिश' ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ya enamādideśāti karambhāditi pūṣanam.
Na tena deva ādiṣe.*

If one were to describe this Pusha, the sun or the universal chemistry of nourishment and vital energy, and say: It is from the solar suction of waters from earth and all space, or that, on the level of the individual human, it is from oat meal cooked with milk, then by this the divine process is neither to be defined nor to be determined nor, yet, to be exaggerated.

उत धा स रथीतमः सख्या सत्पतियुजा । इन्द्र॑ वृत्राणि जिघनते ॥ २ ॥

2. *Uta ghā sa rathītamah sakhyā satpatiryujā.
Indro vṛtrāṇi jighnate.*

In fact, that fastest energy, Indra, heroic ruler of the chariot, supportive of the positive forces of nature and humanity in combination with friendly powers such as electric energy, breaks the clouds of darkness and want and thus remains the protector, promoter and ruling controller of natural truth.

उतादः परुष गवि सूरश्चकं हिरण्ययम् । न्यरयदृथीतमः ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Utādah paruṣe gavi sūraścakram hirṇyayam.
Nyairayad rathītamah.*

And that mighty hero, solar energy in combination with electric energy, at the fastest chariot like velocity, sets in motion the golden circuit of developmental evolution in the fierce rays of the sun, in the battles of life and in the fiery communication of powerful speech.

यद्य त्वा पुरुष्टुत् ब्रवाम दस्त्र मन्तुमः ।
तत्सु ना मन्म साधय ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Yadadya tvā puruṣṭuta bravāma dasra mantumah.
Tat su no manma sādhaya.*

O universal destroyer, preserver and promoter, most perceptive and conscientious, universally adored Pusha, lord giver of life, whatever we speak to you or wish to day, we pray, fructify and accomplish that thought and plan of ours.

इमं च ना ग्रवषणं सातय सीषधा गणम ।
आरात्यूष असि श्रुतः ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Imam ca no gaveṣanam sātaye siṣadho gaṇam.
Ārāt pūṣannasi śrutah.*

And this body of thought and speech of our socio-economic plan, pray, lead to completion and success. O lord, you are renowned far and wide as giver of success and onward progress for the achievement of wealth and honour.

आ त स्वस्तिमीमह आरअघामुपावसुम ।

6. *Ā te svastimīmahe āre aghāmupāvasum.
Adyā ca sarvatātaye śvaśca sarvatātaye.*

We pray for your gifts of happiness and well being of the perfect order for all for today, for tomorrow and for all time for the elimination of sin and evil and for the attainment of wealth and excellence in a state of peace and harmony.

Mandala 6/Sukta 57

Indra - Pushanau Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

इन्द्रा नु पूषणां वृयं सख्याय स्वस्तये ।
हुवम् वाजसातये ॥ १ ॥

1. *Indrā nu pūṣaṇā vayam sakhyāya svastaye.
Huvema vājasātaye.*

We always invoke and call upon Indra, lord commander of power, honour and excellence, and Pusha, giver of nourishment energy and intelligence, for the sake of friendship and all round joy and well being and for the achievement of success and victory in the battles of life.

साममन्य उपासदत्पातव चूम्बः सुतम् ।
करम्भमन्य इच्छति ॥ २ ॥

2. *Somamanya upāsadat pātave camvoḥ sutam.
Karambhamanya icchati.*

One of them, Indra, abides in the middle region between earth and heaven and drinks the soma distilled there, i.e., it catalyses the vapours of the clouds into rain through electric charge, while the other, Pusha, loves karambha, i.e., the sun sucks up the vapours of water and herbal juices and turns them into soma clouds. Thus the two sit together and act.

अजा अन्यस्य वह्नया हरी अन्यस्य संभृता ।
ताभ्यां वृत्राणि जिघते ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Ajā anyasya vahnayo harī anyasya sambhṛtā.
Tābhyaṁ vr̥trāṇi jighnate.*

The carriers of one, Pusha, are the sun beams while those of the other, Indra, are positive and negative currents of electricity, and thereby the duo, Indra and Pusha, work together and break the clouds, and humanity gets the boons of food, energy and wealth.

यदिन्दा अनयुदितं महीरुपा वृषन्तमः ।
तत्र पूषाभवत्सचा ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Yadindro anayad rito mahīrapo vṛṣantamah.
Tatra pūṣābhavat sacā.*

When most generous Indra moves and brings about heavy showers of rain, then Pusha too is the corporate power of natural energy. (Thus making and breaking, consumption and creation are simultaneous processes of natural metabolism in life.)

तां पूष्णः सुमतिं वृयं वृ अस्य प वृयामिव ।
इन्दस्य चा रभामह ॥ ५ ॥

5. Tām pūṣṇah sumatiṁ vayam vṛkṣasya pra vayā-miva. Indrasya cā rabhāmahe.

That immanent will and wisdom of Pusha, divine nature's creative and promotive power, and that catalytic power of Indra, natural electric energy, we love, join and apply at our level to have results like extensive branches of the tree.

उत्पूषणं युवामहु भीशौरिव सारथिः ।
मह्या इन्दं स्वस्तय ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Ut pūṣṇam yuvāmahe'bhīśūnriva sārathih.
Mahyā indram svastaye.*

Just as a charioteer joins, holds and controls the reins of his horses, and just as the supreme charioteer of the universe holds and controls the activity of natural forces such as radiations of the sun and exudations of the earth or the gaseous vapours and electric charge, so do we join Pusha and Indra, study and apply complementary forces and processes for the earth and for the great happiness and well being of her children.

Mandala 6/Sukta 58

1. Śukram te anyad yajatam te anyad viṣurūpe ahanī dyaurivāsi. Viśvā hi māyā avasi svadhāvo bhadrā te pūṣanniha rātirastu.

O Pusha, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, you are the light of the world as the sun. Two are the forms of your beauty and glory, both different yet alike like the twin forms of the day: one is bright and inspiring, the other is soothing sweet adorable as the night. Lord of your own essential might, you animate, inspire, preserve and promote all intelligence, energy and powers of the world community. We pray, may your gifts of generosity be good for all in this world.

Conducted by radiating beams for horses as motive power, protector of animal life, giver of plentiful homes, inspirer of intelligence and wisdom, the brilliant sun, generous light of life dedicated to the entire world, moves on and on watching the regions of the world and inspiring and elevating general intelligence and unambitious minds to initiative.

यास्त पूष गाव' अन्तः समुद्र हिरण्ययीरुन्तरि । चरन्ति ।

3. Yāste pūṣannāvo antaḥ samudre hiraṇyayīrantarikṣe caranti. Tābhiryāsi dūtyām sūryasya kāmena kṛta śrava icchamānah.

O sagely scholar and realised soul, Pusha, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, golden are your vessels moving over the sea and in the sky. By these vessels you go round the world with love and desire for further food for knowledge and acting as messenger of the sun for the world.

4. Pūṣā subandhurdīva ā pṛthivyā iḷaspatirmaghavā dasmavarcāḥ. Yam devāso adaduh sūryāyai kāmena kṛtam tavasam svāñcam.

Pusha, giver of nourishment, is a noble friend and brother of all from earth to heaven, master of holy speech and light, possessing power, honour and excellence, and commanding extraordinary brilliance. A realised soul inspired with love and desire, mighty strong and self-cultured, the divinities dedicate him to Surya, dawn of a new day.

Indra and Agni, wielders of the thunderbolt,

Indra and Agni, energy and power of heat and electricity, who is the mortal man in this world that knows both of you divines and who, using the all pervasive fire and electricity like horses moving in all directions, solely travels in a uniformly structured systemic chariot all by himself?

1. Śnathad vṛtramuta sanoti vājamindrā yo agnī sahurī saparyāt. Irajyantā vasavyasya bhūreh sahastamā sahasā vājayantā.

One who honours and adores challenging and victorious Indra and Agni, vibrant, stormy and fiery electric forces of nature and humanity, conquers restraining opposition and wins food, energy and wealth of life. Both are most courageous and enduring commanders of power and victory, givers of honour and excellence, ample peace and settlement and harbingers of the glory of success and fulfilment.

Indra, O controller, you join the sun and dawns, and Agni, O ruler, you control the lands and waters, words and actions.

Sarasvati Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

द्वयमददादभूसमृणच्युतं दिव दासं वध्यश्वाय दाशुषं । या

1. Iyam adadād rabhasamṛṇacyutam divodāsam vadhryaśvāya dāsuṣe. Yā śaśvantamācakhādāvasam panīm tā te dātrāni taviṣā sarasvati.

Sarasvati, this perennial stream of divine awareness, which stabilizes a permanent, all protective and adorable perspective dedicated to the light of Divinity, gives to the generous man of yajna blest with expansive mind and senses the zeal for action dedicated to fulfilment of obligations, a dynamic spirit which leads the man to freedom from all debts of life. These are thy brilliant gifts, O mother, to humanity.

द्वयं शुष्मभिबिसुखा इवारुजुत्सानु गिरीणां तविषभिरुमिभिः । पारावतद्वीमवस सुवृक्तिभिः सरस्वतीमा विवासम धीतिभिः ॥ २ ॥

This stream of divine awareness and knowledge, with fierce blows and powerful waves of light and inspiration, breaks through the height of mountains and depths of clouds covering darkness and concealing treasures and opens them out like one who digs up and out the roots of lotus flowers. Let us adore and serve this brilliant mother stream, Sarasvati, breaking over the banks of floods, with sincere thoughts and holy actions and let us root out darkness and ignorance from life.

O Sarasvati, mighty stream of light and inspiration, uproot the maligners of divinity and divine knowledge, take over the children of the wise givers of enlightenment across the world, adopt lands and nations, and let the streams of knowledge and culture flow for all peoples of the earth.

प ण' दुवी सरस्वती वाजभिवाजिनीवती ।

4. *Pra ḡo devī sarasvatī vājebhir-vajinīvati.

May Sarasvati, bright mother of divine light and knowledge, overflowing with streams of wealth, honour and spirit, protector and promoter of intelligence, will and enlightened action, save us from darkness and evil and advance us into the light of life.

यस्त्वा दवि सरस्वत्युपबूत धनं हित । इन्द्रं न वृत्रतूय' ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Yastvā devi sarasvatyupabrule dhane hite.
Indram na vṛtratūrye.*

O brilliant and generous Mother Sarasvati, whoever calls upon you like one who calls upon Indra, omnipotent ruler, for the destruction of the demon of evil at the time when the battle is raging at the door, you listen, come and save the suppliant.

त्वं दक्षि सरस्वत्यवा वाजेषु वाजिनि ।

6. *Tvam̄ devi sarasvatavavā vājeṣu vājini.
Radā pūṣeṣva nah̄ sanim.*

O brilliant and generous mother of divine vision and wisdom, dynamic giver of knowledge, strength and energy in the struggle of life, remove the veil from our intelligence, give us nourishment like the earth and light of discrimination like the sun, and then draw out the plan of our destiny.

उत स्या नः सरस्वती धारा हिरण्यवतनिः ।

7. *Uta syā nah̄ sarasvatī ghorā hiranyaवartanī.

And may that Sarasvati, awful breaker of the clouds of darkness, come by the golden paths of light, listen and, with love and grace, acknowledge our song of praise.

यस्या अनुन्ता अहृतस्त्वषश्चरिष्णुरणवः ।

8. *Yasyā ananto ahrutas-tveṣāś-cariṣnur-arṇavah.

Whose radiation of light and dynamic flow of speech moves on and on endless, straight and upright, roaring across the ocean of space, that is the Mother Sarasvati.

सा ना विश्वा अति द्विषः स्वसृरन्या ऋतावरी ।

9. *Sā no viśvā ati dviṣah svasṛranyā ṛtāvarī.

And may that flow of speech, warding off all hate and enmity, bearing truth like the light of dawn, lead us to other, different, sister streams of knowledge like the sun moving to other successive days, the same yet new.

10. *Uta nah priyā priyāsu saptasvasā sujuṣṭā.

And may Sarasvati, dynamic stream of light, knowledge and speech, dearest among seven lovely sister streams of knowledge, word, and mind and senses, loving and blissful, be adorable and remain favourable.

11. *Āpapruṣī pārthivānyuru rajo antarikṣam .

Pervading the objects of earth, the vast skies, the middle regions and the particles of nature, may the divine awareness and enlightening speech protect us against hate and enmity.

12. Triṣadhasthā saptadhātuḥ pañca jātā vardhayantī. Vājevāje havyā bhūt.

Existence and all pervasive in three regions of the world, sustained in seven, five elements, ahankara and mahat tattva, produced by five pranic energies, rising and expanding, Sarasvati, fluent speech and awareness, may, we pray, arise at our invocation.

प या महिमा महिनासु चकित द्युम्नभिरन्ना अपसामप-

13. Pra yā mahimnā mahināsu cekite dyumnebhiranyā apasāmapastamā. Rathā iva bṛhatī vibhvane kṛtopastutyā cikituṣā sarasvatī.

She that is distinguished as great by her grandeur in these things and regions, appears different and exceptional to different people by her light and lustre. She is most dynamic in the dynamics of existence, vast and expansive as space, created for the glory of Infinity by the lord creator, adorable by the celebrant: that is Sarasvati, dynamic spirit of omniscience.

14. Sarasvatyabhi no neśi vasyo māpa spharīḥ payasā mā na ā dhak. Juṣasva nah sakhyā vesyā ca mā tvat kṣetrāṇyaraṇāni ganma.

Sarasvati, perennial harbinger of divine gifts of enlightenment and prosperity, pray bring us all that is lovely and excellent more and ever more. Pray do not spurn us, don't cast us away, nor let us be consumed by excess of exuberance and power. Help us with love and friendship, and let us never fall off from you into lands forlorn and void of joy.

Mandala 6/Sukta 62

Ashvins Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

स्तुष नरा द्विवा अस्य प्रसन्ता_श्विना हुवे जरमाणा अकः ।
या सद्य उत्स्त्रा व्युषि ज्मा अन्तान्युयूषतः पयुरु वरांसि ॥ १ ॥

1. Stuṣe narā divo asya prasantā'śvinā huve jarāmāṇo arkaiḥ. Yā sadya usrā vyuṣi jmo antānyuyuṣataḥ paryurū varāṁsi.

I praise and celebrate the Ashvins, leading lights of heaven pervasive in this world, and worshipfully invoke them with holy chant of mantras. Complementary powers of nature's circuitous energy and fertility, they always conduct the rays of the sun at dawn and fill the earth from end to end with choice things of excellence.

ता यज्ञमा शुचिभिश्चक्रमाणा रथस्य भानुं रुरुचू रजभिः ।

2. Tā yajñamā śucibhiścakramāṇā rathasya bhānum rurucū rajobhiḥ. Purū varāṁsyamitā mimānā'po dhanvānyati yātho ajrān.

Continuously energising nature's sacred operations and augmenting the yajna with purest splendours, they light up the light of this beautiful world on the move with showers of mist and energies. Creating many gifts and waters of measureless value, they pass over and across regions of space yet untraversed.

ता हृ त्यद्वृतियदर्थमुग्रत्था धियं ऊहथुः शश्वदश्वः ।

3. Tā ha tyad vartir-yadaradham-ugretthā dhiya ūhathuh śaśvad-aśvaiḥ. Manojavebhīr-iśiraiḥ śayadhyai pari vyathir-dāśuṣo martyasya.

They are the divinities vibrant and blazing as wind and lightning that reach the yajna by unfailing radiations of energy fast as mind and sensitive as thought. They inspire the mind and will of the mortal man otherwise groping in the pathless woods of action and raise the generous yajnic giver so that he may cross the hurdles and rest in peace with a perfect sense of fulfilment.

ता नव्यसा जरमाणस्य मन्माप भूषता युयजानससी । yuyujānasaptī. Śubham pṛkṣam-iṣam-ūrjam vahantā hotā yakṣat pratno adhṛugyuvānā.*

They bless the mind and fructify the intentions of the new celebrant in search of knowledge and power. Ever young and energetic as wind and lightning, using seven currents of nature's centrifugal and centripetal energy, they bear and bring excellent gifts of water, food, energy and psychic determination. Let the learned yajaka, then, free from hate, jealousy and pride, dedicate himself to the youthful powers with faith and persistence.

5. Tā valgū dasrā puruśākatamā pratnā navyasā vacasā vivāse. Yā śamsate stuvate śambhaviṣṭhā babhūvatur-grṇate citrarātī.

With the latest words of homage, I celebrate and glorify the twin Ashvin divinities: graceful, destroyers of want and suffering, most versatile of power, ancient and eternal powers of the divine, who may, we pray, be good and blissful to the devoted celebrant and bring an immense variety of wondrous gifts for the yajaka.

ता भुज्युं विभिरद्धन्यः समुदात्तुगस्य सूनुमूहथू रजभिः ।

6. Tā bhujyum vibhiradbhyah samudrāt tugrasya sūnum-ūhathū rajobhiḥ. Areṇubhir-yojanebhish-bhujantā patatribhir-arṇaso nirupasthāt.

I celebrate and glorify the twin Ashvins, protectors and sustainers of life, who raise by radiation usable products of nature's energy from the waters and the seas by the regions of light, and who by forces of gravitation bring down by dustless usable paths of space energy from the depths of spatial waters.

Ever anxious for all round victory and riding the chariot of waves of energy, you top the mountain and reach the cloud. Generous givers of showers, you perceive the invitation of the productive earth and the expansive skies. Mighty strong, you promote the earth and prompt the voice of her people so that they may be at peace, and, ever vibrant on the move, nourishing and sustaining, you inspire the mind with noble thoughts and will for holy actions.

8. *Yad rodasi pradivo asti bhūmā heļo devānāmuta

O heaven and earth, O light of the world, howsoever great be the anger of the holy ones and of the average mortals, that same anger, O Adityas, seasons of time, Vasus, shelter homes of life and sustenance, Rudras, powers of natural justice and dispensation, all that sin and sufferance, bear on and reserve for correction of the negative forces of hate and enmity.

9. *Ya īm rājānāvṛtuthā vidadhā rajaso mitro

Let Mitra, man of love, and Varuna, man of judgement and discrimination, who fully knows and serves the Ashvins, pervasive and dynamic lights and rulers of world regions, according to the seasons of time, wield and duly order their power and force in respect of the inscrutable, the demoniac, the malignant as also for the latest word of praise or calumny.

O brilliant lords of humanity and nature, come by the chariot of internal wheels of the social order with leading lights of the people, making new paths for the coming generation with inspiring message of selfless performance of duty and also take off the heads of the terrorist forces of destruction.

Ashvins, complementary ruling powers of love and judgement of the nation of humanity, creators and givers of wondrous gifts of plenty, come here by the highest, middling and lowest order of cooperative participants in the social order and open the doors of the fixed as well as of the movable treasures of the nation for the celebrant.

of humanity, sustainers of many, lords of vision and power, come hither with all your gifts of light and graces and be inspirers of humanity in the life of revered performers of sacred acts of yajnic creation.

Usha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

उद्दु श्रिय उषसा राचमाना अस्थुरुपां नामया रुशन्तः ।

मधानी ॥ १ ॥

1. Udu śriya uṣaso rocamānā asthurapāṁ normayo ruśantah. Kṛnoti viśvā supathā sugānyabhūdu vasvī dakṣinā maghonī.

Bright and blazing, the lights of the dawn arise like waves of the sea for the beauty and glory of the earth. It brightens all noble paths of the world and makes them easy for us to follow. Bearing treasures of wealth and energy, let it be generous for the people of the world, we pray.

2. Bhadrā dadṛkṣa urviyā vi bhāsyut te śocirbhānavo dyāmapaptan. Āvirvakṣah kṛṇuṣe śumbhamānoṣo devi rocamānā mahobhiḥ.

Excellent and blissful you look and shine along the wide earth, the pure bright rays of light rising to heaven. O resplendent lady of morning divinity, graceful with the beauty and dignity of holiness, you reveal the heart and love of your bosom by the light apparel you wear.

3. Vahanti sīmaruṇāśo rusanto gāvah subhagā-murviyā prathānām. Apejate śūro asteva śatrūn bādhate tamo ajiro na volhā.

Bright red and crimson rays of light conduct the glorious dawn expanding over the earth, the sun takes her over as a smart bride-groom leads away the bride, and, as a brave warrior shoots away the enemies like an archer, it dispels the darkness of the night.

सुगात तं सुपथा पवत्तष्ववात् अपस्तरसि स्वभाना ।

4. Sugota te supathā parvatesvavātē apastarasi svabhāno. Sā na ā vaha pṛthuyāmannṛṣve rayim divo duhitariṣayadhyai.

O self-refulgent dawn, holy and easy are your paths over the clouds and mountains over which you radiate across the calm oceans of space without a stir of the wind. O glorious child of the light of heaven, commanding wide expanses of the universe, bring us the wealth, honour and excellence of the world for complete fulfilment of our heart's desire.

सा वह् या अभिरवाताषा वरं वहसि जाषमनु ।

5. Sā vaha yokṣabhiravātośo varam vahasi joṣamanu. Tvam divo duhitaryā ha devī pūrva-hūtau mañhanā darśatā bhūḥ.

O dawn, you who rise with the love and excellence of your heart's desire freely without the obstruction of even a whiff of air, come and bless us with the virilities and fertilities of the world. You, O child of heavenly light, brilliant and generous, be comely and gracious with all your glory at the first invocation of the day's opening yajna.

उत्त वयश्चिद्द्वसुतरप्सु रश्च य पितुभाजा व्युष्टा ।

6. Ut te vayaścid vasaterapaptan naraśca ye pitu-bhājo vyuṣṭau. Amā sate vahasi bhūri vāmamuṣo devi dāśuṣe martyāya.

O brilliant dawn, at the rise of the day, birds and men leave their dwelling to work for the day and enjoy their family dinner in the evening. O generous and brilliant lady of the morning light, you bring ample gifts of a happy home and delicious dinner for the mortal man of yajnic generosity abiding with you in love and faith.

Note: Swami Dayananda interprets the dawn as the bride and the sun as the groom coming together in marriage by choice and beginning a new day of their life.

Mandala 6/Sukta 65

Usha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

एषा स्या न' दुहिता दिवाजाः ॒ तीरुच्छन्ती मानुषीरजीगः ।

1. Eṣā syā no duhitā divojāḥ kṣitīrucchantī mānuṣīrajīgah. Yā bhānunā ruśatā rāmyāsvajñāyi tiras-tamasaś-cidaktūn.

Lo! there is the dawn, born daughter of heavenly light awakening and shining up our human habitations. Shining by the light of the sun, it is perceived shooting her rays of light across the darkness of the nights.

वि तद्युररुण्युग्मिरश्वश्चित्रं भान्त्युषसश्चन्द्रथाः । अगं

2. Vi tad yayur-aruṇayugmhir-aśvaiścitram bhān-tyuṣasaś-candrarathāḥ. Agram yajñasya br̥hato nayantīvi tā bādhante tama ūrmyāyāḥ.

The dawns proceed by the golden chariot of bright crimson rays of the sun and wonderfully illuminate the world of humanity. Leading the yajnic business of the wide world, they dispel and stem away the darkness of the night.

श्रवा वाजमिष्मूर्ज वहन्तीनि दाशुष उषसा मत्याय ।

3. Śravo vājam-iṣamūrjam vahantīni dāśuṣa uṣaso martyāya. Maghonīr-vīravat patyamānā avo dhāta vidhate ratnamadya.

O glorious dawns, bearing food, energy, knowledge and the message of divinity for the generous mortals, your lights descending like brave powers of heaven, bear and bring protection, advancement and the jewel wealth of life for the celebrant devotee.

इदा हि व' विधत रत्नमस्तीदा वीराय दाशुष उषासः । इदा विपाय जरत् यदुकथा नि ष्म मावत वहथा पुरा चित ॥ ४ ॥

4. Idā hi vo vidhate tatnamastīdā vīrāya dāśuṣa uṣāsaḥ. Idā viprāya jarate yadukthā ni ṣma māvate vahathā purā cit.

O dawns, here and now is the jewel wealth for the servant, for the brave, and for the generous giver. Here it is for the wise sage and for the worshipper. Here is the word of worship as before, pray bring the wealth of life as before for the celebrant like me.

इदा हित उषा अदिसाना गात्रा गवामङ्गरसा गृणन्ति ।

5. Idā hi ta uṣo adrisāno gotrā gavām-aṅgiraso grṇanti. Vyarkena bibhidur-brahmanā ca satyā nṛṇāmabhavad devahūtiḥ.

Here and now itself, O dawn of the light of heaven riding the heights of clouds, the sages of science and wisdom sing and celebrate in praise of you with chant of the Veda and offer of yajna and worship and break open the treasures of knowledge divine and secular. May the people's yajna and worship be true and fruitful at the call of the divinities.

उच्छा दिवा दुहितः पलव॑ भरद्वाजुवद्विधृत मधानि ।

6. Ucchā divo duhitah pratnavanno bhara-dvājavad vidhate maghoni. Suvīram rayim grṇate rirīhyu-rugāyamadhi dhehi śravo nah.

O dawn, child of the light of heaven, harbinger of light and glory, shine as ever before and let us shine too like the celebrated sage of knowledge and power and servant and celebrant of the dawn of divinity. Bestow love and care upon the worshipful admirer, bless the supplicant with wealth and noble progeny, and favour us with honour, fame and excellence of universal order.

Note: Swami Dayananda interprets this hymn as a metaphor of the virtues of women. He says that the birth of a girl child and the bride's coming to her new home is like the dawn of a new day which brings light, grace and prosperity to the family.

Mandala 6/Sukta 66

Maruts Devatah, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

वपुनु तच्चिकितुष्ट चिदस्तु समानं नामै धुनु पत्यमानम् ।
मत्पञ्च्यद्वाहसं पीपाय सूकृच्छुकं दुदुहु पृश्निरूधः ॥ १ ॥

1. Vapurnu taccikituṣṭe cidastu samānam nāma dhenu patyamānam. Martesvanyad dohase pīpāya sakṛcchukram duduhe prśnirūdhah.

For the man of vision and wisdom, the motherly form of nature is equal and similar by one name, Dhenu, mother cow. One on earth abounds with milk among the mortals to nurse her children, the other is Prshni, the middle region, mother of Maruts, winds or pranic energies, which simultaneously feeds the cloud with the purest soma of life energy.

य अग्रया न शाशुच्चिधाना द्वियत्रिमूरते वावृधन्ते ।
अरुणवे हिरण्ययोस एषां साकं नृमणः पांस्यभिश्च

2. Ye agnayo na śośucannidhānā dviryat trirmaruto vāvṛdhanta. Areṇavo hirṇyayāsa eṣāṁ sākam nṛmṇaiḥ paum̄syebhiśca bhūvan.

They, the Maruts, vital pranic energies, pure and shining like fires, grow double and triple. Non-particle and golden are their forms and conductors carrying simultaneously both bio-energy and intelligence for life on earth.

रुदस्य य मी हुषः सन्ति पुत्रा यांश्चा नु दाधृविभरेध्य ।

3. Rudrasya ye mīlhusaḥ santi putrā yāṁśco nu dādhryvir-bharadhyai. Vide hi mātā maho mahī ḫā set pr̄ṣnih subhve garbhamādhāt.

These Maruts are children of Rudra, virile spiritual energy, and the mother is there to receive, hold and nourish them in her womb. For the reason of conceiving and bearing ‘the great ones, the mother is known as the great’, the Mother, the mother cow, the mother earth, the holy and the noble, the one who bears and gives birth to life.

न य इष्टन्त जुनुषा या न्व॑ न्तः सन्त' वद्यानि पुनानाः ।

4. Na ya iṣante januṣo'yā nva'ntaḥ santo'vadyāni punānāḥ. Niryad duhre śucayo'nu joṣamanu śriyā tanvam-ukṣamāṇāḥ.

The Maruts neither hurt nor forsake their nativity, nor do they neglect any creature by their ethics and policy, but being noble, pure and shining in the midst of life, purging away weaknesses and perfecting virtues, vitalising and refining their body and personality with beauty, virility and splendour according to their love and ambition, they absorb the essences of nature, distil the soma and give showers of joy.

mārutam dadhānāḥ. Na ye staunā ayāso mahnā

There is none among them but instantly moves forward with showers of generosity. Bold and vibrant, they bear the name of children of the winds. They move not like thieves and sluggards by virtue of their might and grandeur, and only the generous man of holiness can approach and pacify these blazing heroes.

6. Ta idugrāḥ śavasā ghṛṣṇuṣenā ubhe yujanta rodasī sumeke. Adha smaiṣu rodasī svaśoci-rāmavatsu tasthau na rokaḥ.

Shining and blazing by strength and superior power, commanding mighty forces of nature, they join the beautiful heaven and earth by their presence. And when these forceful presences pervade heaven and earth, therein abides the self-refulgent electric energy like light and splendour itself.

7. Aneno vo maruto yāmo astvanaśvaścid yamajatyarathih. Anavaso anabhīśū rajastūrvi rodasī pathyā yāti sādhan.

O Maruts, vibrant powers of nature and humanity, let your course and chariot be free from sin and error. Let it be powered without horses and let it be driven without the driver. Let it be protected without external forces, moving without food and fuel, without reins, dispelling waves, clouds and the dust of earth and space, and let it go by paths of heaven and earth, fulfilling the ambitions of humanity.

8. Nāsyā vartā na tarutā nvasti-maruto yamavatha vājasātau. Toke vā goṣu tanaye yamapsu sa vrajam̄ dartā pārye adha dyoh.

O Maruts, in the serious warlike business of life, whoever you protect and promote for the sake of children, grand children, or lands and cows or waters, no one can overwhelm or circumvent, no one can cross, defeat and destroy. Indeed he will be the breaker of new paths and open new treasures and then cross through the skies to the bounds of the regions of light.

9. Pra citramarkam gṛṇate turāya mārutāya svatavase bharadhvam. Ye sahāṃsi sahasā sahante rejate agne pr̥thivī makhebhyah.

O men of learning, bear and offer unique and wonderful songs and presentations of reverence for the adorable, vibrant, prompt and forceful band of heroes of their own essential power and excellence, those who meet the challenges of life and confrontations by their own strength and courage. O brilliant sage, Agni, the earth itself vibrates and shines by the holy and mighty exploits of the Maruts, heroes of the winds.

10. Tviṣīmanto adhvarasyeva didyut tr̥ṣucyavaso juhvo nāgneh. Arcatrayo dhunayo na vīrā bhrājajjanmāno maruto adhrṣṭāḥ.

Bright and blazing, flames of a great yajna of love and non-violence, instantly moving to action and adorable, brave warriors born of light and fire, intrepid heroes of the winds are shakers of the earth like the heroes of heaven. Such are the Maruts.

With homage and reverence I adore and serve that rising and exalting hero of the winds and the blazing lance of action who is a very child of Rudra awful divine power of force and justice, whom, for the sake of celestial power, the pure, immaculate heroes of fire and conscientious intelligence envy and emulate.

Mandala 6/Sukta 67

Mita-Varunara Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

Mitra and Varuna, complementary pranic energies, holy powers of love and justice, I adore and exalt you both, highest of the divinities of the world, with the best of my voice and words, you both, unique and incomparable, most self-controlled controllers of humanity who guide and lead the people on the right path with your own hands, holding them by the reins and the light rays of their own inner mind.

2. Iyam mad vām pra stṛṇīte maniṣopa priyā namasā barhiraccha. Yantam no mitrāvaruṇāv-adhṛṣṭam chardiryad vām varūthyam sudānū.

Mitra and Varuna, dear, loving and just teachers and preachers, the holy grass is well spread for you on the vedi, and this sincere address and invitation from the core of my heart reaches out to you with homage and humility. O generous masters of holiness and knowledge, come and bless us with your gifts of the peace and happiness of a comfortable home free from fear.

3. Ā yātam mitrāvaruṇā suśastyupa priyā namasā hṛuyamānā. Sam yāvapnahstho apaseva janāñchrudhīyatascid yatatho mahitvā.

Mitra and Varuna, holiest loving and just powers of nature and humanity, dear as our own, invoked and invited with homage and humility, come and receive our prayer and adoration, you who, like parents of children, inspire obedient people keen for nourishment by your own action and greatness to rise together.

4. Aśvā na yā vājinā pūtabandhū rtā yad garbham-aditirbharadhyai. Pra yā mahi mahāntā jāyamānā ghorā martāya ripave ni dīdhah.

Fast, strong and bright as heat and light all pervasive, akin to the purity of brotherly relationship, embodiments of truth and law of the universe, mother nature bears you for eternity, O Mitra and Varuna, who ever move forward as greater than the great ones, emerging, rising and blazing as terrible to the enemies of mankind from birth itself.

विश्वं यद्वां मंहना मन्दमानाः । त्रं द्वासा अदधुः सजाषाः ।

Since you pervade over and across the wide earth and heaven by your presence, the brilliant and generous great powers of the world, rejoicing by virtue of your grandeur and majesty, loving and cooperative together, hold sway over the social order of the earth and rule, intelligent and enlightened, undaunted and perceptive all over like watchful eyes and ears of the nation.

ता हि त्रं धारयथु अनु द्यून्दृहथु सानुमुपमादिव द्याः ।

Indeed, you hold the wealth of the nation, and you sustain and expand the bounds of world order day by day like the sun, for example, expanding the bounds of light over the world. It is through you that the resplendent lord of the universe expands and lights the world of heaven and earth in existence by the food and energy of life.

They bring the heave of passion and they bring the food too to quench the fire of that passion, and thus they sustain the wise with the food they aspire for, they who also lead the bearers of holy materials to fill the house of yajna and to feed the fire. And just as the sparkling sacred streams bear the waters of life, and unmarried maidens bear life-giving vitality, but they are never neglected and never injured in any way, so the wise and the sustainers of the wise must never be neglected, never injured.

Mitra and Varuna, givers of ghrta and food for the fire, whoever the disciple, intelligent, faithful and true, established in truth and the law of truth by virtue of your voice of truth in this house of yajna, let that be your gracious gift of achievement. And we pray throw out all sin and crime for the sake of the giver in this holy programme of moral culture.

9. Pra yad vām mitrāvaraṇā spūrdhan priyā dhāma yuvadhitā minanti. Na ye devāsa ohasā na martā ayajñasāco apyo na putrāḥ.

O Mitra and Varuna, divinities of love and justice, those holy persons, who emulate and follow the rules and injunctions loved and ordained by you, and never violate them by their power and potential, are like your children by their karmas. On the other hand, those, who envy and are jealous, who violate the principles and institutions dear to you, who are not good and generous people, and in spite of their power and potential are mortals of inferior calibre without the love and performance of noble acts, deserve to be neither you, friends nor your children.

The wise ones bear and offer words of praise in honour of you. Some others, thoughtful and faithful, offer songs of celebration. Then we too chant and address hymns of adoration to you. Joining with all holy ones by your grace and grandeur, there is none you hurt or injure.

Mitra and Varuna, thus under your care and protection and in matters of family peace and prosperity of the home gifted by you, the beneficiary feels great and grateful. And in the battle business of life which is exciting and delightful, you engage the brave, generous, simple and straight man of truth and honesty celebrated in words of praise and adoration all round.

1. Śruṣṭī vām yajña udyataḥ sajoṣā manusvad vṛktabarhiṣo yajadhyai. Ā ya indrāvarunāviṣe adya mahe sumnāya maha āvavartat.

Indra, glorious lord of power, and Varuna, lord of justice, peace and excellence, this yajna of evolution and advancement, kindled, conducted and jointly sustained by people in your honour, is for the union and cooperation of men dedicated to yajnic development and progress of the world community. Let it go on today and for ever onward for the growth of abundant food, energy and sustenance and for a high order of peace and excellent well being of life as a whole.

2. Tā hi śreṣṭhā devatātā tujā śūrāṇām śaviṣṭhā tā hi bhūtam. Maghonāṁ mañhiṣṭhā tuviśuṣma rtena vṛtratrurā sarvasenā.

You are the best and holiest, dedicated to the divine scheme of evolution, development and progress, being most vigorous, bravest of the brave, commanding highest power and excellence among the excellent and powerful, most high spirited by dedication to truth and the law of truth, breakers of the darkest clouds for showers of vitality. Indeed you are the leaders and commanders of the total forces of nature and humanity on the paths of universal progress.

3. Tā grṇīhi namasyebhiḥ śūṣaiḥ sumnebhiriṇdrāvaruṇā cakānā. Vajrenānyah śavasā hanti vṛtram siṣaktyanyo vṛjaneṣu viprah.

Honour and celebrate the two, Indra and Varuna, lords of peace, power and justice, with reverence and homage. Brilliant with strength and power, over-flowing with vitality and generosity, they are loving and kind. One of them, Indra, like the sun, breaks the clouds and destroys the enemies with the force of thunder, and the other, Varuna, cool as water and vibrant as the winds, follows to bless humanity with strength and energy on the paths of life.

4. Gnāśca yannaraśca vāvṛdhanta viśve devāso narāṁ svagūrtāḥ. Praibhya indrāvaraṇā mahitvā dyauśca pṛthivi bhūtamurvī.

All the holy voices, men and women, leading lights of humanity and the holiest of the holy for the world, grow on by their own vision and performance in the course of nature. For all these who grow thus, O lords of power and peace, vision and wisdom, be good, kind and generous by your own grace and grandeur like the light of heaven and the wide expanse of mother earth.

He that is liberal, self confident and upright in matters of truth and divine law, and in his very soul does honour to you, shall, with his resources, conquer his opponents and enemies and, with his generosity, achieve wealth and power and win over men of wealth and power to his side for support and cooperation to give and share.

तिग्मायुधा तिग्महेती सुशवा सामारुदाविह सु मृक्तं नः ।
पन' मुञ्चतं वरुणस्य पाशोद्धापायतं नः सुमनस्यमाना ॥ ४ ॥

4. Tigmāyudhau tigmahetī suṣevau somārudrāv-ihā su mṛlatam nah. Pra no muñcataṁ varuṇa-sya pāśād gopāyatam nah sumanasyamānā.

Soma and Rudra, lords of health and total well being, bearing weapons of blazing efficacy and shattering blows of thundering strength, givers of peace and joy, bless us with health of body, mind and soul and lasting well being. Release us from the snares of Varuna, bondage of sin and disease by the laws of nature. Happy, kind and gracious, protect and promote us in life against sin, disease and indiscretion.

Mandala 6/Sukta 75

Varma, Dhanu, Jya, Artni, Ishudhi, Sarathi, Rashmayah, Ashvah, Ratha, Rathagopa, Ishavah, Pratoda, Hastaghna, Sangramashishah (yuddhabhumi-Brahmanaspati-Aditi, Kavacha Soma-Varuna, Deva-Brahma) Devatah, Payu Bharadvaja Rshi

जीमूतस्यव भवति पर्तीकं यद्गमी याति समदोमुपस्थ ।
अनाविद्धया तन्वा जय त्वं स त्वा वर्णा महिमा
पिपतु ॥ १ ॥

1. Jīmūtasyeva bhavati pratīkam yad varmī yāti samadām-upasthe. Anāviddhayā tanvā jaya tvam sa tvā varmaṇo mahimā pipartu.

When a warrior in armour advances to the battle front of war he looks like a mighty rain cloud. Go forward with your body unhurt, win the battle, and may the grandeur of your armour protect and defend you in war and peace.

धन्वना गा धन्वनाजिं जयम् धन्वना तीव्राः सुमद' जयम् ।
धनुः शत्रैरपकामं कृणाति धन्वना सवाः पृदिश' जयम् ॥ २ ॥

2. Dhanvanā gā dhanvanājim jayema dhanvanā tīvrāḥ samado jayema. Dhanuh śatrorapakā-mam kṛṇoti dhanvanā sarvāḥ pradiśo jayema.

Let us preserve and win lands and cows by the bow and reach our targets by the bow. Let us fight out the fiery passions by the bow and arrow of concentrated meditation. The bow and arrow thwarts the evil designs of enemy forces within and without both. Let us advance in all directions by the bow.

व यन्तीवदा गनीगन्ति कर्णि पियं सखायं परिषस्वजाना ।
याषव शिङ्कवित्ताधि धन्वञ्ज्या इयं समन पारयन्ती ॥ ३ ॥

3. Vakṣyantīvedā ganīganti karṇam priyam sakħāyam pariṣasvajānā. Yoṣeva śiṅkte vitatādhi dhanvañ-jyā iyām samane pārayantī.

Like a maiden embracing her dear lover and whispering into his ear as if saying something sweet, this string of the bow, its ends like loving hands clasping the ends of the bow, is stretched to the archer's ear, rings and seems to say: Shoot, advance and make way through the opposite ranks.

त आचरन्ति समनव् याषा मातवं पुत्रं बिभृतामुपस्थै । अप्
शत्रून्विध्यतां संविदान आत्री' इम विष्फुरन्ती अमि-

4. Te ācarantī samaneva yoṣā māteva putram bibhṛtāmupasthe. Apa śatrūn vidhyatāṁ samvidāne ārtnī ime visphurantī amitrān.

Just as a young mother holds the baby in her lap with both hands, so may the two ends of the bow operative together in balance hold the string at both ends and shoot the arrow upon the enemies and thus scatter the unfriendly forces out of gear.

ब्रह्मीनां पिता ब्रहुरस्य पुत्रश्चिश्चचा कृणाति समनावगत्य ।
इषुधिः सङ्काः पृतनाश्च सवाः पृष्ठ निनद्वा जयति

5. Bahvīnāṁ pitā bahurasya putraściścā kṛṇoti samanāvagatya. Iṣudhiḥ saṅkāḥ pr̄tanaśca sarvāḥ pr̄ṣṭhe ninaddho jayati prasūtah.

Like a guardian having many children under his care, the quiver borne on the warrior's back holds many arrows and rattles as the warrior enters upon the battle. The warrior with the bow and arrows in the quiver emerging on the battle field scatters all the enemy forces and wins all the battles of life.

रथ तिष्ठ त्यति वाजिनः पुरा यत्रयत्र कामयत सुषारथिः ।
अभीशूनां महिमानं पनायत् मनः पश्चादनु यच्छन्ति

6. Rathe tiṣṭhan nayati vājinah puro yatravat kāmayate suśārathih. Abhīśūnām mahimānam panāyata manah paścādanu yacchanti raśmayaḥ.

An expert driver on the steer of the chariot directs and leads the horses forward wherever he wants. Know this and admire the great importance of the bridle strings. As the driver controls the horses so does the mind control the senses. Control the strings of the mind and the senses would follow in your conduct of the chariot of life.

तीव्रान्धाषान्कृपवत् वृषपाण्या श्वा रथभिः सुह वाज-

7. Tivrān ghoṣān kṛṇvate vṛṣapāṇayo'śvā rathebhīḥ saha vājayantah. Avakramantaḥ prapadair-amitrān kṣinanti śatruñr-anapav-yayantah.

Rushing on with the chariots, the warriors of mighty arm and war horses roar with awful war cries and, crushing the unfriendly forces with their advances without ever retreating, they eliminate the enemies.

रथवाहनं हृविरस्य नाम यत्रायुधं निहितमस्य वम् ।

8. Rathavāhanam havirasya nāma yatrāyudham nihitamasya varma. Tatrā rathamupa śagmām sadema viśvāhā vayam sumanasyamānāḥ.

Where the chariot war materials of this warrior are collected and deposited, and where his arms and armour which routed the enemy are secured and guarded, there let us find our chariot of peace and well being for all time, planning and designing as we are always for the peace and joy of the mind.

स्वादुषंसदः पितरं वयोधाः कृच्छ्रश्रितः शक्तीवन्ता śaktīvanto gabhīrāḥ. Citrasenā iṣubalā amṛdhrāḥ satovīrā uravo vrātasāhāḥ.*

Those who abide in the home or sit in the assembly with peace and joy at heart, who are senior parental people, advanced and experienced in age, observing Dharma without fluctuating from peace and rectitude even in crises, commanding strength and depth of wisdom, leading wonderful armies, having full forces of arms and armaments but never violent and destructive, brave heroes of truth and honesty, many, mighty and magnanimous, observers of self-chosen discipline and law of conduct, let such be our friends, ideals and leader guardians for a life of peace and happiness.

Sagely scholars, parental seniors, men of peace and good will, holy and blissful sun and earth which hurt no one, protective and promotive powers of nature and humanity, all observers and protectors of truth and law, may, we pray, protect us from sin and evil and defend us against violence. May no evil and violent power, no thief, rule over us.

The sun wears the beauty of a divine bird and flies. The earth, its mountain tops illuminated by sun rays, moves on, urged and energised by the sun. On this earth where men run around together yet scattered, may the arrows of defence and protection and the light of the sun provide us a home of peace and stability.

12. *Rjīte pari vrñdhi no'śmā bhavatu nastanūḥ.
Somo adhi bravītu no'ditiḥ śarma yacchatu.*

O ruler, let natural honesty and rectitude protect and promote us. Let our bodies be adamantine strong. Let soma, nectar juice of herbs, inspire us with its message of good health and rejuvenation. Let mother earth bless us with peace and comfort in a happy home.

आ जङ्घन्ति सान्वषां जघनां उप जिघ्रत ।

13. Ā jaṅghanti sānveśāṁ jaghanāñ upa jighnate.
Āsvājani pracetaso'śvānt-samatsu codaya.

O inspirer of the brave like a goad, inspire the wise and brave warriors of the earth who break down the forces of these enemies of humanity and strike down the saboteurs and terrorists in the battles of life.

अहिंरिव भृगः पर्यति ब्राह्मणं ज्याया हृतिं परिब्राधमानः ।

Wrapped round the arm of a warring man of action like the coils of a snake, like an arm guard protecting the shooting arm against the strike back of the bow string after the shot of an arrow, or against the recoil of a gun, the man of knowledge well versed in all the ways of life and the world should protect the man of bold action all round.

15. Ālāktā yā ruruśīṣnyatho yasyā ayo mukham.
Idam parjanyaretasa iṣvai devyai bṛhannamah.

Poison-tempered with head like a doe's and a mouth of steel, generous and abundant like a rain cloud is the brave ruling queen of arrows. For the lady of divine velocity, unbounded praise and homage of a thousand salutations!

अवसृष्टा परा पत शरव्य बह्यसंशित । गच्छामित्रान्प पद्यस्व

16. Avasṛṣṭā parā pata śaravye brahmaśamśite. Gacchāmitrān pra padyasva māmīṣāṁ kam canocchiṣah.

O sharpest and fastest of missiles, tempered and tested by the best of defence scientists, shot and released, fly far, reach the target and fall upon the enemies. Spare none of them whatsoever even at the farthest distance.

यत्र बाणाः सुंपत्तान्ति कुमारा विशिखाइव । तत्रा ना बह्यण-

17. *Yatra bāñāḥ sampatanti kumārā viśikhā iva.
Tatrā no brahmaṇaspatir-aditiḥ śarma yacchatu

O ruler, where the young soldiers with shorn hair fall upon the enemy and showers of missiles rain down upon the targets, there let the controller of nation's wealth provide us total security and let the mother earth provide us a safe and comfortable shelter, a shelter of all round security.

18. *Marmāṇi te varmaṇā chādayāmi somastvā

O warrior of the bow, I cover the vital limbs of your body with armour for protection. Let the ruler Soma, immortal spirit of life's vitality, give you close cover against death and mortality. Let the wise and judicious commander of the forces provide you the best and most abundant food and maintenance, and let the excellencies of the nation rejoice with you when you win the battle.

19. Yo nah svo arāṇo yaśca nistyo jighāṁsati. Devāstam̄ sarve dhūrvantu brahma varma mamāntaram.

Any one, whether our own or a stranger far away non-fighting, or far off and low, that hurts and violates us deserves that the best and enlightened of the nation punish him to nullity. For me, the Lord Almighty and the divine knowledge and awareness within me is my best armour for protection.

MANDALA 7

Mandala 7/Sukta1

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अग्निं नरा दीर्घितिभिरुरण्याहस्तच्युती जनयन्त पशुस्तम ।
दूरुदृशं गृहपतिमथ्युम ॥ १ ॥

1. Agnim naro dīdhitibhiraranyorhastacyutī janayanta praśastam. Dūredreṣam gr̥hapatimatharyum.

O leading lights of yajna, let the people produce fire by the heated friction of arani woods done with the manual motion of hands. Fire is an admirable power seen from afar and shining far and wide, sustaining home life like a guardian but otherwise silent, implicit in nature and non-violent. Further create this domestic energy by your acts of research and intelligence.

तम्_ग्निमस्त्_वसवा_न्यृणवन्त्सुपति_च_मवस्_कुतश्चित् ।
दु_आच्या_या_दम्_आस्_नित्यः ॥ २ ॥

2. Tamagnimaste vasavo nyṛṇvantsupraticakṣamavase kutaścit. Dakṣāyyo yo dama āsa nityah.

The energy of fire and electricity, scholars of basic science and original vision produce for domestic purpose or for communication and transportation somehow from something they know best. It is of versatile use for defence and protection, universal in nature and character, and an all purpose asset in the home for any service.

पद्ध' अग्र दीदिहि पुरा ना जस्त्रया सूर्या यविष्ठ।
त्वां शश्वन्त् उप यन्ति वाजाः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Predhō agne dīdihī puro no 'jasrayā sūrmyā yaviṣṭha. Tvāṁ śāsvanta upa yanti vājāḥ.

O fire divine, ever youthful power and presence, well kindled and raised, shine on, radiate and illuminate us, constantly, through the continuous channel of nature's dynamics. All things in constant motion reach you and flow on in the cosmic cycle.

पत अग्रया ग्रिभ्या वरं निः सुवीरासः शाशुचन्त द्युमन्तः ।
यत्रा नरः सुमासत सुजाताः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Pra te agnayo'gnibhyo varam nih suvīrāsaḥ śośu-canta dyumantah. Yatrā narah samāsate sujātāḥ.

O light divine, brighter and stronger than flames of fire are those vibrant radiations of yours, all illuminating, purifying and sanctifying, which arise when leading lights of yajnic vision and action, well educated and holily cultured, sit together on the vedi and kindle you to join the cosmic circuit of intelligence.

दा न' अग्र धिया रुयिं सुवीरं स्वप्त्यं सहस्य पश्चस्तम ।
न यं यावा तरति यातुमावान ॥ ५ ॥

1. Dā no agne dhiyā rayim suvīram svapatyam sahasya praśastam. Na yam yāvā tarati yātu-māvān.

O mighty fire and light of divinity, with luminous intelligence and noble action give us that honour and excellence of life and that brave, admirable and seasoned progeny worthy of us which no force would be able to violate or overcome.

उप_यमति युवतिः सुदं दृष्टा वस्त हृविष्मती धृताची ।
उप स्वन्मरमतिवसूयुः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Upa yameti yuvatiḥ sudakṣam̄ dośāvastorhavīṣmatī ghṛtācī. Upa svainamaramatirvasūyuh.

The creative vitality of Agni is active and operative day and night: the youthful maiden approaches her versatile lover and stays with him in marriage for life, the yajna ladle overflowing with ghrta reaches the kindled fire of the vedi, the rich dark night looks up to the moon and terminates with the sun, the virgin nature, divine lord's own consort, with the passion for creation, joins him for ever and creates the living world.

विश्वा अग्न पद्महारातीयभिस्तप्पभिरदहु जर्जनथम् ।
प निस्क्वरं चातयुस्वामीवाम ॥ ७ ॥

7. Viśvā agne'pa dahārātītryebhistapobhiradaho jarūtham. Pra nisvaram cātayavāmīvām.

O divine fire, burn off all the negativities and adversities of the world with those flames of light with which you burn, eliminate the ailments, sickness and disease from the very roots, and recreate life anew.

आ यस्त अग्न इधत अनीकुं वसिष्ठ शुकु दीदिवः पावक ।
उत न एभिः स्तवथरिह स्याः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Ā yaste agna idhate anīkam̄ vasiṣṭha sukra dīdivah pāvaka. Uto na ebhiḥ stavathairiha syāḥ.

O divine fire of life, Agni, destroyer, purifier and recreator, haven and home of the living world and blazing ruler, let your power and forces which shine all round shine on and illuminate our life, and, with all these our songs of praise and prayer, stay with us as protector and promoter and strengthen us for our self defence and protection.

वि य तं अग्ने भजिर अनीकं मता नरः पित्र्यासः पुरुत्रा ।
उत ने पुभिः सुमना इह स्याः ॥ ९ ॥

9. Vi ye te agne bhejire anīkam martā narah pitryā-sah purutrā. Uto na ebhiḥ sumanā iha syāḥ.

Agni, light of life and fiery power, many are the mortals, leading lights, good and kind as parents, dedicated to you and serving your powers and forces of existence. With all these be kind and gracious at heart toward us here in life and now.

इम नरं वृत्रहत्येषु शूरा विश्वा अदैवीरभि सन्तु मायाः ।

10. Ime naro vṛtrahatyēṣu śūrā viśvā adēvīrabhi santu māyāḥ. Ye me dhiyāṁ panayanta praśastām.

All these leaders of the world, best and bravest in the battles of life against evil, who approve and admire my work and intelligence consecrated to you, are unchallengeable. The wiles and tactics of the wicked would be dull and ineffective before the brave dedicated to you, O light and leader of the world.

मा शूनं अग्ने नि षदाम नृणां माश षसा वीरता परि त्वा ।

11. Mā śūne agne ni ṣadāma nṛṇāṁ māśeṣa-so'vīratā pari tvā. Prajāvatīśu duryāsu durya.

Agni, lord of light and fire, may we never sit idle in a state of depression or in a state of swollen pride. Among our men, let there be none without descendants. O lord sustainer of happy homes, let there be no trace of cowardice among the happy communities settled in happy homes wholly dedicated to you.

यमश्वी नित्यमुपयाति यज्ञं प्रजावन्तं स्वपत्यं तयं नः ।

12. Yamaśvī nityamupayāti yajñam prajāvantam svapatyam kṣayam nah. Svajanmanā śeṣasā vāvṛdhānam.

Agni, lord of life, ruler and sustainer of happy homes and settled communities, give us a blessed home bubbling with the joy of noble children and the presence of happy people, rising and advancing with our own posterity, a happy place for yajna blest by daily visit and constant presence of Agni, lord of sun rays.

पाहि न' अग्ने रासा अजुष्टात्पाहि धूतररुष अघाय : ।

13. Pāhi no agne rakṣaso ajuṣṭāt pāhi dhūrterara-ruṣo aghāyoh. Tvā yujā pṛtanāyūnrabhi ṣyām.

Agni, lord of all power and inexhaustible energy, save us from monsters void of love, loyalty and friendship. Protect us against the wicked, violent and sinful. With you as friend, ally and protector, let me face and overthrow even whole armies of adversaries.

सदग्निरुग्नीरत्यस्त्वन्यन्यत्र वाजी तनय वीलुपाणिः ।
सुहस्रपाथा अरा सुमति ॥ १४ ॥

14. Sedagniragniḥ ratyastvanyān yatra vājī tanayo vīlupāṇih. Sahasrapāthā akṣarā sameti.

That Agni, vision, power and energy, excels other forms of power and energy where the energy, like an offspring, fast and strong a thousand ways of application as working power of hands, is joined with the imperishable source and flows therefrom therewith like water.

सदुग्निय वनुष्यत निपाति समद्वारमंहस उरुष्यात ।
सुजातासः परि चरन्ति वीराः ॥ १५ ॥

15. Sedagniryo vanuṣyuto nipāti sameddhāraman-hasa uruṣyāt. Sujātāsaḥ pari caranti vīrāḥ.

That Agni, power and energy, is real agni which promotes the supplicants and protects them from the violent, which saves the kindler and augmenter from sin, and which the brave, cultured and enlightened leaders, well educated, serve and promote for a common cause.

अयं स अग्निराहुतः पुरुत्रा यमीशानः समिदिन्ध हविष्मान ।
परि यमत्यध्वरषु हता ॥ १६ ॥

16. Ayam so agnirāhutah purutrā yamīśānah samidindhe havismān. Pari yametyadhvareṣu hotā.

This is that Agni, light and fire of existence for the sake of life, served and honoured universally, which the lord ruler of the universe commanding the creative resources of existence lights and raises, and which the yajaka with all his resources invokes all round in yajnic acts of service and development for the common cause of love and non-violence.

त्व अग्न आहवनानि भूरीशानासु आ जुहुयाम् नित्या ।

17. Tve agna āhavanāni bhūrīśānāsa ā juhuyāma nityā. Ubhā kr̄nvanto vahatū miyedhe.

Agni, light of life, with all the resources at our disposal we always offer you abundant materials in yajna, promoting thereby both the priest and the host in the holy act of love and non-violence for development.

इम अग्नि वीततमानि हृव्या जस्त्र वर्णा दुवतातिमच्छ।
पति न ई सुरभीणि व्यन्तु ॥ १८ ॥

18. Imo agne vītataṁāni havyā'jasro vakṣi devātā-timaccha. Prati na īṁ surabhīṇi vyantu.

Agni, life of life, universal power, carry well these cherished, holiest and most expansive oblations offered to you in honour of the divinities and, in consequence, let the sweets and fragrances of nature come to us from all sides.

मा न' अग्नि वीरत् परा दा दुवासुस मतय मा न' अस्य।

19. Mā no agne'vīrate parā dā durvāsase'mataye mā no asyai. Mā nah kṣudhe mā rakṣasa ṛtāvo mā no dame mā vana ā juhūrthāḥ.

Agni, resplendent lord and ruler of life, give us not up to a state of cowardice and impotence. Reduce us not to a state of rags and destitution. Subject us not to such indigence and intellectual imbecility. Reduce us not to hunger. Throw us not to the evil and the wicked. O lord observer and protector of truth and law, lead us not astray in the home and in the forest.

20. Nū me brahmāṇyagna ucchaśādhi tvam̄ deva maghavadbhyaḥ suṣūdah. Rātau syāmobha-yāsa ā te yūyam̄ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā nah.

Agni, brilliant and generous lord of enlightenment, you are the divine reservoir of learning and the laws of Dharma. Teach me and the commanders of power and prosperity the laws and values of Dharma. We pray let us both, the priest and yajamana, ruler and ruled, high and low, abide in the orbit of your generosity. And may you both, teacher and preacher, and the divine power promote us with peace, prosperity and well being all round all time.

21. Tvamagne suhavo ranvatasamādrk sudītī sūno sahaso didīhi. Mā tve sacā tanaye nitya ā dhañmā vīro asmannaryo vi dāsīt.

Agni, lord of light, invoked with love and eagerly responsive, blissful of form and bright of flame, born of omnipotence, you shine and illuminate. Let not the devotee, always dedicated to you in holy work for the child's sake, be consumed by the fire of evil. Let the noble and brave son never be indifferent and callous toward us.

22. Mā no agne durbhṛtaye sacaiṣu deveddhesvagniṣu pra vocah. Mā te asmān durmatayo bhṛmāccid devasya sūno sahaso naśanta.

Agni, child of omnipotence, lord generous and brilliant, devoted as we are to you in all these yajnic fires kindled by holy ones, pray do not condemn us to indigent living and poor maintenance. Let not your displeasure, O bright and generous lord, even by mistake ever touch us.

23. Sa marto agne svanīka revān-amartye ya ājihoti havyam. Sa devatā vasuvanīm dadhāti yam sūrirarthī pr̄cchamāna eti.

Agni, lord of light and life, noble of flames and potent of forces, blest is that mortal with wealth of life who offers holy libations to the immortal fire of yajna. The immortal lord bears immense wealth and honour of life to gift the man of enlightenment who calls upon the lord in a mood of prayer and supplication.

Agni, lord of light and life, you know our great desire and prayer. Pray bring us abundant and expansive wealth and enlightenment for the brave by which, O lord of power, we may live and enjoy a long life with lustre and noble progeny without hurt, waste or corruption.

Agni, lord of light and wealth of life, brilliant, generous and divine, give us more and more of food and plenty of wealth for the dedicated men of honour and power and enlighten us how to live with honour and joy. O lord, we pray let us all, givers and receivers both, abide in the bliss of your grace and generosity. O leaders of power and enlightenment, always protect and promote us on the path of peace, plenty and total well being.

Mandala 7/Sukta 2

Apra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

Agni, light of the world, accept our homage of yajnic fuel today, let the sacred flames and fragrance rise illuminating and purifying the wide space, touch the heights of celestial skies with the holy chant of mantras upto the pinnacles of purity and expand with the rays of the sun.

2. Narāśāmsasya mahimānameṣāmupa stosāma yajatasya yajñaiyah. Ye sukratavah śucayo dhiyamdhāḥ svadanti devā ubhayāni havyā.

With yajnic acts of holy offering, we honour and celebrate the grandeur of this sacred Agni, light of life, adored by humanity in the midst of the enlightened divinities, performers of creative actions, who are pure and purifying, intelligent in heart and mind, and who accept and taste both kinds of yajnic offerings for the development of both mental and physical faculties.

3. İlenyam vo asuram sudakşam-antardūtam rodasi satyavācam. Manuṣvad-agnim manunā samiddham samadhvarāya sadaminmahema.

Let us always and for all of you honour and exalt the adorable, inspiring, efficient and generous Agni operative like a human ambassador between heaven and earth, between body and spirit, true of speech like a superman, enlightened and inspired by the wisest of humanity for the sake of creation and development with love and non-violence for progress of the world. (Agni here is the leader of humanity brilliant as light and inspired with will and enthusiasm like fire.)

4. Saparyavo bharamāñā abhijñu pra vṛñjate namasā barhiragnau. Ājuhvānā ghrtaprṣṭham prṣadvadadhvaryavo haviṣā marjayadhvam.

Worshippers sitting on their knees, bearing sacred grass and fragrant materials, offer the preliminary oblation of holy grass and ghrta with reverence into the fire. O priests invoking and raising the fire burning bright with flames of ghrta as rain from the cloud, feed the fire with holy oblations of havi and thereby purify the hearts of the worshippers.

5. Svādhyo vi duro devayanto 'śiśrayū rathayur-devatātā. Pūrvī śiśum na mātarā rihāne samagruvo na samaneśvañjan.

Devout thinkers and dedicated scholars committed to yajna and the divinities move at the speed of chariots in holy works, wide open the doors of heavenly bliss and beautify them for all in the battles of life. Loving and bold they are like young mothers to the child and advance forces for the ruler.

And may the holy and divine night and the dawn, both celestial maidens of the universe abiding in spaces between heaven and earth, abundant with beauty and power, universally invoked and adored, worthy of worship, come and bless us in life for happiness and well being, like the mother earth, like the generous mother cow, and like the infinite speech of divine revelation.

O scholars and scientists, artists and craftsmen, you know all the facts, values and requirements of the world around. I honour you in the yajnic programmes of humility and invite you to participate in the creative programmes of development. Pray take the challenge and raise our corporate programmes of love and non-violence to the heights of achievement. May you all create, acquire and bring in the cherished objects of value for the noble humanity.

May Bharati, goddess of world speech, knowledge and culture come. May Ila, goddess of divine speech, knowledge and grace come. May Sarasvati, mother dynamics of universal speech, knowledge and culture come. May the three divinities, loving, kind and gracious, come with the enlightened daughters of the earth, men and divines of enlightenment, and dedicated scholars of eternal and historical knowledge, come and grace our sacred seats of yajna. May Agni, lord omniscient, come and bless us in the soul.

9. Tannasturīpamadha poṣayitnu deva tvaṣṭarvira-rāṇah syasva. Yato vīraḥ karmāṇyah sudakṣo yuktagrāvā jāyate devakāmaḥ.

O Tvashta, brilliant maker of forms and shaper of men, generous and joyous giver of all round nourishment, physical, mental and spiritual, give us that vitality and that virility, that perfection of form, education and culture without delay from which is born the brave hero of action, expert scientist and technologist, specialist of clouds and rain dedicated to divinity as well as to noble humanity.

Giver of life and nourishment to the woods, lord of light and sun rays, take up the fragrance and reach it across to the generous powers of nature and humanity. Agni, fire of yajna, has catalysed and refined the holy materials in the Vedi for diffusion. Agni, that's the Yajaka of nature, ever true and more which coexists with the divine elements of nature from their origin, joins them, and refines and intensifies them for the common good of nature and humanity.

Agni, fire of life, light of the sun, brilliant scholar and teacher, come to us right here, burning, blazing, shining and illuminating, with Indra, light and power as that of thunder and lightning. Come by chariot across the spaces with the divines and forces of instant action, sit on the holy grass, and let Aditi, mother earth and nature, with her children of virtue and the immortal divinities all be happy and give us joy in truth of word and deed.

Mandala 7/Sukta 3

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अग्निं व' दवमग्निभिः सज षा यजिष्ठं दूतमध्वर कृणुध्वम ।

1. Agnim vo devamagnibhīḥ sajōṣā yajisṭham dūtamadhvare kṛṇudhvam. Yo martyeṣu nidhr-uvirṛtāvā tapurmūrdhā ghṛtānnah pāvakah.

O learned scholars and scientists, in your yajnic programmes of corporate endeavour for human purposes, light and produce that adorable agni, energy, from various forms of heat and sunlight, which is brilliantly useful and universally helpful and which acts as a messenger between region and region and earth and space. It is permanently present in all forms of mortal creation, abides by the laws of nature, is vested with heat and power at the highest, consumes finest food and it is fiery and purifying.

2. Prothadaśvo na yavase'viṣyan yadā mahā samvaraṇād vyasthāt. Ādasya vāto anu vāti socradha sma te vrajanam kṛṣṇamasti.

Roaring and consuming its food like a horse exulting in grass, it rises from its source and moves like velocity itself, splitting, protecting, accomplishing. Currents of wind and energy follow the rise of its power. O fiery energy, attraction and repulsion, that's your path of motion.

उद्यास्य त नवजातस्य वृष्ण ग्र चरन्त्यजरा इधानाः ।

3. Ud yasya te navajātasya vṛṣno'gne carantyajara idhānāḥ. Acchā dyāmaruṣo dhūma eti sam dūto agna īyase hi devān.

Agni, abundant energy divine, as your flames arise, new and undecaying, the radiant waves traverse the heights of heaven in space, and thus you move like a messenger to the divinities of nature at the one end and to the brilliant scholars at the other.

वि यस्य त पृथिव्यां पाजा अश्चृषु यद ग समवृक्तं जम्भः ।

4. Vi yasya te prthivyām pājo aśret trṣu yadannā samavṛkta jambhaiḥ. Seneva srṣṭā prasitiṣṭa eti yavam na dasma juhvā viveksi.

Your power and force spreads in and all over the earth instantly as you consume the inputs by the jaw-like motion of your flames and release the energy. The radiation of energy moves like a fighting force forward on the advance when, O mighty power, you receive the materials and convert them into energy as grain is converted into vitality.

5. Tamid doṣā tamuṣasi yaviṣṭham-agnimatyam na marjayanta narah. Niśiśānā atithimasya yonau dīdāya śocirāhutasya vṛṣṇah.

O leading lights of science and technology, as riders groom a race horse for better performance, similarly strengthen and sharpen the power of this radiant and most youthful, unaging, Agni, serving and refining it like an undated but most welcome visitor, and increase the light and speed of this abundant treasure of energy fed with greater inputs at source, and let it shine at night and at dawn and let it radiate more and ever more.

6. Susam̄dr̄k te svanīka pratīkam vi yad rukmo na rocosa upāke. Divo na te tanyatureti śuṣmaścitra na sūrah̄ prati cakṣi bhānum.

Radiant Agni, commander of noble ensign, power and force, beautiful is your form when, close at hand, you shine like radiant gold. The light of your power radiates and blazes like lightning from the sky, and you display your splendour like the wonderful sun.

Agni, resplendent ruler of the world, as we offer homage and yajna to you in truth of word and deed with fragrant materials soaked in ghrta and exalt you with streams of holy songs without reserve, you too, we pray, in gracious response, protect and promote us a hundred-fold with great unbounded golden citadels of steel security, prosperity and culture.

Or what we know are your divine voices, loud, bold and unchallengeable, gifted to the generous yajnic giver, by which you protect your people who comprise the best men and women, by them, O child of omnipotence, Jataveda, present with every thing in existence, protect and promote us and the learned brave celebrants of divinity.

Agni, resplendent ruler of the world, emerging like fire from its mother source of arani woods or like heat and light from earth and heaven, arises from the land and her people and goes forward blazing like a thunderbolt of crystal, pure and purifying, bright by the grace of his body and mind, illuminating, sanctifying, dedicated to the service of divine nature and noble humanity.

10. Etā no agne saubhagā didīhyapi kratum suetasam vatemā. Viśvā stotrbhyo gr̄nate ca santu yūyām pāta svastibhiḥ sadā nah.

These are our good fortunes, O fire divine, O lord of light. Shine and illuminate these so that we may attain noble intelligence and will to do good works. O lord, let all these riches be for the celebrant and servant of Divinity too. O children of the earth, O divine powers, protect and promote us always all round with peace and joy of well being.

Mandala 7/Sukta 4

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

प वः शुकाय भानव भरध्वं हृव्यं मृतिं चाग्रय सुपूतम ।

1. Pra vah śukrāya bhānave bharadhvam havyam matim cāgnaye supūtam. Yo daivyāni mānuṣā janūṣyantarviśvāni vidmanā jigāti.

For your strength and vitality and for your light and wisdom, bear and offer purified fragrant oblations and songs of praise to Agni, resplendent spirit of Divinity which, with its light and awareness, inspires and enlightens all human and superhuman manifestations of life within.

स गृत्स' अग्निस्तरुणश्चिदस्तु यता यविष्ठा अजनिष्टमातुः ।

2. Sa gr̄tso agnis-tarunāścidastu yato yavishtha ajanis̄ta mātuh. Sam yo vanā yuvate śucidan bhūri cidannā samidatti sadyah.

Let that Agni, spirit of life, be young, ever fresh and progressive since it is the youngest born of Mother Nature. As fire abides with the woods for food, so does the spirit abide with sun rays for food and energy, and as one consumes food with pure white teeth so does the fiery youth always consume lots of food for energy and growth in the physical form.

3. *Asya devasya samsadyanike yan martasah

The grandeur of this brilliant lord of light, the mortals perceive and realise in his splendid assembly and in the blazing armies of his power. He defines spiritual excellence as the very embodiment of it in manifestation and shines as an unassailable hero for humanity.

4. *Ayam kavirakaviṣu pracetā martesvagniramṛto

This Agni, intelligent, brilliant and a poetic visionary among the unwise and unintelligent, pervades and shines, the immortal spirit among the mortals. O lord most potent and patient, forsake us never, never abandon us to the wicked in the world, let us always enjoy your good will, love and grace.

5. Ā yo yonim devakṛtam sasāda kratvā hya gnir-amṛtāñ atārīt. Tamoṣadhiśca vaninaśca garbham bhūmiśca viśvadhāyasam bibharti.

That Agni, universal spirit, which by his creative yajna resides in the cosmic home created by divine powers of Prakrti in association with the supreme lord, and which redeems the immortal souls in mortal forms to freedom, the same cosmic creator and sustainer, the herbs, the trees and the earth bear at heart in seed form in the state of existence as the principle of growth and sustenance of the universe.

6. Īśe hyaginiramṛtasya bhūrerīše rāyah suvīryasya dātoḥ. Mā tvā vayaṁ sahasāvannavīra māpsavah pari ṣadāma māduvah.

Agni, lord of light and life, commands abundant gifts of nectar-like food and immortal values, and he commands the gifts of wealth, honour and excellence. O lord of power and patience, we pray, let us always be with you but not as cowards, not without progeny, not without obedience and service in faith, not in a state of ugliness and gracelessness.

7. Pariṣadyam hyaraṇasya rekṇo nityasya rāyah patayah syāma. Na śeṣo agne anyajātamastyacetānasya mā patho vi dukṣah.

Wealth, but without debt and fight, is to be sought for. Let us be masters of wealth of permanent, undiminishing character. The child born of another is not your own as wealth earned by another is not yours. O lord Agni, pray do not vitiate the paths of the simple and ignorant, protect the innocents.

The child born of another even though well disposed is but distant and not ideal for adoption because ultimately he is drawn to his native home by nature. O lord, bless us with our self-born, patient and intelligent child.

9. Tvamgne vanuṣyato ni pāhi tvamu nah saha-sāvannavadyāt. Sam tvā dhvasmanvadabhyetu pāthah sam rayih spr̄hayāyyah sahasrī.

Agni, brilliant commander of knowledge and power, protect the supplicants from the violent. O lord of power and patience, protect us from sin and evil, jealousy and calumny. May food and wealth of honest imperishable nature flow to you with noble and most desirable honour and excellence.

10. *Etā no agne sauhagā didīhyapi kratum

These are the glories and good fortunes of life, Agni, which, pray, give us, shine and refine so that we may achieve the holiness of yajnic action and divine awareness. Let all these be the share of supplicants, singers and celebrants of life and divinity. O divinities of nature and humanity, may you all protect and promote us with the gifts of honour, excellence and the prosperity of well being all round.

Mandala 7/Sukta 5

Bear and offer words of praise and thankfulness in honour of mighty Agni which, ever active without rest at the heart of heaven and earth and all things beyond destruction, is the living light and life of the world, Vaishvanara, and rejoices with all those that are awake and keeps them alive and growing.

Note: Vaishvanara Agni is the divine fire and vitality of the earth and the terrestrial sphere, Vayu is the electric energy of the middle region, and Aditya, Taijas is the light and life of the heavenly solar region of the universe.

2. Prsto divi dhāyyagnih pṛthivyāṁ netā sindhūnāṁ vṛṣabhaḥ stiyānām. Sa mānuṣīrabhi viśo vi bhṛti vaiśvānaro vāvṛdhāno varena.

The divine fire is pervasive in the heaven and over the earthly sphere. It is the mover of rivers and showerer of rains. It shines among all the human communities and inspires them to action. This is Vaishvanara Agni growing with the expansive world by its own divine glory.

By virtue of your awe and pressure of law, human communities move forward, each in its own way, leaving behind the sufferance of their experiences. O Vaishvanara Agni, shine on illuminating the people as you have ever been shining and eliminating the sufferings of mankind.

Like a brilliant prince you live with the people all round, every way, every day. Being a scholar, poet and visionary, inspire us, your admirers, with your lights of wisdom, and refine our voices of admiration with gentle forms and manners. Lord of wealth, power and honour, sharpen our plans and initiatives with the development of lands and cows, horses and transport for our assets and prosperity.

Indra, glorious ruler, these are the people and our voices of admiration, earnest and joyous, vying with each other in love and reverence on this occasion, which may, we pray, reach you and be accepted. May your modern ethics and policies lead us all to wealth, honour and excellence. May we always abide in peace and prosperity in a happy home under your care and kindness.

4. *Dhenum na tvā sūyavase duduksannupa brahmāṇi

As a shepherd goes to the cow in a rich pasture for good milk, so the man of peace and enlightenment approaches you seeking fulfilment and creates songs of appreciation in praise of your policy and performance as a ruler. Indra, O lord ruler of the world, the whole world calls you the preserver, defender and promoter of the earth and her social order for me, and I pray you enjoy the favour and goodwill of the people for our sake.

Indra, brilliant ruler, rising anew like the sun, controls and bounds overflowed expansive waters into fordable limits for comfortable movement of business, converts the violent to peaceable beneficence, silences the imprecations of the vociferous and controls the erratic behaviour of the rivers and the seas.

The ruler is chief of all, all controller and instant achiever, keen yajaka and sociable with open doors, sharpest reacher to the target like fish in the ocean, for economic and social progress. Men of economic ambition, science and wisdom do him honour, enemies cower before him, and as a friend he saves and supports the friend of versatile genius.

7. Ā pakthāśo bhalānaso bhanantā'lināśo viṣāṇinah śivāsaḥ. Ā yo'nayat sadhamā āryasya gavyā tr̄tsubhyo ajagan yudhā nṛn.

Men of ripe age and experience, vibrant experts of yajnic material, nobly born and cultured, graceful and highly sagacious, who bring about peace and joy for all, approve and glorify the ruler who leads and guides members of the council who manage the governance and administration of the land for the noble people and organise the defence forces to deal with the violent, destructive and lawless elements from within and without.

8. Durādhyo aditim srevayanto'cetaso vi jagrbhre paruṣṇīm. Mahnāvivya kṛthivīm patyamānah paśuṣ-kavir-aśayac-cāyamānah.

Thoughtless men of evil disposition try to fail his policy of universal and inviolable values and grab lands of fertility. But Indra, a man of vision, all round perceptive, saving the land and policy frustrates their designs and maintains national integrity and rests in peace and fearlessness.

इयुरथं न न्यर्थं परुष्णीमाशुश्चनदभिपित्वं जगाम । सुदासु

When Indra, generous ruler and commander equipped fully with assistant forces, overcomes unfriendly powers and evil voices rampant in society and thus reaches his target of correction and achievement in the daily business of life's governance and administration including the optimum means of sustenance and development, the people too realise the ends of his universal policy and achieve their goals of life in definiteness without any delay.

10. Īyurgāvo na yavasādagopā yathākṛtamabhi mitram citāsaḥ. Prśnigāvah prśninipreṣitāsaḥ śruṣṭim cakrurniyuto rantayaśca.

Just as cows free from the cowherd rush to the master from the pasture, as friends rush to meet a friend, as people having performed good actions by nature and law advance to receive their prize, and as the sun rays radiate across space and sky to meet the variegated earth, so do the forces of Indra, whether organised in battle order or resting off duty, and the people at peace rally and rush to Indra, the ruler, for service immediately on the clarion call.

11. Ekam ca yo viṁśatim ca śravasyā vaikarnayorjanān rājā nyastāḥ. Dasmo na sadman ni śiśāti barhiḥ śūrah sargam-akṛṇod-indra eṣām.

The ruler, personally resigned and socially committed as a trustee, commanding power and brilliance as Indra, dedicated to the elimination of want and suffering, creates and ministers a senate of twenty and one reputed people over a variety of views and opinions and thus, brave and brilliant as he is, organises the nation into a dynamic social order like a high priest organising and energising the Vedi in the house of yajna.

The lord of thunder power and justice engages the scholar, the teacher, the senior and even the jealous critic and opponent into the thick of social action, choosing some positively and others to weed out negativity. Thus they too, O ruler, opt for you, some opting for you as a friend for friendship, and others to be with you and around, but all in order to be happy and joyous in consonance with you.

Let the ruler with his enlightened forces always and at the earliest rule out and destroy the sevenfold citadels of these outmoded enemies, and let him serve and support the home and institutions of values anew for the rising people of free thought and action. Let us always realise and win the values of the eternal and liquid flow of the holy voice in our yajnic business of systemic life.

All the wondrous deeds of the world are accomplished by Indra, since sixty-six of his brave warriors devoted to their lord, all fervent, new and ferocious fighters dedicated to the land and light, send to eternal sleep sixtysix thousand of his enemies.

There furious warriors overwhelming the enemy like turbulent waters rushing down hill are the creation of Indra, and they, over-coming and cutting to size the enemies and strategists camouflaged as friends, are prepared to renounce all comforts for the sake of their devotion to the generous master and ruler.

Indra, ruler of the earth, inspires and promotes the person who promotes the brave, prepares ripe inputs for yajnic development, and challenges and eliminates want and dishonour from the world. Being the destroyer of pride and anger, he reduces the proud and angry to zero, and promotes, defends and serves the paths of rectitude and processes of law and justice.

17. Ādhrena cit tadvekam cakāra siñhyam cit petvenā jaghāna. Ava srakūr-veśyāvṛścad-indrah prāya-cchad viśvā bhojanā sudāse.

By patience, fortitude and stabilized power, Indra, destroyer of evil and enmity, unites and consolidates the world into one socio-political order. With limited but committed powers of love and creativity, he defeats the tigers of violence and destruction. With pointed advance like the penetration of a needle, he routs deep formations of hostility and opposition. And thus he provides all sustenance and peaceful comfort and prosperity for a happy and generous humanity.

18. Śaśvanto hi śatravo rāradhuṣte bhedasya cicchar-dhato vinda randhim. Martān enah stuvato yah kṛṇoti tigmam tasmin ni jahi vajra-mindra.

Indra, lord destroyer of division, opposition and hostility, let your persistent enemies be subdued relentlessly. Let the persistent purveyors of division and dissidence be brought to justice. And whoever does evil and violence to the supportive and celebrative people among humanity, strike the sharp and instant bolt of justice upon them.

Let the powers of justice, keepers of law and order and defence guards provide security cover for Indra, ruler of the social order. Let the ruler eliminate all elements of division, dissension and secession from this one, united and universal order of governance and human welfare. And let the weapon launchers, intelligence network using code language, supporting and cooperative yajnic powers of the system bear and offer him the highest loyalty and conduct fastest services of defence and communication for him.

20. Na ta indra sumatayo na rāyah samcakṣe pūrvā usaso na nūtnāḥ. Devakam cinmānyamānam jaghanthā'va tmanā bṛhataḥ śambaram bhet.

Indra, lord ruler of power, honour and excellence, like the beauty, blessedness and grandeur of the dawns old and new, your knowledge and wisdom, ethics and policies and your wealth and excellence cannot be described, since you achieve the adorable light of divinity, shatter the pride and pretence of simulated brilliance, and by your innate power and splendour break the greatest and deepest clouds to bring down showers of rain.

By virtue of your blazing glory and showers of generosity, the sage who dispels evils, the warrior who goes forward with a hundred and faces many hundreds, and the host who provides the best shelter and hospitality like mother earth, all who rejoice in the home as well as outside, would never neglect, forget or forsake the kindness and friendship of yours who are the ruler and protector of the world community. And we pray may happy days ever shine upon these brave, learned and generous people.

22. Dve napturdevavataḥ śate gordvā rathā vadhu-mantā sudāsaḥ. Arhannagne paījavanasya dānam hoteva sadma paryemi rebhan.

Two hundred cows and two chariots drawn by double motive powers are the gifts of the generous yajamana, grand child of a dynamic, pious and progressive God-fearing yajaka. O Agni, lord and leader of the light and fire of the corporate life of humanity, happily acknowledging, singing and celebrating the gift of the man of peace and progress, I go round the house of yajna with reverence like the high priest and the yajaka myself.

Four-fold gifts of the generous yajamana, grand child of the pious progressive yajaka, golden majestic and moving straight on the right course in life in the most stable manner without jolt or deviation on the earth, bear me like a child of divinity to my grand child for the achievement of honour and excellence.

One whose honour and fame rings in the skies and over the wide earth, whose gifts of generosity are distributed over from person to person of eminence, whom the seven fluent regions of heaven and earth celebrate and glorify like Indra, lord of light and fire and power, and who fights out a war monger in battle close at hand as one would eliminate a disease, such a person and power is fit to be the ruler.

Mandala 7/Sukta 19

Indra, lord commander of weapons sharp and blazing as rays of light, virile, generous and yet fearsome as a bull, is the one supreme who guides, controls, rules and inspires the world community, and he is the one who always is the supporting power of the house and children of the indigent who cannot afford to pay for education and development. O lord, you are the guide and giver of wealth and knowledge to the man dedicated to the yajnic development of humanity.

the entry of light and justice, pray demolish the unbreakable walls of the forts of impenetrable ignorance, superstition, prejudice, hatred and violence.

O lord and leaders of the world, protect and promote us in a state of honourable peace, prosperity and all round well being for all time.

1. Ugro jajñe vīryāya svadhāvāñcakrirapo naryo yat karisyān. Jagmiryuvā nr̄ṣadanam-avobhis-trātāna indra enaso mahaścit.

Indra, the ruling soul, a great performer blest with innate powers, rises bright and blazing to do great heroic deeds when he undertakes the manly acts he plans to do. Youthful and bold, he goes to the house of the people with his powers of protection as a saviour of us all from great sin and transgression.

Growing and rising, Indra is breaker of the clouds and destroyer of want and darkness of ignorance. The youthful hero protects the dedicated celebrant with his powers of protection. He is the creator of a beautiful world for the man of service and charity and he is the giver of wealth again and again to the generous man of charity and gratitude to Divinity.

Veteran warrior, relentless campaigner, passionate fighter, magnanimous hero, always victorious, Indra is unconquerable by nature. In the face of tumultuous conflicts he blazes with holy splendour and destroys all hostility from the earth.

Distilled is the spirit of life, divine, brilliant, the very essence of earth and nature's energy. Let Indra, the ruling lord of life, by his very nature and origin, join and address the assembly and make it resound. O lord of instant powers and faculties, we invoke and invite you by our yajnic adorations. Join us in the ecstasy of our celebration and inspire our congregation to awake into enlightenment.

And you Indra, leader and ruler, set aflow the natural voice and energies of the nation otherwise withheld from expression by diffidence, fear and darkness of ignorance. Freed by you, the energies of the nation flow freely into action like words of eloquence directed to a definite purpose like streams flowing to the sea and chariot horses directed to a destination, and then all artificial creations of fear tremble like fear itself.

Indra, lord ruler and controller of the dynamic forces of the world, drink this soma of ecstasy which, I am sure, would exhilarate you. The cloud, generative power of nature, has distilled it and showered on you. And just as a horse well controlled by the hands and reins of the driver moves to the right destination, so is this soma generated by the hands of the creator meant to exhort you to take the dominion to its destination.

That beauty and joy of the governance of your dominion which is agreeable, inspiring and worthy of support and participation, and by which joy, O controller of the dynamic forces of the people, you break the negative forces of darkness, sin and crime, want and ignorance like the sun breaking dark clouds for showers, may that joy, O sovereign lord of power for settlement and prosperity, give you the real pleasure of creative governance and administration.

can they surpass, equal or even comprehend your power and potential or your munificence.

The lord pervades both heaven and earth with his might, prevents evil, and destroys the demons of sin and darkness which we cannot even perceive with our human eyes of ordinary vision.

3. *Śatam te śiprinnūtayah sudāse sahasram śamsā

O lord of golden helmet, hundreds be your favours and protections for the man of generosity, thousands your blessings and gifts of grace. Destroy the weapons of death in the hands of the violent mortal and vest us with that wealth, honour and excellence of life which is the supreme jewel of existence.

Indra, mighty lord beyond fear, in submission to your will, I abide in holy action and pray for the gift of your protection and grace. O lord illustrious of blazing power, pray dwell in my heart for ever. Forsake us not, O lord of tempestuous forces.

5. Kutsā ete haryaśvāya śūśamindre saho devajū-tamiyānāḥ. Satrā kṛdhi suhanā śūra vṛtrā vayam tarutrāḥ sanuyāma vājam.

All these arms and armaments of thunder power, all the sagely people who have come to peace and power, patience and fortitude inspired by divinities for the attainment of honour and excellence: all these are dedicated to Indra, lord ruler of vibrant powers and people of the world. O lord giver of freedom from fear and violence, make it easy for us to dispel the evil and darkness of life. Let us be victors of light over ignorance and darkness and cross over the seas to the realms of bliss.

Thus O lord Indra, bless us with honour and excellence of our choice in abundance. Let us have the divine bliss of your love and good will. Sustain and promote food, energy and knowledge for the noble people blest with youthful and brave warriors of freedom. O lord, O noble people, O saints and sages, O youthful brave, protect and promote us with all modes of good fortune and well being for ever.

Mandala 7/Sukta 26

Indra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

न साम् इन्द्रमसुता ममाद् नाब्रह्माणा मृघवानं सुतासः ।
तस्मा उक्थं जनय यज्जुज ष तृव वीयः शृणवद्यथा
नः ॥ १ ॥

1. Na soma indramasuto mamāda nābrahmāṇo maghavānāṁ sutāsaḥ. Tasmā uktham janaye yajjujoṣan-nrvannavīyah śṛṇavad yathā nah.

Undistilled soma does not please Indra, lord of humanity. Nor do distillations of soma unsanctified by divine chants of Veda satisfy the lord of power and divinity. Therefore I create and compose the latest song of adoration with Vedic vision with the distillation so that the lord may listen and accept our homage of soma with pleasure.

उक्थउक्थ साम् इन्द्रं ममाद नीथनीथ मृघवानं सुतासः ।

2. Uktha-ukthe soma indram mamāda nīthenīthe maghavānāṁ sutāsaḥ. Yadīm sabādhah pitaram na putrāḥ samānadakṣā avase havante.

With every chant of song divine, the soma pleases Indra. At every stage of adoration, at every step of the song, the draughts of soma exhilarate the lord. For this reason, surely, eager supplicants, equally proficient, invoke and offer homage to the lord for protection and progress like children approaching parents with love to have their blessings.

चकार ता कृणव तूनमन्या यानि बुवन्ति वधसः सुतषु ।

3. Cakāra tā kṛṇavannūnamanyā yāni bruvanti vedhasaḥ suteṣu. Janīriva patirekaḥ samāno ni māmṛje pura indraḥ su sarvāḥ.

What the sages and scholars say and proclaim in matters of science and development of soma, let the pursuant follow and do even more, and just as the ruler protector and sustainer looks after the people and the father looks after the children by himself equally well, so should Indra first and foremost look after and refine the development of knowledge and all the pursuers.

एवा तमाहुरुत शृण्व इन्द्रु एकं विभक्ता तुरणिमधानाम् ।

4. Evā tamāhuruta śṛṇva indra eko vibhaktā taranīrmaghānām. Mithastura Utayo yasya pūrvīrasme bhadrāṇi saścata priyāṇi.

Only Indra they celebrate in holy words. Only of him do we hear, that he is the giver of all power, progress, honour and excellence and he alone is the saviour and protector. Instant and unfailing are his powers and forces of protection and defence, unbreakable as ever. May all dear and cherished good things of life come to us by the lord's kindness and grace.

sute grṇāti. Sahasrīna upa no māhi vājān yūyam

Thus does the ardent sage settled in peace and wisdom celebrate Indra, the soul and generous ruler of the world and leading lights of humanity for the sake of defence and protection in the social order of the lord's creation. May the lord bring us a thousand fold honour and excellence in food, sustenance and knowledge. O lord and leaders, protect and promote us with all your gifts of good fortune and all round well being as ever.

1. Indram naro nemadhitā havante yat pāryā yunajate dhiyastāḥ. Šūro nr̄ṣatā śavasaścakāna ā gomati vraje bhajā tvam nah.

Leading people call upon Indra, lord ruler of the world, in their serious struggles of life and pray for those concentrative faculties of mind and intelligence by which they can join the divine presence and win their goal. The lord is the brave, generous and fearless leader of humanity in their corporate life, lover of strength and inspirer of heroic souls. O lord, give us the grace of your divine presence and lead us in our development of lands and cows and in our plans of education, enlightenment and our vision of the divine Word.

2. Ya indra śuṣmo maghavan te asti śiksā sakhibhyah puruhūta nr̥bhyah. Tam hi dṛlhā maghavan vicetā apā vṛdhī parivṛtam na rādhah.

Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, that strength and power of yours for which you are invoked by all humanity, pray give us, your friends and leaders of a free world. O lord of honour and majesty, unshakable lord of universal vision and knowledge, remove the cover of darkness and open out our potential like a hidden treasure revealed.

3. Indro rājā jagataścarṣaṇīnāmadhi kṣami viṣurūpam yadasti. Tato dadāti dāsuṣe vasūni codad rādha upastutaścidarvāk.

Indra is the sovereign ruler of the moving world and her people on the earth. Whatever various and manifold wealth there is on the earth, he alone is the master ruler. And therefrom he gives profusely of wealth, honour and excellence to the generous man of charity, inspires our potential strength and success, and when he is closely adored in meditation, he reveals his presence to our direct vision and experience.

4. Nū cinna indro maghavā sahūtī dāno vājam ni yamate na ūtī. Anūnā yasya dakṣiṇā pīpāya vāmām nr̥bhyo abhivītā sakhibhyah.

Surely Indra, lord of honour and glory, is the generous and instant giver on invocation and prayer. He gives sustenance, protection and progress, and he controls and guides our advance to victory in life. Boundless is his grace which ever inspires and promotes our will and action, and it is freely available to people who seek his love and friendship.

5. Nū indra rāye varivaskṛdhī na ā te mano vavṛtyāma maghāya. Gomadaśvāvad rathavad vyanto yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā nah.

Indra, generous lord of munificence, we turn ourselves to you seeking your love and kindness to achieve the honour and treasures of life. Pray open the paths of advancement for us to wealth and victory of lands and cows, horses and chariots of the good life. O lord, O leading lights, be gracious and protect and promote us with all good fortune and well being for ever.

1. Brahmā ḡa indropa yāhi vidvān-aryāñcaste harayah santu yuktāḥ. Viśve ciddhi tvā vihavanta martā asmākamicchṛṇuhi viśvaminva.

Indra, lord omniscient, all pervasive in the world, come, listen to our prayer, let the horses harnessed to your chariot be directed hitherward to us. All people of the world without exception invoke you. Pray listen to our prayer and bring us the gifts of Divinity.

O lord of might, since you protect and preserve the voice of the seers of divine vision, your grandeur vests in the holy voice and holy projects of humanity. Awful lord of blazing lustre, when you wield the thunderbolt in hand in a state of divine passion for action you rise invincible for any power of the world.

Indra, by your ethics and policy you guide the leading lights of humanity and those called upon to duty as you light up the earth and space, and thus surely by nature and character you rise to the mighty power of the governance of the great social order. Truly the mighty and the dynamic govern and guide the weak who need protection.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, in these few days bless us that the evil in friends be purged and they become good citizens. O lord, if the man of judgement and discrimination were to see untruth and false conduct, then he, Varuna, with justice and power, may cause it to be reduced to half and then purged off.

We speak and sing, thus, of Indra, this lord of power, honour and excellence who gives us great wealth and further capacity for success and victory and who accepts homage as the most loving protector of the worshipper. O lord, may you and your divine forces protect and promote us with all gifts of good fortune and well being for all time.

What is the honour and pleasure we can do by our songs of adoration to your grace? O lord of glory, what can we offer and when in homage to you? All thoughts, imagination and songs we offer are but an extension of your grace in adoration of your honour. So, O lord, only listen to these songs of adoration and be pleased.

And all songs and adorations of the seers of all time which you graciously listen and accept are but human adorations of the visionaries in your honour. I too, O lord of universal knowledge, vision and glory, offer the same song of invocation and adoration. O lord and master, Indra, you are our teacher, protector and provider like the father.

He gives us the grandeur and abundance of wealth, honour and excellence and the competence for higher and higher success. And he loves and accepts the homage and adorations of the celebrant suppliant of divinity. O lord, O visionaries, poets and teachers, protect and promote us with all modes of honour and well being for all time.

The celebrants dedicated to the honour and prosperity of the ruling order place their trust and faith in Indra, the ruler and the law of governance, like travellers who place their foot on the step and ride the chariot to reach their goal.

रायस्कामा वज्रहस्तं सुदक्षिणं पुत्रा न पितरं हुव ॥ ३ ॥

3. Rāyaskāmo vajrahastam sudakṣiṇam putro na pitaram huve.

Dedicated to the honour and prosperity of the human nation, and keen to realise the excellence of life for myself too, I invoke generous Indra, lord ruler of the world, wielder of the thunderbolt of defence and protection in hand as keeper of the law and justice of the order of governance. I invoke him like a child yearning for the father for his generosity.

इम इन्द्राय सुन्विर् सामासा दध्याशिरः ।
तां आ मदाय वज्रहस्त पीतयु हरिभ्यां याह्याक आ ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Ima indrāya sunvire somāso dadhyāśirah.
Tāñ ā madāya vajrahasta pītaye haribhyām yāhyoka ā.*

These somas of the nation's honour and excellence energised by the ferment of inspiration and enthusiasm have been distilled to celebrate the dignity and majesty of the land and the ruler Indra. O lord wielder of the thunderbolt, come to our hall of fame for the joy of a drink of them. Come fast by the chariot drawn by horses of the winds.

श्रवच्छुत्कण इयत् वसूनां नू चि ग मधिषुद गिरः ।
सद्याश्चिद्यः सहस्राणि शता दद् गकिदित्सन्तमा मिनत ॥ ५ ॥

5. Śravac-chrutkarṇa īyate vasūnām nū cinnomardhiṣad girah. Sadyaścid yah sahasrāni śatā dadan-nakir-ditsantam-ā minat.

The lord has a keen ear to listen to the suppliant. He listens, therefore he is approached for the gift of wealth, honour and excellence. May the lord never ignore our prayers, may he, instead, soften and sanctify our supplications. Indeed, instant giver of a hundred thousand gifts of good fortune as he is, no one can withhold him when he extends his hand of generosity.

स वीरा अप्रतिष्कुत् इन्द्रण शूशुव् नृभिः ।

6. *Sa vīro apratiṣkuta indrena śūśuve nr̥bhiḥ.
Yaste gabhīrā savanāni vr̥trahant-sunotyā ca dhāvati.*

He who approaches you, does your behest and performs the serious assignments given by you, O destroyer of evil, he goes forward bold and unshaken, and, exhorted by leading men, rises under the protection of Indra.

भवा वर्षथं मघवन्मधानां यत्सुमजासि शधतः ।

7. Bhavā varūtham maghavan maghonām yat samajāsi śardhataḥ. Vi tvāhatasya vedanām bhajemahyā dūṇāśo bharā gayam.

O lord of power and glory, be the shelter home and all round protector of those who wield, control and rule the wealth and honour of the nation — you who impel and inspire the bold and daring, and humble the defiant. Let us share the knowledge and learn from the painful experience of those who have been punished by you. O lord indestructible, bless our home and give us fulfilment.

सुनातो सामुपाव्न सामुमिन्द्राय वृजिण' । पचता पक्तीरवस

8. *Sunotā somapāvne somam-indrāya vajriṇe.
Pacatā pakṣīravase kṛṇudhvamit pṛṇannit pṛṇate mayah.*

Extract, mature and prepare the nectar of life for the lord, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment and destroyer of evil, who loves the soma spirit of life's beauty and joy. Ripen and perfect the drinks and drugs for health care and protection of life, and create the state of comfort and well being, giving success and fulfilment for those who work for the joy and fulfilment of all in general.

मा स्वधत सामिना द ता मृह कृणुध्वं राय आतुज ।

9. Mā sredhata somino dakṣatā mahe kṛṇudhvam rāya ātuje. Taranīr-ijjayati kṣeti puṣyati na devāsah kavatnave.

Relent not, O makers of soma. Hurt not the lovers of soma. Perfect the nectar for life's grandeur, strengthen the makers for the beauty and glory of life. Work on and on for the growth of life and for the strong defence of life's vitality. The one that runs wins the race, lives in peace as well as provides for peace and security, grows and contributes to growth. The brilliant and generous are not for the lazy, the miser and the selfish.

नकिः सुदासा रथं पर्यासु न रीरमत ।

10. Nakih sudāso ratham paryāsa na rīramat. Indro yasyāvitā yasya maruto gamat sa gomati vraje.

No one can counter turn the chariot of the generous nor stop it for rest or entertainment. The rider whose patron is Indra, destroyer of obstructions, and Maruts, vibrant defenders of life, stops not until he reaches the goal where abides the treasure of his love and ambition.

गमद्वाजं वाजयीन्द्र मत्या यस्य त्वमविता भुवः ।

11. *Gamad vājam vājayann-indra martyo yasya tvam-avitā bhuvah. Asmākam bodhyavitā rathānām-

Indra, lord of light and life, the mortal whose guardian protector you are runs the race and reaches the victory post of enlightenment. O lord of might and fearlessness, take care of us too, enlighten us and be the guardian protector of our chariots and our people.

उदि वस्य रिच्यतं शा धनं न जिग्युषः ।

12. Udinnvasya ricyateň'śo dhanam na jigyusah. Ya indro harivān na dabhanti tam ripo dakṣam dadhāti somini.

High rises the victor's share of excellence as his wealth of life increases when Indra, guardian protector of the brave, vests his love of victory and soma-sublimity with the will and expertise of yajnic living. And then no enemies can ever defeat and destroy him.

मन्त्रमखर्वं सुधितं सुपशस्तं दधात यज्ञियव्वा ।

13. Mantram-akharvam sudhitam supeśasam dadhāta yajñiyevā. Pūrvīscana prasitayas taranti tam ya indre karmaṇā bhuvat.

Offer perfect, well structured and graceful mantric thoughts, adorations and actions to the divinities in yajnic programmes of creativity and development. Then even the oldest bounds of will and passion take the yajaka across the seas who dedicates his actions to the service of Indra.

कस्तमिन्द्र त्वावसुमा मत्या दधषति ।

14. Kastamindra tvāvasumā martyo dadharṣati. Śraddhā it te maghavan pārye divi vājī vājam siṣāsati.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, who can assail that mortal who wholly lives under the shade and shelter of your protection? O lord of the wealth and power of existence, whoever reposes his faith and dynamism in you as the sole saviour and pilot while he is in action receives his share of victory in the light of divinity.

मधानः स्म वृत्रहत्येषु चादय य ददति पिया वसु ।

15. Maghonah sma vrtrahatyeṣu codaya ye dadati priyā vasu. Tava pranītī haryaśva sūribhirviśvā tarema duritā.

O lord commander of world forces, in the battles against darkness, want and evil, inspire those leaders of wealth, honour and power who contribute to world service in the manner dear to you. O ruler of the dynamics of nations, we pray, may we, along with the wise and the fearless, cross over all evils of the world under the guidance of your ethics, morals and policy in matters of universal values.

16. Tavedindrāvamam̄ vasu tvam̄ puṣyasi madhyamam. Satrā viśvasya paramasya rājasī nakiṣṭvā goṣu vṛṇvate.

Indra, you protect, promote and rule over the lower orders of wealth of the world. You promote and rule over the middle order of the world's wealth. And you rule and shine over wealth of the highest order of the world. You are the true and the eternal power. No one can resist you among the lands and lights of the world. Who would not accept you?

त्वं विश्वस्य धनुदा असि श्रुता य ई भवन्त्याजयः ।

17. Tvam viśvasya dhanadā asi śruto ya īm bhavatyājayaḥ. Tavāyam viśvah puruhūta pārthivo 'vasyurnāma bhikṣate.

You are the wealth giver of the world, universally heard and acclaimed, universally invoked in all battles of the world that there are, since the whole humanity on earth in search of protection looks up to you and prays for sustenance and progress.

यदिन्दु यावत्स्वमुतावदहमीशीय । स्तातारुमिद्दिधिषय

18. Yadindra yāvatas-tvametāvad-ahamīśīya. Stotāramid didhiṣeya radāvaso na pāpatvāya rāsiya.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, giver of wealth and excellence, as much as you grant, so much I wish I should control and rule. I would hold it only to support the devotees of divinity and would not spend it away for those who indulge in sin and evil.

शि 'यमिन्महयुत दिवदिव राय आ कुहचिद्विद॑ ।

19. Śikṣeyaminmahayate divedive rāya ā kuhacidvide. Nahi tvadanyanmaghavan na āpyam vasyo asti pitā cana.

Every day I would wish to give wealth and support for the person who seeks to rise for enlightenment wherever he be. O lord of wealth, power and honour, there is none other than you worthy of love and attainment as our own, as father indeed.

तरणिरित्सिषासति वाजं पुरन्ध्या युजा ।

आ व इन्दं पुरुहूतं नम गिरा नुमि तष्टव सुदर्वम् ॥ २० ॥

20. Taranirit siṣāsati vājam purandhyā yujā. Ā va indram puruhūtam name girā nemim taṣṭeva sudrvam.

Only the saviour, a person of dynamic will and action joined in the soul with a controlled and dedicated mind, would share wealth and knowledge with the people and distribute it over the deserving. With words of prayer I bow to Indra, the ruler invoked by you all and draw his attention to you just like the carpenter bending flexible wood round as felly of the wheel. (The lord is flexible too, his heart melts with sympathy for the people.)

न दुष्टुती मत्या' विन्दत् वसु न स्वधन्तं रुयिनशत ।

सुशक्तिरिन्मघवन्तुभ्यं मावत् दुष्णं यत्पाय' दिवि ॥ २१ ॥

21. Na duṣṭutī martyo vindate vasu na sredhantam rayirnaśat. Suśaktirinmaghavan tubhyam māvate deśnam yat pārye divi.

By protest and violence the mortal does not win the wealth of life. Nor does wealth oblige the inactive and malevolent. O lord of honour and excellence, right competence dedicated to Divinity is your gift for a person like me which is good on the day of the cross over.

अभि त्वा शूर नानुमा दुग्धाङ्गव धनवः । इशानमस्य जगतः

22. *Abhi tvā śūra nonumo'dugdhā iva dhenavah.
Īśānam-asya jagataḥ svardṛśam-īśānam-indra

O lord almighty, we adore you and wait for your blessings as lowing cows not yet milked wait for the master. Indra, lord of glory, you are ruler of the moving world and you are ruler of the unmoving world and your vision is bliss.

न त्वावाँ अन्या द्रिव्या न पाथिवा न जाता न जनिष्यत ।

23. *Na tvāvāñ anyo divyo na pārthivo na jāto na

There is none other like you, neither heavenly nor earthly, neither born nor yet to be born. O lord of power and glory, we invoke you and pray for veteran scholars, dynamic scientists and technologists and the light of the divine Word of knowledge.

अभी षुतस्तदा भरन्दु ज्यायः कनीयसः ।

24. *Abhī ṣatastadā bharendra jyāyah kanīyasah.
Purūvasurhi maghavant-sanādasi bharebhare ca

Indra, lord of honour, power and excellence, you are the eternal lord of universal wealth and shelter home of all existence, invoked and worshipped in all challenging situations. Pray bring us the knowledge and experience of that essence of ultimate reality which is smaller than the smallest and greater than the greatest.

परा णुदस्व मधव_मित्रान्त्सुवदा ना वसू कृधि ।

25. Parā nudasva maghavann-amitrānt-suvedā no vasū kṛdhī. Asmākam bodhyavitā mahādhane bhavā vrdhah sakhiṇām.

Lord of wealth, honour, power and excellence, treasure home of glory and grandeur, throw off the enemies far away. Give us the wealth of life. Give us the knowledge and awakening for good living. Be our saviour and protector in the strife of existence which is otherwise too great for us. Be the promoter of all friendly forces.

26. Indra kratum na ā bhara pitā putrebhyo yathā. Śikṣā ño asmin puruhūta yāmani jīvā jyotiraśī-mahi.

Bring us the divine vision, will and intelligence as father does for his children. O lord universally invoked and worshipped, instruct us as a teacher at this present time so that we, ordinary souls, may have the new light of life and living experience of Divinity.

मा ना अज्ञाता वृजना दुराध्याऽमाशिवासा अवे कमुः ।

27. Mā no ajñātā vṛjanā durādhyo māśivāso ava kramuh. Tvayā vayam pravataḥ śāsvatīrapo 'ti śūra tarāmasi.

O lord almighty beyond fear, let not the ignorant and unknown, crooked intriguers, evil designers, and malevolent opponents in ambush attack us on way to you. May we, guided, directed and protected by you, cross the universal streams of life rushing down the slopes of time.

Mandala 7/Sukta 33

Indra, Vasishtha Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni & Vasishtha Putrah Rshis

शिवत्यज्ज्ञ' मा ददि प्राणतस्कपदा धियंजिन्वास' अभि हि प्रमन्दुः। उच्चिष्ठैन्वाच् परि ब्रह्मिषा नृ । मै दूरादवित्तव् वसिष्ठाः ॥ १ ॥

1. Śvityañco mā dakṣinatas-kapardā dhiyamjin-vāso abhi hi pramanduḥ. Uttiṣṭhan voce pari barhiṣo nṛn na me dūrādavitave vasiṣṭhāḥ.

Celibate disciples of the first order of scholars wearing locks of hair on the right side, settled for studies to collect knowledge for intellectual advancement come from far to study under my care and give me delight. I arise from my seat of grass, speak to them and speak of them as leading lights of the future.

दूरादिन्दमनय् ग सुतनं तिरा वशन्तमति पान्तमुगम ।
पाशद्युम्नस्य वायुतस्य सामात्सुतादिन्द् । वृणीता वसिष्ठान् ॥ २ ॥

2. Dūrād-indram-anayannā sutena tiro vaiśantamati pāntam-ugram. Pāśadyumnasya vāyatasya somāt sutādindro'vr̥ṇītā vasiṣṭhān.

From far off and in view of their achievement in preference to others', they invite and bring over Indra, pioneer of knowledge and power and strong supporter of people settled in peace, and Indra agrees and accepts the invitation of the aspiring scholars in recognition of the progress and prosperity of the producers of wealth, scholarship of the learned and the governance and justice of the organisers.

(The mantra points to the free movement of scholars and specialists across the globe for advancement of knowledge and culture on the international level.)

एव तु कं सिन्धुमभिस्ततारः व तु कं भद्रमभिजघान । एव तु
कं दाशराज्ञ सुदासं पावदिन्दा ब्रह्मणा वा वसिष्ठाः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Evannu kam sindhumebhistatārevennu kam bhedamebhirjaghāna. Evennu kam dāśarājñē sudāsam prāvadindro brahmaṇā vo vasiṣṭhāḥ.

This way, for sure, Indra, leader of knowledge and power, crosses with ease any river of difficulty by virtue of these scholars. This way too he easily overcomes difference, division and disunity. This way, again, O scholars and leaders settled at peace, by your vision, wisdom and mantric formulae, he defends and promotes generous rules for the advancement of good government and administration.

जुष्टीं नरा ब्रह्मणा वः पितृणाम् मव्ययं न किलो रिषाथ ।

4. Juṣṭī naro brahmaṇā vah pitṛṇāmakṣam-avyayam na kilā riṣātha. Yacchakvarīṣu bṛhatā ravenendre śuṣmamadadhātā vasiṣṭhāḥ.

O leading lights of the nation, by your vision, wisdom and active homage, the tradition of the ancients is preserved and happily advanced. Therefore, never for any reason, obstruct the relentless wheel of the nation and never disturb the inviolable equilibrium of forces which, O leading lovers of peace, by your reverberating words and heroic action in the great battles of humanity, you vested in the nation and its governance as the centre of stability.

उद्यामिवनृष्णज' नाथितासा दीधयुदाशराज् वृतासः ।

The leading lights of the nation, selected and duly appointed, thirsting to cross over the hurdles of life, shine and glorify the generous ruler like the sun for the advancement of the liberal order for the people. Let Indra, enlightened ruler, listen to the leading lights and scholars and create vast and brilliant channels and possibilities for the defence and developmental forces of the nation.

6. Danḍā ived go-ajanāsa āsan paricchinnā bharatā arbhakāsaḥ. Abhavacca pura-etā vasiṣṭha ādit ṛtsūnām viśo aprathanta.

Let the pioneers and bearers of the burdens of social order be straight and strong like the sceptre of authority, eloquent and progressive in language, education and culture, definite and judicious in law and policy and youthful in energy. Let the leader of these, wise and stable in mind, be ever first and foremost in the advance specially of the people and of the defence and development forces.

त्रयः कृणवन्ति भुवनेषु रत्स्तिस्वः पुजा आया ज्यातिरगाः ।

7. Trayah kṛṇvanti bhuvaneṣu retastisrah prajā āryā jytiagrāḥ. Trayo gharmāsa uṣasam sacante sarvāñ it tāñ anu vidurvasiṣṭhāḥ.

Three vital fires, of earth, sky and the sun, generate life energy in world regions and life forms. Three are the people's classes dynamic and enlightened. Three vital fires, heat, light and electricity, serve the dawn, and the enlightened scholars know all of them.

सूर्यस्यव वथा ज्यातिरघां समुद्रस्यव महिमा गभीरः ।

8. Suryasyeva vakṣatho jyotiresāṁ samudrasyeva mahāmā gabhīraḥ. Vātasyeva prajavo nānyena stomo vasiṣṭhā anvetave vah.

Let the rise of these leading lights be like the splendour of the sun, their grandeur as profound as the depth of the sea, their drive like the wind, and let their organisation and its magnitude be impossible for anyone else to follow or rival.

त इ_प्यं हृदयस्य पकुतः सुहस्त्रवल्शम्_भि सं चरन्ति ।

9. Ta inninyam hrdayasya praketaih sahasravalśamabhi sam cananti. Yamaṇa tataṁ paridhim vayanto 'psarasa upa sedurvasiṣṭhāḥ.

Leading scholars and sages by the reflections of divine light of their heart sojourn over the mystery of the thousand branched tree of existence, going round and round across, and by the bounds of this web of life woven by the cosmic law giver and by their imagination rise up to the wonders of heaven in the clouds.

विद्युता ज्यातिः परि संजिहानं मि_त्रावरुणा यदपश्यतां त्वा ।

10. Vidyuto jyotiḥ pari saṃjihānam mitrāvaraṇā yadapaśyatām tvā. Tat te janmotaikam vasiṣṭhā-'gastyo yat tvā viśa ājabhāra.

O holy sage of knowledge, peace and power, sun and moon, heat and air, virility and fertility, pranic energies, receive and bear you when, as light of life you leave your sojourn in nature. That is one birth of yours. Then Agastya, the teacher scholar free from sin and stain brings you back to the community of people (as a complete and finished human being, i.e., dvija).

11. Utāsi maitrāvaraṇo vasiṣṭhorvaśyā brahman manaso'dhi jātah. Drapsam̄ skannam̄ brahmaṇā daivyena viṣve devāḥ puṣkare tvādadanta.

Vasishttha, sage and scholar, living soul, you are a child of sun and moon, born of the heart of Mother Nature nurtured by mother knowledge. Like a drop of distilled soma, all divine powers of the world nourish you in the lotus cradle on celestial wealth of food for vitality and light for knowledge.

12. Sa praketa ubhayasya pravidvān tsahasradāna uta vā sadānah. Yamena tatam̄ paridhiṁ vayiṣya-nnapsarasah pari jajñe vasiṣṭhah.

Vasishttha, man of enlightenment, scholar of both heaven and earth, blest with a thousand gifts, and giver of a thousand gifts traverses the very bounds of the web of life woven by the mover and law giver of the world and rises over the winds and clouds.

Inspired teachers and scholars risen to eminence over yajnic sessions of teaching relentlessly feed the disciples with gifts of vital knowledge, and from that rises the faithful scholar and sage whom they call Vasishtha, brilliant seer and visionary.

14. *Ukthabhr̄tam sāmabhr̄tam bibharti grāvāṇam

O men of noble mind and heart, the brilliant sage who bears the knowledge of Rgveda and Samaveda and who commands the secrets of yajna relating to the clouds and mountains for rain, and who proclaims the knowledge to dispel the darkness of ignorance, comes to you. Receive him, and welcome him for your good.

May divine intelligence of pure and brilliant order come to us like the dawn riding a wonderfully crafted chariot drawn by flying horses.

2. Viduh pṛthivyā divo janitram śṛṇvantyāpo adha kṣarantīḥ.

Those who listen to words of knowledge as earth receives the showers of rain know the cause and creator of heaven and earth.

आपश्चिदस्मि पिन्वन्त पृथ्वीवृत्रषु शूरा मंसन्त उगाः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Āpaścidasmai pinvanta prthvīrvṛtresaḥ śūrā mānsanta ugrāḥ.

The showers of rain nourish the earth and her progeny for this Indra, social order of humanity, and in the battles of life the blazing brave bow down in honour to it.

आ धूष्वस्मि दध्याताश्वानिन्दा न वज्री हिरण्यबाहुः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Ā dhūrṣvasmai dadhātāśvānindro na vajrī hiranyabāhuḥ.

अभि प स्थाताहव यज्ञं यातव पत्मना हिनात ॥ ५ ॥

5. Abhi prasthātāheva yajñam yāteva patman tmanā hinota.

6. Tmanā samatsu hinota yajñam dadhāta ketum janāya vīram.

Advance the yajna in the battles of life conscientiously and keep the flag of victory flying high in the service of humanity.

7. *Uadasya śuṣmād bhānurnārta bibharti bhāram

And the sun rises by its own essential power and bears the burden of the earth, so does the earth bear the burden of her children, so let us be like the sun and the earth.

ह्वयामि दुवाँ अयातुरग्ने साध॑ तृतन् धियं दधामि ॥ ८ ॥

8. *Hvayāmi devān ayāturgne sādhannṛtena dhiyam

Agni, lord of light and life, I invoke the divinities of nature and humanity, living life by the practice of truth and eternal law, and I acquire the wisdom of life and action from the teacher dedicated to peace and non-violence.

अभि व' दुवीं धियं दधिध्वं प व' दवत्रा वाचं कृणु-

10. Ā caṣṭa āsām pātho nadīnām varuṇa ugrah sahasracakṣāḥ.

Just as the resplendent sun, lord of a thousand eyes, watches and reveals the course of the streams of water, so does the brilliant sage of the Word and wisdom commanding a thousand streams of speech oversee the flow of holy speech and communication.

राजा राष्ट्रानां पश 'नदीनामनुत्तमस्म त्रं विश्वायु ॥ ११ ॥

11. Rājā rāṣṭrānāṁ peśo nadīnām-anuttam-asmai kṣatram viśvāyū.

If the ruler of nations, Varuna, of a thousand eyes, be of the form of flowing streams, dynamic and fluent in speech, policy and action, his order of governance would be better than the best, i.e., permanent, of universal sway over the world.

अविष्टा अस्मान्विश्वासु वि वद्युं कृणात् शंसं

12. Aviṣṭo asmān viśvāsu vikṣvadyum kṛṇota śaṁsam ninitsoh.

Give us safety and security among people of the world, black out the envy and malignity of scandal mongers, and turn criticism into appreciation.

व्यतु द्विद्युद द्विषामश वा युयात् विष्वगपस्तुनूनाम ॥ १३ ॥

13. Vyetu didyud dviṣāmaśevā yuyota visvagr-apastanūnām.

Let the flaming arrow and pernicious ill will of the jealous be thrown off far away. Eliminate all the ailments, ill health and infirmities of our body.

अवी ग अग्निहव्या तम भिः पष्ठ ' अस्मा अधायि स्तामः ॥ १४ ॥

14. Avīnno agnir-havyā-namobhiḥ preṣṭho asmā adhāyi stomah.

May Agni, light of life, dearest ruler, consume and eliminate negativities, protect and preserve us with good food and health care, and accept our song of praise and prayer in appreciation.

सूजूदवभिरपां नपातं सखायं कृध्वं शिवा न' अस्तु ॥ १५ ॥

15. Sajūr-devebhir-apāṁ napātam sakhāyam kṛdhvam śivo no astu.

Be friends with Agni, fire and the sun, which creates the indestructible waters of space and the firmament, along with other nature's divinities, so that there may be happiness and well being in our life.

अञ्जामुकथरहि गृणीष बुध्न नुदीनां रजःसु षीदन् ॥ १६ ॥

16. Abjāmukthairahim gṛṇīṣe budhne nadīnāṁ rajaḥsu ṣidan.

With songs of praise adore the sun which creates the cloud born of waters and which, while abiding in high space, also abides in every particle of river waters.

मा ना हिर्बुध्न्य' रिष धान्मा यज्ञा अस्य स्त्रिधदृतायाः ॥ १७ ॥

17. Mā no'hirbudhnyo riṣe dhānmā yajño asya sri-dhadṛtāyoh.

May the yajnic governance and administration of this ruler dedicated to truth and eternal law never rule us with the motive of hurt and exploitation. So may also the cloud in the firmament never hurt us by excess or drought of rain.

उत न एषु नृषु श्रव' धुः पराय यन्तु शधन्ता अयः ॥ १८ ॥

18. Uta na eṣu nṛṣu śravo dhuh pra rāye yantu śardhanto aryah.

And may the ruler and governors generate and consolidate food, sustenance and prosperity among these noble people and move forward on way to honour and excellence, strengthening the devoted faithfuls and overcoming the envious rivals and hostile forces of opposition.

तपन्ति शत्रुं स्वर्णं भूमा महासेनासा अमभिरषाम ॥ १९ ॥

19. Tapanti śatruṁ svarṇa bhūmā mahāsenāso amebhireṣām.

Leaders and commanders of mighty forces, they mortify and purge or defeat and destroy the enemies by these forces. Let us then be happy as in heaven on earth.

आयः पत्नीगमन्त्यच्छा त्वष्टा सुपाणिदधातु वीरान् ॥ २० ॥

20. Āyannah patnīr-gamantyacchā tvastā supāñir-dadhātu vīrān.

And when wives come and meet us, may Tvashta, lord destroyer of suffering and dexterous maker of graceful forms, bless us with brave and handsome children.

पति नः स्तामं त्वष्टा जुषत् स्यादस्म अरमतिवसूयुः ॥ २१ ॥

21. Prati nah stomam tvastā juṣeta syādasme arama-tirvasūyuh.

May the heaven and earth, generous and judicious givers of gifts, overflowing with liquid wealth and energy, listen to our prayer and give us peace and comfort in a settled state of life. May Tvashta, creator and maker of forms, with all modes of protection and promotion be our shelter home, and may he, generous giver of the best things of life, bring us wealth, honour and excellence.

That wealth, honour and excellence of ours, the clouds and mountains, the waters, the liberal givers, the herbs, the solar region, the dear motherly earth with her trees and forests and both heaven and earth protect, preserve and promote for us all round.

May the wide earth and heaven be kind and favourable to us and procure for us the wealth, honour and excellence of life we pray for. May the resplendent sun, the ocean, the friendly powers of the ruling lord Indra, and all the winds of space and vibrant heroes of the world who command both challenging force and fortitude be favourable so that we may be able to hold and manage the wealth, honour and excellence of life which the divinities of nature and humanity have given us.

May Indra, ruling lord of the world, Varuna, the ocean and the world's powers of judgement and discrimination, Mitra, the sun and our brilliant friends, Agni, cosmic fire and the leaders, Apah, spatial waters and our people of holy action, and the herbs and trees of the earth, all brilliant and inspiring, be favourable and generous. May we, we pray, live close under the protection of the best of human world and nature. O divine powers of nature and humanity, protect, preserve and promote us with all good fortune and well being of life all round, all ways, all time.

Mandala 7/Sukta 36

Vishvedevah Devataḥ, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

Let the knowledge of existence arise from the divine centre of universal truth : the sun radiates light with its rays and illuminates the earths, the wide earth moves on with her peaks of mountains, and fire rises and blazes over the vedi, symbol of cosmic yajna.

O Mitra and Varuna, sun and cosmic energy and intelligence, both givers of life energy to the living world, I offer this new song of adoration as homage to you. One of you, Varuna, is irresistible, all pervasive and coexistent with every stage of life's evolution, and the other, Mitra, the sun, as a friend enjoins humanity to the life of activity proclaiming its rise as direct presence.

3. Ā vātasya dhrajato ranta ityā apīpayanta dhenavo na sūdāḥ. Maho devah sadane jāyamāno'-cikradad vṛṣabhah sasminnūdhan.

The currents of sportive wind play around like abundant cows yielding milk, and the mighty cloud laden with vapour, born of the great regions of heaven, roars in its house of mid skies.

Indra, all powerful ruler of the world, I pray, let me come to have the benefit of the power and presence of Aryama, chief power of justice, holy in action, who, with his order and invitation deploys the noble and efficient forces that run the chariot of your social order, who controls and punishes the violent deeds and corrects the violent attitudes of the negative and destructive forces.

In their own house of truth, justice and yajna, devotees with reverence and homage pray for life energy and the friendship and company of this Rudra, destroyer of suffering and injustice, and giver of pranic energy. Loved and adored by the people, he releases for them nourishment and energy in abundance. This cherished homage and adoration is offered to Rudra.

Sarasvati, the eternal stream of life, of cosmic waters, and of speech and sacred knowledge, the seventh over the streams flowing through five senses and the mind, through five elements and the stuff of mind and intelligence, and through the poetic streams of the Veda, all these streams which flow abundantly, exuberant, magnificent, roaring with splendour, all of them ever growing and rising with their own flood of water: may all these continue to flow together gloriously for us.

May the eternal mother stream of light and knowledge continuously flow for us and never forsake us. O Maruts, vibrant forces of divinity in nature and humanity, may this song of celebration reach you well and gracefully. And so may it reach Vishnu, protector of the initiated dedicated to Dharma, who protects us with all methods of protection and advancement. We pray bring us life energy and a full span of good health and age for the celebrant and the people. Lord and master of wealth, you take delight in charity and love to give and share, whether the giving and distribution involves a large or a small amount. Both your hands are full of plenty, your voice of truth from the heart overflows with generosity and nothing ever restrains your hands from giving.

Indra, enlightened and generous ruler and commander of wealth, innate honour and wisdom, manager of experts and manpower in general, you are good, versatile and efficient in function like food, energy, speed and success itself, you come home to people like the sun on the day's completion. We pray let us be beneficiaries of your grace, generous like yourself, creator of food and wealth in the spirit of piety and well established in charity.

Indra, lord commander of manpower, speed and success, you are the giver of overflowing wealth to the generous man of charity. O lord, we pray, when would you bless us with that wealth, honour and excellence, that practical intelligence and expertise, and that security and protection by which you prevail over the world of nature and humanity.

The lord whom the divine earth glorifies from the depth of her being, to whom the seasons of the year abundant with food and flowers look up and resort, to whom the friend and brother in bond with three worlds and humanities attains, to that lord and spirit of unending age without his own essential form comprehended in matter, thought or time, the mortals look up and pray.

O Vishvedevas, divines of the world, pray you protect and promote us with all modes of peace and security for all time.

Let us rise and attain to that golden glory of divinity which the self-refulgent Savita radiates — Savita, lord of splendour and treasure-hold of universal wealth who truly rules and gives the jewel glories of existence. The lord alone is to be worshipped by humanity.

O Savita, lord creator of the world and giver of light with golden hands of infinite generosity, arise and shine at the dawn of the light of truth in the heart and listen to the prayer of this soul in mortal body. You create the wide wide earth of golden beauty and you generate the food for mortals for the sake of living humanity on earth.

May Savita, lord resplendent and generous, be praised and celebrated, the lord whom all learned saints and sages worship and adore. May he, worthy of homage and obedience, accept our songs of celebration and prayer and protect and promote the learned brave with all modes of protection and advancement.

The holy mother, divine earth and indestructible nature, all adore lord Savita, enjoying and celebrating the generous lord's creation. So also do brilliant rulers, men of choice merit, friends of life and humanity, and the lord of justice and dispensation, Varuna, all enjoying and appreciating the lord's creation, adore and worship him.

We are the supplicants all together who seek and pray for the grace and gifts of generous heaven and earth. May the lord creator, original cause of the universe all pervasive in space, listen, and may the divine mother protector and giver of vision protect us with all those virtues which converge and focus on a single thought, voice and decisive action.

Let the ruler and protector of the people know and believe that whatever the jewel wealth for life he receives from Savita, self-refulgent lord giver of light and life, all that is for the people, for all of us, so that whatever honour and prosperity the man of passion and ambition invokes and achieves, the same after all, the man of peace and dispassion who receives in consequence.

Let the war-like leaders of knowledge, arms and creativity, brilliant, balanced and dedicated to divine service in action, be for our peace and prosperity in the battles of life, crushing the surreptitious, thievish and demoniac forces of society and removing all ill health and evils from us.

O immortal heroes commanding knowledge, strength of arms and production in matters of eternal truth and law and the science of yajna, protect and promote us at every stage in the battles of life. Drink of the honey sweets of this celebration of the organised system of life, celebrate joyously and, self-fulfilled here, go forward by the paths of divines.

1. Ūrdhvo agnih sumatiṁ vasvo aśret praṭīcī jūrnir-devatātimeti. Bhejāte adri rathyeva panthāmṛtaṁ hotā na iṣito yajāti.

The fire on high radiates light inspiring pleasure and enlightenment. The dawn as veteran lady of the house goes forward to offer homage to the divinities. The yajamana and his wife together move forward as by chariot on way to yajna to adore the lord, and the priest offers to join the yajna like one inspired.

2. Pra vāvṛje suprayā barhireśāmā viśpatīva bīriṭa iyāte. Viśāmaktorusasah pūrvahūtau vāyuh pūṣā svastaye niyutvān.

The yajna of these people proceeds, richly provided with holy materials. Vayu and Pusha, wind and life-giving sun, like guardian rulers and protectors of the people, move across the skies as if riding a chariot drawn by horses at the sacred call of night and dawn to yajna early for the good of humanity.

3. Jmayā atra vasavo ranta devā urāvantarike marjayanta śubhrāḥ. Arvāk patha urūjrayaḥ kṛṇudhvam śrotā dūtasya jagmuṣo no asya.

Let the Vasus, life giving energies of nature, and enlightened people settled at peace in learning, abound and rejoice here on earth. Let radiant purities of divine fulgence from yajna rise to the vast sky and purify the atmosphere. Let divine energies of vast extension receive and respond to this yajnic code of our participation in nature's dynamics and converge on this way to our earth.

All those divinities of the world, adorable and conjoined in nature's dynamics of cosmic yajna, are catalytic agents of protection and promotion keenly concentrative toward life's evolution and advancement. O generous yajamana, O bright fire, keen and passionate as they are in yajna, join them in yajna right away: join Bhaga, universal treasure of wealth, honour and excellence, Nasatya, constant complementarities of nature and natural law, and Purandhi, keeper and protector of habitations and institutions.

O sage and scholar, bring us the knowledge and the language of the knowledge of heaven and earth. Bring us the gifts of Mitra, sun and pranic energy, Varuna, water and air, Indra, electric energy, and Agni, fire and light, of Aryaman, cosmic gravitation, Aditi, nature's constancy, Vishnu, omnipresent cosmic intelligence, so that Sarasvati, corresponding language of their expression may grow and children of the earth may rejoice with enlightenment.

6. Rare havyam matibhir-yajñiyānām nakṣat kāmaṁ martyānām-asinvan. Dhātā rayim-avidasyam sadāsām sakṣīmahi yujyebhirnu devaiḥ.

Let us offer oblations of holy materials to Agni with the thoughts and words of adorable sages so that the desires of mortals bound in love may be fulfilled. May the lord ruler of the world bring us imperishable wealth of universal value, and may we join with brilliant people worthy of association.

Thus heaven and earth are adored and celebrated by brilliant sages. May Varuna, Mitra and Agni, lords of truth and law, justice, love and light, grant us gifts of exemplary beauty, bliss and brilliance. O Vishvedevas, pray always protect and promote us with all modes of peace, progress and all round well being.

Mandala 7/Sukta 40

1. O śrūṣṭirvidathyā sametu prati stomam dadhī-mahi turāñām. Yadadya devaḥ savitā suvāti syāmāsyā ratnino vibhāge.

Let instant perception and active response worthy of our yajnic social system come to us in peace for every group and class of people, vibrant and really fast, and let us internalise it in every detail so that whatever the resplendent creator and ruler, Savita, inspires and creates today, right now we may share and, in participation together, be beneficiaries of this lord's jewel gifts of life.

2. Mitrastanno varuno rodasi ca dyubhaktamindro aryamā dadātu. Dideṣtu devyaditī rekño vāyuśca yanniyuvaite bhagaśca.

May Mitra, lord dear as friend, Varuna, oceans of earth and space, the heaven and the earth and sky, Indra, lord ruler of energy, power and excellence, and Aryama, lord of justice, give us heavenly gifts of divinity. And may Aditi, imperishable generous Mother Nature, Vayu, the wind, and Bhaga, lord of power and glory, bestow upon us what they produce, promote and preserve for us.

3. *Sedugro astu marutah sa śuṣmī yam martyam

Surely that person would be strong and brilliant whom the Maruts, great commanders of the power of fire, wind and water, protect and promote. Indeed, none would be able to counter his power and prosperity whom Agni, brilliant leader of divinities, and Sarasvati, spirit of knowledge and speech, inspire, energise and motivate.

And this leader of the yajnic social order of truth and dynamism of society and supportive ruling powers, judicious Varuna, friendly Mitra, far seeing guiding force Aryama, and self-directive brilliant and indestructible spirit and policy, Aditi, all adorable powers faithfully invoked and invited, may, we pray, guide and direct our actions and purge us of evil, sin and crime without hurt or violence.

Of this generous, self-refulgent, creative and omnipresent lord Vishnu, all divinities and varieties of existence are extensive manifestations like branches of a tree, in this well sustained system of the universe by virtue of the homage they offer and the sustenance they receive. Rudra, lord sustainer of the good and scourge of evil, alone knows the mighty majesty I adore, and I pray may the Ashvins, sun and moon and twin divine complementarities of nature's energy, come by the paths of divine bounties and bless us.

O Pushan, refulgent lord giver of health and sustained growth, worthy of attainment as you are, pray sustain me here and sustain all that what Mother Nature and divine speech and generous givers of society give us. May the universal givers of peace and well being protect and promote us. May the winds blowing all round for all alike bring us showers of rain and bliss.

Thus are the heaven and earth adored and celebrated by sages of enlightenment settled at peace in divine bliss. May Varuna, lord of justice and universal choice, Mitra, lord of universal love and light, and Agni, lord of leadership and enlightenment, all sustainers of truth and law, shower us with exemplary gifts of beauty, bliss and enlightenment for maintenance of piety. O Vishvedevas, divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all modes and means of progress and well being for all time.

5. Imam no agne adhvaram juṣasva marutsvindre yaśasam kṛdhī nah. Ā naktā barhiḥ sadatāmuṣāsośantā mitrāvaraṇā yajeha.

Agni, venerable and brilliant guest of the house, accept and enjoy this yajnic hospitality of ours for the sake of the people and our social order and thereby enhance our honour and virtue. For the night and day, grace the yajnic seat and join the people who respect you, for the advancement of love, friendship and sense of justice in society.

6. Evāgnim sahasyam vasiṣṭho rāyaskāmo viśvapsnyasya staut. Iṣam rayim paprathad vājamasme yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā nah.

Thus does Vasishtha, the brilliant sage settled at peace in love with the pursuit of life's wealth and excellence, adore Agni, omnipresent inspirer of life forms with fire and passion alongwith moral stability and spiritual constancy, Agni that creates, expands and gives us food and energy, wealth and honour, and speed, success and progress in social and cultural life. O divinities, protect and promote us with all round good fortune all time.

Vishvedevah Devataḥ, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

प व' यज्ञसु दव्यन्तं अचन्द्रावा नम भिः पृथिवी इषध्य । viṣvagiyanti vanino na sākhāḥ.*

In your yajnas of science and research, let vibrant scholars dedicated to the pursuit of divinity study heaven and earth with reverence and homage for self fulfilment so that their exceptional adorations of universal knowledge rise and spread all round like branches of the universal tree.

प यज्ञ एतु हत्वा न समिरुद्धच्छध्वं समनसा घृताचीः ।

Let the yajna expand and rise like a tempestuous flying horse, and you, altogether of one mind, fill the ladle full, raise it and offer the oblation into the yajna of love, peace and non-violence to cover the sky with fragrance. Let the bright and blissful flames rise high to the divinities.

gne mā no devatātā mṛdhaskah.*

Just as children in the mother's lap rest blissfully, so let the conductors and organisers of yajna, all noble and brilliant souls, rise and reach the heights of skies. And then let universality of values adorn and sanctify our yajnic policy of governance and administration so that, O lord of light, fire and power, Agni, no one may violate us in our divine programme of development and progress.

And let those divinities of nature committed in love and accord with you, all of them abundant and adorable, harbingers of rain and revelations of nature's truth, come and bless you. O people of the land, thus may the first and highest of the wealth of existence come to you, and thus may you abide, all with one mind, in your common programme and yajnic commitment.

Thus O lord of light, fire, power and constancy, Agni, bless us along with all peoples of the earth so that, O lord of challenge, patience and fortitude, committed as one with you and blest with wealth, honour and excellence, we may live happy and abide healthy and unhurt in the land and her yajnic order. O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us all round with all good fortune for all time.

Mantrawise Devatah, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

दृधिकां वः पथमश्विनाषसमग्निं समिद्धं भगमूतय हुव ।
इन्द्रं विष्णुं पूषणं ब्रह्मणस्पतिमादित्यान्द्यावापृथिवी अपः

1. Dadhikrām vah pratham-aśvinosasam-agnim samiddham bhagamūtaye huve. Indram viṣnum pūṣanam brahmaṇaspatim-ādityān dyāvāprthivī apah svah.

For your protection and progress, I invoke and adore Dadhikra, original divine energy which moves, sustains and energises all movers and sustainers of existential forms, Ashvins, the sun and moon, the dawn, the burning fire, and Bhaga, honour and glory of life, Indra, electrical energy, Vishnu, cosmic wind energy, Pushan, cosmic vitality and nourishment, Brahmanaspati, cosmic Soul, Adityas, Zodiacs of the sun, heaven and earth, the cosmic waters, and eternal happiness and well being.

दधिकामु नमसा बाधयन्त उदीरणा यज्ञमुपप्यन्तः । इवं

2. Dadhikrāmu namasā bodhayanta udīrānā yajñam-upaprayantah. Ilām devīm barhiṣi sādayanto'śvinā viprā suhavā huvema.

Awakening cosmic motive energy with reverence and homage, rising and moving to the yajna with full knowledge, sanctifying the holy grass on the vedi with holy speech, we invoke and invite the ready and instant moving Ashvins like the sagely teacher and the preacher to guide and conduct our yajnic business of life.

दधिकावाणं बुबुधाना अग्निमुपं ब्रुव उषसं सूर्यं गाम । ब्रजं

3. Dadhikrāvāṇam bubudhāno agnimupa bruva uṣasam sūryam gām. Bradhnām māṁścatorvaraṇasya babhrum te viśvāsmad duritā yāvayantu.

Knowing full well the all-motive cosmic energy, I specifically speak of fire power, and I celebrate the dawn, the sun and the earth, and I speak of the great integrative and sustaining power of the cosmic oceans of waters, and I pray that these natural energies may ward off all evils and ailments away from us.

4. Dadhikrāvā prathamo vājyarvā'gre rathānāṁ bhavati prajānan. Saṁvidāna uṣasā sūryenā-''dityebhir-vasubhir-aṅgirobhīḥ.

That cosmic energy is the primary intelligent dynamic force which moves at the fastest velocity, and that energy is basically the first motive and transportive power of everything in motion, like a horse in front of a chariot, whether it is in relation to the dawn or the sun or motion of the sun in orbit through the Zodiacs or the abodes of life such as earth or the pranic energy forms of nature and life.

5. Ā no dadhikrāḥ pathyāmanaktvṛtasya panthā- manvetavā u. Śṛṇotu no daivyam śardho agnih śṛṇvantu viśve mahiṣā amūrāḥ.

May the cosmic forms of energy and may the supreme mover of cosmic energy adorn, illuminate and sanctify our path and our movement over the path of truth and eternal law so that we may safely tread the holy paths of living. May Agni, lord omniscient, listen to our prayer and be favourable to our brilliance and divine gift of strength and power. May the mighty sages of the world listen to us and favour us with gifts of wisdom.

1. Ā devo yātu savitā suratno'ntarikṣaprā vahamāno aśvaiḥ. Haste dadhāno naryā purūṇi niveśayañca prasuvañca bhūma.

May the self-refulgent Savita, giver of light and life, come and bless, bearing jewels of life, radiating through the sky, carried by light rays, bearing in hands manifold treasures for humanity, suffusing and fertilising the earth with life and vitality. We pray we too may be brilliant and generous like the sun.

2. Udasya bāhū śithirā br̄hantā hiraṇyayā divo antāṁ anastām. Nūnam so asya mahimā panīṣṭa sūraścidasmā anu dādapasyām.

Mighty are his hands and arms, vast and extensive, golden generous, reaching unto the bounds of heaven. Truly that grandeur of his is adorable. May the brave resplendent sun inspire us with will and passion for initiative and action.

May that resplendent creator and inspirer Savita, mighty and friendly, lord and master of wealth, radiating his wide expansive glory, provide vital food and energy for the mortals.

4. Imā girah savitāram sujihvam pūrnagabhaṣtim-īlate supāṇim. Citram vayo bṛhadasme dadhātu yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā nah.

These celebrant voices adore and glorify Savita, life giver and inspirer, bright and benedictive of light and flame, generous of hands full of blessings. May the lord bear and bring us universal health and life full of wonderful wealth and value. O lord Savita, O brilliancies of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes of good fortune and well being for all time.

1. Imā rudrāya sthiradhanvane girah kṣipreṣave devāya svadhāvne. Aṣalhāya sahamānāya vedhase tigmāyudhāya bharatā śṛṇotu nah.

Offer these words of adoration and prayer to Rudra, brilliant destroyer of evil and injustice, wielder of the unshakable bow, shooting flying arrows of lightning speed. He bears his own essential power and sense of justice, irresistible is he, unconquerable, a challenger with unfailing fortitude, all knowing and equipped with blazing arms and armour. May the lord listen to us and accept our call.

2. Sa hi kṣayena kṣamyasya janmanah sāmrājyena divyasya cetati. Avannavantīrupa no duraścarā-namīvo rudra jāsu no bhava.

He is known by his own divine refulgence and, by the same exceptional brilliance and by close proximity of his presence and residence among the peace loving people of his blessed dominion, he proclaims himself and enlightens the people while he is perceived and glorified by them. O Rudra, protecting, sustaining and promoting our defence forces, be at the doors of our settlements by your presence and power among our people, and ever be giver of freedom from ailments and evil.

The blaze of your lightning power released from heaven prevails over earth which may, we pray, spare us and not uproot us. O lord of refreshing winds, thousands are your rejuvenations and medicaments. Pray strike not upon our children and grand children, refresh, nourish and strengthen them to full maturity.

O lord of justice, punishment and good health, strike us not, forsake us not to alienation. Let us not fall into the snares of your anger. Be with us on the Vedi over earth and spaces for the joyous celebration of life. O lord ruler and physician of health, protect and promote us with all good fortunes of well being for all time.

O cosmic waters, seers and sages in pursuit of divinity, we love and yearn for that pure, divine, delicious and honey sweet primordial thrill of the ecstasy drink of yours which you distilled from the Cosmic Word, original nature and the earth for the taste of Indra, the human soul, at the dawn of creation.

That sweetest of honey thrill of joyous ecstasy of existence in which Indra rejoices with the wealth, honours and excellences of life may, we pray, the holy fire, infallible extension of cosmic waters, protect and promote. That same thrill and ecstasy, we pray, may we too in our pursuit of divine joy attain here and now.

3. Śatapavitrāḥ svadhayā madantīr-devīr-devā-nāmapi yanti pāthah. Tā indrasya na minanti vratāni sindhubhyo havyam ghṛtavaj-juhota.

The holy and ecstatic waters, hundred ways pure and flowing with their innate inspiring vitality, move on and converge to the divinities, centre yajna of the cosmos. They do not violate the divine laws of Indra, lord of existence. O men and women, offer oblations with ghrta for augmenting the rivers and the seas.

The vapours and waters which the sun expands with its rays in space, the showers of rain for which Indra, cosmic electricity, breaks the clouds of vapour to fall and flow, and the currents of water which dig out the river beds on earth, may all those oceans, seas and rivers bear and bring us treasurefuls of choice food, energy and wealth to sustain and support us. O cosmic waters, sun and showers, rivers and seas, protect and promote us with the best of good fortune for well being for all time.

O great scientists, leaders of humanity commanding power and excellence, rejoice and let us rejoice in the excellence of our science, power and culture. Come to us and let the Kratus, expert workers of holy will and resolution, as the Vibhus, artists and technologists, turn your chariot worthy of the human nation towards us.

Let us be scientists with the great scientists, let us be experts with the experts and command powers and forces with the power and knowledge of the scientists and technologists. May the warriors of power and speed protect you and us in the battles of life's freedom and success in excellence. And let us join Indra, lord of power and excellence and cross over evil, darkness and want to light, freedom and prosperity.

They, the Rblus, eternal presences, surely excel and advance the borders of knowledge and power by discipline, being attached to their master with loyalty in all battles for progress. And Indra, the ruler vested with power, having settled eminent scientists, artists and craftsmen, and, having scattered out all enmities in conflicts, they develop new wealth and prosperity for the nation.

Loving and cooperative all, be for our safety, security and progress. Eminent masters of knowledge and expertise, provide the best of food, energy and sustenance for us. O Rbhus, O Vasus, pray always protect and promote us with all the good fortune for life's well being all round, all time.

The divine waters, chief of which is the ocean, arise from the heart of cosmic energy as a surge of liquidity and ceaselessly flow, purifying, sanctifying everything they suffuse. Indra, the sun and electric energy of the firmament, power of thunder and generosity, creates the channels for their flow. May those streams of waters inspire and impel me too with the initiative and drive of life for initiative and action here in the world and protect me against evil and sloth.

May the sun and waters, curative and preventive health care, protect me here. Let no bodily infirmity, no insidious or infectious disease come to me. Let me keep off all diseases that spread through animals and insects, all those that spread through germs and viruses difficult to see with naked eye. Let all those ailments be off which arise from external contact or from internal weakness such as lack of resistance, depression or self-guilt.

Mandala 7/Sukta 60

यदृद्य सूर्य बवा नागा उद्यन्मित्राय वरुणाय सत्यम् ।

1. Yadadya sūrya bravo'nāgā udyan mitrāya varuṇāya satyam. Vayam devatrādite syāma tava priyāso aryaman gr̄ṇantah.

O sun, while you arise today, purify us and proclaim to Mitra and Varuna, presiding powers of day and night and upholders of earth, sky and heaven, that we are free from sin. O Aditi, immortal mother earth and Infinity, O Aryaman, lord of justice and the paths of rectitude, dedicated as we are to the divinities, celebrating and glorifying them, hold us dear as dedicated to you.

2. Eṣa sya mitrāvaruṇā nṛcakṣā ubhe udeti sūryo abhi jman. Viśvasya sthātūjagataśca gopā rju marteṣu vṛjinā ca paśyan.

Mitra and Varuna, this is the sun that pervades both gross and subtle worlds, watcher and light giver of humanity, which rises across the sky over the earth and witnesses both the simple and the crooked ways of action among the mortals. It is the protector, life giver and promoter of the moving and the unmoving world.

The sun, like a charioteer harnessing his horses, radiates seven rays of light which from the solar region carry the energy of light and cosmic waters and bring about the nights as they withdraw. The sun, also, joining and pervading various regions, the prana and udana energies of life and the origins of causal entities, proclaims them all as one multitudinous living system of which it is the centre.

For you, O men and women, the friendly cloud and the vast skies replete with honey sweets abide on high and the sun raises vitalising oceans of vapour, the sun for which the Adityas, months of the year, Varuna and Aryama, Adityas all together, prepare the paths across the zodiacs, Mitra.

5. Ime cetāro anṛtasya bhūrermitra aryamā varuno hi santi. Ima ṛtasya vāvṛdhurdurone śagmāsaḥ putrā aditer-adabdhāḥ.

These Adityas, Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, loving friend, discriminative judge, and the path maker of rectitude, give us the sense and awareness of right and wrong, of falsehood as distinct from truth and correctness, in all varieties of situations. And they persist, and they augment the order of truth and right in the house of divine law, children of mother Infinity as they are, happy at peace, loving and kind, yet dauntless and unchallengeable.

6. Ime mitro varuno dūlabhāso 'cetasam ciccitayanti dakṣaiḥ. Api kṛtum sucetasam vatantastiraścidamhah supathā nayanti.

These powers of love and friendship, judgement and rectitude and universal truth and law are rare and undaunted, and with their intelligence and expertise of method, they awaken even the stupid and ignorant to sensitivity and wisdom. Further, inspiring the man of noble mind and holy action, they protect him from crookedness and sin and lead him on by the path of truth, goodness and beauty to higher attainment.

7. Ime divo animiṣā pṛthivyāścikītvāṁso acetasaṁ nayanti. Pravrāje cinnadyo gādhamasti pāram no asya viśpitasya parṣan.

The ever vigilant powers of light and love, judgement and discrimination of right knowledge and right action, know of heaven and earth and constantly guide the ignorant to wake up and move on the right path. Even in the depth of rivers in flood, there is ground to stand on, a ford to cross. May Mitra, Varuna and Aryama take us across the deep seas of existence by our karma.

8. *Yad gopāvadaditiḥ śarma bhadram mitro

When, like the lord ruler of the earth and protector of her children, Aditi, Mitra and Varuna, mother nature and her law, and divine powers of love, friendship and judgement provide a blessed home of peace, plenty and joy for the generous man of noble action and charity, then in that state of good fortune we, all dynamic and enthusiastic fast achievers, in the joyous company of our children and grand children must not do anything to affront our sages, seniors and scholars or to violate the sanctity of the divinities of nature and suffer their anger.

9. Ava vedim hotrābhiryajeta ripah kāścid varuna-dhrutah sah. Pari dveśobhir-aryamā vṛṇaktūrum sudāse vṛṣanā u lokam.

One who dishonours and desecrates the vedi of yajna with unholy chant and stingy insulting libation of holy offerings suffers. What sin and suffering does he not face when he is shaken by Varuna, power of justice and discrimination? May Aryama, divine guide and path maker, keep him away along with the jealous and the hostile, and may Mitra and Varuna, liberal givers, create and award the generous yajaka with a happy home and vast freedom of spirit in an age and environment of bliss.

10. Sasvaściddhi samṛtis-tvesyeśām-apīcyena sahasā sahante. Yuṣmad bhiyā vṛṣaṇo rejamānā dakṣasya cinmahinā mṛlataḥ nah.

The nature, character and policy of these divine powers of love and friendship, justice and discrimination, and thought and action in rectitude is mysteriously integrated, brilliant and blazing. They move and act with patience, fortitude and irresistible force. O generous powers, shakers of the jealous and the enemies with fear, save us and let us prosper in peace and joy with the grandeur of your power and force.

Whoever applies his holy and faithful mind for the vision of Divinity and for the achievement of food and energy and supreme wealth, honour and excellence of life, the generous divine powers energise his righteous passion and bless his action, and they create a vast house of joy and prosperity for him and award him golden wealth and irresistible vitality.

O divine Mitra and Varuna, powers of love and judgement of nature and humanity, this homage of reverence is created and offered in your honour in the congregations of academic and socio-economic yajna. Pray protect us, promote us, help us cross the hurdles of life with action and bless us with complete fulfilment. O generous powers, save us, defend us and let us advance with all round peace and security for all time.

O powers of divine action, inspire, strengthen and protect his studies and fulfil his mission with intelligence and revelations as you fulfil the seasons of the year with natural evolution of their spirits.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of the universe, generous love and intelligence of nature and humanity, you transcend the wide earth and the vast heaven by your dynamic power and sublimity. You vest life energy and distinct form in herbs and trees and specific identity in people and their communities while you preserve and protect the truth of law and the pursuers of truth with relentless vigil.

Study and meditate on the origin and abode of Mitra and Varuna, pranic energies of nature and human virtue of love and friendship, light and enlightenment, and justice and discrimination. By virtue of their great universal power and force they hold and sustain the earth and heaven together and yet apart. The time, months and years of those who do not perform yajna, corporate acts of social and environmental value, pass by without the joy of children. On the other hand, those who serve Divinity, nature and humanity with their heart and soul cross the paths of life and reach the ultimate freedom of Moksha.

O wise and generous powers of the world, Mitra and Varuna, these words of adoration are for you and your divine gifts to humanity, in which there is nothing that is not marvellous and nothing that is not divinely consecrated. Only the jealous and hostile among humanity indulge in scandal and falsehood, and even your smallest favours are too deep for the ignorant to perceive and appreciate.

O Mitra and Varuna, I invoke and join your great yajna of universal grandeur with homage especially when I am faced with challenges and limitations. Your latest thoughts, visions and revelations are created, structured and gifted to us for the advancement of knowledge and wisdom in relation to the highest reality of existence.

O divines, Mitra and Varuna, this song of adoration is offered to you in your holy congregations of yajnic creation. Pray reduce our difficulties and help us cross them to success and fulfilment. O saints and sages, scholars and teachers, come you all and all time protect and promote us with all happiness and well being.

1. Ut sūryo bṛhadarcīmasyaśret puru viśvā janima mānuṣāṇām. Samo divā dadṛśe rocamānah kratvā krītah sukṛtah kartrbhirbhūt.

The cosmic Sun, self resplendent life of the universe, rises and radiates his vast and mighty abundant rays of light, constantly shining day and night and revealing the birth and evolution of all people of the world. Sung and celebrated, adored and worshipped by holy performers of yajna, he himself is the cosmic yajna by virtue of his festive creation, the supreme yajamana as well as the presiding Deity.

O Sun, self resplendent lord giver of light and life, come in response to these songs of adoration and specified waves of thought energy stimulated by our songs. Let the light arise in our heart and mind, and speak to Mitra, Varuna, Aryama and Agni, powers of love and friendship, judgement, discrimination and integration, guidance and leadership with rectitude, and energy and enlightenment in our human community. Speak to us so that we may maintain a state of purity and freedom from sin and crime.

May they, Varuna, Mitra and Agni, happy and beneficent, healers and destroyers of suffering, keepers of divine laws of truth and nature in word and deed, when properly celebrated and appreciated in nature and character, give us a thousand forms of peace, power and joy, bless us with unique light of knowledge, and grant us complete fulfilment of our desire and ambition.

O sun in high heaven and noble earth, both dynamic, inviolable and sublime life giving powers, protect us with your creative and rejuvenating powers.

Fortunately born and educated as humans, we know your energy and efficacy. Give us the energy and resistance so that we may never suffer the disorder of prana and aparna vitalities of wind and respiration, dearest to humans in the health system.

O Mitra and Varuna, loving and discriminative pranic vitalities of our health system, extend your power and energy like helping hands for our life and health and sprinkle the vital movement of our senses and mind with liquid rejuvenation and replenishment of energy. O youthful powers of rejuvenation, vest our people with the glow of health and light of intelligence in response to my invocation and input of pranayamic exercise for the pranic energy system.

Thus O Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, powers of cosmic as well as earthly love and friendship, reason and discrimination, justice and advancement in order, guiding everything from the smallest particle to the cosmos and from the individual human to the world community, bless us with the best of life's gifts for the enlightenment of our soul and the continuation of our race. Let all our paths of life and living be simple and straight, noble and easy to follow. O powers of health and enlightenment, protect and promote us on our way onward with all modes and means of happiness and well being all round for all time.

1. Udveti subhago viśvacakṣāḥ sādhāraṇāḥ sūryo mānuṣāṇām. Cakṣurmitrasya varuṇasya devaścarmevo yah samavivyak tamāṁsi.

The glorious Sun, self-refulgent sovereign lord of the universe, rises high and higher, watching the world, giving light and intelligence to humanity in general. The lord that gives light to the day and depth to the ocean dispels all darkness and confusion as the storm disperses leaves of dry grass. (The mantra refers to the rise of the light of Divinity in the soul of the individual human being during meditation. The Light blesses any one who practices meditation under the instructions of a teacher and continues the practice with unquestionable faith.)

High rises the progenitor and inspirer of humanity, supreme light of omniscience, inexhaustible ocean of omnificence, keeping the chariot of the sun and the wheel of time constantly moving, omnipotent motive force at the centre of the moving universe.

Self-refulgent and all illuminative since the origin of eternal dawns, the light of Divinity rises, inspiring and enlightening, when sung and celebrated by worshipful devotees. May this lord of cosmic light bless me with spiritual fulfilment, the lord who never frustrates his loved celebrant and never remisses on his own majesty nor compromises with his own generosity.

The self-refulgent lord of heavenly light all-watching, all-saviour, present far and wide everywhere, emerges and shines in the heart of people when they, inspired and reborn into self-consciousness by the light of divinity, follow the meaningful paths of life and perform their karmic acts with piety.

Where the immortals have carved and shown the path for this mortal humanity to reach this divine source of eternal light, to that lord giver of immortal bliss the same path leads as by the speed of light. O Mitra and Varuna, light of day and peace of night, sun and cosmic ocean, sage and scholar, giver of knowledge and leader to judgement and rectitude, when the rising light emerges and the mind is awake, we honour and serve you with homage and reverence and with presentations of yajnic fragrance.

Thus the loving light of life, the leading light of judgement and discrimination, and the path maker to the divine destination of eternal truth and bliss may, we pray, bless us with the best gifts of life for our soul and the continuance of our race. May all our paths of life and progress be simple, straight and easy to follow. O saints and sages, scholars and teachers, protect and promote us by the paths of rectitude with all modes and means of happiness and well being for all time without relent.

Early at the dawn of sun rise, with songs of adoration, I invoke and worship Mitra, lord of infinite love and universal friendship, Varuna, lord of omniscient wisdom, judgement and justice, lords of pure omnipotence whose life giving energy and power is boundless and imperishable, first, foremost and highest, and when invoked and realised, it is all victorious in the battles of life.

Mitra and Varuna, manifestations of the Supreme Lord's generous love and justice, are the best and highest of nature's bounties. They strengthen and energise our lands and people and make them fertile and creative. O Mitra and Varuna, may we receive your favours whereby the earth and heaven, both exuberant, may promote us day and night.

3. Tā bhūripāśāvanṛtasya setū duratyetū ripave martyāya. Ṙtasya mitrāvaruṇā pathā vāmapo na nāvā duritā tarema.

Many are their bonds and chains, bridges to cross over untruth and sin, which are difficult to approach and cross for the mortal man of enmity and jealousy. O Mitra and Varuna, we pray, let us cross over sin and evil by your divine path of truth and law just as we cross the seas by the boat.

O Mitra and Varuna, Supreme Lord's manifestations of cosmic love and justice in the integrative and analytical forces of nature's bounties working in the centripetal and centrifugal operations of world, enforce and energise our yajnic inputs of creative production and let our programmes of land, language and knowledge development soar high by the vitalities of liquid energies and inspirations of new visions of divinity and faith in action, ethics and policies, and may you, in response to our yajnic performance, grant us the best of your gifts of blissful light and dynamic energy for our people.

This yajnic homage and song of celebration, O Mitra and Varuna, is for you, pure and exhilarating as soma, and I offer it for the divine energy of Vayu too, the dynamic force of cosmic order. Pray protect and promote our mind and will, and enlighten our rulers and intelligentsia. O generous and brilliant powers of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes of happiness and all round well being all time.

O self-refulgent and self-governing protectors and light givers, in grateful response to your light and protection, at the dawn of sunrise I praise and celebrate Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, lord Infinite's love, justice and divine light of guidance, all destroyers of sin and darkness.

O lord self-refulgent Varuna, lord of justice, Mitra, just friend of humanity, give us the will and wisdom that with all our wise and brave we be dear and dedicated to you and we meditate to achieve the strength and bliss of Divinity.

Many are the leaders and pioneers, with vision bright and pure as light of the sun and speech as flames of fire, who extend the bounds of truth, law and selfless service of life through yajnic creativity and, with their wisdom, will and commanding action, lead and conduct the three basic institutions of research and education, governance and economy, and human culture and values of life through beauty, goodness and truth with gratitude to Divinity for the world.

They, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, brilliant leaders and rulers with dedication to Dharma and justice, love and friendship, and the right sense of action and direction in the light of universal knowledge and eternal values, conduct the yajnic governance and administration of the social order through years and months, days and nights, relentlessly holding on to the Vedic vision of eternity. They achieve what has not yet been achieved and thus extend the possibilities of the good and happy life in the united world order.

Today at the rise of dawn, with Vedic hymns and meditation, we think and deliberate upon that social order which is desired and which is to be achieved. For that we call upon Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, leaders of justice and order, love and light and the universal laws of rectitude and direction. That we pray for, O lords, since you command the chariot of the laws of truth, action and progress on the right path.

O brilliant scholars, rulers and all those who are redoubtable leaders, lovers and seekers of truth by knowledge and action, born in truth and extending the bounds of the values of truth in the social order, terrible in action with no tolerance for untruth and social evil, let us abide in law in your good will and in the felicity of a happy home in peace and security.

By virtue of the highest human intelligence in respect of person and practice, seven dynamic faculties, i.e., five senses, mind and intellect, carry the light of Divinity to the soul at the right time for its good during its meditative sojourn in the vehicle of this beautiful body. This is the light of the self-refulgent Sun, creator, sustainer and ordainer of the moving and non-moving world from the particle to the entire universe through eternity.

That Light Divine, pure and potent, universal eye that watches all and blesses noble humanity, rises and radiates for all time. May the Lord bless us that we may live a hundred years watching it full for all the hundred years.

1. Prati vām ratham nṛpatī jaradhyai haviṣmatā manasā yajñiyena. Yo vām dūto na dhiṣṇyāvajīgaracchā sūnurna pitarā vivakmi.

O rulers and protectors of the people, wise and bold, harbingers of light to the inauguration of the morning yajna, to celebrate your chariot of the ruling order and do honour to your yajnic rule with a mind dedicated in homage to the order, like a son doing honour and reverence to the father, I compose and offer a song of celebration which would reach you as a messenger and stimulate your love and favour.

The fire of morning yajna is kindled and shines for us, and the end of darkness is seen close at hand. The sun is rising in the east like an honour flag of the glory of the dawn, daughter of heaven.

Ashvins, twin harbingers of light dedicated to truth of the ruling order, for sure the host and performer of the inaugural session of the yajna of social order, speaking words of truth and piety celebrates you and your light in songs of adoration. O prophets of the light of heaven commanding the wealth, honour and excellence of the world, ascend your chariot and come by the eternal paths of universal truth and rectitude.

O sweet and kind twin divine powers of nature and humanity, Ashvins, harbingers of a new dawn for the social order of the world, dedicated to your means and modes of preservation, defence and progress, and desirous of advancement in the wealth, honour and excellence of the nation, I invite you to take over the conduct of this great yajna of the ruling order. May seasoned and strong sages, scholars and experts of the nation lead you hither. Come, share and promote for us all the honey sweets of our yajnic planning and achievement.

O brilliant and generous Ashvins, commanders of the twin powers of nature and humanity, inspire my simple, ancient and progressive intelligence and will, strengthen it and make it inviolable in the pursuit of higher wealth, honour and excellence. In all our battles of life, protect our mind and will and, with all the powers and potential at your command, strengthen us to move forward and rise higher and higher.

Ashvins, divine powers of creation, preservation, recuperation and procreation, protect us in all our acts of thought, will and action for achievement. May our creative and procreative vitality remain intact and inviolable for our posterity. By virtue of your inspiration and invigoration for the sake of children and grand children, let us be blest with jewels of posterity and let us rise to the company of the divines.

Ashvins who command the honey sweets of knowledge and culture, this gift of homage as a treasure trove already committed to you is offered for the sake of company and friendship with you. Come forward, join us here with a joyful mind free from hate and anger, be among the human community of the earth and share with us the sweets of good fellowship in faith and love.

Ashvins, responsive givers of fulfilment, pranic energies of nature and mind, dedicated to a common purpose with humanity, the radiant inspiration of your spiritual power as a carrier of vision goes past the fluctuations of the five senses, mind and intellect. The seven, which otherwise involve the soul with fluctuations of the mind, when converted, inverted and converged on to the spirit of your vision at the centres of consciousness, no longer distract the soul, instead they become the carriers of consciousness to the divine goal of spiritual bliss.

O youthful Ashvins, complementarities of nature and humanity, listen to my prayer and invocation: come home to the house of liberal donor in yajna, bear and bring the jewels of life for the givers, honour and appreciate the wise and bold, and thus protect and promote us all time with all happiness and well being.

3. *Pra vāṁ ratho manojavā iyarti tiro rajāṁs-

Fast moves your chariot at the speed of mind across the spaces, it is equipped with a hundred means of defence and victory whereon you ride with the dawn of a new day for us.

4. Ayam ha yad vām devayā u adrirūrdhvo vivakti somasud yuvabhyām. Ā valgū vipro vavṛtīta havyaih.

Whatever your food that may be special or surplus, keep that in reserve exclusively for people for the time of distress. They would love you for that because they honour the protector dear to them.

And let that insight, incentive and experiment of your help for people in need be for the weak and elderly, for those on the move such as the deprived, the fallen, uprooted and refugees, and let it be for those who give in charity for the sake of charity. That is the philanthropic role you take on for the protection of people.

And be friends with the man who was once affluent but now is in distress since jealous friends and associates deserted him and cast him insolvent into the sea of misfortune. Save him, take him across the sea, he is loyal and looks up to you for help.

8. Vṛkāya cijjasamānāya śaktamuta śrutam śayave hūyamānā. Yāvaghnyām-apinvatam-apo na staryam cicchaktyaśvinā śacibhiḥ.

Ashvins, harbingers of light and energy of a new day, against the wolfish thief and the aggressor, for the powers of law and punishment against exploitation, and for the lazy and the backward, bring force and counsel whenever the situation calls on you to act. You who command the competence for correction and rejuvenation with your powers can revitalise old cows and waste lands and make them overflow with milk and honey like abundant streams of water.

Thus does the divine poet, wakeful in advance of the rise of dawn, with holy mind and faithful intelligence, celebrate in song the divine Ashvins, twin harbingers of new life to nature and humanity. May the inviolable Mother Nature and Infinity advance him in life with vision, will and energy. O saints and scholars, ruler and administrators, O Ashvins, protect and promote us with peace, happiness and all time well being in life.

O harbingers of light and fresh life for the dawn of a new day, let your golden chariot traversing heaven, earth and the skies by powerful forces on blazing wheels across the cosmic waters come to us loaded with nourishments and inspiring energies and be the guide and protector of humanity for higher victories. (The mantra is an address to the brilliant powers of social governance and management for the protection and progress of the people. These powers should act as harbingers of fresh life and energy with the light of a new sun at the rise of a new dawn every day.)

2. Sa paprathāno abhi pañca bhūmā tribandhuro manasā yātu yuktah. Viśo yena gacchatho devayantīḥ kutrā cid yāmamaśvinā dadhānā.

Let this chariot structured on five-fold body bound by three bonds come to us evolving day by day. It is structured on a five-fold chassis fixed by three bonds in an ascending order and it moves forward as controlled by the mind. By this, O Ashvins, you come to the people and radiate light and energy to those who are in search of divinity. On way, you choose your own stages of rest and travel for further progress.

(This mantra is a metaphor of the human body in which the ruler is soul, the controller is mind, and motive forces for perception and volition are senses. The body is made up of five elements: earth, water, fire, air and space, and characterised by three conditioning qualities of nature: sattva, rajas and tamas which are intellectual, sensual and material qualities of personality. It is through this body-chariot that the Ashvins, circuitous complementarities of divine nature radiate and inspire light and energy to the human being and to humanity too as one personality.)

O mighty honourable heroes commanding speedy motive forces, destroyers of jealousy, enmity and suffering, come hither to us and share the honey sweets of the human world. Let your chariot heading to the destination with your associates reach the bounds of heavenly space by its whirling wheels.

The youthful dawn, daughter of the mighty sun, by choice takes on to your grace and splendour as her mate over and across the soothing night, since while you protect and promote the devout with your energies, your power with its potential circumambulates the light of the sun.

And that which is the master of your chariot and, wearing the splendour of the sun, rides it and goes about on the ways of life over the paths of existence and comes home to human habitations, by that very divine light and grace, O charioteers of Divinity, at the rise of dawn, bring in the peace and bliss of life to this our universal yajna of the world's social order.

O leaders of humanity, pioneers of light, eager like a planet drawn by the sun, come today to our yajnic social order and bring in the dawn of a new day. The all time seekers of Divinity through eternity have invoked you with the best of their thought, will and action. Let not anyone stop you on way.

Listen to my call, O youthful Ashvins, twin powers of nature and humanity, leading lights of the nation, go to the basic sources of wealth and knowledge over land and sea and across the skies, bear and bring the jewels of life, appreciate, honour and admire the brilliant and the brave, and protect and promote us with all time peace and prosperity of well being.

1. Indrāvaruṇā yuvamadhvarāya no više janāya mahi śarma yacchatam. Dīghaprayajyumati yo vanuṣyati vayam jayema pṛtanāsu dudhyah.

Indra, lord of ruling power, and Varuna, lord of justice, you both together for our people in general provide a very home and comfortable security of life so that they may do their creative and productive work in peace without fear and violence and, in our joint ventures for the nation, we may defeat, better win over, the person who out of hate and malevolence injures or violates the peace of a citizen engaged in continuous work for the nation.

2. Samrālanyah svarālanya ucyate vāṁ mahāntāvindrāvaruṇā mahāvasū. Viśve devāsaḥ parame vyomani sam vāmojo vṛṣaṇā sam balam dadhuḥ.

O Indra, lord ruler, and Varuna, lord of justice, grand powers of the common wealth, one of you is called ‘Samrat, sovereign ruler of the nation as one collected person’, the other is called ‘Swarat, autonomous ruler of the judiciary as a sub-system of the sovereign state’. O brave and generous lords, may all the brilliant sages and scholars of the nation and all the divinities of nature in this vast sovereign common wealth of humanity vest you with dignity and power.

(This mantra may also be interpreted as pointing to the two extreme ends, though both mutually balanced, of the sovereign social order, whether the order is a nation or the entire human world on earth. One is ‘Samrat’ the total sovereign system with one supreme head, the other is ‘swarat’, the autonomous individual, the citizen with his or her freedoms and loyalty to the national law, and the balance of rights and duties of the ‘swarat’ individual.)

With your light and lustre, O Indra and Varuna, sovereign ruler and lord of independent judgement, state and the individual, general will and collective power and individual will and autonomous judgement, together you break open the flood gates of waters and national energy in social dynamics. You raise the social brilliance in the regions of culture and enlightenment to the highest degrees of freedom and sovereignty.

O lords of power and judgement, together in the joy of this wonderful ruling order, you replenish the dry streams of life to flow with fresh energy and energise our bored will and intellect with new vision, ambition and resolution all round.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and preserver of both the citizen and the state for earthly as well as for higher values, men of fiery passion and action call upon you in their joint struggles for advancement and fresh acquisitions. Men of settled vision and judgement seated on firm ground call upon you in their efforts for peace, preservation and stability. Creators of the wealth of the nation thus, we all call upon you in our battles for both yoga and kṣema, progress and preservation in balance, constant watchers and instantly responsive as you are.

Indra and Varuna, with your strength and vision you rule and advance and thus serve all these children of the earth. Mitra, power of love and friendship with warmth of passion for peace and stability serves and supports Varuna, judgement and discrimination for the collective good, and the other, Indra, power and passion for advancement, with all his storm troopers fast as winds fights for the defence and advancement of the good of all.

For the greatness and rising prosperity of the social order of peace and progress, Indra and Varuna augment its power and lustre and preserve and increase what its basic and consolidated national asset is. One of them, Indra, overthrows its unfriendly and hostile opponents who try to sabotage and arrest its progress, and the other, Varuna, even with minimum but convincing power, subdues many devastating critics.

No sin, no evils, no suffering, nor any man's crookedness can ever touch or disturb that mortal man, that ruler of the social order, whose yajna of individual freedom of action and loyalty to the social order and its laws, O Indra and Varuna, lord of omnipotence and lord of justice and mercy, glorious and generous rulers of the universe, you bless, visit, lead and guide.

O Indra and Varuna, leading lights of nature and humanity, lords of power, justice and mercy of the social and natural order, since I enjoy your love and friendship, come hither to me with protection and promotion, listen to my call, and bear, bring and give me the benefit of your friendship and whatever is peaceful, blissful and attainable.

the people and the ruling services invite you in their struggles for the progress of their children and grand children.

Indra and Varuna, O warrior and tactician of the commanding order, the bold and brave front rank leaders, seeing your power and performance, march forward and join you with large axes in hand and reach you as leaders with an open door. O fighters, having destroyed the forces of darkness and sabotage, with all your forces protect and promote the noble, the generous and the dedicated people of society.

Where the leading brave of the nation meet with banners in hand, where there would be but little good in battle or in contest, where the people of the earth quake with fear though they see the light and joy of heaven otherwise, of that, O Indra and, Varuna, speak to us.

Indra and Varuna, destroyers of the evil and the violent, look to the ends of the earth, let the clang of arms and roar of battle rise to the sky, let the people's enemies stand at the door and face me, and in any crisis, as you hear the signal and the clarion call, come forward with all the defence forces.

Indra and Varuna, leading warrior and enemy destroyer and saviour and rebuilder, facing and breaking the difficult enemy lines of offence with fatal weapons, protect the generous ruler of the land. In this strife of battle, listen to the earnest voices of the priests engaged in yajnic development of the nation, and let the priest-like prophecy and expectations of the people seeking peace and freedom come true.

Indra, lord of power, Varuna, lord of justice and mercy, the evil deeds of the violent and the adversities caused by the saboteurs torment me all round. You alone rule and order the power and prosperity of both terrestrial and celestial worlds. Protect us on the earth and lead us to the light and joy of freedom beyond the bounds of earth.

Both the people and the leaders call upon you in battles, O Indra and Varuna, for victory in battle and regaining of success and prosperity. They call upon you in battle where you defend the generous ruler against tens of tormenting dictators and, alongwith the ruler, you save three orders of scholars and sages in three fields of arts, sciences and universal values of Dharma and justice.

Indra and Varuna, spirit of life and sense of judgement victorious over evil and impiety, even ten brilliant but impious and impulsive forces together cannot fight against the versatile and generous ruler of the self and society. The prayers of holy men dedicated to divinity in the house of yajna and charity come true and the divinities of humanity and nature both join the invocations of these holy men in their acts of piety and divine service.

O generous and divine lords of power and wisdom, we invoke you and offer you homage with adorations and holy presentations. May Indra and Varuna give us a happy home of peace and prosperity.

We pray for the blissful light of mother Infinity and celebrate in song the glory of Savita, lord giver of the light of life and inspiration for the True, the Good and the Beautiful in existence.

Indra-Varuna, self-refulgent rulers of life, Supreme Lord's power and justice, light and rectitude, law and freedom, reward and punishment, I pray, let me turn to you and abide there. I invoke you with salutations and homage worthy for divinity in this yajna of life full of love and free from violence. The ladle in all universal forms overflowing with ghrta held in hands spontaneously moves to you to make the offer of total surrender to the sacred fire.

Indra-Varuna, pray raise our yajnic acts in the business of life to beauty and grace. May you vest our songs of adoration and gratitude with love and faith among the wise and brave of the community. May wealth, honour and excellence of life inspired by divinities come to us. May you, Indra-Varuna, help us cross the seas of life with cherished means of protection and progress.

Let us all blest with the jewels of life reach the house of yajna and attain the blessings of Indra and Varuna. O divinities of nature and humanity, saints and sages, protect and promote us with all modes and means of safety, security and all round well being of life for all time.

Mandala 7/Sukta 85

Indra-Varuna Devate, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

I dedicate and sanctify the song of adoration free from evil, enmity and malice, and offer it to Indra and Varuna, having made a presentation of holy soma to the ruler warrior and the chief of justice. It is soft and sweet and brilliant, full of power like the divine dawn. May Indra and Varuna come and inspire us to shine in our battle of life against evil with full divine protection.

2. Spardhante vā u devahūye atra yeṣu dhvajeṣu didyavah patanti. Yuvam tāñ indrāvarunāvamitrān hatam parācaḥ śarvā viṣūcaḥ.

And those who fight and oppose us in this struggle of the social order, and in those battles in which the enemy weapons fall upon our flags of honour, all those enemies and crooked adversaries, O Indra and Varuna, pray frustrate and destroy with the force and justice of the social order.

3. Āpaściddhi svayaśasah sadahsu devīrindram varuṇam devatā dhuḥ. Kṛṣṭiranyo dhārayati praviktā vṛtrāṇyanyo apratīni hanti.

Intelligent and brilliant people in their own right of quality and social prestige select, appoint and consecrate Indra and Varuna, brilliant and noble authorities, in their offices and assemblies. One of them, Varuna, manages the different orders of people, the other, Indra, destroys forces of darkness and enmity who refuse to be managed otherwise.

Surely that individual is a good citizen of noble action, a true yajaka, dedicated to universal values of truth and law, who, of his own free will, with his power and potential and high degree of endeavour and application, turns to you, O brilliant Indra and Varuna, with sincere loyalty and homage for the sake of protection and advancement. And surely he deserves all round happiness and well being.

May this earnest and vibrating voice of homage and prayer reach Indra and Varuna for the protection and progress of our children and grand children. May we, blest with the jewels of life, reach and join the noble assembly of the enlightened and participate in the yajnic business of the nation. O Indra and Varuna, O enlightened citizens and leaders of humanity, protect and promote us with all safeguards and securities and all modes of happiness and well being all ways all time.

Mandala 7/Sukta 8

Varuna Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

1. Dhīrā tvasya mahinā janūṣi vi yastastambha rodasī cidurvī. Pra nākamṛsvam̄ nunude bṛhantam̄ dvitā nakṣatram̄ paprathacca bhūma.

Firm in balance are the creations of this Varuna, light of the universe, by virtue of his greatness as he holds and stabilises the heaven and earth and indeed the expanding universe. He energises and impels the high heavens of bliss and the distant stars and lights them both day and night, pervading the vast world of existence. Only the wise and brave know this.

2. Uta svayā tanvā sam̄ vade tat kadā nvantarvaruṇe bhuvāni. Kim me havyam-ahṛṇāno juṣeta kadā mr̄līkaṁ sumanā abhi khyam.

And when would I, by my own individual self, commune with the lord? When would I join the innermost presence of Varuna? Would he accept my homage and prayer with pleasure? When would I, with peace in the mind, experience the bliss of that presence and power?

O Varuna, I ask myself what sin is. Keen for the vision of divinity, I go and meet the wise, and freely I ask what sin is. And the wise sages all say the same thing to me : This Varuna feels displeased only for your sake, to save you from sin.

Varuna, what is the greatest sin or crime for which you punish your friend and celebrant? Speak of that to me, O lord rare to be attained, self-refulgent and self-omnipotent. Save me, lord. A sinless innocent soul, post haste I come to you with homage, prayer and surrender.

5. *Ava drugdhāni pitryā srjā no'va yā vayaṁ cakrmā

Loosen and free us from weaknesses inherited from the forefathers. Save us from the sins and evils committed by ourselves in person. O sovereign ruler, free us from animal passions, like the thief from jail, and relieve the earnest celebrant from passions and slavery, like the calf set free from bonds of the tether.

6. Na sa svo dakṣo varuṇa dhrutiḥ sā surā manyur-vibhīdako acittih. Asti jyāyān kanīyasa upāre svapnaścanedanṛtasya prayotā.

It is not our own essential virtue, competence and expertise that is the cause of evil and the fall. It is liquor, anger, gambling and infatuation, ignorance and loss of good sense that is the cause of evil. It is also the company of the wrong senior with the junior and the dreams of unrealistic ambition that tempt a person to fall a victim to falsehood and evil.

7. Aram dāso na mīlhuṣe karānyaham devāya bhūrṇaye'nāgāḥ. Acetayad-acito devo aryo gr̥tsam rāye kavitaro jūnāti.

Let me, an innocent person free from evil, do unreserved service and offer sincere prayers like a dedicated servant to Varuna, resplendent and generous lord giver of sure and complete fulfilment. He, brilliant and generous lord of all, wiser than any one else, omniscient master, enlightens the ignorant and inspires the holy and intelligent, and leads them to honour and prosperity.

Varuna, self-existent lord of omniscience and omnipotence, may this song of adoration reach your heart and be graciously accepted. Let there be all good and full protection for what we have achieved, and all good grace and advancement for what we may further achieve. O lord, O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all happiness and well being all ways all time, bless us with yoga and kshema in peace.

Mandala 7/Sukta 87

1. Radat patho varuṇah sūryāya prārṇāṁsi samudriyā nadīnām. Sargo na srsto arvātīr-rtāyañcakāra mahīr-avanīr-ahabhyah.

The universe is a mighty explosion of thought, energy and matter let free like a cosmic horse on course: Varuna, lord of supreme power, intelligence and imagination, carving out orbits for the self-refulgent stars, setting cosmic oceans into floods of rivers heading for the sea, structuring mighty moving galaxies and great planets and satellites from the stars, all moving in observance of the cosmic law.

2. Ātmā te vāto raja ā navīnot paśurna bhūrṇirya-vase sasavān. Antarmahī bṛhatī rodasīme viśvā te dhāma varuṇa priyāṇi.

Your spirit, O Varuna, sets the currents of energy in motion like winds and energises the cosmic particles anew, once asleep all, now rushing restless for food for existence like a horse moving for grass. O lord immanent and transcendent, all this great expansive universe of heaven and earth, all these abodes of existence, are homes of life dear to you, dear to the living forms.

3. Pari spaśo varuṇasya smadiṣṭā ubhe paśyanti rodasī sumeke. Rtāvānah kavayo yajñadhīrāḥ pracetaso ya iṣayanta manma.

Currents of cosmic intelligence which are observant forces of Varuna appointed to their task, together watch both heaven and earth and they also observe and inspire to thought and imaginative creation, poets, intellectuals and devotees constantly dedicated to yajna all of whom observe the laws of eternal truth and Dharma and celebrate the divinity of Varuna.

4. *Uvāca me varuno medhirāya triḥ sapta nāmā-

Varuna, vibrant lord of cosmic intelligence, supreme teacher, spoke to me, dedicated faithful disciple, that divine nature, divine speech, divine earth and sacred cow, each inviolable, bears thrice seven names. Enlightening the scholar approaching the teacher with homage and reverence, the omniscient lord speaks of the supreme state of freedom and bliss as the mystery of existence.

Three heavens of light are contained in the presence of this lord Varuna and there are three orders of the earthly globe over which there are six variations. The all - wise resplendent omnipotent ruler Varuna created all this universe including the vibrant and glorious sun in the blissful heaven high up for light of the world.

O Varuna, lord who save even the sinner, bless us that we may be sinless, observing the laws of mother Infinity's discipline. O lord, O saints and sages, teachers and rulers, protect and promote us with peace, progress and all round well being all ways all time.

Holiest sage and brilliant scholar, develop pure, purifying and transparent intelligence of the dearest order and offer reverence and yajnic homage to Varuna, potent and generous lord inspirer of life, who creates, energises and brings us the great adorable sun and the O lord, where are those days of dawn, that flight of bliss, that friendship and intimacy we lived together ever before without violation? What happened? O Varuna, lord of absolute power and bliss, let us come home with you, to that very state of bliss open a thousand ways, that grace abounding and infinite.

Where in the yajna in the house of assembly, leading lights of humanity from the earth and leading lights of life from heaven join and rejoice in pursuit of divinity, and where the exhilarating essences of soma are distilled for celebration in honour of Indra, lord of the world, there let us join and pray, and may the lord arrive in the first and foremost manifestations of divinity for young and old.

And there, O friends, let us pray for the protection and blessings of divinity, and may Brhaspati, lord of the mighty universe, exalt us in the spirit so that we grow sinless in the eyes of the generous lord of life and vitality who alone is our generous giver and supreme saviour as father for children.

The same lord supreme of the universe, merciful protector and saviour, I adore with humility, reverence and offers of homage, and may this song of divine adoration reach the great lord Indra who rules this world of divine creation and reveals the divine Word of the Veda, universal knowledge.

That same Brhaspati, incomprehensible supreme lord all loving and enemy to none, celebrated in the purity of divine hymns of the Veda, sole object of the worship and yajnic homage of our citizens in our homes, we invoke and adore.

He is easy of access, being immanent in the universe and beatific, creating abundant peace, prosperity and joy for the devotees.

O devotees of creative yajna, at the dawn of the fiery sun, offer refined and energised soma and milk into the fire of yajna in honour of Indra, generous omnipotent ruler of the worlds. Having received exhilarating soma inspiration from the sacred Vedi of light, Indra, the ruler, the scholar, the human soul, proceeds to the day's activity with passion for consecrated action every new day.

2. Yad dadhiṣe pradivi cārvannam divedive pītimi-dasya vakṣi. Uta hṛdota manasā juṣāṇa uśanni-ndra prasthitān pāhi somān.

Indra, since you have received and internalised the exhilarating soma of the mission of life at the Vedi in earlier days, and love to live the taste and message of it every day, then, loving the soma by heart and soul and passionately anxious for action, take the soma offered, and inspire and exhort these yajakas for the appointed tasks of the day.

Aware of the self, knowing your tasks in life, recognising your powers and potential, dedicated to your yajna and your yajnic performers, you drank the soma of initiation for the realisation of your power, patience and passion, and Mother Nature spoke to you and dedicated you to the Infinite and Omnipotent. You fought with courage and fortitude, achieved wondrous peace and prosperity with your warriors for noble humanity, and rose to the skies with honour and fame.

We ask of you and solicit wealths of the world for ourselves, because you are the giver.

Vishnu, omnipresent lord supreme, manifesting by the expansive world forms of mother nature, no one comprehends your greatness and majesty. We apprehend both your worlds from earth to heaven but, O lord self-refulgent, you know and are the ultimate beyond these too. (You are immanent and transcendent.)

Indra-Vishnu, lord omnipotent and omnipresent, leader and maker of the world, creating the sun, dawn and fire you make up this vast world for yajna, evolution and expansion of things at the level of nature and humanity. You also destroy the wiles and crookedness of negative powers even though they be strong and well armed, in close battles among human forces.

Indra-Vishnu, lord of unrivalled might and universal presence, you break through the nine and ninety fortified strongholds of the dark and expansive citadels of hoarded treasure and destroy a hundred, even thousand, of the brave warriors together even before the unique evil power is up for defence and offence.

Vishnu, lord omnipresent and omnificent, who fulfil the aspirations of all humanity, bless us with such intelligence, understanding and faith in values of pure and universal character by which we may achieve our target of untarnished happiness and plenty of universal wealth of honour, beauty and complete fulfilment of earthly ambition.

This self-refulgent and self-potent generous lord Vishnu has made and set in motion the three dimensional world of matter, energy and mind by virtue of his own essential power and has vested it with the light of countless stars. Immanent in the world, mighty Vishnu manifests mightier and mightier. The very name of this lord beyond motion is ‘Lord of Light.’

Vishnu, this lord omnipresent, with the desire to give humanity a place of birth and a home for dwelling and sphere of action, made this wide earth and set it in motion. Poet celebrants of this lord, men with constant mind, celebrate the glorious manifested maker and sing that he it is that made the wide earth for their dwelling and place of action.

*Parjanya Devata, Vasishtha or Kumara Agneya

1. Tisro vācaḥ pra vada vyotiragrā yā etad duhre madhudogham-ūdhah. Sa vatsam kṛṇvan garbhamoṣadhīnāṁ sadyo jāto vṛśabho roravīti.

Chant aloud three voices of the divine Word, Rk, Sama and Yajush verses of the four Vedas headed by the light of Divinity symbolised by the eternal Name: AUM. (They comprise the knowledge, action and prayerful gratitude of total human endeavour, the three being ‘jnana, karma and upasana.) With yajna they distil from the cosmic ocean the milky essence of liquid vitality, soma, elementary form of the cloud, parjanya. That parjanya produces the fiery electric current (herein called the calf) which then gives rise to the seed of vegetation in the form of cloud laden with living rain waters. ‘The calf’ then full grown as ‘the virile bull’ i.e., the cloud, upon the instant roars and thunders, rains and fertilises the earth with the seed of vegetation.

Note: An extension of this knowledge of the evolution of life on earth is found in the science of ‘Panchagni’, five fires, in Chhandogya Upanishad 5, 4-9, and in Brhadaranyaka Upanishad 6, 2, 9-14. Chhandogya Upanishad is an explanatory extension of parts of Sama Veda, and Brhadaranyaka Upanishad is a similar work on parts of Yajur Veda. An indication of this science is given in Kathopanishad 1, 1, 12-19. Kathopanishad is an explanatory footnote to Yajur-Veda.

He that generates and augments the vegetation and generates the waters and the power that orders and rules over the entire moving universe may, we pray, give us three fold health and peace of body, mind and soul and bless us with threefold shelter against heat, cold and rain, and give us threefold light of earth, heaven and the middle regions for our well being all round.

3. Starīru tvad bhavati sūta u tvad yathāvaśāṁ tanvāṁ cakra eṣah. Pituh payah prati grbhñāti mātā tena pitā vardhate tena putrah.

By virtue of you the heifer becomes fertilized, from you this soul assumes the body form it takes according to its latencies, the mother receives the shower of fertility from the father, by which, again, the father receives extension of the self and the off spring grows in body.

4. Yasmin viśvāni bhuvanāni tasthustisro dyāva-stredhā sasrurāpah. Trayah kośāsa upa-secanāso madhvah ścotantyabhito virapśam.

(What is the ultimate parjanya, source of life and its joy?) That in whom abide all regions of the universe, all three heavens, i.e., highest, middle and the lower, or the earth, the sky and the heaven of light, in whom the three currents of air, light and water energy flow, or the three grades of karma operate, i.e., sanchit (past), kriyamana (present) and prarabdha (conditional) rule the soul, and in whom three body-forms of the soul, i.e., karana sharira (causal body), sukshma sharira (subtle body) and sthula sharira (gross body) overflow with energy and shower the honey sweets of pleasure, enlightenment and the ecstasy of ananda upon the soul in abundance: that is the ultimate cloud from whom life flows.

5. Idam vacah parjanyāya svarāje hrdo astvantaram tajjujoṣat. Mayobhuvo vrṣtyah santvasme supippalā oṣadhīr-devagopāḥ.

This song of adoration, spontaneous flow of love from the heart, in honour of the self - resplendent sovereign cloud, lord infinite, supreme source of life, may the lord accept and cherish to the very core of divine being, and may the imprint abide in our heart too. May the showers of rain be full of peace and abundance for us. May the herbs and trees be profuse in fruit, give life and protective health to noble humanity and be protected and promoted by noble humanity.

That lord is the infinite reservoir of the seeds of existence, mighty abundant and generous, from whom flows the eternal cycle of life. Therein abides the very soul of existence in motion and stabilised in motion. May the lord sustain, protect and promote the abundant flow of truthful life in action for me for a full span of hundred years. O lord, O clouds, O showers of rain, protect and promote us by all modes and means of happiness and well being all round all ways all time.

1. *Parjanyāya pra gāyata divasputrāya mīlhuṣe.

Sing in praise of the mighty generous and virile

Parjanya, the cloud that gives us showers of life and joy. It is the child of light and saviour of the brilliant. May the cloud, that bearer and harbinger of life and joy, give us lovely food for body, mind and soul.

2. *Yo garbham-oṣadhīnāṁ gavāṁ kṛṇotyarvatām.

Celebrate the Parjanya, cloud of the showers of life and existence, who generates the Golden Egg, Hiranyagarbha, the seed of moving stars and revolving planets, herbs and trees, cows and horses and the humans, and the cloud which then brings the showers of living waters and vests the seeds of life in earth for vegetation and all that moves and achieves and all the human race for the continuance of life in existence.

3. *Tasmā idāsye havirjuhotā madhumattamam.

To him, the omnipotent omnificent Parjanya, life bearing cloud, offer the sweetest oblations into the fiery mouth of the yajna Vedi with selfless surrender of love and non-violence so that he may keep and help us keep the unity and integrity of the earth and environment well in order and maintain the integrity and harmony of humanity and culture in a state of creativity and progressive continuity of a familial order.

Mandala 7/Sukta 103

Mandukah (Parjanya) Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

संवृत्सरं शशयाना ब्रह्मणा वृतचारिणः ।
वाचं पूजन्यजिन्वितां प मण्डूकां अवादिषुः ॥ १ ॥

1. *Sāmvatsaram śāsayānā brāhmaṇā vratacār-iṇah.
Vācam parjanyajinviṭām pra maṇḍūkā avādiṣuh.*

Devoted Brahmanas dedicated to Brahma, supreme spirit of the universe, observing the sacred vows of discipline in silence for a yearly session, spontaneously burst into the chant of divine hymns, inspired by the cloud of divine showers and celebrate the divine spirit, the divine voice and the divine shower with enthusiasm.

दिव्या आप' अभि यदन्मायन्दृतिं न शुष्कं सरसी शयानम् ।
गवामहं न मायुवत्सिनीनां मण्डूकानां वग्नुरत्रा समति ॥ २ ॥

2. Divyā āpo abhi yadenamāyan dṛtim na śuṣkarā sarasi śayānam. Gavāmaha na māyurvatsinī-nām maṇḍūkānām vagnuratrā sameti.

When the heavenly waters shower upon these celebrants, like rain on frogs who have been hibernating in a dry pond like empty leather bags, they revive with exhilaration, they burst into chant, and the chant of these celebrants seems like the eager lowing of mother cows for their calves or like the excitement of the heart on the reflection of a new revelation on the imagination.

यदीमनाँ उश्रता अभ्यवषीत्तृष्णावतः प्रवृष्णागतायाम् ।
अख्खलीकृत्या पितरं न पुत्रा अन्या अन्यमुप वदन्त-मति ॥ ३ ॥

3. Yadīmenāň uśato abhyavarśit tṛṣyāvataḥ prāvṛṣyāgatāyām. Akhkhaličkṛtyā pitaram na putro anyo anyamupa vadantameti.

And when the rainy season has set in, then, if the cloud showers rain upon these longing celebrants of life, thirsting for the divine waters of life, one goes to meet another, chanting and shouting hilariously like the child going to meet the father.

अन्या अन्यमनु गृभ्णात्यनारुपां पसुग यदमन्दिषाताम ।
मण्डूका यदुभिवृष्टः कनिष्ठन्पृश्निः संपृङ्ग हरितन्

4. Anyo anyamanu grbhñātyenorapāṁ prasarge yadamandiśatām. Maṇḍuko yadabhivṛṣṭah kaniṣkan pṛśniḥ samprṇikte haritena vācam.

On the fall of divine showers they seize upon each other while both experience the ecstasy of meeting and the rain. When the celebrant is soaked in the rain, the spotted versatile one springs forward and communicates with the green one in concentration in the language of intimacy.

यदैषामन्या अन्यस्य वाचं शक्तस्यव वदति शि माणः ।
सर्वं तदेषां समृधव पव यत्सुवाचा वदथनाध्यप्सु ॥ ५ ॥

5. Yadeśāmanyo anyasya vācam śaktasyeva vadati śikṣamāṇah. Sarvam tadeśām samṛdheva parva yat suvāco vadathanādhypsū.

When one of these speaks to the other, they seem to repeat each other's language like pupils repeating the words of the teacher. While communicating like this they jump and play on the water, their bodies swell with joy and the pride of being.

गामायुरकं अजमायुरकः पृश्निरका हरितं एकं एषाम् ।
समानं नामं बिभत्ता विस्तृपाः पुरुत्रा वाचं पिपिशुवदन्तः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Gomāyureko ajamāyurekaḥ pṛśnireko harita eka eṣām. Samānaṁ nāma bibhrato virūpāḥ purū-trā vācam pipiśur vadantah.

One of them croaks like a cow, another like a goat, one of them is spotted, another is green. Of different voice and colour, they bear the same one name, the “manduka”, the celebrant, but they seem to communicate in many different languages.

ब्राह्मणासं अतिरात्रे न सामु सरा न पूर्णमभित्ता वदन्तः ।
संवत्सरस्य तदहुः परिष्ठयन्मण्डूकाः पावृषीणं ब्रभूव ॥ ७ ॥

7. Brāhmaṇāso atirātre na some saro na pūrṇamabhito vadantah. Samivatsarasya tadahah pariṣṭha yanmanḍukāḥ prāvṛṣīṇam babhūva.

O Brahmanas, devotees of supreme Brahman, at the end of the annual session when the last night is over, then, at the time before dawn, abide as in meditation and yajnic celebration just like the frogs who play, rejoice and celebrate around the overflowing lake when the showers of the season begin.

ब्राह्मणासः समिना वाचमकत् बह्यं कृष्णवन्तः परिवत्स-
रीणम् । अध्वयवं घमिणः सिष्विदाना आविभवन्ति गुह्या

8. Brāhmaṇāsaḥ somino vācamakrata brahma kṛṣṇvantah parivatsarīṇam. Adhvaryavo ghar-miṇah siṣvidānā āvirbhavanti guhyā na ke cit.

Brahmanas engaged in the yearly soma yajna for peace and harmony conduct the yajna in honour of the Supreme Brahman and chant the Vedic mantras at the end of the first year. The priests facing the fire and soaked in sweat emerge as if from seclusion in the cave.

दुवहितिं जुगुपुद्वादशस्य ऋतुं नरा न प मिनन्त्यत ।
संवत्सर पावृष्णागतायां तु सा धमा अश्नुवत विसुगम ॥ ९ ॥

9. Devahitīm jugupurdvādaśasya rtum naro na praminyete. Samvatsare prāvṛṣyāgatāyām taptā gharmā aśnuvate visargam.

These Brahmanas, leading lights of the yajnic order, do not neglect, never violate, but strictly abide by the divinely ordained twelve month seasons and the discipline and observances prescribed. At the end of the year when the rains set in they emerge seasoned and tempered in the heat of yajnic fire and attain their freedom.

गामायुरदादुजमायुरद्वृश्निरदाद्वरिता ना वसूनि । गवां
मण्डूका ददतः शतानि सहस्रसाव प तिरन्त आयुः ॥ १० ॥

10. Gomāyuradādajamāyuradāt prśniradāddharito no vasūni. Gavāṁ maṇḍukā dadataḥ śatāni sahasrasāve pra tiranta āyuh.

All those that speak and sound like nature in motion give us something; all those that speak and sound like nature and spirit unborn and eternal give us something; all those that speak and sound like the spectrum of colours in various forms give us something; all those that speak and sound like the dark and green in life and nature give us something: all these give us wealths of the world. Indeed all that speak and sound and celebrate nature and the eternal spirit of nature give us hundreds of wealths and values of existence on the move, advance us and give us full health and age in the thousandfold business of creative living and lead us to fulfilment and ultimate freedom. (Such is the gift of nature in the rainy season.)

Mandala 7/Sukta 104

Indra-Somau, Indra, Soma, Agni, Devah, Gravana, Marutah, Vasishtha, Prthirvi-Antarikshe, Devatah, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi.

इन्द्रासामा तपतं र + उब्जतं न्यपयतं वृषणा तमावृथः ।

Indra-Soma, O lord and commander of power, peace and justice, O lord and master keeper of love, peace and harmony, subject the evil and wicked to the heat of discipline and correction or punish and reduce them to nullity. O generous and virile lord and ruler, let not the forces of darkness grow, keep them down, let not the misguided rise and spread out, shut these down and far off. Let the hoarders, grabbers, ogres and devourers be subjected to law and punishment, destroy the exploiters, stop them and let their fangs be blunted and rooted out.

इन्द्रौसामा समघशंसमभ्युधं तपुययस्तु चरुरग्निवाँडव ।

2. Indrāsomā samaghaśāmsam-abhygham tapur-yayastu carur-agnivāñ iva. Brahmadvise kavyāde ghoracaksase dveṣo dhattam-anavāyam kimīdine.

Indra-Soma, lord and master of peace and power, love and justice, let the sinner and the criminal, the supporter and admirer of sin and crime along with the sin and crime, and the tormentor of the good and innocent go to the fire of discipline, punishment, or elimination like a handful of dirt meant for the fire. Never compromise with the enemy of nature, divinity, humanity and the wisdom of humanity. Rule out the cannibal and the carrion eater, the man of hate and evil eye, the sceptic, the cynic and the negationist. For them, have the disdain they deserve and either correct them or eliminate them.

3. Indrāsomā duskṛto vavre antar-anārambhane tamasi pra vidhyatam. Yathā nātah punarekaścanodayat tad vāmasti sahase manyum-acchavah.

Indra-Soma, fix the evil doer and throw him into a deep dungeon of darkness without remission so that by reason of that punishment no one again may raise his head for evil doing. That power of yours full of patience, fortitude and courage, that righteous passion of yours be for the destruction of evil and sabotage against life and social harmony.

इन्द्रासामा वृतयतं दिवा वृधं सं पृथिव्या अघशंसाय aghaśamsāya tarhanam. Ut takṣatam svaryam parvatebhyo yena rakṣo vāvṛdhānam nijurvathah.*

Indra-Soma, from heaven and earth, from thunder and lightning and the showers of clouds, from the light of idealism, love and generosity and down to earth realism, bring unfailing laws of punishment and correction against sin and crime, acts and policies against poverty, disease, unemployment and wilful sloth, and against the supporters of sin and crime as well as against compromisers with negativities and negationists of evil. Enact law of incentive and encouragement for the generous, and blazing prohibitions for the adamantine evil so that you nip and burn off rising crime and evil in the bud.

इन्द्रासामा वृतयतं दिवस्पर्यग्नितसभियुवमशमहन्मभिः ।

5. Indrāsomā vartayataṁ divas-paryagnit-apte-bhīr-ryuvam-aśmahanmabhiḥ. Tapurvadhebhīr-nisvaram.

Indra-Soma, lord of power and force, lord of peace and harmony, turn all round, revolve your search lights and from the skies shoot out your weapons of defence and offence, and with fiery, thunder-tipped, fatally destructive, irresistible and inviolable weapons fix the voracious ogres, strike them on the precipice and throw them into the abyss, running off into silence and oblivion without uttering a sigh of pain or voice of protest.

इन्द्रासामा परि वां भूतु विश्वते इयं मृतिः कृ याश्वव

6. Indrāsomā pari vām bhūtu viśvata iyam matih kakṣyāśveva vājinā. Yām vām hotrām parihin-omi medhayemā brahmāṇi nṛpaṭīva jinvatam.

Indra-Soma, leading powers of governance and peace, like mighty forces in harness ruling the nation, may this prayer of mine, which, with the best of my intention and understanding I address to you as an exhortation, reach you and inspire you and guide you all round, and may you, like the protector and ruler of the nation as you are, make these words of prayer, exhortation and adoration fruitful.

7. Prati smarethām tujayabdhir-evairhatam druho rakṣaso bhaṅgurāvataḥ. Indrāsomā duṣkrte mā sugam bhūd yo nah kadā cidabhidāsatि druhā.

And remember, be watchful and alert against the malignant, evil and treacherous forces, ward them off and eliminate them with the fastest interceptors and destroyers at the very outset. Indra-Soma, let there be no peace, nothing easy, for the evil doer whoever any time may try to injure, sabotage or enslave us out of jealousy, malignity or enmity.

8. *Yo mā pākena manasā carantam-abhicasṭe

And while I live and act and behave with a mature mind of purity and truth, if someone malign me with false words, let him be caught up like water in the hand grip and evaporate in the heat and, O lord Indra, ruler and law giver of power, let him be reduced to nothing because he speaks nothing but falsehood.

9. *Ye pākaśāṁsam viharanta evairyē vā bhadram

O Soma, lord of peace and justice, if there are those who with their smartness and fast actions malign, lacerate and deprive the man of purity, truth and immaculate honour and spotless reputation, or with their powers and prestige denigrate the man of goodness and charitable action and bring disgrace upon him, deliver such men to the sufferance of darkness and the pain of remorse or let them suffer the fangs of deprivation themselves.

10. Yo no rasam dipsati pitvo agne yo aśvānām yo gavām yastanūnām. Ripuh stenah steyakrd dabhrametu ni ṣa hīyatām tanvā tanā ca.

Whoever pollutes the flavour, taste and vitality of our food and injures or impairs the vigour and power of our horses, cows and our bodies, let such an enemy, the thief, the robber and saboteur, O lord of light and vitality, Agni, be reduced to nullity and himself suffer debility of body and even deprivation from self-extension and further growth.

11. Parah so astu tanvā tanā ca tisrah prthivīradho astu viśvāḥ. Prati śusyatu yaśo asya devā yo no divā dipsati yaśca naktam.

O divinities of nature and humanity, he who wants to injure and destroy us in the day and in the night, must stay far off by his personal presence and also by the progeny of his evil tendencies and even fall lower than all the three orders of earthly existence, i.e., lower far than the good, the bad and the indifferent. His honour and reputation would dry up and evaporate to zero and there would be none even to remember him after. Let it be so with such a person.

12. Suvijñānam cikituse janāya saccāsacca vacasī pasprdhāte. Tayoryat satyam yataradrjīyastadit somo'vati hantyāsat.

Words of truth and words of untruth rival and contend with each other. Of these, the one that is true to the extent it is true and that which is simple and natural, this Soma, lord of peace, harmony and the goodness of life, preserves and protects, and the untrue, he destroys. This simple and straight natural knowledge, the lord reveals for the man who has the desire and ambition to know the truth and reality of life.

13. Na vā u somo vṛjinam hinoti na kṣatriyam mithuya dhārayantam. Hanti rakṣo hantyāsad vadantam-ubhāvindrasya prasitau śayāte.

Soma, lord of truth, peace and harmony, does not call forth the crooked to the distinction between truth and untruth, nor does he impel the selfish kshatriya, ruler administrator, who parades his power and valour in a false manner, nor does he incite the two toward the untrue. But he does destroy the evil and the wicked and also the one who speaks the untruth, since both the evil and the liar end up in the bonds of Indra, lord of justice and power.

14. *Yadi vāhamanṛtadeva āsa mogham vā devān apyūhe agne. Kimasmabhyām jātavedo hrñiṣe

If I were a worshipper of falsehood as my divine ideal, or if I adore the lord and divinities falsely, deceiving them as if, then O lord of light and truth, Agni, you would be angry with me. But I have not been thus, then why would you, knowing everything born in existence, feel angry with us? Not at all, because only the speakers of falsehood would suffer your wrath and punishment.

tapa pūruṣasya. Adhā sa vīrairdaśabhirvi yūyā

If I were a demon on the move, and if I tormented any person in life, then let me suffer death today just now. But I am not such, nor have I done so. Then let that man be forsaken of all his ten faculties of power and prana who falsely proclaims that I am a demonic tormentor of others.

16. Yo māyātum yātudhānetyāha yo vā rakṣāḥ śucirasmītyāha. Indrastam hantu mahatā vadhenā viśvasya jantor-adhamas-padiṣṭa.

Whoever says that I am a devil even though I am not a devil, and whoever says that he is innocent and immaculate even though he is a devil, may Indra, lord of power and justice, punish such a person with his mighty thunderbolt. May such a falsifier fall to the abyss as the worst of all living beings.

And she that goes about at night, hiding her person like the spirit of hate and violence, a she owl as if, let her fall into the bottomless deep of darkness where the stones of evil and darkness itself would destroy her with a clang.

18. Vi tiṣṭhadhvam̄ maruto vikṣvicchata grbhāyata rakṣasāḥ sam pinastana. Vayo ye bhūtvī patayanti naktabhiryē vā ripo dadhire deve adhvare.

O Maruts, vibrant social powers of vigilance and action, stay among the people, keenly watch for the forces of evil and violence, and there, grab them and crush them all that fly about like birds over the nights and cause disturbance and violence in the divine morning yajnas of love and non-violence for creative production and advancement.

Indra, lord of power and justice, from the light of heaven and wisdom of the sages, bring up and strike the thunderbolt of justice and correction tempered and sharpened with soma for peace and progress, and refine and enlighten the noble people dedicated to peace and happiness. From front and back, up and down, seize the wicked and the destroyers and punish them with the bolt.

20. Eta u tye patayanti śvayātava indram dipsanti dipsavo'dābhyam. Śiśite śakrah piśunebhyo vadham nūnam srajadaśanīm yātumadbhyah.

These miscreants with the mentality of street curs roam around, pull people down, and try to damage Indra, the ruler, who is otherwise indomitable. Indra then, commander of power and force, sharpens the thunderbolt, the edge of justice and punishment, for these crafty saboteurs on the prowl and strikes the fatal blow upon them.

इन्द॑ यातूनामभवत्पराशुरा हवि॒मथी॒नामभ्या॑उविवा॒सताम् ।

21. Indro yātūnām-abhavat paraśaro havirmathī-nām-abhyāvivāsatām. Abhīdu śakrah paraśurya-thā vanam pātreva bhindantsata eti rakṣasah.

Indra is the lordly power that throws off the upcoming saboteurs who damage the inputs and infrastructure of yajnic development, he does so for the peace and progress of the human community. He is mighty powerful just like what the axe is for the wood, breaking down the evil and wicked destroyers like pots of clay whenever they raise their head.

22. Ulūkayātum śuśulūkayātum jahi śvayātumuta kokayātum. Suparnayātumuta grdhrayātum drṣadeva pra mṛṇa rakṣa indra.

Indra, resplendent and potent ruler of the world, crush the evil and the wicked like pieces of clay with a stone: the fiend in the garb of an owl or an owlet or a dog or a wolf or a hawk or a vulture. They are covert, stealthy, clever, jealous and growling, cruel destroyers, cunning and voracious.

Let no wicked demonic forces harm and destroy us. Let the darkness of tormentors harming us either by joint force or by doubt and scepticism be off. May the earth protect us against earthly sin and crime. Let the sky protect us against dangers from above.

24. Indra jahi pumāṁsam̄ yātudhānamuta striyam̄ māyayā śāśadānām. Vigrīvāso mūradevā ṛdantu mā te drśant-sūryam-uccarantam.

Indra, punish and eliminate the man demon. Punish and eliminate the woman demon who destroys by deception and crafty design. Let the stranglers of life who play with life and death lose their own throat and let them never see the rising sun.

पति च वि वि च वन्दश्च साम जागृतम् ।

25. Prati cakṣva vi cakṣvendraśca soma jagṛtam. Rakṣobhyo vadhamasyatamaśanīm yātumad-bhyah.

Indra and Soma, lord of power and peace, justice and governance, love and majesty, watch everything that happens and enlighten us too. Shine, reveal and proclaim what is happening and warn us too. Keep awake and let us rise too into awakening. Shoot the arrow upon the demon destroyers, strike the thunderbolt upon the covert saboteurs.

Mandala 8/Sukta 1

*Indra, Danastuti, Asanga Devatah, Pragatha Ghaura
Kanya, Medhatithi Medhyatithi Kanvas, Asanga Playogi, Shashvati Angirasi Rshis*

मा चिदुन्यद्वि शंसत् सखाया मा रिषण्यत ।

1. Mā cidanyad vi śamsata sakhāyo mā riṣanyata. Indramit stotā vṛṣanām sacā sute muhurukthā ca śamsata.

O friends, do not worship any other but One, be firm, never remiss, worship only Indra, sole lord absolute, omnipotent and infinitely generous, and when you have realised the bliss of the lord's presence, sing songs of divine adoration spontaneously, profusely, again and again.

अवक्रिणं वृषभं यथाजुरं गां न चषणीसहम ।
विद्वृष्णं संवन्नाभयंकरं मंहिष्ठमुभयाविनम ॥ २ ॥

2. Avakrakṣṇām vṛṣabham yathājurām gām na carṣaṇīsaham. Vidveṣanām saṁvananobha-yam-karam māniṣṭham-ubhayāvinam.

Worship Indra only, who most spontaneously rushes to the devotee for protection and upon the evil for punishment, correction or destruction. He is profusely and potently generous, free from age and decay, patient and forbearing giver of peace and nourishment to people like the meek cow and motherly earth, saviour from hate and jealousy, most adorable, giver of both material well being (abhyudaya) and spiritual freedom (nihshreyas), most munificent and majestic, and lord ruler and protector of both nature and the soul.

यच्चिद्धि त्वा जना दुम नाना हवन्त ऊतय ।

3. *Yacciddhi tvā janā ime nānā havanta ūtaye.
Asmākam brahmedam-indra bhūtu te'ha viśavā

Although these many people invoke you and pray for protection and progress for themselves in many different ways, yet, we pray, our adoration and prayers and all this wealth, honour and excellence bestowed upon us by you be dedicated to you and always, day and night, exalt your munificence and glory.

वि ततूयन्त मधवन्विपश्चित् या विपा जनानाम् ।

4. Vi tartūryante maghavan vipaścito'ryo viro janā-nām. Upa kramasva pururūpamā bhara vājam nediṣṭham-ūtaye.

O lord of might and majesty, the wise, the noble and the vibrant leaders of the people, by your grace, cross over all obstacles of their struggle for life and success, whenever they face any. Pray, come lord and give us instant energy of versatile form for our protection and victory at the earliest.

मह चन त्वामदिवः परा शुल्काय दयाम ।

5. Mahe cana tvām-adrivah parā śulkāya deyām. Na sahasrāya nāyutāya vajrivo na śatāya śatāmagha.

O lord of infinite wealth, power and majesty, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment, breaker of the clouds and mountains, bless me that I may never give up my devotion to you for the greatest material return, not for a thousand, not for a million, not even for the boundless wealth of the world.

वस्यां इन्दासि म पितुरुत भातुरभुञ्जतः ।

6. *Vasyāñ indrāsi me pituruta bhrātū-abhuñjataḥ.
Mātā ca me chadayathāḥ samā vaso vasutva-nāya rādhase.*

You command greater wealth, power and prestigious settlement for me than my father, you are closer to me than my indifferent brother. Only my mother and you are equal to provide me solace and protection, O shelter of the universe, for my wealth and celebrity in success (my mother as individual mother and you as universal mother).

7. Kveyatha kvedasi purutrā ciddhi te manah. Alarsi yudhma khajakṛt purandara pra gāyatrā agā-siṣuh.

Where do you move and reach? Where do you reside and abide? No one can say. Your mind and presence is everywhere, universal. O lord of the warlike dynamics of existence, pivot and churner of the universe, breaker of the citadels of darkness and ignorance, come and bless us, the celebrants and singers of Gayatri hymns invoke and adore you.

पास्मै गायत्रमचत् वावातुयः पुरन्दरः ।

8. Prāsmai gāyatram-arcata vāvāturyah puran-darah. Yābhiḥ kāṇvasyopa barhirāsadarām yāsad vajrī bhinat purah.

O celebrants of Indra, lord of the thunderbolt, sing hymns of adoration in Gayatri music in honour of Indra who is breaker of the strongholds of darkness which oppose and oppress the lord's devotees, so that, pleased by these adorations, the lord may reveal his presence and grace the mind and vedi of the enlightened sages and break through the citadels of darkness to bless the devotees.

य तु सन्ति दशग्विनः शतिना य सहस्रिणः ।

9. *Ye te santi daśagvinah śatino ye sahasriṇah.
Aśvāso ye te vrṣāno raghudruvas-tebhira-nastūyamā gahi.*

Indra, breaker of the citadels of darkness and ignorance to light, come post haste to us with all those lightning powers and forces of yours which are vigorous and generous, radiating into all the ten directions in a hundred and a thousand ways.

आ त्व॑द्य सबुधां हुव गाय॒त्रव॑पसम ।

10. Ā tvadya sabardughām huve gāyatravepasam.
Indram dhenum sudughām-anyām-iṣamur-udhārām-aramkṛtam.

Today I invoke Indra, I invoke the motherly spirit of the universe, giver of total fulfilment of the heart's desire, pleased and stirred by the chant of Gayatri songs of adoration, omnipotent and omnificent, generous as Mother Nature, giver of ample gifts beyond the earth and the earthly cow, harbinger of showers of the cherished nectar milk of life, all blissful and gracious.

यत्तुदत्सूर् एतशं वृङ्कू वातस्य प॒णिना॑ ।

11. Yat tudat sūra etaśām vanķū vātasya parṇinā.
Vahat kutsam-ārjuneyam śatakratuh tsarad gandharvam-astrītam.

Indra, lord immanent, omnipresent and all energiser, gives the initial stroke of motion to everything on the move such as the sun and the cloud by the waves of cosmic energy. Thus the lord of countless actions of cosmic yajna brings the thunderstroke of cosmic energy to move the sun, wielder of the earth, and he brings the thunder stroke of lightning to break the cloud into rain. (Indra thus is the unmoved, all immanent, original mover of the universe.)

य ऋृत चिदभिश्रिष्टः पुरा ज्ञत्रुभ्य आतृदः ।
सन्धीता सन्धिं मधवा पुरुवसुरिष्कता विहृतं पुनः ॥ १२ ॥

12. Ya ṛte cidabhiśriṣah̄ purā jatrubhya ātṛdah̄. Saṁdhātā saṁdhiṁ maghavā̄ purūvasur-iṣkartā vihrutam̄ punah̄.

Indra is that vibrant immanent lord of unbounded natural health and assertive life energy who, without piercing and without ligatures, provides for the original jointure of the series of separate vertebrae and collar bones and then, later, heals and sets the same back into healthy order if they get dislocated or fractured.

मा भूम् निष्टयाङ्गवन्दु त्वदरणाइव ।

13. Mā bhūma niṣṭyā ivendra tvadaraṇā iva. Vanāni na prajahitānyadrivo duroṣāso amanmahi.

Indra, lord almighty, maker and breaker of clouds and mountains, free from anger and fear we adore you and pray: Give us the grace that we may never be like the lowest of human species with nothing to be proud of, let us never be like the indifferent and the depressed, let us never be reduced to the state of forsaken thickets of dead wood.

अमन्महीदनाशवा॑ नुगासश्च वृत्रहन ।

14. Amanmahīdanāśavo'nugrāsaśca vṛtrahan. Sakṛt su te mahatā śūra rādhasā 'nu stomam̄ mudīmahi.

Indra, omnipotent lord, destroyer of darkness and ignorance, we pray that, gently and at peace without anger or impatience, we always worship and meditate on you and, by virtue of your grandeur and glory, we should celebrate and exalt your honour and rejoice with exciting songs and yajnic sessions.

यदि स्तामं मम श्रवदस्माकुमिन्दुमिन्दवः ।

15. Yadi stomam mama śravad-asmākam-indramindavah. Tirah pavitram sasrvāṁsa āśavo mandantu tugryāvṛdhah.

And if the lord omnipotent, Indra, listen to my song of divine celebration, then may the offers of homage and oblations of soma, quick and fast, augmented by holy waters, reaching the pure and immaculate lord, please and exalt him and delight us with success.

आ त्वांद्य सुधस्तुतिं वावातुः सख्युरा गौहि।

16. Ā tvadya sadhastutim vāvātuh sakhyurā gahi. Upastutir-maghonām pra tvāvatvadhā te vaśmi susṭutim.

O lord, pray come and accept the joint praise and adorations of your friends and devotees. And may the spontaneous and heart felt prayers and adorations of the wealthy and powerful also reach you today. And now it is my time and desire to offer my song of adoration.

साता हि सामुमदिभिरमनमुप्सु धावत ।

17. Sotā hi somam-adribhir-emenam-apsu dhāvata. Gavyā vastreva vāsayanta innaro nirdhuksan vakṣaṇābhyaḥ.

O friends and celebrants of Indra, lord omnipotent, extract the soma with grinders, mix and stir it in waters. Then leading lights of yajna, refining it like the concentration of sun rays, offer it into the fire and milk out waters in showers from space for the flowing streams.

Note: This mantra is a metaphor of meditation and spiritual realisation also. When you churn the world of your sense experiences, thought and memory, extract the essential value and offer it into the fire of meditation, then the light of divinity descends on you and your life is changed. It is then that the light of divinity flows into the channels of your thought and action.

अध् ज्मा अस्व तुन्वा गिरा ममा जाता सुकता पृण ॥ १८ ॥

18. Adha jmo adha vā divo bṛhato rocanādadhi. Ayā vardhasva tanvā girā mama'' jātā sukrato prṇa.

O lord resplendent and omnipotent, whether on earth or in the regions of light or even beyond the expansive light of heaven, be pleased and exalted by this refined and radiating voice of adoration and, O lord presiding spirit of yajna, bless us and our children with perfect fulfilment.

इन्द्राय सु मदिन्तमं सामं साता वरेण्यम् ।

19. *Indrāya su madintamam̄ somam̄ sotā varenyam.
Śakra eṇam̄ pīpayad viśvayā dhiyā hinvānam̄ na

O celebrants of Indra, seekers of spiritual perfection, for the attainment of holiness of thought, karma and vision, extract the choicest, most exhilarating soma from life and offer it to Indra, spirit of the universe, and the lord omnipotent would bless this seeker of fulfilment calling upon the lord with universal intelligence and will for a life of perfect action.

मा त्वा सामस्य गल्दया सदा याचे हं गिरा ।

20. *Mā tvā somasya galdayā sadā yācannaham girā.
Bhūrnīm mṛgam na savaneṣu cukrudham ka īśānam na yaciṣat.*

O lord, always beseeching you for one thing or another with my words of prayer as with each drop of soma offered to you, I pray, I may not provoke you to anger in yajna, you who are infinite giver and sole ruler of the universe like a lion of the forest. Listen, O lord, who doesn't ask of the ruler and the munificent?

मदनषितं मदमुगमुगणं शवसा ।

21. *Madeneṣitam madam-ugram-ugrena śavasā.
Viśveṣām tarutāram madacyutam made hi smā

When the lord is pleased with our devotion, then he grants us the most exciting joy along with brilliant strength and power which we love and pray for with enthusiasm and which eliminates all pride of the ego and helps us cross over all challenges of life.

शवार् वायो पुरु द्वा मतीय दाशुष ।

22. Śevāre vāryā puru devo martāya dāśuṣe. Sa sunvate ca stuvate ca rāsate viśvagūrto arīṣṭutah.

In the treasure hold of yajna, the self-refulgent lord universally adored keeps wealth and excellence of choice for the generous mortal which he, acknowledged and adored even by adversaries, gives to the celebrant and the worshipful lover of soma for homage to the lord.

एन्द्र याहि मत्स्वं चित्रणं दव् राधसा ।

23. *Endra yāhi matsva citrena deva rādhasā. Saro

Indra, lord of glory, come with various wondrous forms of wealths of the world and let us rejoice in the bliss of your presence. Like the universal reservoir, fill our vast world of existence with exciting and soothing wealth, honour and excellence for complete self-fulfilment.

आ त्वा सुहस्त्रमा शतं युक्ता रथे हिर्ण्यये ।

24. *Ā tvā sahasramā śatam yuktā rathe hirṇyaye.

May the hundreds and thousands of forces of nature and humanity harnessed to the golden chariot of the universe, radiant with light and dedicated to divinity, invoke and invite you hither into the heart so that we may experience the bliss of divine presence.

आ त्वा रथे हिरण्यये हरी मयूरशाप्या ।

25. Ā tvā rathe hiranyaye harī mayūraśepyā. Śiti-pṛṣṭhā vahatāṁ madhvo andhaso vivakṣanasya pītaye.

May the vibrant forces of divine energy, joined to your golden chariot of the universe with rhythmic majesty like the peacock's feather tail and mighty power with circuitous motion of energy currents, radiate your presence here so that you may acknowledge and accept our love and homage and we experience the bliss of divine presence.

पिबा त्वंस्य गिर्वणः सुतस्य पूवपाइव ।

26. Pibā tvasya girvanāḥ sutasya pūrvapā iva. Pariskṛtasya rasina iyam-āsutiś-cārur-madāya patyate.

Like the eternal lord of love fond of the celebrant's homage, come and accept the devotee's love and faith distilled from life's experience. The flow of the ecstatic celebrant's clairvoyance pure and sweet is full of ananda and radiates from the heart for spiritual bliss.

य एका अस्ति दुःसना महाँ उगा अभि वृतः ।

27. Ya eko asti daṁsanā mahān ugro abhi vṛtaiḥ. Gamat sa śiprī na sa hoṣadā gamaddhavāṁ na pari varjati.

He is one, unique and incomparable, great by his omnipotence and action, resplendent and supreme by his laws and observance. May the lord, like the light of grace, descend on us, may he never be away, may be ever respond to our call and come to our yajna and never forsake us.

28. Tvam̄ puram̄ cariṣṇvam̄ vadhaiḥ śuṣṇasya sāṁ piṇak. Tvam̄ bhā anu caro adha dvitā yadindra havyo bhuvah.

With fatal strokes of arms, you destroy the forces of evil and exploitation on the rampant, you are the light of life and bless the lights of life in action, and thus you are doubly adorable and worshipped in two complementary aspects, as destroyer and as preserver, O lord omnipotent and self-refulgent.

मम त्वा सूर उदित् मम मध्यन्दिन दिवः ।

29. *Mama tvā sūra udite mama madhyandine divah.
Mama prapitve apiśarvare vasavā stomāso avṛtsata.*

O lord of the universe, shelter of life and existence, at the dawn of sunrise let my prayers and songs of exaltation reach you. At the middle of the day when the sun is on the high, let my prayers and songs of adoration reach you. And when the day is over and night is fallen and the stars shine, let my songs of prayer and peace reach you.

30. Stuhi stuhidete ghā te maṁhiṣṭhāso maghonām. ninditāśvah̄ prapathī paramajyā maghasya medhyātithē.

O Medhyatithi, venerable traveller on life's highway, O guest, O host, pray to Indra, adore him, and these too around you, all richest of the rich and mightiest of the mighty, should adore him: omnipresent, faster than the fastest, instantly moving all round over paths of infinity, commanding the rule and dispensation of the highest wealth and power of existence.

आ यदश्वान्वन्वतः श्रद्धयाहं रथं रुहम ।

31. Ā yadaśvān vanavataḥ śraddhayāham rathe ruham. Uta vāmasya vasunaściketati yo asti yādvah̄ paśuh.

When I control the outgoing senses and mind and look within riding as if the body chariot with faith, then in that state of experience whoever is refined and watchful knows the inner secrets of this beautiful world of existence.

32. Ya rjṛā mahyam māmahe saha tvacā hiraṇyayā. Eṣa viśvānyabhyastu saubhagā' samgasya svanadrathah.

Who gives me dynamic and powerful gifts of life with a golden cover and thus does me honour may be blest with the highest good fortunes of the world and may this devoted man go forward in life by a resounding chariot.

33. Adha plāyogirati dāsadanyānāśamgo agne daśabhiḥ sahasraiḥ. Adhokṣaṇo daśa mahyam ruśanto nalā iva saraso niratiṣṭhan.

Agni, omnipresent light of life, the dedicated man of charity conducting yajnic and spiritual projects in science and spirituality exceeds others by tens and thousands especially when he gives to me ten highly brilliant and creative gifts rising like lotus from a lake.

34. Anvasya sthūram dadṛśe purastād-anastha ūruravarambamāṇah. Śaśvatī nāryabhi-cakṣyāha subhadram-arya bhojanam bibharṣi.

The gross form of the universe is seen emerging from the infinite transphysical spiritual reality. The eternal Mother Nature watches and says: O lord of gracious charity, you alone hold the blessed food for the life of mortal humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 2

1. *Idam vaso sutam-andhah pibā supūrṇam-udaram.

Stirred by best of men, crushed and filtered by men of adamantine character, purified and guarded by best of the brave, it is sparkling like sun rays reflected on the river waters.

That sparkling soma drink of devotion seasoned with barley, mixed with milk and cream, we, blenders, having prepared it, offer to you in this house of celebration.

4. *Indra it somapā eka indrah sutapā viśvāyuh.

Among ordinary mortals and among divines of wisdom and vision, Indra, the karmayogi, alone is the protector of soma, Indra, the man of knowledge and dedication, alone is the valuer of the worshipper's devotion and homage as he alone has the world vision.

न यं शुका न दुराशीन तृपा उरुव्यचसम ।

5. *Na yam śukro na durāśīna tprā uruvyacasam.

Neither the most sparkling soma of devotion nor the most sophisticated and aromatic, nor the most delightful, ever satiate the lord infinite of the holiest heart and love.

6. Gobhir-yadīmanye asmanmrgam na vrā mrgayante. Abhītsaranti dhenubhih.

7. *Traya indrasya somāḥ sutāsaḥ santu devasya.

For self-refulgent and generous Indra who is fond of the soma dedication of devotees, there are three sessions of soma distilled and offered in homage in the devotee's own home of yajna and prayer, at dawn, at mid-day and in the evening before night fall.

clouds laden with vapour, then these heroes go forward bright and pure splitting and flying off the vapours and waters.

31. Kaddha nūnam kadhapiyo yadindramajahātana. Ko vah sakhitva ohate.

generous, most adorable and wondrous versatile warriors of the winds and abide by them.

34. *Girayaścinni jihate parśānāso manyamānāḥ.
Parvatāścinni yemire.*

Mountains give way before them, formidable peaks pant and turn into chasms and clouds change their course under the force of Maruts.

आ ण्यावाना वहन्त्यन्तरि ण् पततः । धातारः स्तुवुत वयः ॥ ३५ ॥

35. *Āksṇayāvāno vahantyantarikṣena patataḥ.
Dhātarah stuvate vayah.*

Chariots flying at the speed of eye-light over the paths of space transport the Maruts, harbingers of food, energy, health and full age for the celebrant.

अग्निहि जानि पूर्व्यश्छन्दा न सूरा अचिष्ठा । त भानुभिवि तस्थिर ॥ ३६ ॥

36. *Agnirhi jāni pūrvyaśchando na sūro arcīṣā.
Te bhānubhir vi tasthire.*

Agni, earliest ruling light of the world, came into existence with self-refulgence like the sun and the music of Vedic voice, and the Maruts manifested and ever abided by rays of the sun and flames of fire.

1. *Tam gūrdhayā svarnaram devāso devamaratim

Praise the self-refulgent lord giver of heavenly bliss whom the divinities of light and enlightenment hold and reflect in all his glory, Agni, the lord adorable, all pervasive yet uninvolved, whom the noble and learned people perceive, realise and worship as the one worthy of worship.

O vibrant scholar, worship Agni, lord of light and enlightenment, infinitely giving, awfully wondrous and self-refulgent, and the sole leader and controller of the world. Worship Him, the lord eternal, O generous man, in order that you may participate in this yajnic system of the lord's universe which is full of love without violence and overflows with the blissful joy of soma, an inspiring invitation to live and act as the child of divinity.

3. *Yajisṭham tvā vavṛmahe devam devatrā hotāram-

We choose to worship you, Agni, most adorable, worthy of worship, self-refulgent lord over the divinities of existence, imperishable and eternal creator of the yajna of this universal order of the world.

We worship Agni, protector and promoter of energy and men of energy, lord of grandeur and glory and the holy refulgence of nature that shines bright with the highest flames of fire and light. In the light and fire of cosmic yajna, He is the giver of joy in the light of day and the bliss of peace in the night, and He is the giver of the nectar of pleasure in the liquid flow of water and the dynamics of karmic flow.

यः सुमिधा य आहृती या वदन् दुदाश मता' अग्रय ।

5. Yah samidhā ya āhṛtī yo vedena dadāśa marto agnaye. Yo namasā svadhvarah.

The mortal man who performs yajna, creative activity without violence, and offers homage by giving in honour of Agni with holy fuel or with havi in ghrta and fragrant materials with the chant of Vedic verses enjoys the peace and bliss of life day and night.

6. Tasyedarvanto ramhayanta āśavastasya dyumnitamāṁ yaśah. Na tamāṁho devakṛtam kutaścana na martyakṛtam naśat.

His horses speed on at the fastest and hasten him to victory. His honour and fame shine the brightest. Whatever he does in honour of the divinities or in service to mortal humanity, sin and pride never touch him nor does it pollute his action.

7. Svagnayo vo agnibhiḥ syāma sūno sahasa ūrjām pate. Suvīras-tvam-asmayuh.

O lord creator of energy and master controller of strength and power, let us, by yajnic experimentations of various forms of heat and light, all your gifts, be masters of fire energies and light radiations. You are the bravest holy power. Pray be ours, close to us as master giver and power divine.

8. Praśamsamāno atithirna mitriyo'gnī ratho na vedyah. Tve kṣemāso api santi sādhavas-tvam rājā rayīnām.

Agni is worthy of praise and admiration as a friendly guest of honour and worthy to be known as a saviour like a chariot leading to cherished destinations. Abiding in you and strengthened by you, O lord, dedicated practitioners rise to be men of perfect success in peace and bliss since you are the ruler and controller of all forms of the wealth of existence.

9. So addhā dāśvadhabaro'gne martaḥ subhaga sa praśamsyah. Sa dhībhiraśtu sanitā.

O lord of universal wealth and grandeur, Agni, we pray, may the mortal come to sure success and good fortune who gives in charity and performs acts of yajnic creativity with love and without violence. May such a man be worthy of praise and appreciation with holy acts of intelligence and may he be rich in acquisitions and liberal in dispensations of charity.

10. Yasya tvamūrdhvo adhvarāya tiṣṭhasi kṣayad-vīraḥ sa sādhate. So arvadbhiḥ sanitā sa vipan-yubhiḥ sa śūraiḥ sanitā kṛtam.

The man for whose acts of yajna you rise high and stay constant is blest with brave progeny and achieves all round success in life. He is blest with horses and incoming wealth and honour. Surrounded by the wise, he is blest with praise and high appreciation. Supported by the brave, he achieves fulfilment in whatever he does and whatever he wants to do.

11. Yasyāgnir-vapurgṛhe stomam cano dadhīta viśvavāryah. Havyā vā veviṣad viṣah.

Blest is the man in whose house Agni, lord of universal acceptance with faith and reverence, through the divine fire form of yajna, receives oblations of holy food and Vedic songs of praise and the fire sends up yajnic food to nature's divinities. He achieves total fulfilment in every field of life through the bounties of divine nature.

12. Viprasya vā stuvataḥ sahaso yaho makṣūt-amasya rātiṣu. Avo-devam-uparimartyam kṛdhi vaso vividuṣo vacah.

And O child of strength born of yajnic endeavour and sustainer of vitality in human affairs, O Vasu, all pervasive divine fire, living shelter of all, convert the song of the vibrant scholar celebrant to super mortal prayer and raise it to reach the heights of divinity.

या अग्निं हृव्यदातिभिनमाभिवा सुद त्माविवासति ।

13. Yo agnim havyadātibhir-namobhir-vā sudakṣam-āvivāsati. Girā vājira-śociṣam.

One who lights the versatile yajnic fire and thereby whole heartedly serves the fire divine of imperishable flames with oblations of sacred havis, reverence and holy words of prayer never falls, never fails in life.

14. Samidhā yo niśitī dāśadaditīm dhāmabhirasya martyah. Viśvet sa dhībhiḥ subhago janān ati dyumnairudga iva tāriṣat.

The mortal who serves Aditi, immortal fire of mother Infinity, with blazing fuel within the radiance of its own laws is blest with the wealth and splendour of all orders of intelligence, honour and fame and surpasses all people of the other order like a captain on the helm crossing the stormy seas.

तदग्ने द्युम्नमा भर् यत्सासहत्सदन् कं चिद्विणम ।

15. Tadagne dyumnamā bhara yat sāhasat sadane kam cidatrīṇam. Manyum janasya dūdhyah.

Agni, lord of light and life, give us that splendour of spirit and intelligence which may challenge and overcome any voracious friend at the door, in the heart and home, and counter the wealth of any evil minded person anywhere in life.

16. Yena caste varuṇo mitro aryamā yena nāsatyā bhagah. Vyāṁ tat te śavasā gātuvittamā indra tvotā vidhemahi.

Agni, lord of light and life, we worship, pray for and try to acquire that light of vision and discrimination of intelligence of yours by which Varuna, man of judgement and justice, Mitra, man of love and friendship, Aryaman, guide and pioneer of society, the Ashvins, complementary agents of development and progress, and Bhaga, man of power, fame and honour, envision things in unison, discriminate right from wrong, and declare for all to see and follow the right so that thereby, O Indra, ruling lord and power version of Agni, we all, most keen to know the paths of progress and follow them, may advance with the power of our will and knowledge under your guidance and protection.

17. Te ghedagne svādhyo ye tvā vipra nidadhire nr̄cakṣasam. Viprāso deva sukratum.

Agni, self-refulgent lord of life, vibrant presence of the universe, surely they are the wise and holy men and they are the blessed men of noble thought and study worthy of reverence who hold on to the light of your presence in the heart and meditate on the presence as the lord observant of humanity and as the high priest of the cosmic yajna.

18. Ta id vedim subhaga ta āhutim te sotum cakrire divi. Ta id vājebyir-jigyur-mahad dhanam ye tve kāmam nyerire.

Lord of glory and divine grace, Agni, they alone in reality organise the yajna vedi, they really offer the oblations into the sacred fire, they in truth endeavour to distil the soma of joy in the light of divinity, they in ultimate terms win the wealth of life by their struggle of life, who concentrate their hopes and ambitions in you and attribute and dedicate all their success, honour and fame to you.

19. Bhadro no agnirāhuto bhadrā rātiḥ subhaga bhadro adhvarah. Bhadrā uta praśastayah.

Lord of beauty and glory, may the yajna fire with offers of oblations be auspicious for us. May our charity be auspicious. May our yajna and all other acts of kindness and love free from violence be auspicious. And may all the appreciation and praise of our acts and behaviour be auspicious and fruitful.

20. Bhadram manah kṛṇuṣva vṛtratūrye yenā samatsu sāsahah. Ava sthirā tanuhi bhūri śardhatāṁ vanemā te abhiṣṭibhiḥ.

Agni, leading light of life, turn the mind by which you challenge the adversary in battles and win for us to gracious goodness in the victory over the forces of darkness. Reduce the many strongholds of the violent adversaries to nullity so that by your kindness and favours we may win what we desire in peace.

21. Īle girā manurhitam yam devā dūtam-aratiṁ nyerire. Yajisṭham havyavāhanam.

With words of praise I celebrate Agni, sacred fire energy, benefactor of humanity whom brilliant scholars honour and elevate as messenger, speedy ministrant, most valuable and adorable, and bearer of oblations to the divinities of nature.

22. Tigmajambhāya taruṇāya rājate prayo gāya-syagnaye. Yah piṁśate sūnṛtābhīḥ suvīryam-agnir-ghrtebhīr-āhutah.

O yajaka, you sing and celebrate Agni and offer libations of holy food to the flaming, ever youthful and brilliant fire of yajna which, when fed on ghrta and sung in sacred song, gives you strength and vigour in return for the homage.

यदी घृतभिराहुता वाशीम्‌ग्निभरत् उच्चावे च ।

23. *Yadī gṛtebhīr-āhuto vāśīm-agnir-bharata

When the fire of yajna fed on ghrta rises in flames with a crackle up and down, then it displays its form and power like an earthly version of the sun radiating its light.

या हृव्यान्यरयता मनुहिता द्रव आसा सुगुन्धिना ।

24. *Yo havyānyairayatā manurhito deva āśā

Agni is the divine power which receives and carries the holy materials to the divinities by its fragrant vedi-mouth of fire. It is the benefactor of humanity and gives the choicest good things to all. It is the agent of good action and illuminator of the paths of piety. It is the high priest of universal yajna and an immortal divine power.

*Yadagne martyastvam syāmaham mitramaho

Agni, light and life of the world, child of omnipotence and creator of the mighty cosmos, mortal as I am, if I could worship you and were to become like you, I too would be an immortal, great adorable friend of the world of existence.

न त्वा रासीयाभिशस्तय वसा न पापत्वाय सन्त्य ।

26. Na tvā rāsiyābhiśastaye vaso na pāpatvāya santya. Na me stotāmatīvā na durhitaḥ syādagne na pāpayā.

Agni, light of life, haven and home of humanity, let me not worship you for the sake of something despicable. Lord adorable, nor must I pray to you for something evil. Let not my own admirer, say my son or my disciple, be stupid and dull, nor malignant, nor sinful.

पितुन पुत्रः सुभृता दुराण आ दुवाँ एतु प णा हृविः ॥ २७ ॥

27. Piturna putraḥ subhṛto durona ā devāñ etu praṇo haviḥ.

Just as the son is cherished in the father's home and then the son looks after the parents, similarly Agni is cherished in the house of yajna and may Agni carry our oblations to the divinities.

28. Tavāhamagna ūtibhir-nediṣṭhābhīḥ saceya joṣamā vaso. Sadā devasya martyaḥ.

Agni, light of life all pervasive, shelter home of humanity, mortal as I am, I pray, may I, by the closest protections of the power divine always enjoy the love and favour of the lord.

By virtue of your mercy and grace, let me love you with yajnic life of holy action. By virtue of your acceptance, appreciation and generosity, let me serve you with all that you have given me. The wise say that you are the wisest, most high, and foremost leader and guide, O shelter of humanity. O lord, be pleased and generous to bless me that I may offer and sing praises in honour of your glory.

Agni, lord of universal love and friendship, he whose love and friendship, devotion and dedication, you accept into your kind care thrives under your protection and promotion and advances in life with noble and heroic progeny, moving from victory to glory.

Agni, giver of the showers of joy in life, the world of your creation flows on like drops of soma from the press, colourful, crackling volatile, exciting and fresh through the seasons, bright and beautiful, passionately lovable. You are darling of the glory of dawns and you shine ever in the glimmerings of the dusk and reflect in the ripples of water.

32. Tamāganma sobharayah sahasramuṣkam svabhiṣṭim-avase. Samrājam trāsadasavyavam.

Blest with wealth and knowledge and bearing gifts of homage, for ultimate protection and further advancement, we have come to the lord almighty of a thousand forces of light and arms, object of universal love and adoration, blazing ruler of the universe and a scourge of the evil destroyers.

Of you, Agni, lord and light of the universe, on whom do other lights such as the sun depend like branches of the tree, I sing like a poet and, celebrating your ruling orders of the people, I enjoy the honour and pleasures of the world of your creation.

33. *Yamādityaso adruhah pāram nayatha martyam.

O Adityas, generous givers of light and life free from malice and jealousy, of all the people of wealth, honour and power, whoever the mortal you guide and lead across the world of karma and consequence, he is the man of good fortune.

Adityas, powers and givers of light and justice, rulers of the bright order over people, punish whoever does evil and violence toward the law abiding citizens. O Vauna, ruling power of judgement and justice, Mitra, men of love and friendship, and Aryaman, guides and pioneers of the nation, let us be cooperative participants to take over the reins of your law and order of the truth and justice of your vision.

May the lord sustainer of all life and destroyer of negativities, protector against the wicked, most liberal, most respectable defender of truth and goodness, I pray, bless us with many manly sons in the family and give them all noble wives.

May the lord omnipresent, master ruler of all moving things and the three worlds, supporter of all liberal people, be my ultimate guide, inspiration, and abode at the end of my life of karma, moving as I am towards him with concentration on good things in thought and action.

Mandala 8/Sukta 20

Marutah Devataḥ, Sobhari Kanya Rshi

आ गन्ता मा रिषण्यत् पर्स्थावाना माप स्थाता समन्यवः ।

1. Ā gantā mā riṣanyata prasthāvāno māpa sthātā samanyavah. Sthirā cinnamayiṣṇavah.

Come Maruts, warriors of nature and humanity. Do not hurt nor destroy the innocent. Already on the move as ever, pray do not tarry any more far away. Heroes of equal passion, will and desire to accomplish your mission, you can bend even the firmest forces of violence and bring them to reason.

वीळुपविभिमरुत ऋभु ण आ रुदासः सुदीतिभिः ।

We know the virile Maruts dedicated to peace and justice against violence and injustice. They are harbingers of rain showers of plenty as participative agents of the cosmic will working in the dynamics of nature and humanity.

O self-refulgent Maruts, when you in your blazing armour stir and move, islands sink at their banks, the evil stand still, both heaven and earth shake and the deserts rage with flying sands.

अच्युता चिद्वा अज्म ा नानदति पवतासा वनस्पतिः ।

5. *Acyutā cid vo ajmannā nānadati parvatāso vana-

At your move to battle, fixed mountains roar, ancient trees crack and crackle, and the earth shakes under the force of your pressure.

6. *Amāya vo maruto yātave dyaurjihīta uttarā br̄hat.
Yatrā naro dediśate tanūṣvā tvakṣāṁsi bāhvajasah.*

O Maruts, for the expansion of your force and power on the march, the vast skies give way farther and farther as the heroes of mighty arm put on and display their armour on their person.

स्वधामनु श्रियं नरा महि त्वषा अमवन्ता वृषप्सवः ।
वहन्त् अहृतप्सवः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Svadhāmanu śriyam naro mahi tvesā amavanto vṛṣapsavah. Vahante ahrutapsavah.

These mighty heroes, blazing bright in magnificence, commanding force and power of excellence, generous with moral rectitude, far from crookedness and unshakably upright in conduct, wear and express the grace of culture and behaviour in keeping with their innate merit and dedication to the defence of mother earth and her children.

गाभिर्वाणा अञ्यत् साभरीणां रथं काशं हिरण्यय ।

The missile of these protectors, sustainers and defenders of the earth is shot by the force of sounds in the golden interior of the carrier chariot. May these heroes, friends of the earth, nobly born and trained, great and glorious, stand for our maintenance, food and energy, comfort, love and cooperation.

O Maruts, stormy troops of nature and leading warriors of the human nation, come freely like the mighty high flying eagle birds and bring us holy yajnic inputs for development and human progress for our protection and advancement by your strongly built chariot drawn by mighty forces, bearing loads of riches in generous plenty for our spiritual and material well being.

सुमानमञ्चषां वि भौजन्त रुक्मासा अधि ब्राह्मु ।
दविद्युतत्यृष्टयः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Samānamāñjyeśām vi bhrājante rukmāso adhi bāhuṣu. Davidyutatyṛṣṭayah.

The turn out, uniform and movement of these Maruts is steady and alike. So are their golden badges on the shoulders, and their weapons too shine uniformly in their hands.

Bold and fearsome are they, vigorous and generous, strong of arm, so that they don't have to exert to defend their bodies and battle formations. Their arms and ammunitions are safe and strong, ready in position in their chariots, and in their battles they come out victorious with credit and admiration.

वया न पित्र्यं सहः ॥ १३ ॥

13. Yeśāmarṇo na sapratho nāma tveśāṁ śaśvatāmekamid bhuje. Vayao na pitryāṁ sahāḥ.

Ever ready and on the move without relent, their name and fame is unique, wide as the sea and expansive. So is their courage and patience to be enjoyed like ancestral heritage.

तान्वन्दस्व मरुतस्ताँ उप स्तुहि तषां हि धुनीनाम ।

14. Tān vandasva marutastāṁ upa stuhi teṣāṁ hi dhunīnām. Arāṇāṁ na caramastadeṣāṁ dānā mahnā tadeṣāṁ.

Honour the Maruts, celebrate them all closely and fervently. As the spokes of the wheel are all equal, so all of these shakers of the evil and the wicked are equal, none is the highest, none the lowest. Hence also the gifts of protection and security of all of them are equally great.

सुभगः स वै ऊतिष्वासु पूर्वासु मरुता व्युष्टिषु ।
या वा नूनमुतासति ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Subhagah sa va ūtiṣvāsa pūrvāsu maruto vyuṣṭiṣu.
Yo vā nūnamutāsati.*

Fortunate is that man, and prospers, O Maruts, who has been under your care and protection since early dawns and who for sure remains under your care for now and all time.

यस्य वा यूं पति वाजिना नर आ हव्या वीतये गथ ।

16. Yasya vā yūyam̄ prati vājino nara ā havyā vītaye gatha. Abhi ṣa dyumnairuta vājasātibhiḥ sumnā vo dhūtayo naśat.

O Maruts, leading lights of life, movers and shakers of negativities and opposition, whoever the man with yajnic gift when you approach to protect and partake of his offerings, is blest with peace and comfort and he prospers with honour and fame and wins victories in the battles for food, energy and wealth with prestige.

यथा रुद्रस्य सूनवा दिवा वशन्त्यसुरस्य वधसः ।
युवानुस्तथदसत ॥ १७ ॥

17. Yathā rudrasya sūnavo divo vaśantyasurasya vedhasah. Yuvānastathedasat.

As the Maruts, youthful children of Rudra, cosmic justice, light divine and universal life-giving intelligence, would wish, so may it be with us and all.

य चाहैन्ति मरुतः सुदानवः स्मन्मी हुषश्चरन्ति य ।

18. Ye cārhanti marutah sudānavah smanmīlhu-ṣaścaranti ye. Ataścidā na upa vasyasā hṛdā yuvāna āvavṛdhvam.

There are those people who honour the virile and generous Maruts, warriors and rain bearers of the nation. There are also those generous and charitable people who act and conduct themselves according to the Maruts' good wishes. For this reason, O youthful heroes, come and promote us with a very liberal and sympathetic heart as your own.

यूनं ऊषु नविष्ठया वृष्णः पावकां अभि साभर गिरा ।
गाय गाइव चकृषत ॥ १९ ॥

19. Yūna ū ḫu naviṣṭhayā vṛṣṇah pāvakāñ abhi sobhare girā. Gāya iva carkṛṣat.

As a farmer yokes and exhorts his bulls while ploughing the land, so should you, O manager of the nation, appreciate and celebrate the youthful, virile, generous and purifying Maruts, exhorting them with exciting words of latest praise and commendation.

साहा य सन्ति मुष्टिहव् हव्या विश्वासु पृत्सु हातृषु ।

20. Sāhā ye santi muṣṭiheva havyo viśvāsu pṛtsu hotrṣu. Vṛṣṇaścandrānna suśravastamān girā vandasva maruto aha.

Those who accept challenges of hostile and formidable forces in battles of the human nation in the world and, like a veteran celebrated boxer, repulse the challengers and win, those virile Maruts, generous as cloud bearing winds, handsome as the golden moon, and most reputed in humanity, O poet, sing and celebrate in spontaneous and most exciting words and voice.

गावश्चिद्वा समन्यवः सजात्यन मरुतः सबन्धवः ।
रिहत कुकुभा॑ मिथः ॥ २१ ॥

21. Gāvaścid ghā samanyavah sajātyena marutah sabandhavah. Rihate kakubho mithah.

O Maruts, heroes of equal mind bound in brotherhood, even cows, by virtue of the same species sit together and love each other under your kind care even though they may be moving around in different directions.

मतश्चिद्वा नृतवा रुक्मव ास उप भातृत्वमायति । अधि॒

22. *Martaścid vo nṛtavo rukmavakṣasa upa bhrātryvamāyati. Adhi no gāta marutah sadā hi va

Mortals too, O Maruts, singing and dancing celebrants of life wearing golden corselet on the chest, come to realise their kindred unity under your kind care and direction. Sing and speak to us over and above us since our brotherhood with you is always inviolable.

मरुता मारुतस्य न आ भेषजस्य वहता सुदानवः ।
यूयं सखायः सप्तयः ॥ २३ ॥

23. Maruto mārutasya na ā bheṣajasya vahatā sudānavah. Yūyam sakha�ah saptayah.

O Maruts, sojourners of lands and skies, moving in formations of seven coursers, noble and generous friends of the community, bring in for us medicaments of the air for our health and environment.

याभिः सिन्धुमवथ् याभिस्तूवथ् याभिदशस्यथा क्रिविम ।

24. Yābhiḥ sindhumavatha yābhīstūrvatha yābhīrdaśasyathā krivim. Mayo no bhūtotibhirmayo-bhuvaḥ śivābhiraśacadviṣāḥ.

O heroes of lands and seas and skies, free from hate, jealousy and enmity, bring us that tactic and policy and modes of defence and protection by which you guard the sea, repulse encroachment, and dig and construct tanks and wells and give them to people. O heroes of peace and well-being, be good and kind with safeguards of all type, safe guards and defences of auspicious and benevolent kind.

यत्सिन्धा यदसिक्न्यां यत्समुदषु मरुतः सुबहिषः ।
यत्पवत्तषु भेषजम ॥ २५ ॥

25. Yat sindhau yadasiknyāṁ yat samudreṣu marutah subarhiṣāḥ. Yat parvateṣu bheṣajam.

O Maruts, who sit on the holy seat of yajna, bring us the sanatives and medicaments that are in the rivers and the seas, in the darkness of caves, in the oceans and on the mountains.

विश्वं पश्यन्ता बिभूथा तु नूष्वा तना ना अधि वाचत ।

26. Viśvam paśyanto bibhṛthā tanūṣvā tenā no adhi vocata. Kṣamā rapo maruta āturasya na iṣkartā vihrutam punah.

O Maruts, you watch the world and all that it contains. You bear and bring all that knowledge and competence on your person, and with that pray, bless our physical body system and our body politic. By virtue of that knowledge and experience speak to us. O heroes of nature and humanity, cure the weakness, sin and suffering of our sick and restore to full health and efficiency whatever is broken and lost.

Mandala 8/Sukta 21

Indra (1-16), Chitra (17-18) Devate, Sobhari Kanya Rshi

वयमु त्वामपूर्व्य स्थूरं न कच्छिद्धरन्ता वस्यवः ।

1. Vayamu tvāmapūrvya sthūram na kaccid bharanto'vasyavah. Vāje citram havāmahe.

O lord sublime, eternal, first and most excellent, we, bearing almost nothing substantial but praying for protection and advancement, invoke you in our battle of life for food, energy, knowledge and ultimate victory.

उप त्वा कम' तृतय स ना युवागश्चकाम् या धृषत ।

2. Upa tvā karmannūtaye sa no yuvograścakrāma yo dhrṣat. Tvāmiddhyavitāraṁ vavṛmahe sakhäya indra sānasim.

We approach you for protection and success in every undertaking. O lord youthful and blazing brave who can challenge and subdue any difficulty, pray come to our help. Indra, friends and admirers of yours, we depend on you alone as our sole saviour and victorious lord and choose to pray to you only as the lord supreme.

आ याहीम इन्द्रवा श्वपत् गापत् उवरापत ।

3. *Ā yāhīma indavo'śvapate gopata urvarāpate.
Somam̄ somapate piba.*

Come lord of cows, horses and fertile lands, giver and protector of the nation and its glory, knowledge and wisdom and our creative activities, the somas of our success are for you to appreciate. O lord of life and life's joy of soma, come and join the ecstasy of our achievement and its celebration.

4. *Vayam hi tvā bandhumantam-abandhavo viprāsa

Bereft of any permanent brotherhood in mortal humanity, we are drawn by ourselves to you, enlightened as we are and universal brother as you are in kinship divine. O lord of universal vigour and generosity, with all the world regions you command, come with the glory of all those worlds, join our soma celebrations, accept our devotion and protect this social order.

सीदन्तस्तु वया यथा गाश्रीतु मधा मदिर विव ५ ।

5. Sidantaste vayo yathā gośrīte madhau madire vivakṣaṇe. Abhi tvāmindra nonumah.

Nestled like birds in the nest, in your exuberant, exciting, honey sweet yajnic world of light and joy overflowing with delicacies of food and drink, we bow to you and worship you in thankfulness.

अच्छा च त्वना नमसा वदामसि कं मुहुश्चिद्व दीधयः ।

6. Acchā ca tvainā namasā vadāmasi kim muhuścid vi dīdhayah. Santi kāmāso harivo dadiṣṭvam smo vayam santi no dhiyah.

Profusely with this salutation and homage, we honour and praise you and pray to you again and again. Why do you hesitate, in thought? O lord of the moving world, we have our desires and ambitions. You are the giver of fulfilment. We are here, our prayers are here, and we are yours. We have our thoughts and intelligence too, hence we pray: Grant our prayers without delay.

7. Nūtnā idindra te vayamūtī abhūma nahi nū te adrivah. Vidmā purā parīṇasah.

O lord of the thunderbolt, mountains and the clouds, ruler of the world, Indra, it is not that we are just new to your beneficence, protection and promotion, we have indeed enjoyed and known your wealth and munificence since time immemorial.

विद्वा सखित्वमुत शूर भाज्यमा तु ता वंजि गीमह।

8. Vidmā sakhitvamuta śūra bhojyamā te tā vajrinnīmahe. Uto samasminnā śisīhi no vaso vāje suśipra gomati.

O lord of might, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and power, we know and enjoy your love and friendship and your liberal provisions of life's enjoyment, and the same we solicit of you. And we pray, O lord of the golden helmet, power and knowledge, giver of peace and settlement, establish us in this noble order of lands and cows, food and energy, knowledge and action and the holy life of freedom and happiness.

या न इदमिदं पुरा प्रवस्य आनिनाय तमु वः स्तुषे।

9. Yo na idamidam purā pra vasya ānināya tamu vah stuse. Sakhāya indramūtaye.

O friends, for the peace, freedom, progress and protection of you all, I pray to the same Indra, lord almighty, who has provided this beautiful world of joy for us since the very time of creation.

हयश्वं सत्पतिं चषणीसहुं स हि ष्मा या अमन्दत । आ तु नः स वंयति गव्यमश्वं स्तातृभ्या मुघवा शतम ॥ १० ॥

10. Haryaśvam satpatim carṣaṇīsaḥam sa hi śmā yo amandata. Ā tu naḥ sa vayati gavyamaśvyam stotrbhyo maghavā śatam.

He alone is happy indeed and prospers who glorifies Indra, lord of the moving universe, protector and promoter of truth and reality and ruler and justicier of humanity, who, lord almighty, weaves for us this web of a hundredfold variety of earthly provision and all attainable possibility for the celebrants.

त्वया ह स्विद्युजा वृयं पति श्वसन्तं वृषभ बुवीमहि।

11. Tvayā ha svidyujā vayaṁ prati śvasantam vṛṣabha bruvīmahī. Saṁsthe janasya gomataḥ.

By you alone as our friend and comrade, O lord almighty, generous giver, can we counter a gasping contestant in this settled world order of humanity full of lands and cows, blest as we are with the light of knowledge and culture.

जयम कारे पुरुहूत कारिणा भि तिष्ठम दूढचः।

12. Jayema kāre puruhūta kāriṇo'bhi tiṣṭhemā dūḍhyah. Nṛbhīrvrtrām hanyāma śūśuyāma cā'verindra pra ḥo dhiyah.

Indra, lord of power and light of life, universally invoked, let us win over the violent in the struggle of life, discipline and subject to rule and order the obstinate and intransigent with reason, dispel darkness and destroy evil with the help of the leading lights of society, and thus grow and march forward and higher. O lord, protect and guide our thoughts and actions against temptations to go astray.

अभातृव्या अना त्वमनापिरिन्द जनुषा सनादसि ।
युधदापित्वमिच्छस ॥ १३ ॥

13. Abhrātṛvyo anā tvamanāpirindra januṣā sanādasi. Yudhedāpitvamicchase.

Indra, lord of absolute might by nature, since birth of the universe, indeed for eternity, you are without a rival, need no leader, no friend and no comrade, but in the dynamics of human life you do want that the human should be your companion in and for his struggle for self-evolution and social progress.

नकीं रवन्तं सख्याय विन्दस् पीयन्ति त सुराश्वः ।

14. Nakī revantam sakhyāya vindase pīyanti te surāśvah. Yadā krṇoṣi nadanum samūhasyādit piteva hūyase.

You do not just care to choose the rich for companionship, if they are swollen with drink and pride and violate the rules of divine discipline. But when you attend to the poor and alter their fortune for the better, you are invoked like father with gratitude which the voice of thunder acknowledges and approves.

मा त अमाजुरा यथा मूरास इन्द सख्य त्वावतः ।
नि षदाम सचा सुत ॥ १५ ॥

15. Mā te amājuro yathā mūrāsa indra sakhye tvāvataḥ. Ni ṣadāma sacā sute.

Indra, Lord of yajnic evolution and social development, let us not like stupid fools sit at home and grow to age in years, but let us, in enlightened friendship with a power like you, sit on the yajna vedi and grow in knowledge and wisdom.

मा तं गादत्र निरराम् राधसु इन्दु मा तं गृहामहि।

16. Mā te godatra nirarāma rādhasa indra mā te na te dāmāna ādabhe.

Indra, lord giver of lands and cows, knowledge and enlightened culture, let us never fall from your gifts of divine munificence. Let us never take anything from anyone other than you. O lord of the world's wealth, bear and bring us your gifts of permanent value. No one can ever disturb or stop the flow of your gifts of love and charity to humanity.

इन्दा वा घदियन्मधं सरस्वती वा सुभगा दुदिवसु ।
त्वं वा चित्र दाशुष ॥ १७ ॥

17. Indro vā ghediyamagham sarasvatī vā subhagā dadirvasu. Tvaṁ vā citra dāśuṣe.

Is it Indra, ruling power of the mortal world, that gives so much wealth to the man of yajnic charity? Or is it Sarasvati, holy speech, abundant stream and dynamics of nature that gives so much wealth to the charitable humanity? Or is it you, Lord Supreme, sublime mystery of the world of existence, who give so much wealth to the liberal donor?

चित्र इदाजा राजका इदन्यक युक सरस्वतीमनु ।

18. *Citra id rājā rājakā idanyake yake sarasvatīmanu.
Parjanya iva tatanaddhi vr̄ṣṭyā sahasramayutā dadat.*

The mysterious divine power immanent and transcendent is the supreme ruler and ultimate giver. Other ruling divinities, human rulers or natural forces, flowing speech or rivers or river benefactors in consonance with Sarasvati, are but subservient to the supreme. Just as the cloud soaks the earth all round and over so does the lord of wonder and sublimity give thousands and tens of thousands of wealth to humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 22

Ashvinau Devata, Sobhari Kanya Rshi

आ त्यमंहृ आ रथमद्या दंसिष्ठमूतये ।

Ah, on this auspicious day I invoke, imagine and structure that most wonderful and versatile chariot for protection and progress which the Ashvins, twin harbingers of the freshness of a new morning, most welcome invitees, would ascend and come by paths of love and justice free from violence for the advancement of life's light and glory.

O Sobhari, scientist and technologist, with your best of intelligence and intention, design, structure and perfect the chariot which has supported the life of the nation since earliest times, which is welcome and available to all easily, universally acceptable and enjoyable, first and foremost in the battles of life, friend of all on land, sea and sky, inviolable and unchallengeable by the jealous rivals and enemies.

O twin powers of socio-economic complementarities, rulers and protectors of the nation's auspicious good fortune, you till the land with the plough giving the people the gift of barley and setting a generous example of enlightened behaviour of permanent value. O leaders of eminence and splendour, with sincere thought, intention and action we celebrate you both this holy day of thanks giving for the nation.

7. Upa no vājinīvasū yātamṛtasya pathibhīḥ. Yebhis-trkṣim vr̥ṣaṇā trāsadasasyavam̄ mahe kṣatrāya jinvathah.

Generous and victorious lords of strength and progress, come to us by those paths of truth and righteousness by which, O brilliant harbingers of rain showers of prosperity, you strengthen and empower the high command of the nation to maintain the splendour of the nation's social order and keep down the forces of violence and terror in peace and submission.

O leading lights of humanity, generous harbingers of the showers of prosperity, this soma of pleasure and honour distilled with the complementary forces of our social dynamics is for you. Come to participate in the celebrations of the nation for the taste of glory and ecstasy and drink the soma in the yajnic house of the generous giver and performer of yajna.

Ashvins, harbingers of the showers of prosperity, ascend the chariot, seat yourselves in the golden interior of the chariot, come and settle us into a powerful social order of energy and prosperity.

Ashvins, rulers and administrators of the social system of health and security, come with those protections and securities by which you protect and maintain the healthy veterans of knowledge and practical action, by which you assist the disabled and help the support system for the weak and the destitute. Come fast without delay to sustain the weak and suffering in a state of emergency and provide them medical aid.

We men of the mantra in need, celebrants of the irresistible Ashvins, powers of wind and electric energy, ministrants of succour and security, invoke them with voices of praise at this time of the day to come and help us.

Ashvins, leading lights of humanity, virile harbingers of showers of health and life's joy, listen to my manifold and persistent invocation expressive of universal love and devotion and come. Most generous and exceedingly rich all round universal presences, come with those foods and medications for recuperative energies by which you revive and strengthen the man fallen into utter depression. With those protective and promotive sanatives, pray, come in response to my call.

Those two lords of auspicious good fortune moving by paths of rectitude, justice and punishment, we invoke and celebrate at night, early morning at dawn and all times of the day. May they, lord commanders of wealth and victory, scourge of evil and violence, never forsake us to the mortal enemy, never throw us far off to the hungry wolves.

1. *Tā vāṁ viśvasya gopā devā deveṣu yajñiyā.
Rtāvānā yajase pūtadakṣasā.*

I join you and adore you both, Mitra and Varuna, protectors of the world, brilliant and generous divinities of sacred power, adorable among the adorable divines and observers of the paths of rectitude and universal law.

(In Swami Dayanand's tradition, Mitra and Varuna in this Sukta are interpreted as Brahmanas, intellectuals, teachers and researchers, and as Kshatriyas, rulers, administrators and the defence forces.)

मि॒त्रा तना॒ न रु॒थ्या॒ वरु॒णा॒ यश्च सु॒कृतः॑ ।

Mitra of the noble chariot, and Varuna who too is a noble performer of yajnic actions, both are leaders like charioteers of the nation who develop and expand the socio-cultural wealth and vision of humanity. They are nobly born and brought up and trained, children of humanity for all time dedicated to the sacred laws and discipline of life.

Mandala 8/Sukta 28

1. *Ye trimśati trayasparo devāso barhirāsadan.
Vidannaha dvitāsanan.*

May thirty three divine powers come and sit on the holy grass of yajna vedi to join my yajna, know and secure for me twofold gifts of material and spiritual fulfilment.

(Thirty three divine powers or divinities or ‘gods’ are eight Vasus, eleven Rudras, twelve Adityas, Indra and Prajapati. Swami Dayanand enumerates and describes these as follows:

8 Vasus: earth, water, fire, air, space, sun, moon, and the stars. They are Vasus because they are the abodes and sustainers of life.

11 Rudras: ten pranic energies and the soul.

12 Adityas: twelve phases of the sun in the zodiacs.

One Indra, cosmic energy, and one Prajapati, creative energy of nature which creates life and its supports.

(At the individual level, we may interpret Varuna as our sense of justice, Mitra as our sense of love and friendship, Aryama as our sense of judgment and will, and fires as our vitalities working with our will to live.)

The chariot of the man of reverence to divinities moves fast forward, and the hero himself, who, with sincere mind and action, performs yajna and offers service to the divinities, goes far forward in the battles of life and surpasses the uncharitables who perform no yajna in the service of humanity and divinity.

न यजमान रिष्यसि न सुन्वान् न दक्षया । द्रवानां य इन्मना

16. *Na yajamāna riṣyasi na sunvāna na devayo.
Devānām ya inmano yajamāna iyakṣatyabhīd-ayajvano bhuvat.*

O man of charity and yajnic service to humanity and divinity, you will never suffer wrong or damage, O creator of soma dedicated to yajna to the divinities, you will never be hurt and never fail in your life's mission. The yajamana who, with sincere mind and actions, performs yajna in service to the divinities of nature and humanity surpasses the uncharitables who never perform yajnic service in the field of creative fellowship and cooperation with others, human and divine.

नकिष्टं कमणा नश । प याष । याषति । द्रवानां य इन्मना

17. Nakiṣṭam̄ karmanā naśanna pra yoṣanna yoṣati. Devānām̄ ya inmano yajamāna iyakṣatyabhīdayajvano bhuvat.

The yajamana who with sincere mind and action, serves the divinities, no one can equal by action, much less destroy. Nor does he forsake his own path, nor can anyone else lead him astray. Indeed he surpasses all those who are uncharitable and perform no yajnic service to divinity and humanity.

असुदत्रं सुवीयमुत त्यदाश्वश्व्यम् । दुवानां य इन्मना

18. Asadatra suvīryamuta tyadāśvaśvyam. Devānām̄ ya inmano yajamāna iyakṣatyabhīdayajvano bhuvat.

May there be heroic power and prowess, fast victory and life's fulfilment for him who performs yajna in service to the divinities of nature and humanity with truth of mind and action, and may he surpass all those uncharitables who perform no selfless service in creative action to divinity and humanity.

Made somasya vocata.*

O poets of wisdom and imagination, joyous lovers of life and action, in the soma ecstasy of the beauty and grandeur of life, sing and celebrate the wondrous works of Indra, ruler, power, energy and inspirer of life in nature and humanity in the world.

2. Yah srbindam-anarśanīm piprum dāsam-ahīśuvam. Vadhīdugro riṇannapah.

The awful lord of might and action stems the rising wicked, subdues the bullying exploiter, restrains the greedy devourer, cracks the senseless saboteur and the crooked deceiver, and having destroyed the negative forces, releases the free flow of waters and freedom of action, development and progress.

न्यबुद्धस्य विष्टपं ब्रष्माणं बृहतस्तिर ।
कृष तदिन्दु पंस्यम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Nyarbudasya viṣṭapam varṣmāṇam bṛhatastira. Kṛṣe tadindra paum̄syam.

Indra, cosmic power of nature, you break the stronghold of the cloud of showers from the tip of vast heaven and thus accomplish that wondrous feat of divine power.

पति श्रुताय वा धृषत्तूणाशं न गिररधि ।
हुव सुशिप्रमूतये ॥ ४ ॥

4. Prati śrutāya vo dhr̄sat tūrṇāśam na gireradhi. Huve suśipramūtaye.

O people, for your protection and promotion, I invoke and call upon the victorious Indra of the glorious helmet who brings a flood of waters from the heights of the cloud in response to prayer and promise.

स गारश्वस्य वि वृजं मन्दानः सम्येभ्यः ।
पुरं न शूर दर्षसि ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Sa goraśvasya vi vṛajam mandānāḥ somyebhyah.
puram na śūra darṣasi.*

Indra of such fame and prowess, heroic leader, happy and joyous, you open the gates of knowledge and victory in action and attainment, as you open the stalls of cows and horses and the gates of a fortress for the performers of soma yajna.

यदि म रारणः सुत उक्थ वा दधसु चनः ।
आरादुप स्वधा गहि ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Yadi me rāraṇāḥ suta ukthe vā dadhase canah.

If you take delight in the soma distilled by me and feel the ecstasy of my song of homage, then come from far and come from near and, by your own divine nature, take me on for the food of life you hold for me.

वृयं धा तु अपि ष्मसि स्तातार इन्द गिवणः ।
त्वं ना जिन्व सामपाः ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Vayam ghā te api ṣmasi stotāra indra girvanāḥ.
Tvam no jinva somapāḥ.*

Indra, lord celebrated in song, your devoted celebrants as we are, O lord protector and promoter of the beauty, honour and excellence of life, pray give us the food and fulfilment of life we love and aspire for.

उत नः पितुमा भर संरराणा अविंश्चितम् । मधवन्भूरि तु वसु ॥८॥

8. *Uta nah pitumā bhara saṁrarāṇo avikṣitam.

And, O lord of the power, honour and glory of the world, all joyous and generous, bring us the food of life inexhaustible. Infinite is your wealth and boundless your munificence.

उत ना गामतस्कृधि हिरण्यवता अश्विनः । इळभिः सं रभमहि॥९॥

9. *Uta no gomataskṛdhi hiranyaavato aśvinah.
Ilābhīḥ saṁ rabhemahi.*

And make us rich in lands and cows, knowledge and culture, make us masters of the golden glories of life. Advance us with horses and victories of high and higher attainments in honour and excellence. And lead us to exert ourselves in unison with songs of adoration and libations of homage and gratitude with holy words of joy.

बृद्दुकथं हवामह सृपकरस्नमूतय ।

10. *Bṛbaduktham havāmahe sṛprakarasnam-ūtaye.
Sādhu kṛṣṇvantam-avase.*

We invoke the lord divine and master ruler who is highly adorable, of long and supple arms of generosity, and always does good for the protection and promotion of all.

यः संस्थ चिच्छतकृतुरादीं कृणाति वृत्रहा ।
जरित्रभ्यः पुरुवसुः ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Yah samsthe cicchatakratur-ādīm kr̄noti vr̄trahā.
Jaritrbhyah purūvasuh.*

We invoke the lord adorable who does a hundred great favours to the man at peace and, dispelling the darkness in the mind and heart, sublimates the soul too with the spirit of a hundred good works of piety. Indeed, the lord is of infinite wealth, honour and bliss for all his devotees and destroys their evil and ignorance.

स नः शकश्चिदा शकुद्वानवाँ अन्तराभरः ।

Sing in honour of Indra, that mighty lord and ruler who commands the wealth, honour and excellence of the world, is universal protector and preserver, saviour of his devotees and friend of the lovers of soma and yajna.

14. *Āyantāram mahi sthiram pṛtanāsu śravo jitam.
Bhūrer-īśānam-ojasā.*

Honour and adore the lord and ruler who is great, controller of the world and its law, constant in the dynamics of existence wherein he is the sole conqueror of honour and glory and who, with his power and grandeur, is the ruler of the vast riches of the world.

नकिरस्य शचीनां नियुन्ता सूनृतानाम् ।
नकिवक्ता न दादिति ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Nakirasya śacīnām niyantā sūnṛtānām.
Nakirvaktā na dāditi.*

None is the controller of his mighty acts and powers universally pleasant and true, and there is none who can ever say: He has failed to give and bless.

न नूनं ब्रह्मणामृणं पाशूनामस्ति सुन्वताम् ।
न सामा अपृता पर्प ॥ १६ ॥

16. Na nūnam brahmaṇāmṛṇam prāśūnāmasti sunvatām. Na somo apratā pape.

There is no recompense due from men of divinity, from the guests and those actively working for yajna and the extraction of soma. The creator of soma, the giver of knowledge and the social worker do not drink for nothing (they pay with service).

पन्य इदुप गायत् पन्य उकथानि शंसत ।
ब्रह्मा कृणात् पन्य इत ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Panya idupa gāyata panya ukthāni śamsata.
Brahmā kṛṇota panya it.*

Sing in honour of adorable Indra, recite your hymns of praise in honour of admirable Indra, create your orations to celebrate the glorious Indra.

18. *Panya ā dardiracchatā sahasrā vājyavṛtah.
Indro yo yajvano vṛdhaḥ.*

Indra, potent lord who commands supreme power and, unobstructed, breaks down a hundred and a thousand adversaries, strengthens and exalts the devotees of yajna.

वि षु चर स्वधा अनु कृष्टीनामन्वाहुवः ।
इन्द्रु पिब सुतानाम ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Vi śū cara svadhā anu krṣṭīnāmanvāhuvah.
Indra piba sutānām.*

Go forward, Indra, in response to the invitation to yajna of the people and drink of the soma extracted, distilled and offered by them.

पिब स्वधनवानामुत यस्तुग्र्य सचा ।
उतायमिन्द्र यस्तवे ॥ २० ॥

20. *Piba svadhainavānāmuta yastugrye sacā.
Utāyamindra yastava.*

Drink of the joy and exhilaration of your powers and perceptions which is all associated with your own performance, the super-power that's you and yours. Indeed, it is all your own power and glory.

अतींहि मन्युषाविणं सुषुवांसमुपारणं ।
इमं रातं सुतं पिब ॥ २१ ॥

21. Atīhi manyuṣāviṇam suṣuvāṁsam-upāraṇe. Imam rātam sutam piba.

Ignore the man who offers yajnic soma in a mood of anger, frustration and protest. Ignore the man who offers yajna and soma but in a joyless and conflictive mood. Accept this soma of homage distilled and offered in a state of delight, love and faith.

इहि तिस्रः परावत इहि पञ्च जनाँ अति ।
धना इन्द्रावचाकशत ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Ihi tisrah parāvata ihi pañca janāň ati.
Dhenā indrāvacākaśat.*

Indra, come from far, cross over the five classes of people to exhaust the possibilities of their life, transcend the three versions of knowledge, action and prayer, and listen with love and approval the sole one voice of my soul.

सूर्यो राश्मिं यथा सृजा त्वा यच्छन्तु मे गिरः ।
निम्नमापा न सुध्यक ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Sūryo raśmim yathā sṛjā”tvā yacchantu me girah.
Nimnamāpo na sadhryak.*

Just as the sun radiates the rays of light over space, just as waters flow down swift and straight, so may the voice of my soul reach you.

अध्वयवा तु हि षिञ्च सामं वीराय शिपिण ।
भरा सुतस्य पीतय ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Adhvaryavā tu hi śiñca somam vīrāya śipriñe.
Bharā sutasya pītaye.*

O organiser and performer of yajna, offer the soma of devotion profusely to Indra, mighty lord of the helmet, and fill the vessel of your heart with divine love and pranic energy to enjoy life to the full.

य उदनः फलिंगं भिन युक्तिसन्धूरवासृजत ।

या गाषु पक्वं धारयते ॥ २५ ॥

25. Ya udnah phaligam bhinannyak sindhuñra-vāśrajat. Yo goṣu pakvam dhārayat.

Indra breaks the clouds of rain, releases the waters for the rivers to flow down to the sea, and provides mature milk in the cows, knowledge and wisdom in the words of language and ripe grain in the fields of earth.

अहन्वृत्रमृचीषम आणवाभमहीशुवम ।

हिमनाविध्यदबुदम ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Ahan vṛtramarciṣama aurnavābhām-ahīśuvam.
Himenāvidhyad-arbudam.*

The resplendent sun breaks the heavy cloud of vapours moving around like a crooked snake, in the middle regions of space.

प व उगाय निष्टुर षा हाय पस्ति ण ।

दुवत्तुं बह्वा गायत ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Pra va ugrāya niṣture'śālhāya prasakṣiṇe.
Devattam brahma gāyata.*

O celebrants and yajakas, sing the most heavenly song of praise worthy of divinity in honour of resplendent, impetuous, invincible and ever enduring friend, Indra, leader and commander of the ruling and defensive forces of nature and humanity.

या विश्वान्यभि व्रता सामस्य मद् अन्धसः ।
इन्दा दुवषु चर्तति ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Yo viśvānyabhi vratā somasya made andhasah.
Indro deveṣu cetati.*

Celebrate Indra, soul and ruling spirit in nature and humanity, who, in the excitement and ecstasy of the taste of food and soma, awakens in humans and divines the awareness of all the rules and laws of discipline and commitment to the vows of discipline in life.

इह त्या सधमाद्या हरी हिरण्यकश्या ।

29. *Iha tyā sadhamādyā harī hiranyakeśyā.
Volhāmabhi prayo hitam.*

Here in life on earth, those two golden and resplendent motive powers of nature's circuitous energy, jubilant and festive co-workers for the chariot of Indra, lord ruler of nature and humanity, may, we pray, bring in holy food for health and energy for the good of all living beings.

अवाञ्चं त्वा पुरुष्टुत प्रियमधस्तुता हरी ।

30. *Arvāñcam tvā puruṣṭuta priyamedhastutā harī.
Somapeyāya vakṣataḥ.*

Indra, lord universally sung and celebrated, may the two motive powers of your chariot, loved and adored by scholars dedicated to yajnic pursuit of knowledge and wisdom, bring you here to join us and share the ecstasy of soma celebration with humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 33

Indra Devata, Medhatithi Kanva Rshi

वृद्धं घं त्वा सुतावन्तु आपा न वृक्तबहिषः ।
पवित्रस्य प्रस्रवणेषु वृत्रहृन्परि स्तातारे आसत ॥ १ ॥

1. Vayam gha tvā sutāvanta āpo na vrktabarhiṣah. Pavitrasya prasravaṇeṣu vṛtrahan pari stotāra āsate.

Indra, destroyer of evil, darkness and suffering, we, your celebrants, having distilled the soma, spread and occupied the holy grass, we, sit and wait on the vedi for your presence in the flux of life as holy performers, while the flow of pure immortality continues all round in the dynamics of existence.

स्वरन्ति त्वा सुत नरो वसा निरुक्तुविथनः ।

2. Svaranti tvā sute naro vaso nireka ukthinah. Kada sutam trṣāṇa oka ā gama indra svabdiva vāṁsagah.

Indra, Vasu, giver of peace and security in self-settlement, while the soma of faith and love has been distilled in the heart and the devotees sing and celebrate your honour in hymns of praise, when would you, keen to join us at the celebration, come to the yajnic hall thirsting to meet the people you love and admire.

3. Kanvebhir-dhṛṣṇavā dhṛṣad vājam darṣi saha-sriṇam. Piśāṅgarūpam maghavan vicarṣane makṣū gomantam-īmahe.

Indra, lord of universal vision, resolute will and irresistible action, ruler and commander of the world's wealth, power and force, we pray, conceive, plan and bring about for the intelligent people of action and ambition a social order of golden beauty and progressive achievement, full of a hundred-fold prosperity of lands and cows, education and culture, and invincible will, strength and advancement free from indecision and delay in action.

पाहि गायान्धसा मद् इन्द्राय मध्यातिथ ।

4. Pāhi gāyāndhaso mada indrāya medhyātithē. Yah sammiślo haryoryah sute sacā vajrī ratho hiranyayah.

O man, you are a visitor and respectable guest on this earth of a golden order of beauty, prosperity and culture. Observe the rules of this order, advance the beauty and prosperity of it, and in the pleasure and ecstasy of its plenty of soma hospitality, sing and celebrate the glory of Indra, lord ruler of vision and action united, commander of the nation's forces, dynamic and creative, friendly and cooperative, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and retribution, burden bearer and pilot of the golden chariot of humanity.

यः सुषव्यः सुदर्शण इना यः सुकर्तुगृण ।

5. Yah suṣavyah sudakṣīṇa ino yaḥ sukraturgrñe. Ya ākarah sahasrā yaḥ śatāmagha indro yaḥ pūrbhidāritah.

I sing and celebrate the glory of Indra who is generous with both hands right and left, magnificent, holy in action, treasure home of a thousandfold riches, who commands a hundredfold power, honour and excellence and who breaks down the strongholds of evil, darkness and suffering. Indeed he is glorious and adorable.

या धृषिता या वृता या अस्ति शमश्रुषु श्रितः ।

6. *Yo dhr̥sito yo'vṛto yo asti śmaśruṣu śritah.
Vibhūtadyumnaścyavanaḥ puruṣṭutah krtvā gauriva śākinah.*

I celebrate the glory of Indra who is bold and resolute, unbounded irresistible, wears the marks of manly vigour, commands honour and excellence, is an inspirer, mover and shaker, universally respected for his acts of piety, and who for the men of mighty dynamism is generous as earth, gracious as holy speech and loving as mother cow.

7. *Ka īṁ veda sute sacā pibantam̄ kad vayo dadhe.
Ayam̄ yaḥ puro bibhinattyojasā mandānah śipryandhasah.*

Who would for certain know Indra in this created world of beauty and glory, how much power and force he wields while he rules and sustains it, Indra who wears the helmet and breaks down the strongholds of negativities with his lustrous might, the lord who shares and enjoys the soma of his own creation?

दाना मृगा न वारुणः पुरुत्रा चुरथं दध ।

8. *Dānā mrgo na vāraṇah purutrā caratham̄ dadhe.
Nakiṣtvā ni yamadā sute gamo mahāñscara-syojasā.*

Indra is generously giving, preventive, counter-active and invincible like a lion, and holds and rules the world of immense variety in motion. O lord of grandeur and majesty, as you move around everywhere by your might and lustre, pray come, bless our yajna and taste the soma of our creation. No one can restrain you, no one counter your will.

9. *Ya ugrah sann-anisṛtah sthiro raṇaya saṁskṛtaḥ.
Yadi stotur-maghavā śṛṇavaddha-vam nendro yoṣat�ā gamat.*

Indra who is blazing strong, uncountered and irresistible, constant and unshakable, is ever in perfect harness for the human's battle of existence, and if he hears the call of the celebrant, the lord of might and majesty never forsakes him, he comes, he saves, he blesses.

10. Satyamitthā vṛṣedasi vṛṣajūtir-no'vṛtaḥ. Vṛṣā hyugra śrṇviṣe parāvati vṛṣo arvāvati śrutah.

True it is thus you are virile and generous yourself and an inspiration and driving force for the virile and the brave, unbound, uncountered, brave and illustrious, harbinger of the showers of peace and joy and known as omnificent and sublime all over the world far and near.

वृषणस्त अभीशेवा वृषा कशा हिरुण्ययी ।

11. Vṛṣaṇaste abhiśavo vṛṣā kaśā hiranayayī. Vṛṣā ratho maghavan vṛṣaṇā harī vṛṣā tvam śatakrato.

Indra, lord of the power, wealth and glory of the universe, agent of infinite acts of creation in the world of existence, strong and golden are the reins of your cosmic chariot, golden is the goad that maintains and controls the speed of its motion, strong and laden with riches is your chariot, strong and virile the motive powers, and you yourself are all potent and generous.

(This mantra may be interpreted as a description of the human soul in its own individual sphere provided that it is self-controlled and free from external forces which bind it in the fetters of worldly interests of a selfish and transitory nature.)

वृषा साता सुनातु त वृष्टि जीषि ग भर ।

12. Vṛṣā sotā sunotu te vṛṣann-rjīśinnā bhara. Vṛṣā dadhanve vṛṣaṇāṁ nadīṣvā tubhyāṁ sthātarharīṇām.

O lord of omnipotence and omnifcence, may the brave and generous yajaka prepare the soma juice of devotion for you. O lord of the law of truth and lover of the rules of rectitude, bring us the showers of peace and prosperity in rectitude. O lord controller and keeper of world forces in order, the generous yajaka receives the showers of your blessings and holds them in trust actively in the streams of existence for yajnic offers to your honour for your service.

एन्द्र याहि पीतय मधु शविष्ठ सम्यम ।

13. Endra yāhi pītaye madhu śaviṣṭha somyam. Nāyamacchā maghavā śṛṇavad giro brahmokthā ca sukratuh.

Indra, lord most potent, come to taste the honey sweets of soma. Unless you come and bless with grace, this man of power and earthly honour, though devoted to good actions, would not well listen otherwise to songs of devotion and the voice of Veda.

वहन्तु त्वा रथष्ठामा हरया रथयुजः ।

14. Vahantu tvā ratheṣṭhāmā harayo rathayujah. Tiraścidaryam savanāni vṛtrahann-anyeṣām yā śatakrato.

May the motive forces which power and drive your chariot, we pray, bring you hither, O lord of infinite acts of grace, destroyer of evil and dispeller of darkness, past the acts and voices of others without faith in divinity and prayer.

अस्माकंमद्यान्तम् स्तामं धिष्व महामह ।

15. Asmākamadyāntamāṁ stomam̄ dhiṣva mahā-maha. Asmākam̄ te savanā santu śāntamā madāya dyukṣa somapāḥ.

O lord of heavenly light, greatest of the great, lover and protector of the soma pleasure and grandeur of life, accept our most intimate prayer and praise today and grant that all our acts of homage in your honour and service be for the peace and dignity of the life we live.

नुहि षस्तव् ना मम शास्त्र अन्यस्य रण्यति ।

या अस्मान्वीर आनयत ॥ १६ ॥

16. Nahi ṣastava no mama śāstre anyasya ranyati. Yo asmān vīra ānayat.

The mighty one who has brought us under his order of law does not accept with delight your decree nor mine nor anyone else's.

(Indra, the soul, is the ruler and controller of the mind and senses. It is not ruled and controlled by the mind or the senses or anyone else.)

इन्दश्चिद्द्वा तदबवीत्त्वया अशास्यं मनः ।

उता अहु कतुं रघुम ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Indraścid ghā tadabravīt striyā aśāsyam manah.
Uto aha kratūm raghum.*

If Indra, the husband, were to say: “The mind of woman is not controllable” and, also, “that her thought and intellect too is inferior”, (then it is less than half the truth).

सप्ती चिद्धा मदुच्युता मिथुना वहता रथम् ।
एवद्वृक्ष्या उत्तरा ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Saptī cidgha madacyutā mithunā vahato ratham.
Eved dhūrvṛṣṇa uttarā.*

If the two ardent horses of Indra’s chariot together draw the burden of the home-state, then the shaft of the chariot is better and stronger.

अधः पश्यस्व मापरि सन्तरां पादुका हर ।
मा ते कशप्लुका दृशन्त्स्त्री हि ब्रह्मा ब्रभूविथ ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Adhah paśyasva mopari samtarāṁ pādakau hara.
Mā te kaśaplakau dṛṣantstrī hi brahmā babhūvitha.*

O man, O woman: Keep your eyes down on the earth, not up on the sky. Walk on with both the feet together (as the two wheels and the two horses draw the chariot together), Let your lower feet be not bare and exposed (cover them). Let woman be the high priest of the home yajna.

(The last three mantras describe the home-state of the social order. The husband and the wife together run the home. The husband is, or may be, the greater burden bearer, still the wife is the chief home minister, and the husband ought to realise this in love, in courtesy, in chivalry, or at least in practical wisdom. Arrogance, pride, anger, passion, all this on either's part must be subjected to reason and respectful cooperation with mutual recognition.)

Mandala 8/Sukta 34

2. *Ā tvā grāvā vadanniha somī ghoṣeṇa yacchatu.

Indra, lord of power and honour, Agni, lord of light and knowledge, commanding lightning and fire, patience and endurance, strength and courage, give us that positive and irresistible wealth of life by which we may face, resist and throw off strong and violent adversaries as fire fanned by winds destroys forests. May negativities, adversities, alienations and enmities all vanish.

We do not shrink from you, Indra and Agni, nor do we in any way neglect you both. Indeed we invoke and invite Indra, strongest leader of the strong, to be with us. When, for sure, would the lord come to us, come with Agni at the speed of lightning to inspire us with strength for struggle and victory, to bless us with piety, wisdom and intelligence for corporate action with the spirit of yajna? May all negativities, adversities, alienations and enmities vanish.

Both Indra and Agni like fire and lightning reside and rule at the heart of life struggles. May they, we pray, leading lights, prophetic voices and patriarchal spirits for the loving and friendly, invoked for guidance and answers to questions and mysteries of life, come and, with their vision and wisdom, resolve our doubts and questions to settled certainties of decisive action. May all negativities, adversities, frustrations and enmities vanish from the world.

Whoever Indra and Agni, commanding ruling power and light of knowledge, raise from lower regions of ignorance and darkness, and take them to the higher regions of knowledge and culture, and the seas which they release from bondage, all of them, thus raised and guided, observe their divine laws and live a dynamic life of freedom and enlightenment. May all darkness, ignorance, superstition and slavery vanish from the world, giving way to freedom and progress.

O Indra, commanding lord of perceptive and communicative powers of enlightenment, inspirer and rejuvenator of the celebrant, first, foremost and universal are your gifts of generosity, ancient and universal are your acts and songs of adoration. The grace and beneficence of the almighty are givers of settlement which may, we pray, inspire our mind, senses and actions and lead us to fulfilment and salvation. May poverty, suffering, pride and frustration vanish giving way to universal joy and freedom.

With hymns and holy actions adore and glorify Indra, resplendent lord who commands the purity and truth of reality, who is adorable, who with his power and brilliance, dries up and roots out the origins and products of drought, greed and exploitation and sets aflow the liberal streams of joy and prosperity. May all poverty, exploitation, greed and unhappiness vanish from the world of humanity.

May Indra and Agni protect and promote us with the joy of threefold gifts of truth, action and stability, and may we, I pray, be masters, protectors and promoters of the wealth, honour and excellence of life on earth.

Honour and adore scholars and vibrant youth and warriors also and then all differences, oppositions, contradictions, alienations and enmities would vanish.

Adore the lord at the heart of things, at the head of the seven streams of existence and at the beginning of the rise of creative evolution of the seven oceans of Prakrti across five gross elements, subtle elements and the spiritual and intelligential world. Do that and all oppositions, contraries and contradictions would disappear.

phases of the day and time, morning, evening and mid-day, past, present and future. May all phases of contraries, contradictions and enmities vanish from the world.

Serve and adore the lord of three worlds and reach him without delay as cows hasten to the stall or as you hasten to yoke the horses to the chariot. May all distortions, dislocations, contradictions and enmities vanish from our life.

Indeed the divinities of nature and humanity stand ready in harness before the presence of Varuna, all committed to his law and their duty in the law. May all negativities Varuna, who creates the beautiful world of white and black, light and dark, and the living beings of white and dark character, creates the worlds as ever in accordance with the rules and vows of the law of Dharma and Dharma in action in the earlier life of human beings and others. Thus he, the unborn, maintains the world as he does heaven and the middle regions by his constant might. May all darkness and evil vanish from life.

Ka ugrāḥ ke ha śrṇvire.*

When the mighty soul, destroyer of evil, born to self consciousness, takes to the bow and arrow, blazing, fearsome, breaker of foes, he asks the mother, spirit of higher vision and discrimination: Who are the enemies renowned to be terrible and irresistible?

पति त्वा शवसी वंदद्विरावप्सा न योधिषत ।
यस्त शत्रुत्वमाचक ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Prati tvā śavasī vadad girāvapso na yodhiṣat.
Yaste śatrutvamācake.*

Indra, lord of power and excellence, to you then the mighty mother, divine intelligence, would say: Whoever would take a hostile attitude toward you would fight against you like a seductive sorceress on the magic mountain.

तस्य ना वद आ भर ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Yaste revāñ adāśurih pramamarṣa maghattaye.
Tasya no veda ā bhara.*

If a man is rich and yet neglects and fails to pay to you, generous one, wielder of power, what is due for social causes, in that case make up from his money or property what is required for our sake, i.e., for the sake of society.

पुष्टावन्ता यथा पशुम ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Ima u tvā vi cakṣate sakḥāya indra sominah.
Puṣṭāvanto yathā paśum.*

Indra, these friends, celebrants of soma and holiness, holding offerings of precious homage, look and wait for you as the seeker waits for the sight of his wealth.

उत त्वाबधिरं वयं श्रुत्कर्णं सन्तमूतय ।
दूरादिह हवामह ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Uta tvābadhiram vayaṁ śrutkarnam santam-

And from afar we invoke and call upon you for protection and progress. You are everywhere, your ears are sensitive and you are eager to hear the call of the seeker.

Adityas, brilliant leaders of the mother nation, the home that is a restful place to live in, which is beneficial, which is free from want and ailments, and three-metalled furniture and appliances, all that is needed in a good and comfortable home, pray provide, secure and insure among us, the people of the land. Adityas, brilliant leaders of the nation, just as people stand on the bank of a river above and look below upon the flowing waters, so look below upon the people on the march, and just as they take the horses across the stream by the safest ford, so lead the nation forward by the safest paths of progress. Soma Devata, Pragatha Ghaura Kanya Rshi

स्वा॒दारभि॑ वयसः सुमधा॑ः स्वा॒ध्या॑ वरिवा॒वित्तरस्य ।
विश्व॑ यं द्रवा॒ उत मत्यासा॑ मधु॒ बुवन्ता॑ अ॒भि॑ सुंचरन्ति ॥ १ ॥

1. Svādorabhakṣi vayasah sumedhāḥ svādhyo varivovittarasya. Viśve yam devā uta martyāso madhu bruvanto abhi saṁcaranti.

An intelligent and dedicated reader of holy literature, I have enjoyed the delicious soma food of higher and holier quality which all divines and mortals of the world enjoy, saying ‘it is honey sweet and savoury’, when they meet in sacred gatherings.

अन्तश्च पागा अदितिभवास्यवयाता हरसा दव्यस्य ।

2. Antaśca prāgā aditirbhavāsyavayātā haraso daivyasya. Indavindrasya sakhyam juṣāṇah śrauṣṭīva dhuramanu rāya ṛdhyāḥ.

O soma, reaching the core of personality, you are internalised, assimilated as one with the body and creative mind of man, dispeller of divine anger, and friend of Indra, the soul. O soma, just like willing and obedient horses of the chariot harnessed and yoked, inspire us toward the wealth, honour and excellence of life.

अपाम साममृता अभूमागन्म ज्यातिरविदाम दुवान ।
किं नूनमस्मान्कृणवदरातिः किमु धूतिरमृत मत्यस्य ॥ ३ ॥

3. Apāma somamamṛtā abhūmāganma jyotiravidāma devān. Kim nūnamasmān kr̄navadar-ātiḥ kimu dhūrtiramṛta martyasya.

We have drunk the soma of immortality, we have become immortal, attained to the light of divinity, have known the organs of perception and imagination, and realised the divinities of light, power and excellence. What can the enemies internal and external do now against us? O lord immortal, soma, what can the violence of mortals do against us?

4. Śam no bhava hrda ā pīta indo piteva soma sūnave suśevah. Sakheva sakhya uruśamṣa dhīrah prāṇa āyurjīvase soma tārīḥ.

O soma, drink of immortality, be good and blissful for the heart. O nectar soma, when drunk, be as good and blissful as father is to the child. Soma, universally admired, brave and heroic, patient and constant, as a friend for the friend, give us a long age of good health so that we may live a full life of joy to our heart's content.

5. Ime mā pītā yaśasa uruṣyavo ratham na gāvah ritrāduta mā srāmādyavayantvindavah.

These soma drinks, protective of honour, may secure and strengthen my joints as straps secure the chariots at joints, and inspire me to apply myself to noble projects as bullocks draw the chariot to good destinations. These drinks may save me from weakness of character and protect me from depression and disease.

6. Agnim na mā mathitam sam̄ didīpaḥ pra cakṣaya kṛṇuhi vasyaso nah. Athā hi te mada ā soma manye revāñ iva pra carā puṣṭimaccha.

Light and shine me like fire from wood by friction, give me the eye to see the light and raise us to be masters of wealth, honour and excellence. O soma, drink of immortality, in the ecstasy of exhilaration, I concentrate and meditate on the self in the peace of divinity like a wealthy man of spiritual profusion. O bliss of exuberance, stimulate, inspire and raise me well to perfect health of body, mind and soul.

7. Iṣireṇa te manasā sutasya bhakṣīmahi pitryasyeva rāyah. Soma rājan pra na āyūṁṣi tārīrahānīva sūryo vāsarāṇi.

O bright soma, with stimulated and inspired mind, let us drink at the fount of your exuberant flow like children enjoying on the wealth of their parents. O ruling light of soma divine, pray lengthen our life and rejuvenate our health like the sun lengthening the light of days.

साम॑ रा॒जन्मू॒ळया॑ नः॒ स्व॒स्ति॒ तव॑ स्मसि॒ वृत्या॑ इ॒स्तस्य॒ विद्धि॒ ।

8. Soma rājan mṛlayā nah svasti tava smasi vratyāstasya viddhi. Alarti dakṣa uta manyu-rindo mā no aryo anukāmām parā dāḥ.

O soma, ruling light of life, be kind and gracious, give us peace and well being, we are your devotees, observers of your rules of life in joy, pray know this. O fluent life of joy, pray know that confidence and competence and righteous passion is fresh and vibrant in us, do not forsake us, give us not up to the will and pleasure of the enemy.

9. Tvam hi nastanvah soma gopā gātregātre niṣasatthā nṛcakṣāḥ. Yat te vayam pramināma vratāni sa no mṛla suṣakhā deva vasyah.

O soma, you are the protector and promoter of our body and personality. Watcher and leading light of humanity, seep in and energise every part of our body. And if we default on your rules of discipline, even so, O noble friend, generous power superior, be good and gracious to us and help us to be happy.

10. Rdūdareṇa sakhyā saceya yo mā na riṣyeddharyaśva pītah. Ayam yah somo nyadhyayyasme tasmā indram pratiramemyāyuh.

Indra, O soul and spirit of intelligence, let me be friends with soma as with a friend of noble nature and drink it as it would do me no harm. I pray to Indra, lord omnipotent giver of bliss, that the soma which I have drunk in may increase and enrich my life.

अप् त्या अस्थुरनिरा अमीवा निरत्रसन्तमिषीचीरभेषः । आ

11. Apa tyā asthuranirā amīvā niratrasan-tamiṣīcīra-bhaiṣuh. Ā somo asmān̄ aruhad vihāyā aganma yatra pratiranta āyuh.

Let those difficult ailments subside and go far from here. Even though they are strong and fearful, let them be off from here. Potent soma has risen up in vigour and has energised us, and we have reached where life increases and delights through age in ecstasy.

12. Yo na induḥ pitaro hṛtsu pīto'martyo martyāñ ā viveśa. Tasmai somāya haviṣā vidhema mṝlike asya sumatau syāma.

O parents and seniors of wisdom, the soma which is immortal is consumed and absorbed in the hearts and spirits of mortals. For that soma of immortality, we pray with love and homage to divinity and hope we shall abide in peace, pleasure and a settled mind, all which is the gift of this drink of immortality.

13. Tvam̄ soma pitrbhiḥ samvidāno'nu dyāvāprthivī ā tatantha. Tasmai ta indo haviṣā vidhema vayam̄ syāma patayo rayinām.

O soma, immortal joy and inspiration of existence, known well and abiding by the ancients and pranic energies of nature, you pervade over heaven and earth. O soma, peace, power and joy of the world, we pray to you for strength and joy with homage and oblations so that we may be masters, protectors and promoters of the wealths, honours and excellences of life.

O brilliant divines, saviours and leading lights of humanity and life's joy, speak over to us of the pleasure and power of soma so that neither sloth and slumber nor chatter, prattle and inarticulation may overtake us. We pray we may all time, seasons and days be favourites of immortal soma of bliss and, wide awake and brave, we may realise knowledge, wisdom and a happy well governed order of society.

Soma, immortal spirit of peace, power and bliss, you are the treasure giver of food, energy and life for the world. You are the treasure giver of heavenly joy and watcher and leading light of the people. O soma, fluent stream of life energy, loving and friendly, with all your powers and protections, safeguard and promote us in front, on the back and all round.

Indra Devata, Praskanva Kanya Rshi

अभि प वः सुराधसमिन्दमच् यथा विद् ।

1. Abhi pra vah surādhasam-indram-arca yathā vide. Yo jaritrbhyo maghavā purūvasuh saha-sreṇeva śikṣati.

To the best of your intention and purpose and for whatever you wish to achieve, pray to Indra, lord of glory, world power and promotion and means of success, who gives a thousandfold wealth, honour and excellence to his celebrants.

शतानीकव प जिगाति धृष्णुया हन्ति वृत्राणि दाशुष ।

2. Satānīkeva pra jīgāti dhṛṣṇuyā hanti vr̄trāni dāśuse. Gireriva pra rasā asya pinvire datrāni purubhojasah.

Like the commander of a hundred armies, with his power and force, Indra rushes forward to fight and win, and he destroys the demons of darkness and want for the charitable giver. The gifts of this universal giver of food and sustenance feed and support humanity like streams flowing down from the mountains.

आ त्वा सुतासु इन्दवा मदा य इन्द गिवणः ।

3. Ā tvā sutāsa indavo madā ya indra girvāṇah. Āpo na vajrinnanvokyam sarah pṛṇanti śūra rādhase.

Indra, celebrated lord of the thunderbolt, may the songs of adoration presented by the celebrant with prayers for desired wealth and means of success, flowing spontaneous like ecstatic streams of soma, please and exhilarate you to fullness of kindness and grace as flowing waters, brooks and rivers, fill their original home, the lake and the sea.

4. Anehasam̄ prataraṇam vivakṣaṇam̄ madhvah svādiṣṭhamīm̄ piba. Ā yathā mandasānah kirāsi nah pra kṣudreva tmanā dhṛṣat.

Indra, lord of joy and fulfilment, pray accept the innocent, overflowing, inspiring song of adoration, enjoy it like a draught of soma sweeter than honey, so that happy and joyous at heart and soul, ignoring all minor considerations, you may pour out your gifts of generosity like showers of mist.

आ नः स्तामुप द्रवद्धियाना अश्वा न सातृभिः ।

5. Ā nah stomamupa dravaddhiyāno aśvo na sotrbhiḥ. Yam te svadhāvantsvadayanti dhenava indra kaṇveṣu rātayah.

Indra, lord of joy and fulfilment, love and generosity, come to accept our song of adoration like a courser urged on and rushing to its destination, a song created like soma by the pressers which the profuse voices of the wise and your gifts showered on the celebrants sweeten all the more and energise.

6. Ugram na vīram namasopa sedima vibhūtimakṣitāvasum. Udrīva vajrinnavato na siñcate kṣarantīndra dhītayah.

With homage and adorations, we approach Indra, illustrious, brave, glorious, lord of inexhaustible wealth, honour and ultimate shelter. As an overflowing spring fills a well with water, so do our thoughts and imagination create the flow of spontaneous praise for the generous lord's satisfaction.

7. *Yaddha nūnam yadvā yajñe yadvā prthivyāmadhi.

Illustrious Indra, whether you are at some yajna or somewhere on earth or anywhere else, from there come to our yajna by the fastest and mightiest forces, illustrious lord, wisest of the wise.

अजिरासा हरया य त आशवा वातोइव पसि णः ।

8. *Ajirāso harayo ye ta āśavo vātā iva prasakṣināḥ.

Come by indefatigable forces, fastest and tempestuous as the winds, by which you reach the unwavering children of humanity and go round to see and reveal the light of heaven.

9. *Etāvatasta īmaha indra sumnāsyā gomataḥ.
Yathā prāvo maghavan medhyātithim yathā

Indra, lord of grandeur, glorious as you are, we pray of you the wealth of the peace and prosperity of sense, mind and wisdom by which you protect and promote the man of dynamic intelligence, and the sage of imagination who dives deep into the mysteries of life in the struggle to understand the riddles of existence.

10. *Yathā kaṇye maghavan trasadasyavi yathā pakthe

Indra, lord of glory, we pray for that generosity of yours by which you award the wealth of lands and cows, sense, mind and wisdom, and the golden excellence of honour and culture, to the wise celebrant, the opponent of violence and terror, the veteran scholar, the controller of sense and mind in meditation, the energiser of perception and intelligence, and the man of simple and straight paths of truth and rectitude.

1. Pra su śrutam surādhasam-arcā śakramabhiṣṭaye. Yah sunvate stuvate kāmyam vasu sahasreneva mānhate.

For the sake of life's fulfilment, honour and adore Indra, renowned and mighty master and controller of the superstructure of existence, who grants desired wealth, power and honour, and augments it a thousandfold for the celebrant who seeks and works for the soma joy and excellence of life with yajnic effort.

Hundreds of great and invincible forces of this lord almighty, protective, promotive and overladen with sustenance, power and prosperity like the pregnant cloud and abundant mountain, shower gifts of desire and fulfilment on the seekers of excellence and grace when the soma creations of the yajnic celebrants please the lord.

When the flowing drops of yajnic homage of soma please and exhilarate this dear lord, then, O lord of wealth, excellence and grace, like the showers of rain and generous cow, pray bless the invocation, homage and oblations of the yajna with plenty for the generous yajamana.

O yajakas, to the incomparable lord you invoke for protection, your thoughts and honey sweet songs of adoration rise and flow. O lord of wealth, honour and excellence, shelter home of the universe, the soma celebrants who call upon you cherish your presence they feel in the hymns they offer in adoration.

Indra, lord of the holy yajna of creation, come to our soma yajna, reaching like the constant flow of joy where soma flows and pleases. O lord most generous and connoisseur of taste, the songs of praise please you, and while the soma flows you delight in our adoration.

Indra, lord omnipotent and omniscient, whether you are in a far off place or close by on earth or far above in the light of heaven round the sun, come, lord of grandeur and divine wisdom, with all your innate divine powers of cosmic dynamism. O lord most attainable and sublime, come with instant elevations of the spirit and bless us.

Mandala 8/Sukta 58

Vishvedevah or Rtvijah Devatah, Medhya Kanya Rshi

यमृत्विजा बहुधा कल्पयन्तः सचतसा यज्ञमिमं वहन्ति ।
या अनूचाना ब्राह्मणा युक्त औसीत्का स्वितत्र यजमानस्य
संवित ॥ १ ॥

1. Yamṛtvijo bahudhā kalpayantah sacetaso yajñam-imam vahanti. Yo anūcāno brāhmaṇo yukta āśit kā svit tatra yajamānasya samvit.

In the yajna of existence and human life, which the yajakas, Vishvedevas, natural forces of divinity in the cosmic yajna, and human senses and mind in the individual yajna of life, all vital, alert and expert in their own ways, organise, conduct and carry on harmoniously in many different participative ways, and in the same yajna when some pious, intelligent and fortunate soul in communion is joined with the supreme divinity of the yajna, then in that state of samadhi what is the nature and character of this yajamana's state of knowledge and spiritual awareness?

एकं पुवाग्निबहुधा समिद्धु एकः सूर्या विश्वमनु पभूतः ।
एकवाषाः सर्वमिदं वि भात्यकं वा इदं वि बभूत् सर्वम् ॥ २ ॥

2. Eka evāgnir-bahudhā samiddha ekah sūryo viśvamanu prabhūtaḥ. Ekaivoṣāḥ sarvamidaṁ vi bhātyekam vā idam vi babhūva sarvam.

The nature of awareness in communion is this, and this same is the understanding of an intelligent soul: Only one Agni, fire, lighted in many ways, only one sun risen all over the world, only one dawn rising daily anew, lights this entire world, and only one universal spirit pervades this entire universe, the entire existence is one.

ज्यातिष्मन्तं कतुमन्तं त्रिचक्रं सुखं रथं सुषदं भूरिवारम् ।
चित्रामघा यस्य यागं धिजज्ञं तं वां हुव अति रिक्तं
पिबध्य ॥ ३ ॥

3. Jyotiṣmantam ketumantam tricakram sukham ratham suṣadam bhūrivāram. Citrāmaghā yasya yoge'dhijajñe tam vāṁ huve ati riktam pibadhyai.

Further: Of you all Vishvedevas, the one that is self-refulgent, self-revealing, three wheeled-one centred, blissful, gloriously moving, a seat of bliss, full of treasure, by the power and inspiration of which the dawn of light arises and illuminates the world, that supreme spirit I invoke for you and call you to experience the absolute bliss beyond the relative.

Mandala 8/Sukta 59

Indra-Varunau Devate, Suparna Kanya Rshi

1. Imāni vām bhāgaheyāni sisrata indrāvaruṇā pra mahe suteṣu vām. Yajñeyajñe ha savanā bhuranyatho yat sunvate yajamānāya śikṣathah.

Indra and Varuna, power and judgement of divinity, these are your contributions to life which in this grand yajna of human life vibrate in the yajnic projects of life inspired by you: In every yajna of life you energise and shine the holy activities when you bless and inspire the yajamana who creates and contributes to the joy of life.

2. Niṣṭadhvarīroṣadhiḥrāpa āstām-indrāvaruṇā mahimānam-āśata. Yā sisratū rajasah pāre adhvano yayoh śatru-nakirādeva ohate.

Indra and Varuna, powers of natural energy and natural selection for evolution and growth, herbs and trees, waters and liquid flows attain efficiency and rise higher in munificence when you cross the paths across the skies, come and vibrate, and there is no defiling power in operation to negate your efficacy.

सृत्यं तदिन्दावरुणा कृशस्य वां मध्वे ऊर्मि दुहत सुस ūrmim duhate sapta vāñih. Tābhira-dāśvāṁsamavatāṁ śaubhaspatī yo vāmadabdhō abhi pāti cittibhiḥ.*

Indra and Varuna, symbolic powers of love, judgement and social cohesion, true it is that for you the sevenfold voices of the dedicated sage distil the honey sweet vibrations of divine energy in your service and with these you, protectors and promoters of the good and auspiciousness of life, strengthen and advance the generous yajaka who, with sincere thoughts and actions, without fear, serves and augments you with devotion and resolution.

4. Gṛhtapruṣah saumyā jīradānavah sapta svasārah sadana ṛtasya. Yā ha vāmindrāvaruṇā gṛtaścutas-tābhirdhattam yajāmānāya śikṣatam.

Endowed with gifts of goodness and grace, kind and generous, givers of life energy, seven sisters of yours, five senses, mind and intellect, O Indra and Varuna, loving and judicious divine powers of humanity, in this house of truth and divine law of yajna in human life, are replete with the beauty and splendour of life. With these, pray bring in the knowledge and wisdom of divinity and nature revealed by the sages and enlighten the yajamana.

अवाचाम महृत साभगाय सत्यं त्वषाभ्यां महिमानमिन्दियम ।
अस्मान्तिस्वन्दावरुणा घृतश्चुतस्त्रिभिः सप्तभिरवतं

5. Avocāma mahate saubhagāya satyam tvesā-bhyāṁ mahimānam-indriyam. Asmāntsvin-drāvaruṇā ghrtaścutastribhīḥ sāptebhiravataṁ śubhaspatī.
